DISAPPEARING ISLE OF FALCON, NEAR TONGA, DECREASING

From time to time news reaches New Zealand of the activities of one of the most curious volcanoes in the world, the disappearing island known as Falcon, near Tonga.

This island has had a most checkered history. It was first seen as a breaking reef by H.M.S. Falcon, in 1865. Twelve years afterward another warship saw smoke issuing from the sea where the reef had been. In the 'eighties it was found that an island over a mile long and 150 feet high had been thrown up, a mass of ashes with deep water all round. It sank again and later rose longer than before, and so on. Last year two American natural scientists landed on the island accompanied by the Prime Minister of Tonga, who claimed the spot for his tiny country.

There are signs that Tonga's new possession will shortly disappear again. On a recent round trip of the steamer Tofua, whose home port is Auckland, the captain took the slip slightly off her course so that the passengers could get a close view of Falcon Island, and it was seen to be decreasing in size.

According to an account published in the New Zealand Herald, the island is without life. The Prime Minister of Tonga planted a cocoanut palm there, but no signs of a tree were seen. The island is a mass of cinders and lava, with a burst of steam coming every now and then from the crater. The Pacific swell is eating into the sides and the heavy tropical rains are taking there toll.

WHEAT CROP OF 1928

Distribution figures showing the disposal of the wheat crop of 1928 are now fairly complete. Exports of wheat during the crop year ended July the 31, 1929, amounted to 355,424,009 bushels, while exports of wheat flour totalled 11,808,772 barrels, or the equivalent of 53,139,488 bushels of wheat, making 408,564,187 bushels of wheat in all. The amount required for seed for the 1929 crop is estimated at 32,345 million bushels, while food requirements may be put at 44 million bushels. The total thus accounted for is 476,904,187 bushels, while stocks in Canada on July 31, 1929, were reported as 103,426,327 bushels, making 580,330,514 bushels accounted for in all.

The carry-over on July 31, 1928, from the 1927 crop was 77,926,000 bushels, and imports during the crop year are estimated at one million bushels. The amount of wheat disposed of from the 1928 crop is therefore shown as approximately 525 million bushels.

Unmerchantable grain from the 1928 crop was estimated at 27,854,000 bushels whilst the loss in cleaning was placed at 16,007,000 bushels. These figures indicate that the gross crop of wheat harvested in Canada in 1928 amounted to 905,720,000 bushels, of which approximately 841,000,000 were grown in the Prairie Provinces.

It may be pointed out that the Dominion Bureau of Statistics estimate of September 11, 1928, indicated a crop of 550,482,000 bushels for all of Canada, 1,357,333,000 bushels for the Prairie Provinces. This, it will be remembered, was, at the time, subjected to much adverse criticism as being to high. The estimate of September, 1927, was also criticized in a similar manner, although in both cases, the estimates were shown by subsequent marketing figures to be low rather than high.

And Who's Mary?

A slight knowledge of the Scottish vernacular is necessary to appreciate the point of a story told recently by the Duchess of Atholl, the Conservative M.P. for Perth and Kinross.

The yarn concerns a little Scottish lad whose parents had removed to London.

He had been rather lax in his attendance at the English school to which he had been sent, so the master called him before him.

"Why have you been away so often?" he demanded.

"Oh, ah've been minding Mary's bairn," was the reply.

"And who's Mary?" demanded the master sternly.

"Och, sir, she's fine!" said the boy.

Norse Speak English.

Practically every second person in Norway is said to be able to speak English. On enquiring my way back to the ship after a shopping expedition in Bergen, some time ago, says a correspondent, the first person of whom I enquired the way in faltering Norse language answered me in perfect English. When I expressed surprise I was told, "At school we all have to learn at least one language other than our own, and nearly every one chooses English, chiefly, I think, on account of our Queen being English."

TONG WARS FLARE AND END SUDDENLY

Once more the rival Chinese tongs in the United States have signed a lasting peace, in succession to the other lasting peace which was signed in 1927. Lasting peace between these tongs is something like farewell concert tours of a popular prima donna. It is impossible that it should be otherwise. It is not for man to know permanence. There is a quarrel between two Chinamen, and one of them kills the other. The rumor spreads that the Chinaman was killed because he was a member of a certain tong and the murderer the member of another. In any event, the slain man is likely to have friends and kinsmen, and they feel it a duty to revenge him, knowing that in Chinese killings the police are not likely to be very enthusiastic or effective. So the shooting breaks out wherever there are tongs or friends of the parties involved in the original quarrel. It continues as a rule until the police heavily guard the districts where the Chinese congregate and the federal attorneys announce that if there is any more shooting there will be deportations. It is this threat that has ended all recent tong battles.

Half Century of Tongs

Tongs have been fighting each other in the United States for 50 years or more. We understand that like chop suey and the tong is unknown in China. It is an invention of Chinese in a foreign country. They say that the tong is really a fraternal society like the Masons or a social organization like the Rotary Club. It main purpose is to assist its members and defend and advance the interests common to all Chinese earning a living far from home. Its critics say that the tongs are merely criminal gangs. They organize to protect members engaged in bootlegging, the smuggling of opium and aliens and dealings in slave girls. The reason that tongs are brought into a rivalry that produces bloodshed is precisely the same reason that white racketeers fight over needle beer and other spoils of the underworld. But the causes of conflict remain obscure. The Chinese refuse to take the Caucasian into their confidence. They prefer to avenge their own wrongs, and never give the police information about their enemies. They are as staunch as they are mysterious.

The Pretty Slave Girl

The chief tongs in the United States are the Hip Sings and the On Leongs. The former is said to have 2,000 members who pay an annual fee of $12, while the latter claims a membership of 5,000 with annual dues of $20. It need scarcely be said that the average Chinaman sees nothing immoral in dealings in alcholic liquors or opium. In gambling they see only the natural and innocent diversion which has been made a crime by the laws of the white man which they had no part in framing. Their views about slave girls are also extremely liberal. One of the tongs' most notable fights was over a pretty girl, one of these girls, the beautiful Bo. Kum. She was owned by a Hip Sing but tired of him and fled to New York and took up domicile with a member of the On Leongs. She was pursued and in the ensuing battle both of her masters met death. This was in 1910 and the fighting continued sporadically until 1913 when another lasting peace was signed. In one of these battles two white bystanders were killed as a result of which three Chinamen were executed. It should be noted that Chinamen are rarely if ever executed for the murder of other Chinese.

Gambling Monopoly

Generally, the New York fighting broke out because of gambling quarrels. Tom Lee, chief of the On Leongs, controlled the Chinese gambling privileges in the city and was proprietor of most of the "opium dens." He was called the "Mayor of Chinatown," and though he was surrounded by an armed bodyguard he went in mortal terror of the Hip Sings. Time and again his life was attempted, but because of the notoriously bad marksmanship of Chinese tongsters, he escaped. His leadership was challenged by Mock Duck, a picturesque character who joined the Hip Sings and made war on Tom. This was in 1900, and for months there was not a week which did not see the slaughter of some Chinamen, usually the victims of the hatchetmen. The hatchet was a favorite weapon of the tong warriors. Mock Duck helped gradually reduce Lee's power by informing the police who closed down one den after another. In the course of his crusading Mock Duck received a bullet wound in the stomach, but survived. He is supposed to be now in Chicago. Tom Lee died peacefully in his bed in 1910.

Deportations End War

From October, 1924, to March 26 1925, a tong war raged wherever in the United States members of the rival gangs came into contact. In the course of the fighting more than 60 Chinamen were killed and many more wounded in New York and the authorities seemed powerless to end the strife. It was then that the aid of the federal government was sought and several hundred Chinese were deported. This quelled the rest of them who had no liking for the idea of returning to China to live for the rest of their days on rice and bird's nest soup. As before noted it is the threat of deportation that ends tong wars and not the fear which the rival gangsters have of each other. It is interesting to note that while the rival organizations have fought each other, they have never had that while the cause of the various outbreaks are almost always obscure the police are generally given warning when fighting is about to break out. With their innate love for ceremonial the rival tongs never fail to exchange from their headquarters the peace flags which last as long as the gangs are on good terms with each other.

Keep Children Well During Hot Weather

Every mother knows how fatal the hot summer months are to small children. Cholera infantum, bowel troubles, dysentry, colic and stomach troubles are rife at this time and after only a few days illness. The mother who keeps Baby's Own Tablets in the house feels safe. The occasional use of the Tablets prevents stomach and bowel troubles, or if trouble comes suddenly—as it generally does—the Tablets will bring the baby safely through. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. 34a

TO INVESTIGATE COPPER-MINE RIVER MINERAL RESEARCH

Examination of Copper Deposits

During the coming summer an investigation of the mineral and other natural resources of the Coppermine River district and the Canadian Arctic Coast will be undertaken by Major L. T. Burwash, exploratory engineer of the North West Territories and Yukon Branch of the Department of the Interior. The area contained in the reserve is described as being that portion of the Northwest Territories lying north of the 65th parallel of north latitude and between the 105th and 116th degrees of west longitude, comprising the islands in and the territory adjacent to Coronation Gulf and to Bathurst Inlet.

For many years the existence of deposits of native copper along the Arctic Coast of Canada has been known. The names Coppermine River and Yellowknife Indians, the latter so named because they made knives and utensils from the metals bear testimony to the early knowledge of these deposits. Thirty years ago the idea prevailed in many quarters that large deposits of native pure copper were to be found in the area and that its recovery was impracticable only because of the inaccessibility of the territory. Later, during the war, the high price of copper set men thinking of these reported rich deposits and interest in them revived. In the meantime the Dominion Government had the area examined and has, through the Geological Survey of the Department of Mines been informed that while pieces of drift copper are occasionally found and while it seems highly probable that parts of the district contain workable or even rich deposits, the area as a whole is one which to be profitably worked must be developed on a large scale.

Since operation on an extended scale was precluded by the lack of transportation facilities, the Department of the Interior deemed it unwise to have possible future development held up or frustrated by claims staked as ventures, and therefore, in December, 1918, by Order in Council, withdrew the area in question from disposal under the Mining Regulations. The information received since then has confirmed these reports and the area is still withdrawn.

Major Burwash, who completed his investigations as to the condition of the natives, the abundance of wild life and related matters in and around Boothia peninsula early in this year, has been in the Far North since the summer of 1928. In June of that year he left Ottawa for Aklavick at the mouth of the Mackenzie River. From that port he travelled eastward in the Department's auxiliary power schooner "Ptarmigan," along the Arctic Coast, visiting native settlements and trading posts en route. Early in September he left Victoria Island for the southeast coast of King William Island, where he established his winter quarters in Gjoa Harbor. Later he proceeded by dog team to Kent Bay near the magnetic pole where the Hudson Bay Company's steamer "Fort James" was stationed for the winter and through its wireless set, Major Burwash was able to keep in touch with Ottawa. He had completed his investigations in Boothia Peninsula and around King William Island, when he received wireless instructions from the Department to proceed as soon as possible to the Coppermine and make a series of investigations in that area.

About the middle of April he left his winter quarters and started his journey south and west across the ice to the Coppermine. Major Burwash expects to reach that area early June. He will spend the summer in and around the reserve and will come out to Norman via Great Bear Lake in time to catch the last boat up the Mackenzie River system to railhead at McMurray.

MINING ACTIVITIES IN NEW BRUNSWICK

Renewed activities in metal mining in New Brunswick during the past year and increasing interest in the mineral possibilities of this province are referred to by Dr. F. J. Alcock, of the Geological Survey of Canada, in a statement recently issued by the Dominion Department of Mines. Although much of the territory has never been prospected, occurrences of gold, silver, copper, lead, zinc, antimony, iron, and tungsten are known, and Dr. Alcock points out that increased development of known ore deposits and a stimulated search for new ones may result in New Brunswick taking her place among the metal producing provinces of Canada.

During 1928 exploratory work was carried on in different parts of the province by a number of companies. Investigations were made into the economic possibilities of a copper prospect near Antidale, a copper showing near Goschen, and a copper-zinc deposit near New Ireland, and surface work was conducted on the Lumsden property, Albert County, carrying gold, silver, zinc, and copper. Attention was directed also to the Lake George antimony deposits about twenty-five miles southwest of Fredericton.

A copper-nickel deposit near St. Stephen and a copper occurance on Adams Island were examined by a local group, and a showing of chalcopyrite near Marrtown was investigated by Montreal interests. Other work in the province consisted in the mineral investigation carried on by the Development Branch of the Canadian National Railways in Northern New Brunswick, and exploratory work on zinc-lead showing in Restigouche County and copper prospect in St. John County.

TAMWORTH

(For last week.)

The Lawn Social and Concert held under the auspices of Christ Church, on Saturday, August 10th, was very well attended and enjoyed by all. The "Night Cap" Concert, modelled on Pierrot lines, proved a great attraction and was something new for the district. At the morning services at Christ Church the Rector was assisted by a former Rector, the Rev. S. E. Harrington, and by the Rev. T. B. Butler, who preached the sermon. The Rev. E. Vesky, of Lyn, was a visitor at the church.

(For last week.)

The Anglican Church Social and Concert was given Saturday night with great success, over one hundred and fifty were served with supper on the rectory lawn, after which they went to the town hall for a concert given by the "Night Cap" Concert Party, under directorship of Mr. H. Piper. This was also attended with tremendous success and the hall was packed to overflowing. The artists are to be congratulated for the fine program given, and the way each one contributed their own part. The idea of a costume concert party in Tamworth was novel and they are assured of a warm welcome upon its return show. Everyone was well away more than delighted. We understand that the concert party has already been booked for neighboring towns.—We are glad to see Mrs. Kenneth Stinson home again after spending a couple of weeks in Kingston General Hospital.—Rev. I. N. Beststead, who has been spending a holiday at Macdonald College, Quebec, will be returning home this week.—The United Church services for Sunday, August 18th, will be held in the morning at Reidville; Marlbank in the afternoon, and Tamworth at 7.30.—Miss Doris Chapin and Alexandria Gilmore have returned from a visit to Toronto and Orillia.—Mr. Chapin, of oronto, has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. S. Gilmore.—Miss Blair is visiting old friends.—Miss Beatrice Poston returned to Lyndhurst on Friday.—Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Jackson and family of Kitchener, and Mrs. Shields and son, of Toronto, were visitors last week of Mrs. Crich. Miss Dorothy Jackson returned for a visit with them.—Mr. and Mrs. S. Little, of Millhaven, spent the week-end with Mrs. D. Donevan. Mrs. Little will remain for two weeks.

BAY CIRCUIT

(For last week.)

The storm of Saturday did a great deal of good and some harm. Mr. Perry Brown's barn was struck by lightning and burned. The barn was full of hay. Mr. Brown had some insurance but enough only to cover part of the loss.—The Sunday School Picnic for Bay Circuit was held on Huffman's Island on Wednesday, August 7th. Everyone agreed that it was one of the best picnics ever held. All of the five schools were represented. The races were keenly contested. The baseball tournament was won by Hayburn. The booths did a flourishing business, the net proceeds being $94.00. Much credit is due the committee, who worked so hard to make this the best picnic yet.—At a meeting held in Stand Hill Church on Friday evening, August 9th, it was decided to renovate the church and rebuild the shed. Work will begin at once. Church will be closed for a month.—River Road School is receiving a coat of paint, inside and out, and a general renovation. This is the time to get school buildings in good condition for the beginning of the fall term.—Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Huffman leaves this week for Rochester.—A number of the people of our community attended the Dean-Mellon wedding in Napanee last Thursday.—The Women's Missionary Society for Bay East met at the home of Mrs. Barnhartt on Thursday, August 8th. A very fine program was given of music and readings and an address. It was decided to entertain the convention for this area, which will be held in Anderson Church in October. Mrs. Barnhartt served lunch and the social hour was much enjoyed. The next meeting will be held at Mrs. Allen Baldwin's.—Rev. Becket and family left for Oshawa where they are going their vacation. They will be away until the first of September.

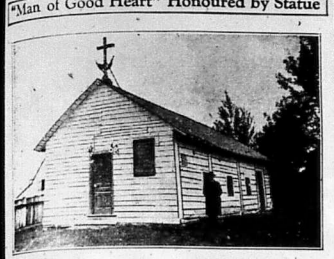
"Man of Good Heart" Honoured by Statue



Father Albert Lacombe, of the Grey Nuns' Order of Edmonton, whose fame is world-wide as the "Apostle of Western Canada" to the Indian friends he loved so sincerely and his people called him "The Man of Good Heart." Father Lacombe died in 1916 and set out for heaven to begin a career of service in his chosen field. Father Lacombe founded St. Albert, a community near Edmonton on the Canadian National Railways. There he died almost-a nonogenarian and there his body rests. Now the Old Timers Association of Alberta have obtained the funds for a statue to this wonderful pioneer and it will soon be formally unveiled. The structure shown above is the first chapel built by Father Lacombe in 1861 and it afterwards became the first cathedral of Mgr. Grandin, first Bishop of St. Albert. This modest cathedral is being taken over by the Historic Monuments Commission and will become a memorial of the early west.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

An amusing story was told recently by H.R.H. the Duke of York. While he was at the Royal Naval College in the Isle of Wight he was out riding alone when he was overtaken by a dense fog, and completely lost his bearings. After riding about for a time, looking in vain for some familiar landmark, he at length espied a rustic sitting upon a gate.

"My good man," he asked, "is this the way to Ryde?"

"No, it isn't, young feller-me-lad," replied the rustic, after critically surveying him for some moments; "thee turns thee toes out too much."

Asthma No Longer Dreaded. The dread of renewed attacks from asthma has no hold upon those who have learned to rely upon Dr. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. So safe do they feel that complete reliance is placed on this true specific with the certainty that it will always do all that its makers claim. If you have not yet learned how safe you are with this preparation at hand get it today and know for yourself.

A well-set-up young man was Walter Wheeler. Always buying new suits and so on.

His tailor was fitting a new pair of trousers, and pointed to the reflection in the mirror.

"There you are, sir," he said. "What about that for a fit, eh? They go on you like gloves."

Walter Wheeler was rather particular, and he did not like what he saw in the mirror.

"They do," he agreed shortly. "But I'd much rather they went on me like trousers."

Internal parasites in the shape of worms in the stomach and bowels of children sap their vitality and retard physical development. They keep the child in a constant state of unrest and, if not attended to, endanger life. The child can be spared much suffering and the mother much anxiety by using a reliable worm remedy, such as Miller's Worm Powders, which are sure death to worms.

Otto H. Kahn, the rich patron of the arts, was talking about art to a Chicago reporter.

"High brow artists," he said, "are content to make a living. The low brows want to make a fortune.

"A high brow wrote a play. It was put on at one of the little theatres, as high brow theatres are always called, in Greenwich Village.

"On the third or fourth night the author turned up and said anxiously to the box office man:

"'Well, old horse, how's she going?'

"'Oh, very much better,' said the box office man. 'Fewer and fewer leave now before the end of the show.'"

The Oil of the People.—Many oils have come and gone, but Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil continues to maintain its position and increase its sphere of usefulness each year. Its sterling qualities have brought it to the front and kept it there and it can truly be called the oil of the people. Thousands have benefited by it and would use no other preparation.

Rev. W. H. Lax, of Poplar, tells a good story against himself. He was travelling, one day, in a 'bus, and a fellow-passenger had to stand, holding on to a strap. Unfortunately, the one standing was drunk, and became a general nuisance to the other passengers. The minister offered the poor fellow his seat, and the man accepted the offer with thanks, and sat down. Mr. Lax saw that the man wanted to say something, for he smiled radiantly, as if an inspiration had come to him. The minister leaned down to listen. "Yer the only gentleman in this 'ere 'bus who knows what it is to be drunk."—(M).

Sores Flee Before It.—There are many who have been afflicted with sores and have driven them away with Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. All similarly troubled should lose no time in applying this splendid remedy, as there is nothing like it to be had. It is cheap, but its power is in no way expressed by its low price.

Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator will drive worms from the system without injury to the child because its action, while fully effective, is mild.

Yesterday they had been happy. Tonight they sat at extreme ends of the settee, in unbroken silence.

Harold could not fathom the cause. Had he not written a poem in her honor?

"Mr. Holdt," said the girl at length, "do you know that the feet of the Statue of Liberty, in New York Harbor, measure about sixteen feet?"

"So I have heard."

"The waist is thirty-five feet round," she continued. "The nose is four feet six inches long; the mouth is a yard across; the thickness of the head is ten feet. Did you know these facts?"

"Then will you explain," she demanded, "why you state in your poem that I remind you of the Statue of Liberty?"

Corns are painful growths. Holloway's Corn Remover will remove them.

TO-MORROW

To-morrow, to-morrow, to-morrow!
It's always to-morrow, somehow;
Though I make up my mind,
On to-morrow I find,
I'm sparring, as ever, with NOW.

To-morrow; I'll start it to-morrow!
To-morrow, I'll do that, indeed—
But I never commence;
Lights of pale recompence!
Woe, this indolent life that I lead.

To-morrow! O, ruthless to-morrow!
It stalks me when I borrow dough;
Though I do aim to pay,
Soon so-morrow's to-day!
Gad, the grief of it maddens me so.

Some day I shall cut out to-morrows,
Like a plane cuts a log in a mill!
And I'll live in to-day;
I'll do things right away!
You just watch me, to-morrow, I will!

SPECTACLES.

Opticians Celebrate Tercentenary of Their Craft.

This year opticians are celebrating the tercentenary of their oldest craft guild, the Worshipful Company of Spectacle Makers, whose records are among the most interesting of the ancient City Guilds of London, we are informed in an article by "W. E. H." in John o' London's Weekly. Its charter was granted in 1629 by King Charles I., "for the better order, rule, and government of those using the Art or Mistry of Spectacle Making."

Powers which now appear unusually drastic and autocratic were then vested in the court. Search could be made of persons and premises engaged in the trade of spectacle making and selling, in order to find "deceitful or counterfeit ware . . . whether made in this country or beyond the seas." The assistance of all Mayors, Justices of the Peace, Sheriffs, bailiffs, constables and other officers could be enlisted if necessary. It was not lawful for a spectacle maker having no apprentice to possess at one time more than thirty pairs of spectacles on his premises.

How valuable a commodity glass must have been three centuries ago is revealed in a by-law which ordered that: "None to buy glass . . . till it is first brought to a place to be appointed, when it may be converted to the use of the whole company, except it be in a small quantity fit for six pairs of spectacles."

No spectacles could be bought or sold unless previously shown to, and approved by, the Master and Wardens. If a spectacle maker were adjudged guilty of selling imperfect spectacles, or if he sold frames without glass, or vice versa, the truly staggering fine of £40 could be inflicted. Any "bad or deceitful wares" found could be destroyed, a process usually executed by publicly stamping the faulty wares to powder on London pavements.

The trade or "mistry" of spectacle making was jealously guarded. Entry to it was by way of a seven years' apprenticeship, followed by two years as a "Journeyman." Before becoming a master workman the candidate was required to exhibit his work to the Master.

The company as it exists to-day is mainly concerned with examinations for opticians and the issuing of diplomas. Its ancient powers have never been revoked and, presumably, still exist. But the Master and his Wardens do not now sally forth on dark nights in search of "bad or deceitful wares."

Unfortunately for optical historians and few histories are so packed with romance as that of optics — the Great Fire of London consumed not only the hall of the Company, but its movable property, title-deeds and minute-books. The hall has never been replaced, and the minute-books now in existence date back only to 1666. Sir Osborn Holmden is the present Master and the headquarters are in Temple Avenue.

BECOMES CONCERT SINGER.

Former Dancing Girl In the Seraglio of Tukojiras Makes World Tour.

A former dancing girl in the seraglio of Tukojiras, ex-Maharajah of Indore, Mumtaz Begum, made her debut recently as a concert singer in the Royal Opera House, Bombay. She is going to make a world tour. She says that she refused an offer of a three-year contract at $40,000 a year to appear in films for an American company because she desired no other career than singing.

In 1925, as a girl of 20, she escaped from the household of the then maharajah and took refuge in the establishment of a Bombay merchant, Abdul Kadir Baula. Nine men attempted to kidnap her but failed when some British officers interfered. Baula, however, was killed in the fight, and Mumtaz Begum received knife wounds on her face which disfigured her for life. Ensuing action by the British Government led to the maharajah's renouncing his throne in favor of his eldest son. The former maharajah is the husband of Nancy Miller, former Seattle girl.

AT LOGGERHEADS.

What Happened When Two Actresses Dined Together.

Two theatrical stars who were none too friendly towards each other, were invited to dine with a certain manager, who, for business reasons, wanted them to be good friends again. Over the fish he said, addressing both:

"Come ladies, make up!"

"But Thais," said the blonde star, "is already made up."

Thais, the brunette, bit her lip and waited her chance. It came with the next, when they started to discuss a mutual acquaintance.

"She's a spiteful cat," said the blonde star. "She said I was a frump and couldn't act."

"Very rude!" remarked Thais sweetly. "Still, my dear, it's better than having her tell lies about you."

Howls and Owls.

The popular British film star, Miss Anny Ondra, tells an amusing story of a friend of hers, living in the heart of the country, who engaged a little London lass to act as a sort of understudy to her own personal maid.

On the morning after her arrival, the girl said: "Couldn't sleep a wink, mum; didn't you 'ear the howls?"

"Howls!" said the mistress, perturbed.

ACCURACY ASSURED

Astronomical Observations Fix Location and Afford Base for Measurements.

The need of all new countries is development and development proceeds most rapidly and steadily where the farmer, the miner and the mill owner are safeguarded not only as to the title to property but also as to its exact boundaries. In this regard, says a "Natural Resources Bulletin," western Canada has been particularly fortunate because the Dominion Lands system of survey has been laid down with the greatest care and furnishes absolute security of title.

Geodetic and topographical surveys are not unconnected but are complementary one to the other. The Geodetic survey by triangulation and astronomical observations fixes accurately the location of points on the earth's surface, and the other surveys tie in their work to these accurately determined points.

Another function of the Geodetic Survey of Canada, Department of the Interior, is the taking of precise levels throughout Canada from Atlantic to Pacific. It can readily be seen that in the development of the country by the construction of dams and power houses, bridges, railways, canals, irrigation ditches and public buildings a knowledge of the elevation above sea level is a necessity.

The Geodetic Survey publishes the elevation of points, that have been marked and named, correct to one-tenth of an inch in the case of geographical positions and to one-eighth of an inch in the case of bench marks.

This precise levelling demands the utmost care of the engineer and of every member of the survey party and at times calls for great physical effort and tenacity of purpose. As a rule precise level lines are run over railway tracks or travelled highways. If it becomes necessary to run a line through a forest the trees and brush have to be cut down so as to give an uninterrupted line of sight between stations for the entire distance.

Again, the intended line to be surveyed may lead over ice-capped mountains or through swamps or muskegs, with their myriads of voracious mosquitoes of a savage type unknown in inhabited regions; or the line may cross rivers and broken country. Whatever the characteristics of the locale may be or whatever difficulties in progress lie ahead these make no difference; the line has to be pushed through, with the result that often the same ground has to be measured over and over again until the exact figures have been arrived at.

All surveys, whether geodetic or topographical, when in the field find in fog and smoke two of the worst enemies. The smell of a forest fire wafted to a survey party enmeshed in the bush gives rise to the fear that in addition to whatever harm the fire may cause by destroying timber, it will also result, if the smoke blows their way, in interfering with their work and possibly causing them to be trapped within a circle of fires.

BEAUTIFUL MADEIRA.

Still Deserves Its Poetic Title of "The Enchanted Isle."

Madeira has been aptly termed "The Enchanted Isle," and still deserves its poetic title in spite of a recent land slide which occasioned considerable loss of life and property. Madeira is a land of sun and flowers and blue skies which has become highly popular as a holiday resort with those of means and leisure.

What struck me most about it, writes a correspondent, was the extraordinary survival of customs at least five or six centuries old alongside modern methods and improvements. Up and down the narrow twisting streets of cobble, patient pairs of bullocks still groan as they strain at sleds laden with passengers or merchandise, and driven by men or boys in picturesque native costume, while the most modern motor car, and motor buses, carrying natives between Funchal and the villages of the hinterland, whiz past them at a quite incredible pace.

IN SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

Two Motor Vehicles for Every Fifteen of Population.

Official records show that South Australia has approximately two motor vehicles for every fifteen of the population. This proportion is greater than in any other state of the commonwealth.

Statistics for New South Wales put the number of motors there at 229,219, or one vehicle for every 10.6 inhabitants. That state has the greatest number, but the corresponding figure for South Australia, with a population of 575,000, is 7.4, which is much higher than the percentage for Victoria last year.

Only O.M.'s Left.

The recent death of Marshal Foch, writes Looker-on in the London Daily Chronicle, leaves only one soldier entitled to wear the Order of Merit—his fellow-countryman, Marshal Joffre. The only other living member of this Order is the veteran Count Togo of Japan. At present there is no British soldier wearing the Order of Merit. Marshal Foch's death, too, leaves only one foreign field marshal in the British army. The only soldier is Albert of the Belgians, upon whom his Majesty King George conferred this rank eight years ago.

World's Highest Railway.

The greatest height attained by any railway is 15,809 feet. This is reached in Chili by the Antofagasta and Bolivia Railway. The highest point reached on British railways is 3,140 feet on Mt. Snowdon, but as this is a rack railway, the honor really goes to the L.M.S., which, between Dalnaspidal and Dalwhinnie, in Scotland, climbs to 1,485 feet.

SPARROWS STILL TRIPS IS CLAIM

PERCH ON BACKS OF GEESE FOR LONG OVER-WATER FLIGHTS

Albert Schreiber, who stowed away on the French monoplane "Yellow Bird," has nothing on nature's aerial straphangers, if the story told to Fred Woollven, of Armore, Penn., and repeated to Clyde L. Patch, of the National Museum, is true.

Mr. Woollven says in a letter that Maritime friends have told him how sparrows on Cape Breton Island wishing to get to Newfoundland, and under-powered for the trip themselves, perch on the backs of migration geese and make the crossing over Cabot Strait as blind baggage. One of his friends claims to have seen as many as ten sparrows alight from such a stolen trip.

There arises the question of the goose's reaction to the prospect of becoming a free transport to the lowly sparrows. The chances are that the goose would not care for it. Like Asoolant, Lotti and Lefebvre, he might find himself forced down short of his destination owing to the added weight which he had not figured on prior to his final meal taken preparatory to a hop-off on the long over-water trip.

TRY NEW PAVEMENT IN NEW BRUNSWICK

NON-SKID ROAD SURFACE WILL UNDERGO TWO DIFFERENT TESTS

The highways division of the New Brunswick Department of Public Works have commenced construction on the first experimental stretch of a new dustless, non-skid, permanent road surface on the outskirts of St. Stephen, on No. 1 highway, which leads to St. John, which may prove the material that has been sought to give a permanent smooth surface for New Brunswick's gravelled highways which will do away with the dust nuisance and at the same time provide a surface similar to concrete and be considerably less expensive.

The material being used is known as asmisite and is composed of selected stone mixed with oil asphalt and other ingredients that comprise the patented process. A surface twenty feet in width is being constructed, the new material being placed on a stretch of 1¼ miles extending from the eastern town line towards St. Andrew's.

It is understood that arrangements have been completed for another experimental stretch of amiesite to be laid on No. 2 highway west of St. John. These two experimental stretches will make it possible to determine whether asmiesite is suitable for use in New Brunswick. It is claimed that this material is sufficiently pliable and elastic to flatten out with traffic after any upheavals or other effects of a winter's frost.

A lady of independent means was before the magistrate charged with shoplifting.

A well-known specialist was called as a witness and certified that the lady was suffering from nervous breakdown, but it was quite possible she would soon be all right again, "if she took things quietly."

It is nearly as large as the others of its hatching and is not inconvenienced by its extra equipment.

TOWN COUNCIL

Council Chamber,
Napanee, August 19th, 1929.

The minutes of several special meetings were read and confirmed.

A communication was read from the Frost Steel and Wire Co., Limited, informing the Council that the fence erected on the south side of the Wallace Park was exactly in accordance with the specifications as contracted by the town.

Referred to the Parks Committe with power to act.

A communication was read from the Satin Finish Hardwood Flooring, Limited, Weston, in reference to the putting on of a radio broadcasting program advertising the town, similar to that of last year.

Referred to the Finance Committee.

A communication was read from the Bell Telephone Co., stating that certain cross arms carrying fire alarm wires will have to be replaced because of deterioration, and notified the council that the town would be expected to pay their share of the cost of replacing these cross arms.

Provincial Constables Barrett and Carey were present and notified the Council that they were looking for office accomodation and would like to secure an office in the town hall. They were willing to pay a rental of $15 per month.

Considerable discussion took place among the members of the Council. Some were in favor and some were opposed to renting the only available room in the town hall, now used by the W.O.N. Nurses and other organizations for sewing, etc. However, it was finally referred to the council as a committee of the whole.

A deputation was present asking for some assistance in repairing the suspension bridge crossing the river at the foot of the Napanee falls. They only asked assistance in repairing the bridge on the north bank of the river, asking that the town supply them with the lumber necessary for the repairs and they would do the work themselves.

Moved by Coun. Loucks, seconded by Coun. Daly, that a sum not exceeding $100 be contributed to the residents south of the river for the purpose of repairing the private bridge, known as suspension bridge, the amount to be paid when repairs are completed on the certificate of the Streets Committee, and charged to Contingent Account. Carried.

The Council took a ten minute recess to discuss question of renting a room in the town hall to the Provincial Police.

The Council resumed business and asked for further time to report.

On motion the report was adopted.

Coun. Ungar reported that the work on the streets was nearly completed, except a small amount of patching. That they had collected $125.00 for use of town's road roller. Also that they had stopped the erection of a sign at the corner of Dundas and Centre Streets, which in the opinion of the Streets Committee was not in accordance with good practice.

Report adopted.

A By-Law was passed deeding to The Gibbard Furniture Shops a portion of town land lying south of the canal and just south of the property owned by Katharine E. Chalmers.

A By-Law was passed appointing John Fennell, Tax Collector, for the Town of Napanee for the year 1929, at a salary of $250.

A By-Law was passed appointing John B. Willoughby as Medical Officer of Health for the Town of Napanee at a salary of $300, per annum.

Vandervoort's Store News

School Opening Sept. 3rd

We are "Headquarters" for School Supplies.

We will have a complete stock of Text Books, authorized for High and Public School use. Also Note Books and Scribblers, etc. for School Opening.

To Our Customers

The Government has recently made changes in the Egg Grading Act, making it compulsory that all eggs be candled and graded, and paid for according to grade:

Eggs reasonably uniform in size, weighing 24 ounces to the dozen, sound in shell and clean, if air cell is less than ¼ inch in depth, white of egg firm and clear, are called 'Extras' and bring highest price.

We are buying eggs and are prepared to pay Market Price for the different grades. We advise our customers to keep their eggs gathered daily and market only good clean eggs.

We will gladly furnish any information we can on the 'Act', to assist you in marketing your eggs.

TOWN COUNCIL

Council Chamber,
Napanee, August 19th, 1929.

Present—Reeve Tustin and Councillors, Loucks, Daly, Wiseman, Ungar and Paul.

The minutes of several special meetings were read and confirmed.

A communication was read from the Frost Steel and Wire Co., Limited, informing the Council that the fence erected on the south side of the Wallace Park was exactly in accordance with the specifications as contracted by the town.

Referred to the Parks Committe with power to act.

A communication was read from the Satin Finish Hardwood Flooring, Limited, Weston, in reference to the putting on of a radio broadcasting program advertising the town, similar to that of last year.

Referred to the Finance Committee.

A communication was read from the Bell Telephone Co., stating that certain cross arms carrying fire alarm wires will have to be replaced because of deterioration, and notified the council that the town would be expected to pay their share of the cost of replacing these cross arms.

Provincial Constables Barrett and Carey were present and notified the Council that they were looking for office accomodations and would like to secure an office in the town hall. They were willing to pay a rental of $15 per month.

Considerable discussion took place among the members of the Council. Some were in favor and some were opposed to renting the only available room in the town hall, now used by the V.O.N. Nurses and other organizations for sewing, etc. However, it was finally referred to the council as a committee of the whole.

A deputation was present asking for some assistance in repairing the suspension bridge crossing the river at the foot of the Napanee falls. They only asked assistance in repairing the bridge on the north bank of the river, asking that the town supply them with the lumber necessary for the repairs and they would do the work themselves.

Moved by Coun. Loucks, seconded by Coun. Daly, that a sum not exceeding $100 be contributed to the residents south of the river for the purpose of repairing the private bridge, known as suspenon bridge, the amount to be paid when repairs are completed on the certificate of the Streets Committee, and charged to Contingent Account. Carried.

The Council took a ten minute recess to discuss question of renting a room in the town hall to the Provincial Police.

The Council resumed business and asked for further time to report.

On motion the report was adopted.

Coun. Ungar reported that the work on the streets was nearly completed, except a small amount of patching. That they had collected $125.00 for use of town's road roller. Also that they had stopped the erection of a sign at the corner of Dundas and Centre Streets, which in the opinion of the Streets Committee was not in accordance with good practice.

Report adopted.

A By-Law was passed deeding to The Gibbard Furniture Shops a portion of town land lying south of the canal and just south of the property owned by Katherine B. Chatterson.

A By-Law was passed appointing John Fennell, Tax Collector, for the Town of Napanee for the year 1929, at a salary of $250.

A By-Law was passed appointing Dr. B. Willoughby as Medical Officer of Health for the Town of Napnee at a salary of $300, per annum.

Threshing is dangerous

If weed seeds are allowed to become mixed with grain or straw when threshing they will cause serious loss and much hard labor in later crops

Do not permit a threshing machine to carry weed seeds to your farm. See that it has been properly swept out before entering your premises. A separator is built to remove weed seeds from grain and straw. See that it does so. All sieves should be in shape to do effective work. There should be a screen in the lower deck to remove weed seeds before they are blown into the straw.

Weed seeds should not be left to be carried about by animals and the wind, nor should they be swept into the barnyard. Destroy them. Burning is effective.

ROD AND GUN

With the approach of fall, the thoughts of sportsmen are turning towards hunting both deer and feathered game. The September number of "Rod and Gun and Canadian Silver Fox News," just issued, contains an exceptional, fine article on deer hunting, by C. N. A. Ireson, which will prove of great interest to devotees of that sport. However, this is only one of a collection of equally good articles and features which deal authoritatively with other departments and adventures in outdoor life and which provide thoroughly good reading for all interested in outdoor life. Open seasons for game throughout Canada and a full report of the annual meeting of the Canadian National Silver Fox Breeder's Association are included in this issue. "Rod and Gun and Canadian Silver Fox News" is published monthly by W. J. Taylor, Limited, Woodstock, Ont.

WINTER FAMILY RE-UNION

Eighty four guests registered at Lake Ontario Park, Kingston, August 15th, for a picnic in honor of Mr. Glasgow Winter, Regina, Sask., who has been spending the last couple of months with friends and relatives around Napanee.

After hearty greetings the party sat down to a bounteous repast which was provided by the ladies.

During the afternoon a gift was given Mr. Winter by his nephews and nieces as a souvenir of the day.

The picnic broke up about four o'clock all feeling the day had been a very enjoyable one and long to be remembered, even the weather was a little too cool, but as one youngster said, "No wonder, for everywhere you looked it was "Winter."

A very quiet wedding took place on Saturday evening, August 17th at eight o'clock, when Miss Florence, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lasker VanValkenburgh, Napanee became the bride of Mr. Clarence Toomer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Toomer, Coulsworth, Ont.

Rev. P. Woodger performed the ceremony. The bride was assisted by her sister, Mrs. Norman Dupont, while Mr. Dupont performed the duties of best man.

The bride looked charming in her dress of noon blue crep de chene. They received many beautiful presents, showing the esteem in which they are held. Everyone joins in wishing them a prosperous and happy life.

Baugham- Mattison

A very pretty wedding was solemnized Saturday afternoon August, 24th, at the home of the bride, 120 Bidwell Avenue, Jersey City, N.J., when Miss Ruth Mattson and Mr. Harold R. Baughan were united in marriage by Rev. John W. Lord, assistant pastor Emory Methodist Episcopal Church.

The ceremony was performed in a bower of palms under a wedding bell. An isle was formed of white satin ribbon carried by four small children.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Mr. S. R. Mattson. She was attired in a gown of white satin crepe and wore a tulle veil with a crown of orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lillies-of-the-valley.

She was attended by her school chum, Miss Lillie Ross, Linden, N.J., who wore a gown of maize chiffon and carried a bouquet of tea roses.

The bridegroom was attended by his chum, Mr. Harold Foster, of East Orange, N.J.

About sixty guests were present and after the bride and groom left for a trip to Niagara Falls and Toronto. They will spend some time at the home of the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. W. G. Baughan, Adelphia Street before returning to Jersey City via Montreal.

SAVE THE CHILDREN

In Summer When Childhood Ailments Are Most Dangerous

Mothers who keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house may feel that the lives of their little ones are reasonably safe during the hot weather. Stomach troubles, cholera infantum and diarrhoea carry off thousands of little ones every summer, in most cases because the mother does not have a safe medicine at hand to give promptly. Baby's Own Tablets relieve these troubles, or if given occasionally to the well child they will prevent their coming on. The tablets are guaranteed to be absolutely harmless even to the new-born babe. They are especially good in summer because they regulate the bowels and keep the stomach sweet and pure. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. 32a

WONDERS ARE WONDERS

Will the Power of Wonder Be Maintained In Our Children Who Are Growing Up.

Events in these days are so stirring, so unlike the things that were possible but a little while ago, that we must sometimes ask ourselves whether the power to wonder will be maintained in the children who are growing up.

We have princes and Prime Ministers flying to their public engagements; and airplanes arriving from far distant countries.

We are told of a young scientist in Ireland revolutionizing electric railways, and about to do for four hundred thousand dollars what until now has cost five millions. We have the "kick" taken out of petrol; we have amateurs keeping the Meteorological Office up-to-date with weather facts and the professional astronomers up-to-date with observations of the heavens; while other young amateurs are communicating by means of radio with Australia and New Zealand and Australia and the British Isles as easily as if their friends were in another room of the same house.

We have had English cars on the road doing nearly 80 miles an hour for twenty-four hours on end, and motor-cycles racing over a dangerous course at more than 74 miles an hour. Modern children are born to these and similar wonders. They do not know no more of a world that had them not than a butterfly knows of winter cold and storms.

Will they have the same material for wonder that their parents have had?

The present generation can remember the telephone and telegraph as still a marvellous novelty. They remember the roads when bicycles were hated by horse-drivers and considered dangerous to life and property. They can remember when cyclists riding at more than ten miles an hour were summoned by hundreds for furious riding as reckless motorists are now, when a man who drove a horse at more than that speed was prosecuted for furious driving.

Electric trams, now being driven off the roads by motor-buses, were the marvels of our parents' youth, horsed trams the accepted commonplace. In place of radios, boys were delighted if they could rig up a speaking-tube from one room or one house to another; in place of motor-cycles they had tri-cycles; in place of pneumatic tires they had solid Rubber, which jarred the bones nearly out of the wrists as the machine was pedalled over cobbled streets.

It seems but yesterday that the balloon was converted from a gas-bag into a sausage-shaped envelope with an engine, since the first navigators of those were saying, with automobiles still in their infancy, "The men who are now learning to control the automobiles on the roads will some day learn to drive motors through the air without the aid of gas-containing envelopes."

No children of to-day or to-morrow will ever have to ride or walk again as their parents walked and rode over highways ankle deep in dust and inches deep in mud during winter.

To-day children are born heirs to wonders unthinkable to their parents and grandparents. Will all this assembly of inventions kill their sense of wonder? Will they take things too much as a matter of course? Or will invention beget invention and new ideas burst into fruit as rapidly in the future as in the last thirty years?

That probably will be so, but we must remember that wonders are wonders.

BRAZIL'S FREAK FAMILY.

In Two Generations Five Had No Hands or Feet.

It was reported recently that in two generations of a family living in Brazil there have been five instances of entire lack of hands and feet. Four of the cripples, three children and their uncle, have been photographed. The children's father, now dead, had the same hereditary deformity.

All inherited characteristics are supposed to be handed from generation to generation by granules called chromosomes, contained in every living human cell. Evidently the cell chromosomes of this family lack some unit of their structure which is responsible for the formation of hands and feet.

Although no moral is pointed, medical men are of the opinion that, in the interests of humanity, this family should not be permitted to produce descendants.

"Ferdie" for Short.

The fourth child of His Highness the Duke of Parma is said to have the longest proper name in the world. When he signs his name in full it takes considerable time and space to write: Prince Joseph Mary Peter Paul Francis Robert Thomas Aquinas Andrew Avellino Rainer Genius Charles Stanislas Louis Philip of Neri Leo Bernard Antoinius Ferdinand of Bourbon of Parma. The young man is said to have been called Bobby for short, by his seventeen brothers and sisters, some of whom have names almost as long as his own, and Ferdie by some of his intimates.

Married Forty Minutes.

A workman and his wife in Leningrad have set up a record for the shortest marriage—forty minutes! They were married by Soviet law and left the office. Their honeymoon, it seems, was spent on a tram quarrelling, and in less than forty minutes they reappeared at the office to ask for and obtained a divorce. Their quarrel had been about where to live. The girl would not go to the man's room because of this partitions, nor he to hers, because of her mother.

BATH INSTITUTE

The August meeting of Bath Institute was held at Mrs. B. Morrows. Twenty seven were present, several of whom joined the rank.

The ladies made many plans for their annual Field Day, to be held on September 14th. Miss Osborne read the report of the annual convention, Miss Kellar and Mrs. Stevenson gave a beautifully instrumental duet.

The September meeting is at Mrs. H. Callin's when Ray Farr will put on part of the program. Everybody come.

The collection amounted to $2.20.

BETHEL

The weather continues hot and dry causing many wells and springs to go dry and making it inconvenient for many farmers to water their stock.—The garden party held at Colebrook, on the United Church grounds, on Wednesday, August 21st, by the Ladies' Aid Society was a great success, the gate receipts amounting to over $144. The program given by the Pittsburgh, Rochester and Toronto artists, who were in camp at Killarney Camp' Varty Lake, surpassed all expectations, which was manifested by the many comments given by the large crowd present. Dr. Spankie, M.P. of Wolf Island, was also present and very ably filled the chair as chairman and gave a fine talk on the relationship between the United States of America and Canada. We are looking forward to a bigger and better time next year on the return of the same artists to camp.—Mr. and Mrs. Francis Dunn (nee Miss Daisy Salisbury) are rejoicing over the arrival on Thursday, August 22nd, of a fine baby girl (congratulations).—We extend to Miss Alma Bourder our sympathy in the loss of a loving mother, Mrs. Fred. Martin, which took place on Tuesday in New York State. Her remains being conveyed to her home at Holloford, and the funeral taking place there on Thursday last.—Miss Naydene Sutton having spent six weeks with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Jackson, is now holidaying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. Sutton at Killarney Camp.—Miss Vivian Clark is spending a few days with friends at Violet.—Miss Helen McKnight is also holidaying in Kingston with her aunt, Mrs. Collins, on Clergy St.—Miss Ethel Benn purposes attending the Toronto Exhibition this week.—Mr. and Mrs. Ed. McKnight spent a day recently at Sydenham with the former's mother, Mrs. C. McKnight, who has returned from a very pleasant visit with her daughters in Saskatchewan and Manitoba.—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Jackson gave a empfire and weiner roast at their camp, Varty Lake, on Friday night last in honor of Mr. and Mrs. James Glenn Lysle and son Bobby; Mr. and Mrs. Bob King and son, George, also Mrs. B. Koenig and daughter, Thelma, it being the eve of their leaving camp for their respective homes. Over thirty intimate freinds of the party being present including some from Newburgh and Red Cedar point. A most enjoyable evening was spent including stunts, readings, and songs.

Sun Parlors For Canadian Trains

Sun parlors on trains is the newest addition to the equipment of the Canadian National Railways. Such sun parlors take the place of the observation platform on the latest parlor-buffet cars. This plan, which allows the health giving sun rays to enter the space, is used in generous quantity so that these rooms offer the greatest possible amount of sunshine and light. The sun parlor adjoins the lounge and beyond that is the parlor section. These cars are also radio equipped and are the most modern of their type in use in Canada.— Canadian National Railways photograph.)

WISE AND OTHERWISE

had never seen the young man before.
"Is Miss Edith in?" asked the well-tailored youth on the steps.
"Yes, sir," replied the girl. "But I'm sorry she's engaged."
"That's right," agreed Norman. "Absolutely right; and I'm what she's engaged to."

Worms sap the strength and undermine the vitality of children. Strengthen them by using Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator to drive out the parasites.

A man rushed into a tobacconist's shop. "This cigar you sold me," he said. "It's—it's simply frightful." "Well, you needn't complain," said the tobacconist. "You've only got one. I've got thousands of the beastly things."

"A Kathleen Mavourneen loan?" questioned a judge in an Irish court. "What in the world is that?" "That's what we call some loans in our parts," the witness replied. "They are the 'It may be for years and it may be for ever' sort."

Hard and soft corns both yield to Holloway's Corn Remover, which is entirely safe to use, and certain in its action.

What are the qualifications required to make a successful card-player?" asked Mrs. Bowling casually. "Well, it's hard to say," replied her husband thoughtfully. "A man must be cool, calculating, crafty, cunning and have a touch of meanness in his disposition." "Oh, John!" exclaimed his wife, in shocked tones. "Surely you wouldn't like to play cards with such horrid people!" "That's all right?" the husband answered, proudly. "I nearly always win."

It Will Prevent Ulcerated Throat.—At the first symptoms of sore throat, which presages ulceration and inflammation, take a spoonful of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Add a little sugar to it to make it palatable. It will allay the irritation and prevent the ulceration and swelling that are so painful. Those who were periodically subject to quinsy have thus made themselves immune to attack.

Half-a-dozen young men bound for New York had chummed up on the liner. When about half-way across, one of them gave a party. Champagne flowed freely, and was largely partaken of by the host, Green.

The next morning one of the party was on deck early, when a steward approached.

"Mr. Green would like to see you, sir," said the man. "He's still in his cabin."

The other found Green with a wet towel round his head.

"Hullo, old chap, how are you?" he asked.

"Oh, I'm—I'm all right," was Greeny reply. "I remember nearly everything that happened last night, but one thing puzzles me; I know I stood the supper, but tell me, who paid for the taxi?"

Rub It in For Lame Back.—A brisk rubbing with Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil will relieve lame back. The skin will immediately absorb the oil and it will penetrate the tissues and bring speedy relief. Try it and be convinced. As the liniment sinks in, the pain comes out and there are ample grounds for saying that it is an excellent article.

The unmusical man who said that he could not distinguish between "Pop goes the Ekng," and God save the weasle.

The man who knew only two tunes: one was the National Anthem and the other was it.

The judge who said he had no difficulty in deciding on the merits of a case until he heard counsel for both of it.

The lawyer whose bill contained the item—"For crossing the street to discuss a matter with you and finding it was not, you after all—6s. 8d."

Miller's Worm Powders act so thoroughly that the stomach and intestinal worms pass from the child without being noticed and without inconvenience to the sufferer. They are painless and perfect in action, and at all times will be found a healthy medicine, strengthening the infantile stomach and maintaining it in vigorous operation, so that besides being an effective vermifuge they are tonical and health giving in their effects.

"What did you say when you proposed to Muriel?".

"I told her the truth. I said:—'I am nothing. I have nothing, and I can do nothing.'"

"What did she do?"

"She said nothing."

Cause of Asthma.—No one can say with certainty exactly what causes the establishing of asmatic conditions. Dust, from the street, from flowers, from grain and various other irritants may set up trouble impossible to eradicate except through a sure preparation such as Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. Uncertainty may exist as to cause, but as to relief there is no uncertainty regarding remedy which has freed a generation of asthmatic victims from the scourge of the bronchial tubes. It is sold everywhere.

The club members were discussing laziness. One finally told about his hiking trip through the South. Coming to a stream, he saw a mountaineer sitting on the bank against a tree, his hat over his eyes and a fishing pole stuck under one knee, the line in the water.

"Hello," said the visitor; "been here all day?"

"Yep," was the response from the motionless fisher.

"Dunno."

SABLE ISLAND PONIES

NEARLY EIGHT HUNDRED RUNNING WILD.

Government Sends About One Hundred of These Hardy Little Horses to Halifax Every Year to Be Auctioned Off.

It may interest my readers to hear about the sixteen-mile-long, half-mile-wide strip of sand called Sable Island, writes Bonnycastle Dale in the Humane Pleader. The mighty tides that rush in and out of the Bay of Fundy, between New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, carry off the broken rocks in the form of sand and have built, in the course of centuries, "the Banks," the fishing banks, millions of acres in extent, which lie in ten fathoms to two hundred fathoms, some one to two hundred miles out in the Atlantic off Halifax. The only bit of all these "banks" that appears above water is Sable Island. All the rest are submerged, and on them summer and winter our neighbors ply their dangerous calling, fishing for the cod and haddock, halibut and cusk that feed upon the great schools of small fish that live upon "the Banks." Fishermen, one and all, pray that they may keep clear of that dread Sable Island, for its bars extend off each end under water as far as the Island appears above water. On it live some fifty lighthouse tenders and life-boat men, and the few wireless men and some seven or eight hundred wild horses.

Accounts of how these Sable Island ponies (they are bigger than ponies, small horses) originated run thus: The frigate La Africaine, wrecked off this fatal shore in 1760, had a number of officers' horses aboard from old France, and some of these were swept off as she sank, and made the sandy shore. Other accounts say that one Le Mercier, of Boston—which was then an English colony—got a grant of the Island and was given the right by the then Governor of Nova Scotia to land a few horses there, and they have bred and flourished until in the best years there are almost eight hundred there. They live on the bayonet grass and wild grasses, and on the brackish water plants that live in the lagoons. The big lagoon is now closed in by the shoreward sands, and the wrecks of two fishing schooners that sailed in there the night before the great storm are plainly visible.

When the snow lies deep these poor beasts have scant pickings, they can paw up a living in all the months save March, but when the "glitter" is on the surface of the snow many perish of starvation.

Every year the Dominion Government sends out a steamer and the "round up" occurs. Picture to yourself many herds of horses, each led by a stallion, all wild as hawks. Ten men, each mounted on a fairly well-broken Sable Island pony, gallop along towards the Northwest Bar. The herd drifts off ahead. Soon both they come—a very avalanche of plunging, rearing, kicking beasts. Into the shallows they scatter, over the dunes they climb, along the rude trail they plunge until they have done about ten miles. Now other mounted men and men on foot appear and edge the whinnying mass over towards the rude small stockade or pen, with its long outstretching wings. Now into the narrow pass dart the leaders—right and left the mounted circle and "crush!" they plunge into the fence. Back they come. Once more the men and the leaders fall over that man-high fence as if it were but low, waving grass. The ones that fall in the wild leap turn and charge full pelt right into the pawing, struggling mass of horses that are pouring into the stockade. Down they go and the leaping, plunging mass rear over them, leap over them, roll over them. On goes the barrier and on the milling mass of about a hundred horses is penned in; the other scared herds, back with its big dark stallion leading, dash back to freedom over the sands.

The tired riders now throw their noosed ropes into the mass, and horse after horse is dragged up to the barrier and fore and hind feet are speedily and firmly roped. Out it is dragged, on to a barrow it is laid and off it runs on the wharf to see them unloaded, for no circus gives them better thrills. Up comes a whirling, struggling, kicking, squealing horse at the end of a sling, and the moment its feet are loosened it tries to dart up the wharf or plunge into the sea. Within a few hours the wild horses are safely stabled, and then the auction occurs. Talk about buying "a pig in a poke"! That is nothing to it. The prices run from twenty to thirty-five dollars each, and the owner is handed his end of the line and his troubles at the same time. It is a common thing to see an adv. later in the Halifax papers, "For sale, a partly-broken Sable Island pony." Yet a friend of mine had one which she harnessed and drove herself, and it seemed to be a fully-broken, obedient horse.

Sable Island to-day, as of yore, takes its regular toll of the fleet, unfailing fishing schooners, if all were laid bow to stern the wrecks of all the years would girdle its sand. Only one old iron steamer is to be seen; those fatal beaches engulf all their prey. Still to-day on its yellow sands the wild horses race and scamper.

Saved His Life.

A certain young barrister came home and boasted that he had saved a man's life.

"You defended him on a charge of murder, I suppose."

"No," was the young man's answer; "I prosecuted him."

THE MONGREL.

Often More Clever Than the Well-bred Dog.

Never was there a time when dogs of high degree were more highly thought of than they are to-day.

They are bought and sold for much money. They are cared for quite anxiously. They are pampered by people who do not understand them. They are made to live unnatural dog lives. They are bored by attending many shows until they are tired to it.

Many of them are indeed beautiful creatures when regarded as specimens, yet everyone who knows dogs well is aware that the lowly mongrel, of no breed in particular, is often as clever as the well-bred dog, or even cleverer. His manners may not be so well ordered, but he is as sharp as his betters, knows more of the world, and is equally faithful to his human friends. Here is a good story about one:

A mongrel wandered into a moorland farmyard, liked the place, and decided to stay. He had evidently been a wanderer, for he had no preference for any name. He answered to anything you liked to call him. So different people about the farm called him different names, and he acknowledged them all. Very soon he understood the ways of trained dogs with sheep.

Severe weather in that moorland district made it often necessary to bring in the sheep. It was anxious and tiring work. The mongrel did his share of it. At last there came a threatening snowfall which promised to be dangerous alike to men and sheep, and all hastened to clothe themselves for the work of rescue. They had not yet left the farmyard when a barking was heard, and going out, they found that the mongrel had anticipated what was needed, and of his own accord had rounded up the sheep and brought them in. Afterwards he did this often when sent.

Every moorland farmer remembers the clever dogs he has had, but this farmer gives the first place to the nameless mongrel who wandered in from nowhere, answered to any name, and picked up the ways of sheep through sheer sharpness.

CRUDE SURGICAL TOOLS.

Surgery Was In Use In Egypt as Early as 5,000 or 6,000 B.C.

Surgeons of 2,000 years ago used instruments similar in shape to those of to-day. This was shown by probes and forceps uncovered in the buried city of Pompeii, Italy, and recently exhibited in London, England. The latter assembled for comparison to other instruments of the collection suggests that cutting was a large part of surgical work before A.D. 79, when the eruption of Vesuvius buried the Italian city.

While the shapes of the ancient instruments in some cases are almost identical with those of the modern surgical tools, their steel is less flexible.

The absence of saws from the collection indicates that amputations were rarely attempted, largely because of a lack of knowledge about circulation of the blood, says a Popular Science Monthly.

Surgery is known to have been practiced at an early date. When Alexander the Great invaded lands east of the Mediterranean in 300 B.C. he found it being practiced by the natives with great skill. There is evidence that surgery was in use in Egypt as early as 5,000 or 6,000 B.C.

A NORWEGIAN BRIDE

Wedding Feast In Norway Used to Be an Affair that Stirred the Imagination.

A wedding feast in Norway used to be an affair that stirred the imagination of the whole countryside, and there are some beautiful pictures with the bridal couple mounted on their strong mountain ponies heading the long procession of guests in painted carts and wagonettes making their way to the village church, writes Karin Lilja Whyte in the London Daily Chronicle.

On the flowing golden hair of the bride rested a crown, which was usually the property of the parish and a piece of handicraft showing the high standard of delicacy reached by the Norwegian goldsmiths.

She would wear a national costume richly embroidered in the bright colors prescribed by custom, and her snow-white shirt would be of the finest home fabric with exquisitely stitched drawn-thread work. Adorning her neck and breast were brilliant of chains with clasps and buckles, fine specimens of filigree with semi-precious stones.

For that one day she was the queen of queens, and her stately bridegroom, more modestly attired in a dark costume, would be entirely outshone.

Among the poorer peasants the wedding feast would last for three days, but the rich ones kept their guests for a week. Each person would bring supplies, consisting of home-made cakes, bread, butter, cheese, eggs, and a sort of custard cake, very rich and greatly appreciated.

These victuals were brought in bundles or in gaily-colored wooden boxes peculiar to the country. On each side of the oval-shaped box was a wooden spring, which fitted into the lid so perfectly that nothing but the right touch could make the lid budge.

The preparations for the feast had been going on for weeks, and there was strong home-made beer and gin, as well as beef and pork by the hundredweight.

It was the custom, at least in some parts, that nobody should accept the bidding of the hosts at once, and sit down at the laden tables.

Thus it was sometimes quite hard work to get the hungry and eager guests started for a meal, and there are instances recorded when the host had to go and drag them out from stables and hayloffs, where they, according to their own ideas of good manners, had hidden themselves.

The retiring and silent nature of the Norwegian peasant is burlesqued in the following story:—

A troll living in the towering fjell addresses a second troll: "There is music now of late in these parts." Five years later the answer comes: "Yes, rather more than before." Again five years elapse, and a third troll mumbles: "If there is going to be such a lot of chatter here I will move."

If that is the spirit in which these parties were carried on, it is easy to understand the hearty and eager refreshments that had to be served to loosen the tongues.

Among the would sing their merry or sad songs and the young people would dance to the rhythmic strains of the violin, with men and women in evening dress and fair rosebud bridesmaids to charm the onlookers. Often a ball was the early evening and a dance after the bridal couple had departed for Italy—almost invariably.

To-day church weddings are of a less showy kind, and are very much the same as in Canada, with men in morning dress, ladies in smart hats and afternoon attire, and the bride—often the bride wearing what Paris decrees, plus great-grandmother's veil if she is lucky enough to have it!

STEPHENSON MEMORIALIZED.

Tablet Unveiled to Commemorate His Birthplace.

At Waylain, on the north bank of the River Tyne, under the auspices of the Institutions of Shipbuilders and Mechanical Engineers, a tablet was recently unveiled to commemorate the birthplace of a man who achieved the seemingly impossible — George Stephenson—the father of the steam locomotive engine.

Past the front of his cottage, within a few yards of the door, heavily laden and light trains of coal trucks pass to-day, as did the tiny chaldron wagons drawn by horses along plateways one hundred and fifty years ago.

The cottage itself is a two-storeyed house, typical of many of those built years ago by the colliery owners for their employes. It was divided into four rooms, in each of which a different family dealt. The lower room at the western side of the cottage was the home of the Stephenson family, and it was in this room, which served for sleeping, eating and shelter, that George, the second son of a family of four boys and two girls, was born on June 9, 1781.

"Old Bob," George Stephenson's father, was a Scot who crossed the border as a gentleman's servant, and then married a local lassie, Mabel Carr, the daughter of a dyer. "Bob" found work as a fireman of the pumping engine of the Wylam colliery at twelve shillings per week.

You Need Not Spoil Your Evening

Now that reduced evening rates on "long distance" begin at 7 p.m. (local time) it is possible to get one's telephoning done before evening engagements begin!

From 7 to 8.30 p.m. the rate on Station-to-Station calls is about 25 per cent less than the day rate.

Further reductions are in effect from 8.30 p.m. to 4.30 a.m.—about 50 per cent off day rates.

(The minimum reduced evening rate is 15c and the minimum reduced night rate 25 cents).

The saving —particularly the early evening rate of message from 7 p.m.— is a real convenience!

MARRIAGE BROKING.

Minister Did Flourishing Trade In Clandestine Marriages.

One of the most famous marriage brokers of history was Rev. Alexander Keith, who, about the middle of the eighteenth century, did a flourishing trade in clandestine marriages in the Mayfair district of London. He used to celebrate as many as 6,000 a year and charged a guinea for each ceremony. He was publicly excommunicated and in return proceeded to excommunicate the Bishop of London, Judge Andrews, who had tried him, and the rector of St. George's, James, fourth Duke of Hamilton, was married to the beautiful Miss Gunnings at the Mayfair chapel with a ring from a curtain at 12.30 a.m.

In 1753 the marriage act put an end to his hasty weddings and he retired to private life.

SOFTBALL NEWS

Revenge is sweet. The 1929 edition of the Newburgh ball team is certainly good, but it was not quite good enough to overcome the attack of the Ernestown Boys on Thursday night. It was a shame that Newburgh's long string of victories was broken but such is life.

Ernestown scored four runs in the first innings while Newburgh was held hitless until the fourth when two runs were scored. In the next frame the visitors took the lead when they staged a rally, which netted them six runs. The home team fought back stubbornly and by their heavy hitting were able to enter the last innings with a one run lead. The villagers were allowed two runs in this innings but their lead was easily overcome by the Ernestown boys who scored five runs one with only one man out before the game was called.

Miller and Dunn pitched good ball for the visitors and were given splendid support by Mitchell behind the bat. The infield was practically air tight. Scott at first was in top form and played his position perfectly, besides doing good work at the bat. H. Reid at second and MacDonald at third proved their worth with the wilow as well as making several fine catches. Lee Craig and C. Reid showed up to good advantage in the outfield and at the plate chiming in with some timely hits.

Cummings and Vandervoort formed the battery for Newburgh and were given fair support by their teammates although at times the second and third basmen seemed to think the game was to see how far they could throw the ball and by their monkey-like antics did much to further the spectators belief in the evolution theory. The short stop would possibly be better after an eighteen day diet as the portly gentleman seemed to be in difficulty every time he reached for the ball. The first baseman played his position well, but has one error drew a parental reprimand from one of the audience. The outfield were kept busy and the hardware merchant saved a would-be homer by his quick throw to second after Scott's long drive to center field. Yeomans and Gannon were the leading hitters for the visitors while Vandervoort and Lucas proved to be fast men on the base lines.

The Newburgh boys are good sports and now their first defeat without any sem of ill-feeling. Gandier at the plate and Carter on the bases handled the game fairly and to everybody's satisfaction.

The line-up was as follows:

Newburgh—Lucas, 3rd; Shorts, 1st; Yeomans, ss; Gannon, 2nd; Ramsay, c.f; Finn, lf; Cummings, p; Vandervoort, c; Carter, rf.

The playoff was at Strathcona on Friday of the following week, Ernesttown took the lead at the first and held it throughout the remainder of the game which was called in the sixth innings on account of darkness. The Newburgh boys gave their best but were unable to overcome the slashing attack of the Ernestown Farmers. Both teams played excellent softball, the final score being 9-4 in favor of Ernesttown.

The line-up was the same with the exception of Byrons who played in place of Vandervoort on the Newburgh team. Gandier and Paul handled the game satisfactorily.

The prisoner became involved in an automobile transaction when he tendered a cheque on a bank in Deseronto amounting to $510. to the McFarlane Garage.

Hard and soft corns both yield to Holloway's Corn Remover, which is entirely safe to use, and certain in its action.

Emily: "Is Cora Jones a friend of yours?"

Beatrice: "Yes. What has she been saying about me?"

"No, clear off," was the man's gruff reply when the newsboy offered him a paper.

"Famous footballer shot, sir," the boy went on.

"Famous footballer shot, did you say? Give me a paper quick."

"Yes, sir," said the boy, pocketing his penny and dashing off, "but he never scored."

LOCOMOTIVE NO. 9000

Several hundred people were at the C.N.R. Station on Monday about three o'clock to see the new oil electric locomotive No. 9000 of the International Railways on her inaugural run hauling the second section of the "International Limited," crack train between Montreal, Toronto, Detroit and Chicago. Mayor Howitt boarded the train at Napanee on the invitation of the C.N.R. and proceeded with many other Mayors and officials to Toronto.

Oil-electric locomotive No. 9000, the latest addition to the motive power of Canadian National Railways, and the largest and most powerful locomotive of its kind o earth, was on its maiden run of 334 miles from Montreal to Toronto. It has been heralded as the most sensational departure yet made in motive power principle, and it is expected to revolutionize railway operation. No. 9000 consists of two units and weighs 310 tons fully equipped, of which 230 tons are carried on its 16 driving wheels. Its overall length is 94 feet. Its principle, briefly, is the application to the driving motors of electric energy generated on board by dynamos driven by 12-cylinder oil-burning power plants.

The great mass of steel, moulded in fine line, throbbed with electrical energy sufficient to light the industrial plants, stores and homes of the city of Charlottetown, P.E.I., with its 13,000 inhabitants.

TAMWORTH

On Saturday morning Mr. Wm. Youngs was the first man to arrive at the factory with a light load of milk and found smoke coming from the boiler room. On entering the place he found the fire at the base of the partition, between the boiler room and the main part of the factory. As the water supply was very handy he soon had the fire under control. It happened that both the cheesemaker and his helper, Messrs. Finley Bell and Orval Richmond, were a little late that morning or it is thought from the appearance of the fire that the villian would have been caught, as two places showed where the fire was started. The one apparently had been started in the night time and gone out after burning a few boards, but the second attempt was started right at a dry partition and must have been set about 6.30 o'clock in the morning and was getting pretty well under way when it was discovered. The culprit has not yet been found. — Mr. Stewart Storrings suffered a great loss last Friday afternoon when his barn and all that was in it burned. Mr. Storrings and his family were in Napanee and knew nothing of it until he was called by telephone. Some American tourists were on the lake near the barn site when an explosion was heard, and shortly after they saw the barn in flames. It is supposed that the fire was caused by spontaneous combustion. — Mrs. I. N. Beckstead was called to Blenheim, owing to the death of her father. — Mr. and Mrs. Weir, Jack Weir and Mrs. Shields, of Ottawa, were visiting at the parsonage this week. — Miss Helen Beckstead, of Ottawa, is spending her holidays at her home. — Miss Irene Patience, Mr. Merrick Warren, Lansdowne, and Mr. Jack Remmer, Brockville, spent the week-end at the parsonage. — Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Reid and family have moved to Perth, where Mr. Reid is to teach this year. — The Y.P.U. of the United Church held a farewell party for Mrs. Reid at her home on Monday evening.

Our new Wallpapers are all in stock. We are confident that the designs and reduced prices will please you. At Hooper's Drug Store.

MOSCOW

Asselstine is spending the week in Toronto. — Mr. and Mrs. Diamond, of Batavia, N.Y., are visiting relatives and friends. — Major and Mrs. Amey have returned from Syracuse and Watertown.—Rev. G. McKenzie is having two weeks' holidays. —Miss Nicols returned to her home in Sydenham on Wednesday, after visiting friends. — R. E. Asselstine attended Napanee Fair on Thursday. — Jack Bell is home from Kingston hospital, after a successful operation for appendicitis.

MAKING CHARCOAL

Several By-Products Now Obtained Which Formerly Were Wasted —New Orleans Leading User.

The old schooner Excell, perhaps the last of a picturesque fleet of charcoal boats that supplied New Orleans of twenty-five years ago with this fuel, lies empty in the New Basin canal while trucks and trains of a new era roar past.

New Orleans has for a long time used more charcoal, it is said, than any city in the world. The custom, brought over from France, flourished in New Orleans because wood was plentiful and the climate so mild that a charcoal burner was ample to heat a room.

Hundreds in the piney woods section of Louisiana and Mississippi made their livelihood by charring green pine logs, and the charcoal schooners, with blackened sails and crews, brought the product to market.

Steak and fish broiled over charcoal by Creole cooks became famous. Oysters impaled on a long skewer and held in the intense heat acquired a flavor that could not be imitated in any other way. On wash day charcoal brought the water to boil quickly. And in the shipyards charcoal supplied the best for welding.

But the old methods of making the fuel were wasteful. Pine logs were piled in a stack like a huge beehive and covered with grass and dirt. For two weeks a fire was kept smoldering inside the beehive until the pine was charred and ready to ship. In this way, of course, all the vapors of the wood were lost. When it had been brought to the city it was peddled on the streets, and there was a considerable loss in every step of the process.

But the lumbermen have taken the timber, the charcoal burners have turned to other work, the luggers are tied up and their crews scattered. However, New Orleans remains the largest charcoal consuming city in the world, it is asserted, and the black fuel is much in demand. Only the manufacturing process has changed.

Nowadays the pine stumps are pulled up, the pine branches left by the lumbermen are collected, and the "backbones" of the trees long dead, from which the sap has dried away, are collected and shipped to New Orleans. Thus the land is cleared for farming and the old-time lumberman's waste is utilized.

Here the stumps, pine knots and backbones are cooked in sealed retorts over intense heat, and the liquid part of the tree is distilled into turpentine, pine oil, tar oil, prolingneous acid and wood aresoote, and the charcoal, done up in neat paper bags, is sold by corner grocers and hucksters.

Hardwood charcoal, from factories in other southern cities, is shipped in by the carload and marketed in New Orleans. The custom of burning charcoal seems to be spreading into country towns of Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas, and even the farmers are taking up its use. Charcoal is fed to chickens and pigs and is used as a medicine for human beings. Even in the oil fields, where it would seem there is plenty of fuel, charcoal is coming into use.

And in many home of New Orleans the fish and steaks and oysters still have the touch and the wash water still boils over hot charcoal flame.

BUILT THROUGH MOUNTAIN.

Imposing and Beautiful Road Completed In Norway.

An imposing and extremely beautiful mountain road has just been completed in Norway. It leads from Vik in Eidfjord in Hardanger over the Hardanger plateau to Haugastol railway station on the Bergen-Oslo railway.

One reason why this mountain road has aroused such extraordinary interest even in Norway is that till about 1880 it was considered an impossibility to construct a road through these precipitous mountains.

The Maabo Valley, through which the western ascent of the way runs, is like a huge fissure in the mountain plateau. This gorge ends abruptly with a perpendicular wall 600-700 feet high, where the river forms the mighty Vorlingfos waterfall, with a free fall of 541 feet. A road of this description and a peculiar attraction for tourists, and is of great importance because of the splendid and extensive mountain pastures which it makes accessible.

From the old Norse times may still be seen remnants of old bridle-paths and of what were called "saltways" because along these roads the people in the inland districts brought salt from the western parts. Over Dovrefjeld, which divides the northern from the southern part of Norway, there was a rough track during far back in history through which the king tried to pass in 1650, and was obliged to go on horseback on account of the condition of the road. In 1704 the king drove over the mountain in a carriole, and in 1750 the next king drove in "a wagon of four wheels."—Christian Science Monitor.

THE GRAPPLE PLANT.

Thousands of Animals Are Lured by This Plant Every Year.

A bold plant is the South African "grapple" plant. It is well named, for it has been known to choke and cause the death of lions. Its seed vessel is provided with a large number of curved hooks which catch in the coats and hoofs of animals. In trying to tear them out of their coats the animals sometimes catch them in their mouths, with disastrous results. Thousands of goats and antelopes and other animals are lured by this plant every year.

There are many other plants that kill and torture animals. The Martyniaz of South America produce fruit with hooks sometimes five or six inches long. These behave similarly to those of the grapple plant.

Remarkable stories are told in connection with the death-trap of the West Indies. It is said that unfortunate slaves were forced to chew this plant. The lining and throat of any creature eating the plant swells to such an extent that speaking, eating, and even breathing may become impossible.

An Indian species of nettle which grows into a great shrub is dreaded by natives. When touched, this plant gives one the sensation of being scrubbed with a hot iron.

Tests For the Eyes.

Are you good at judging distances? It is said if you have normal eyesight you should be able to see a man's eyes at fifty yards; at one hundred yards they look like mere dots; at two hundred yards you can see the buttons on his coat; and at three hundred yards you may just see his face; while the color of his clothes can be distinguished at four hundred yards. Of course, on a clear day, things look nearer than when the day is cloudy.

ANIMALS IN ICELAND

HORSE AND DOG ARE TRUSTED FRIENDS.

Inseparable Comrades of Farmers on Many a Perilous Journey—Beautiful Poems Are Dedicated to Icelandic Horse.

Iceland is a sparsely settled country where a population of about 100,000 is scattered over an area about the size of Scotland. A striking characteristic of the people is their love and interest in their domestic animals, writes Thorstina Jackson, in Our Dumb Animals. The most trusted companions of the Icelandic farmer are the horse and the dog; they are his inseparable comrades on many a perilous journey. It is the instinct of these friends that guides him home over mountains and moors when overtaken by the sudden Arctic blizzards or the impenetrable fog that so obscures the trail, faint enough in fair weather, so that the human eye is entirely unable to distinguish the path.

One remarkable feature about Iceland is that every county is bounded on one side at least by a wilderness of lava, sand-dunes, mountains, and heaths, and inasmuch as the settlements are around the coast, all cross-country travel must be over this "No man's land." A network of automobile roads is to be found around the capital, Reykjavik, as well as the other principal towns, but the traveller in the interior or the farmer whose home is several leagues from the coast does not come within the influence of Henry Ford or other enterprising automobile manufacturers, but has to rely on the sturdy Icelandic ponies which, fortunately, are well equipped to withstand the hardship that such travel entails. They are larger than the average American pony and remarkably sure on their feet, which is a very necessary requisite in a country where the trails wind around the edges of towering precipices with the surging ocean or a mountain gorge below, and a slip of the foot might mean a drop of a thousand feet. The safest method under such circumstances is not to attempt to guide, but to leave everything to the exceptional ability of the steed to thread his way out of a dangerous place.

Icelandic horses are easy to ride, their most common gait is the canter or the trot. They are home-loving animals and so reluctant about starting on a journey that it is not until after at least half an hour's ride that they cease their efforts to persuade the rider to turn back. In case they find that they are not carrying an expert rider on their back they even go so far as to rise slowly on their hind legs, stop, half turn around and thus endeavor by varied means to convince the would-be traveller that "Home, Sweet Home" is best at all times. However, their tactics are not those of the western pony, who bucks and reels into the air in his efforts to throw his rider, but are rather a series of friendly capers. When the Icelandic horse is satisfied that persuasion is of no avail, he makes the best of a bad job by speeding away with a swiftness and spirit that makes riding a delight. Their intelligence in fording the numerous rivers and streams that cross their path is difficult to equal; they never attempt to go against a stream, but invariably drift with it to the opposite shore.

There is considerable demand for Icelandic horses in foreign markets, particularly in the coal mines in England, but it is very unusual for a farmer to be persuaded to part with his horse for such labor, even if the price offered is tempting. A proof of how much the horse is honored in Iceland is the large number of beautiful poems dedicated to horses. It is estimated that proportionately Iceland publishes more books yearly than the whole of the British Empire. Every year finds some horse glorified somewhere either in prose or poetry.

What the Icelandic shepherd boy would do without his dog is hard to conceive. Sheep have a way of getting lost in the thick fog that is so frequent in the fall and winter, and it is then in response to his master's "whoa" that the Icelandic dog, usually rather lazy, bestirs himself and brings the flock together. They are invaluable also in the fall when the sheep are being brought back from the mountains of the interior where they have strayed during the summer months. This annual herding of the sheep usually begins late in September. The men in each neighborhood band themselves together, round up their horses and dogs, and prepare for several days' outing in the wilderness. The dogs act as scouts and have an exceptional capacity for discovering the haunts of the sheep as well as a couple of days in the country, no matter how great are the inconveniences in getting there. Figures for 1926 show that more than fifty new motorcycles were added to Berlin's traffic, which is equivalent to 60 per cent. increase over the preceding month. The number of motorcycles now in operation in Berlin is nearly 100,000.

Do Plants Get Sunburned?

That plants as well as people get tanned from exposure to ultra-violet rays is the view of a committee of English botanists.

When a plant was exposed to the glare of a quarts mercury vapor arc, the surface turned brown. The chance of color in the "sunburned" plant was revealed by a microscope to have been caused by a breakdown of the outer layer of cells.

PICTURESQUE CONTENDERS FOR WORLD'S SWIMMING CHAMPIONSHIP

Between 350 and 400 grease-covered swimmers will plunge into the waters of Lake Ontario on Wednesday, August 28, in front of the Canadian National Exhibition Grounds at Toronto, in the men's section of the fourth Wrigley Marathon. The course is approximately 15 miles, and the cash prizes total $15,000, of which $25,000 goes to the winner. The above lay-out shows five of the men who are regarded as likely to make the best showing. No. 1 is George Young of Toronto, drawing last year, when no one finished because of the cold water; No. 2 is Mendell Burditt of Toronto, who made a splendid effort and is looked upon as Young's most dangerous opponent; No. 4 is Eddie Keating of New York, who beat Vierkotter in the Lake George Marathon in 1927; No. 5 is Maurice Hume, of the American-Canadian Swimming Club of Seattle, Wash., a powerful young fellow with a splendid chance to finish close to the top.

TAMWORTH

On Saturday morning Mr. Wm. Youngs was the first man to arrive at the factory with a light load of milk and found smoke coming from the boiler room. On entering the place he found the fire at the base of the partition, between the boiler room and the main part of the factory. As the water supply was very handy he soon had the fire under control. It happened that both the cheesemaker and his helper, Messrs. Finley Bell and Orval Richmond, were a little late that morning or it is thought from the appearance of the fire that the villian would have been caught, as two places showed where the fire was started. The one apparently had been started in the night time and gone out after burning a few boards, but the second attempt was started right at a dry partition and must have been set about 6.30 o'clock in the morning and was getting pretty well under way when it was discovered. The culprit has not yet been found. — Mr. Stewart Storrings suffered a great loss last Friday afternoon when his barn and all that was in it burned. Mr. Storrings and his family were in Napanee and knew nothing of it until he was called by telephone. Some American tourists were on the lake near the barn site when an explosion was heard, and shortly after they saw the barn in flames. It is supposed that the fire was caused by spontaneous combustion. — Mrs. I. N. Beckstead was calling to Blenheim, owing to the death of her father. — Mr. and Mrs. Weir, Jack Weir and Mrs. Shields, of Ottawa, were visiting at the parsonage this week. — Miss Helen Beckstead, of Ottawa, is spending her holidays at her home. — Miss Irenes Patience, Mr. Merrick Warren, Lansdowne, and Mr. Jack Remmer, Brockville, spent the week-end at the parsonage. — Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Reid and family have moved to Perth, where Mr. Reid is to teach this year. — The Y.P. U. of the United Church held a farewell party for Mrs. Reid at her home on Monday evening.

McKenzie is having two weeks' holidays. —Miss Nicols returned to her home in Sydenham on Wednesday, after visiting friends. — R. E. MAKING CHARCOAL

Several By-Products Now Obtained Which Formerly Were Wasted —New Orleans Leading User.

The old schooner Excell, perhaps the last of a picturesque fleet of charcoal boats that supplied New Orleans of twenty-five years ago with this fuel, lies empty in the New Basin canal while trucks and trains of a new era roar past.

New Orleans has for a long time used more charcoal, it is said, than any city in the world. The custom, brought over from France, flourished in New Orleans because wood was plentiful and the climate so mild that a charcoal burner was ample to heat a room.

Hundreds in the piney woods section of Louisiana and Mississippi made their livelihood by charring green pine logs, and the charcoal schooners, with blackened sails and crews, brought the product to market.

Steak and fish broiled over charcoal by Creole cooks became famous. Oysters impaled on a long skewer and held in the intense heat acquired a flavor that could not be imitated in any other way. On wash day charcoal brought the water to boil quickly. And in the shipyards charcoal supplied the heat for welding.

But the old methods of making the fuel were wasteful. Pine logs were piled in a stack like a huge beehive and covered with grass and dirt. For two weeks a fire was kept smoldering inside the beehive until the pine was charred and ready to ship. In this way, of course, all the vapors of the wood were lost. When it had been brought to the city it was peddled on the streets, and there was a considerable loss in every step of the process.

But the lumbermen have taken the timber, the charcoal burners have turned to other work, the loggers are tied up and their crews scattered. However, New Orleans remains the largest charcoal consuming city in the world, it is asserted, and the black fuel is much in demand. Only the manufacturing process has changed.

Nowadays the pine stumps are pulled up, the pine branches left by the lumbermen are collected, and the "backbones" of the trees long dead, from which the sap has dried away, are collected and hauled to New Orleans. Thus the land is cleared for farming and the old-time lumbermen's waste is utilized.

Here the stumps, pine knots and backbones are cooked in sealed retorts over intense heat, and the liquid part of the tree is distilled into turpentine, pine oil, tar oil, prolgneous acid and wood creosote, and the charcoal, done up in neat paper bags, is sold by corner grocers and hucksters.

Hardwood charcoal, from factories in other southern cities, is shipped in by the carload and marketed in New Orleans. The custom of burning charcoal seems to be spreading into country towns of Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas, and even the farmers are taking up its use. Charcoal is fed to chickens as a regular and is used as a medicine for human beings. Even in the oil fields, where it would seem there is plenty of fuel, charcoal is coming into use.

And in many home of New Orleans the fish and steaks and oysters still sizzle and the wash water still boils over hot charcoal flame.

DECORATIVE FISH

Dr. H. B. Jones, Aquarist, Tells of Some Natural Facts Which Astonish Uninitiated.

In view of the increasing interest in what might be termed decorative fish, Dr. H. B. Jones, president of the British Aquarists' Association, related to a writer in Tit-Bits some natural facts in this connection which may astonish the uninitiated.

"Many of these small fish are live bearers," said Dr. Jones, who keeps a remarkably fine aquarium in his own house. "In other words, they spit their young out of their mouths —and incidentally are inclined to eat them again unless they can find refuge in some vegetation as soon as they are born. These fish include dwarf pikes, sword-tails, limia, and other breeds, all tropical and all about an inch in length.

"You can tell the females by their bulging mouths, which become larger and larger till the fish are born. Many aquarists breed small live bearers as food for the bigger fish.

"To obtain a fine sword-tail a male plays with a pronounced number of black spots is crossed with a female sword-tail, and by constant in-breeding the pure black results.

"Have you heard of the Siamese fighting fish, by the way? They breed him in Bangkok specially for fighting purposes. A pair of these males are taken to a hall and placed in a suspended globe, while crowds gather round and watch the fun with frenzied enthusiasm. Sometimes they fight for an hour at a time till one kills the other. A great deal of money changes hands in bets on these fights.

"A new fighting fish has recently been imported from Germany, one of the finest tropical fish ever seen. It is a veil-tailed Beta Cambodia, about three inches long.

"This fish builds a bubble nest. The male blows these bubbles, which are coated with mucus, till they form a large mass that floats on the water. He then judges it time to find a bride, swims about till he picks his fancy, and brings her to the nest.

"She lays her eggs on the bubbles, and any that drop off the father immediately picks up and replaces on the nest. Before the eggs are hatched, however, the male has already driven his bride away, for he knows well that she has cannibalistic tendencies—like himself. For though he guards the eggs till they are hatched out he always makes an attempt to eat the little ones, but they usually manage to escape to surrounding plants.

"Here is a picture of a butterfly fish from West Africa. They have large wings as well as fins, and jump three or four feet out of the water, then alight and glide along the surface. It is a favorite sport on the west coast to shoot at them with revolvers, but as you can imagine they are seldom hit.

"Cichlids, of the fresh-water carp family, are the most ferocious of any. They are difficult to mate, and have to be kept separate, for they fight and kill each other with little delay. When they are once mated, however, they take great care of their progeny. A flower-pot or, hollow stone is found, which they clean spotlessly and in which they rear their family. They guard their eggs in alternate shifts, fanning them with their fins.

"Just before hatching, the female digs a pit in the sand or shingle and transfers the young fish to it. They are then a wriggling mass of black jelly. After two or three hours she digs another pit, and this process goes on till the youngsters can swim about."

DISEASED TUBERS

Should Be Removed From Potatoes Placed in Storage

Experiments performed by the Division of Botany of the Dominion Experimental Farms demonstrates that diseased potato plants affected with dark decay, late blight and dry rot as well as those with particles of soil adhering to them, carry spores capable of producing destructive rots in the tubers themselves and in any which they come in contact with while in storage. The full significance of this method of plant disease spread is unfortunately not always appreciated by average growers and serious losses brought about in the fall are experienced. When, however, such losses are realized, it immediately becomes apparent that one of the most important means of controlling this trouble is the removal of diseased tubers and infected soil particles before potatoes are placed in the storage house. It is not always an easy matter to detect diseased tubers from a good one, unfortunately not all of the soil and other debris frequently found with the diseased parts. With the use of a good rack and the exercise of reasonable care, however, the average grower should be able to remove nearly all undesirable tubers and considerable amount of contaminated soil and other substances as they pass over the rack. All tubers showing evidence of decay, such as water soaked areas, cuts, and dry rot should be removed because they almost invariably cause decay and rot other tubers coming in contact with them. Tubers showing severe mechanical injury, frosting, deep cracks or blemishes should also be removed because they are more susceptible to rotting than undamaged tubers. In addition, any tubers showing an elongated cylindrical appearance with numerous shallow eyes and pointed at the seed end should be discarded because such tubers are indicative of a serious running out disease called spindle tuber. This disease is carried over from season to season in the tuber and is capable of rendering a strain of potatoes unproductive in two or three seasons. Owing to the very infectious nature of the virus causing the disease which is borne in the tubers it is advisable to prevent there coming in contact with healthy potatoes in order to preclude spread of the disease in this way. These recommendations apply chiefly to the Maritime Provinces and Quebec, but should also find application wherever it is necessary to retain potatoes in storage for prolonged periods.

Further information on the subject can be obtained from any of the Dominion Plant Pathological Laboratories located at Fredericton, N.B., Ste. Anne de la Pocatiere, Que.; Charlottetown, P.E.I., and Kentville, N.S.—D. J. McLeod, Dominion Laboratory of Plant Pathology, Fredericton, N.B.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, defending his stand on the prohibition question, said at a luncheon at the Metropolitan Club:

"We don't, we can't, enforce prohibition. What we do is to deny the people wholesome beer and wine, hooch and other poisons.

"We treat the people as foolishly as Mrs. Gamp treated her husband.

"'Your husband's a very sick man,' the medico said to Mrs. Gamp. 'Stomach lining almost destroyed. I prescribe champagne and oysters.'

"Three days after, when the medico called again, poor Gamp was dead.

"'Strange!' said the medico. 'I was sure that my prescription of champagne and oysters would bring him round. You adhered to my prescription of champagne and oysters, didn't you?'

"'Well, doctor,' said Mrs. Gamp, 'I practically adhered to it. What I mean to say is, I couldn't afford champagne and oysters, so I gave him crabs and ice cream soda.'"

THE TELFOGRAPH.

Acts as a Transmitter or a Receiver for Written Messages.

Morse and the need for a diplomatic code may be abolished by an invention patented recently.

Simplicity is the keynote of the apparatus, which consists of a small instrument a few inches square. This can act as a transmitter or a receiver for written messages, the connecting medium being either a telephone wire or wireless.

The inventors claim that it can be put on the market for less than seven dollars. The Telfograph, its suggested name, could be used by every telephone subscriber for receiving and transmitting written messages. Any message telephoned by this method would be recorded by the machine in the recipient's home on a length of tape for later reading.

One wire of the instrument is exposed for connection with the bell wire of the telephone. In the apparatus is a small typewriter of only one key, and a revolving drum on which letters of the alphabet are arranged in suitable formation. A person can tap out the required letters with this drum, and these are tapped automatically on tape at either end of the telephone.

By using a drum with a certain bounding line, and by changing speeds from day to day it is declared that the instrument would be code proof, as it would also do away with the necessity of employing Morse.

GAS FOR STOWAWAYS.

Novel Method Used to Clear Out Unwelcomed Guests.

Numerous novel methods have been tried by ship's captains to clear out the unwelcome stowaways before their vessels set sail, but probably the most effective was that put into operation a few years ago by the captain of the steamship Providence, of the Fabre Line.

When his ship left Marseilles on her way to Naples, he was informed that twenty stowaways had hidden aboard. He sent his officers and sailors through the ship, examining all pockets and crevices that would harbor a stowaway, but the search revealed nothing. Before the ship got to Naples he thought of a scheme for getting rid of the hidden and non-paying travellers, for he did not want to take them with him to the United States. After anchoring off Naples, he again sent his men through the dark recesses of the ship, announcing in French and Italian that the ship was about to be fumigated, and that all persons had better go up on deck before the hatches were battened. The sailors also shouted a warning that the deadly gases to be generated in the ship's hold would kill every living thing on the ship. The ruse was an absolute success. Everybody came up on deck, including the stowaways, and when the count was made of the passengers, it was found that thirty-five stowaways had emerged.

ROUMANIAN JUBILEE.

Roumanian Peasants Celebrate Founding of Greater Roumania.

From 100,000 to 200,000 Roumanian peasants gathered at Alba Julia, Roumania, a short time ago to celebrate the jubilee anniversary of the founding of Greater Roumania. Lack of local accommodations forced the Government to provide for their upkeep, and free bread, meats, fruits and wines were distributed to the pilgrims. Four milk white bulls were slaughtered and roasted on spits as in the days of Julius Caesar, and their flesh was fed to the populace.

The child king, Michael, received a salute of 101 guns when he arrived for the event, which was the last feature of the celebrations.

Every village in the country sent delegations, many of them with gifts to King Michael. The allied Governments sent distinguished officers to express felicitations for the liberation of Roman provinces from Austria-Hungary, Russia and Bulgaria.

One of the most striking features of the celebration was a pageant showing the costumes of every period of the history of Roumania, which dates back to the Roman Empire.

Russia Has Potassium Deposits.

Russia is no longer a customer for German potassium salts, the source of fertilizers and other widely used commercial chemicals.

In 1926 the Soviet Government started investigations to see if Russia did not have any deposits of her own of these valuable materials with the result that near Solikamsh in the Ural Mountains, potassium beds were found that the Soviets claim to be among the largest in the world.

A mine has been constructed, workmen's dwellings erected and mining operations are said to have begun. Some 5,000 men are employed to handle the output which, it is estimated, will reach around 1,300,000 tons per year.

Re-naming Cities.

The ancient coronation city of Norway, Trondhjem, is to follow the example of Christiana, now Oslo, and have its name changed. Hereafter it will be known by the name of Nidaros, and that town, counties and countries, like human beings, sometimes tire of their names, and either revert to old ones or adopt a modern variant. More than one European capital has changed its name in our time, some more than once. And it was only last year that the county of Forfar announced its intention of becoming Angus.

A Queer Word.

Pocket-handkerchief, when you pause to think of it, must be one of the queerest words in the language. At first, it was kerchief (covering), a covering for the head; then it became handkerchief, a covering for the head carried in the hand, and at last pocket-handkerchief, a covering for the head, held in the hand, and kept in the pocket.

A USEFUL CREATURE.

The Bat Is Quite Harmless—Should Be Protected.

The bat, which is sometimes called the flying mouse, is not a creature to be pursued and killed. They are quite harmless, and, as their food consists chiefly of insects, they should be protected. There are several varieties; the big brown bat, the hoary bat, the red bat, the silvery bat, and small vampires that live in the tropics and subsist upon blood.

The common bat that flies about on a summer night is not handsome, but it is quite interesting. Being the only mammals that fly, they are a good deal like a mouse. The front legs stretch out into long claw-like affairs over which the membrane that acts as wings is stretched, attached to the hind legs and sides and tail, forming perfect wings that can be folded in. These "wings" are very thin and light, and equipped with hairs that, like a cat's whiskers, warn the bat when it is nearing an object, and enables them to avoid collision. They are very neat in their toilet, cleaning and dressing their fur very much like a cat or mouse, and combing it with their claws. They have one unpleasant feature; vermin find them an attractive home, so they are not encouraged to live in houses.

The Bat is one creature that appears to sleep head first downward. They go to bed by the simple process of hanging up by their hind claws in a dark place. As they sleep in daytime and work by night, they usually select a dark cave or cranny somewhere, and get away from the light. A tourist in Muskoka once told us that she had counted over one hundred bats fly out of a hole under the eaves of a church in the woods. They seem to establish sort of colonies, living all together. Baby bats are born in June, one or two in a family, and are carried about by the mother, and two weeks old. They are nursed like kittens, and when three months old can scout for themselves. They all come out at twilight, and begin darting here and there in pursuit of insects. Back and forth swiftly they go, the children no doubt learning from the parents. They are said to drink a great deal of water, which, with insects, forms their diet. A blinding light dazzles them and they are blind before it. They dislike light, so, when day appears, the bats seek their caves and corners and retire.

CHINESE GIRL STUDENTS.

Most of Them Failed In an Intelligent Test.

Chinese girl students in a Shanghai college recently underwent an intelligent test and the questionnaire drew some remarkable answers. A few of the girls passed with flying colors, but the greatest majority of them fell by the wayside. For instance, Lloyd George was declared to be a French prizefighter. Augustino Sandino, one young lady stated, was a well-known Italian hockey player. Yan Sen, the military governor of Szechuan province, was a manufacturer of chutney. One girl thought that "A.D." meant after dark.

The question, "Why are you here?" was asked. One girl replied that she was there because it was a great deal easier to get a husband in China if one was educated. Only one of the students said she was trying to improve her mind and get an education. The others gave various reasons, all of them foolish, and a great many exceedingly frank. The crowning thing was when the question, "What is the French Concession?" was asked, and one girl replied, "a well-known Italian hockey player. Yan Sen, the military governor of Szechuan province, was a manufacturer of chutney. One girl thought that "A.D." meant after dark.

Hazardous Ocean Trip.

Mr. Allen Gerbault once famous in the tennis world, gave up chasing the ball about five years ago to begin a solo voyage round the world in a forty-foot yacht. The first stage of his amazing trip was from Canada to New York. It took him 142 days, during which time he covered 5,600 miles and endured two hurricanes. Once, when his water supply went bad, he lived on one cup of water a day until a tropical storm soaked him. For ten days he went naked. Then he became ill and was unconscious for forty-eight hours. He was wrecked near St. Vincent, Cape Verde Islands, last November, and remained there all the winter repairing his boat and writing his life story. He is now back in France, where he intends to build another cutter and set sail for the South Seas.

Tiny Motor-Boat.

A pretty little toy boat can be made out of a piece of wood and a scrap of soap. It needs no sail, and will continue moving as long as there is soap on it. Cut out the boat with a sharp knife, and make it about two inches long, pointed at one end (the prow), and blunt at the other (the stern). Dip it in paraffin for a moment—this is necessary, as otherwise it would not swim without a sail—and stick a little piece of soap on the stern so as to cover that end of the boat. Now put it gently in a large basin of water, and in a minute or two it will begin moving slowly forward. The soap acts as a very tiny motor, and by dissolving in the water drives the boat along.

Promote Rabbit Culture.

The Russian authorities have decided to rely on the rabbit to supplement the scarcity of meat that is expected to last for the next few years. The conference has appointed a special committee of high officials who were instructed to produce between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 "pedigree rabbits" during the present year, and to superintend the construction of State factories for the mass production of rabbit flesh, rabbit sausages, and rabbit pasties.

FALL OFF LAUNCH IS FATAL

Courtenay, Aug. 8.—F. A. Thompson, brother-in-law of W. B. Pringle, Napanee, a resident of Vancouver was drowned near the south end of Cortez Island. His body was recovered by Constable Dawson and brought here for an inquest.

He had been employed a fishing cruise with his nephew, H. C. McKim, well known barrister, Vancouver, and Mr. McKim's 12-year-old son, Donald, and fell overboard after being relieved at the wheel of the launch, Gourlea, owned by Mr. McKim.

Mr. McKim states the launch was running along the shore line when his uncle asked to be relieved at the wheel. He stepped on deck after Mr. McKim took charge of the launch and was never seen alive again.

Immediately Mr. McKim noticed that his uncle had disappeared he turned the launch about and scoured the water he had passed over but failed to see any trace of the missing man.

He notified Powell River detachment Provincial Police who searched the shore until the body was not recovered until Wednesday.

His wife died one year ago. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Albert James, 256 East Twelfth Avenue, Vancouver, and Miss Ilah Thompson, a school teacher in Grandview, who resided with him; also one son, Clayton Jean D'Ege,—Vancouver Sun.

WAGAR NAMED NEW SHERIFF SUCCEEDS LATE PETER GROULX

An unconfirmed announcement emanating from Toronto last night stated that W. S. Wagar, 173 Copeland Street, and an employee of the T. & N. O. Railway, has been appointed to the office of sheriff of Nipissing district, in succession to the late Peter Groulx. Mr. Wagar, whose residence in Northern Ontario dates from 1908, is regarded as a high type of citizen and one who will capably fill the high office for which he has been named. He took up residence here in 1914 and was engaged in the furniture business for a period of ten years before taking employment with the T. & N. O. Railway.

As late as press time this afternoon, Mr. Wagar had not received any official notification of his appointment although congratulatory messages were reaching him from Southern Ontario points. It is known, however, that Mr. Wagar's name was prominent among these suggested for the appointment and in well-informed circles it is believed that the announcement is authentic.

Mr. Wagar was born in Enterprise, Addington County, the son of late J. D. and Mrs. Wagar. His father was a prominent merchant and postmaster in Enterprise. Mr. Wagar received his education in Napanee high school came to Northern Ontario twenty-one years ago to enter the lumber trade. As a member of the firm of Black & Wagar he was connected with lumbering operations at Cochrane, Iroquois Falls, Matheson, Elk Lake, Charlton and along the Timmins branch.

In 1914 he took up permanent residence in this city, and engaged in the furniture business until 1921 when he disposed of his interest to McQuinty & Heavner Ltd., and took a position with the T. & N. O. Railway, which he has since filled.

He is a prominent member of Trinity United Church, having been actively connected with the congregation. He is widely known throughout Northern Ontario and in every respect equipped for the exacting duties of the important office to which he has been named.—The North Bay Nugget.

Above report from The Nugget has since been confirmed and Mr. Wagar was sworn in as Sheriff on August the 15th.

"READY HELPERS CLASS" MAKE PRESENTATION

On the evening of Friday, August 16th about fifty members and friends of the "Ready Helpers Class" Trinity Sunday School met at the home of Mrs. T. M. Asselstine for a social evening with Mrs. MacCormack before her departure to live in Toronto. After an evening of music and games, Mrs. MacCormack was presented with a lovely silver flower basket and the following address was read by Mrs. Asselstine:

Dear Mrs. MacCormack.—To you, as a charter member of the "Ready Helpers Class of Trinity United Church, we, your fellow members of the class, take this opportunity of expressing how much you are appreciated.

You have indeed been a "Ready Helper" and by your kindly disposition, have set an example which all the members of the class may do well to follow.

You have been one of the foundation builders and that foundation has been a firm and true one.

Much good has been accomplished and is being continued through the interest, study and work of the "Ready Helpers." We appreciated your work as secretary of the class, your term as vice-president and your ownership of various committees and what is probably a greater mark of your worth, your willness to work as well out of office as in office. Again we are proud that you are one of our number holding a Life Membership Certificate of our W.M.S. and we know that your interest will always be with Church Work.

We ask you to accept this gift as a small token of our love and esteem and with it go the prayers of our class for your success, steadfastness, health and future happiness, and the best wishes of your fellow workers go with you.

President—Mrs. T. M. Asselstine.

Vice President—Mrs. F. H. Henderson.

Treasurer—Mrs. Percy Vine.

Secretary—Mrs. R. M. Bills.

Mrs. MacCormack was taken completely by surprise but responded in a few well chosen words and gave us all a hearty invitation to partake of her hospitality in her new home.

A very pleasant evening was brought to a close by the serving of refreshments, after which Mr. J. R. Robinson, superintendent of the Sunday School, moved a vote of thanks to our hostess and her family for kindly entertaining us. The motion was seconded by Mrs. F. H. Henderson.

Pat (to tourist):—"We have great athletes in Ireland."

Tourist—"Why, our champion ran 16 miles and then jumped a nine-bar gate."

FALL OFF LAUNCH IS FATAL

Courtenay, Aug. 8.—F. A. Thompson, brother-in-law of W. B. Pringle, Napanee, resident of Carnation Bay, was drowned near the south end of Cortez Island. His body was recovered by Constable Dawson and brought here for an inquest.

He had been enjoying a fishing cruise with his nephew, H. C. McKim, well known barrister, Vancouver, and Mr. McKim's 12-year-old son, Donald, and fell overboard after being relieved at the wheel of the launch, Gourlea, owned by Mr. McKim.

Mr. McKim states the launch was running along the shore line when his guests asked to be relieved at the wheel. He stepped on deck after Mr. McKim took charge of the launch and was never seen alive again.

Immediately Mr. McKim noticed that his uncle had disappeared he turned the launch about and scoured the water he had passed over but failed to see any trace of the missing man.

He notified Powell River detachment Provincial Police who searched for there but the body was not recovered until Wednesday.

His wife died one year ago. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Albert Jones, 256 East Twelfth Avenue, Vancouver, and Miss Ilah Thompson, a school teacher in Grandview, who resided with him; also one son, Clayton, Eagan Dyke.—Vancouver Sun.

WAGAR NAMED NEW SHERIFF SUCCEEDS LATE PETER GROULX

An unconfirmed announcement emanating from Toronto last night stated that W. S. Wagar, 173 Copeland Street, and an employee of the T. & N. O. Railway, has been appointed to the office of sheriff of Nipissing district, in succession to the late Peter Groulx. Mr. Wagar, whose residence is in Northern Ontario dates from 1908, is regarded as a high type of citizen and one who will capably fill the high office for which he has been named. As late as press time this afternoon, Mr. Wagar has not received any official notification of his appointment although congratulatory messages were reaching him from Southern Ontario points. It is known, however, that Mr. Wagar's name was prominent among those suggested for the appointment and in well-informed circles it is believed that the announcement is authentic.

Mr. Wagar was born in Enterprise, Addington County, the son of late J. D. and Mrs. Wagar. His father was a prominent merchant and postmaster in Enterprise. Mr. Wagar received his education in Napanee high school came to Northern Ontario twenty-one years ago to enter the lumber trade. As a member of the firm of Black & Wagar he was connected with lumbering operations at Cochrane, Iroquois Falls, Mathieson, Elk Lake, Charlton and along the Transcontinental branch.

In 1914 he took up permanent residence in this city, and engaged in the furniture business until 1921 when he disposed of his interests to McQuibb & Heavner Ltd., and took a position with the T. & N. O. Railway, which he has since filled.

He is a prominent member of Trinity United Church, having been actively connected with the congregation. He is widely known throughout Northern Ontario and in every respect equipped for the exacting duties of the important office to which he has been named.—The North Bay Nugget.

Above report from The Nugget has since been confirmed and Mr. Wagar was sworn in as Sheriff on August the 15th.

HORSESHOE CHAMPIONS WITHOLD NO SECRETS

Start With "Open Shoe" and Keep Practicing, Advice to Beginners

Every able-bodied Canadian, from ... sixteen to sixty, can cherish the ambi- ... tion to become a champion horseshoe ... pitcher without overstepping the ... bounds of human vanity, according to ... Billy Struthers, the Sarnia youngster, ... and Walter Kane, his older partner, ... who last summer carried off the Do- ... minion Championship title at the ... contest held at the Royal Winter Fair ... last year. The Sarnia shoe-tossers are ... planning to put up a strong fight to ... retain their title at the coming con- ... test at the Royal Fair in November, ... but they are willing to pass along a few ... hints on pitching that may help those ... less experienced in handling the irony ... Four years ago Billy was in short ... pants and Walter Kane thought that ... horseshoes, when not worn on the ... hoof, belonged to a pile in the black- ... smith shop. That's the hopeful thing ... about it for all those who are just ... making their debut as pitchers; it does ... not require long years of practice, a ... squad of trainers and coaches and a ... manager, who pockets the lions share ... of the reward. And as for rewards, ... this ancient pastime is certainly not ... strictly amateur, with only trophies ... and glory held out for the champions. ... "Just keep practicing—and don't forget ... right; that is the advice of the Can- ... adian champions. "I catch the shoe ... on the end very low in my right ... hand," says Billy Struthers, "and ... throw straight for the peg, and nearly ... all my shoes land open and flat. It ... seems to come natural to me as I can ... get the open shoe with two or three ... different holds. Of course, a beginner ... won't be able to get ringers; you have ... to work keep your shoes coming open ... and straight for the peg. Don't worry ... your shoe too high or too fast. I ... throw mine about five to eight feet ... high." Billy started to pitch in 1926, ... after he had seen "Putt" Mossman, at ... that time the world champion pitcher, ... do his stuff at Sarnia. "I started right ... in to pitch," says Billy, "and after a ... few weeks of practice I was getting a ... few ringers and once in a while the ... open shoe. I kept right on practicing ... and got to playing in the regular ... games with the men." Before long this ... youthful pitcher had outclassed the ... men and began to carry off first prizes ... in steady succession. In the contest ... at the Royal he was the sensation of ... the meet, and his amazing perfec- ... sion in placing ringers amazed the ... crowds.

Walter Kane, on the other hand, was ... one of those who got a wrong start. ... "When I started to pitch four years ... ago," he tells us, "I took what nearly ... everyone thought was the right hold— ... finger around the calk, throw it about ... forty feet in the air and spin it like ... a top. If you didn't do this you didn't ... know how to pitch and ringers were an ... event of some importance. I have built a gym in connection with our ... church and it is largely instrumental in having them buy a set of regulation horse- ... shoes. I had only heard of such things ... but after I got them I went to work in ... short time we had organized the first ... horseshoe club in this part of the ... country. Later on we brought "Putt" ... Mossman to give an exhibition and it ... was through him that we found out ... about the open shoe and the different ... holds to make it land flat and open. ... It was a real job to change over to a ... better hold, but after some months of ... practice I eventually got the open ... shoe; but I couldn't judge the distance ... to get it straight for the peg. There ... are the three things that you have to ... learn to get ringers and a lot of prac- ... tice is needed. I have seen some may ... master a new hold in a few weeks and ... others never seem to get onto it. At ... present I am using the three-quarter ... hold, but I have tried this since Labor ... Day and find it more satisfactory as it ... is so easy to throw. It's always land ... on the left-hand side of the stake, ... catch the shoe on the side, up close ... to the stake with the shoe leaning ... outside; have the shoe very loose in ... your hand and throw it eight or ten ... feet high straight for the peg. It will ... almost always land open with a good ... chance for a ringer. Watch how your ... shoe lands and remember just where ... you held it. If it isn't turning right ... just move your hand a little one way ... or the other until you get the right ... spot, and you will master the open ... shoe. For the turn-and-three-quarter ... hold turn on the other side of the shoe ... with the heel corks to the inside; or ... by catching down near the heel you ... can get a three-quarter turn. Get ... away from catching the shoe with your ... finger around the calk. A good ... way it to see if you are improving is ... to have some one score for you and ... pitch 10 shoes, keeping track of the ... points and ringers."

WHY THE TAX RATE FOR TOWN OF NAPANEE HAS INCREASED

For the information of the Taxpay- ... ers of the Town of Napanee, the Fin- ... ance Committee of the Municipal ... Council submit the following state- ... ment.

The tax rate for 1928 was 48 mills, ... and the Council have found it neces- ... sary, to strike the rate for 1929 at 60 ... mills.

The reasons for this increase are set ... out in the following statement:

No. 1. Increase in Debenture Principal	$3011 03
No. 2. Increase in Debenture Interest	3726 00
No. 3. Overdraft carried over from previous years	7657 00
No. 4. County Rate unpaid for 1928	4125 00
No. 5. Increase in County Rate	4125 00
No. 6. Increased cost, Street Lightning	977 00
No. 7. Increased Bank Interest Charges	800 00
No. 8. Increased cost of Fire Insurance	160 00
No. 9. Increased cost for Care- taker, Town Hall	180 00
No. 10. Salary of Assessor un- paid in 1928	350 00
	$25111 00

The foregoing are some of the main ... reasons for the increase in our tax ... rate this year. There have been some ... other minor increases in expenditure ... and in several departments the Coun- ... cil have been able to decrease expendi- ... tures.

The explanation for the increased ... expenditures noted above are as fol- ... lows.

Items No. 1 and No. 2.—Debenture ... Principal and Interest through the ... issue in 1928 of Debentures to cover ... the cost of Centre St., East St., John ... St. and the Market Square paving are ... responsible for the increase under ... these items, the payments to retire ... principal and interest coming due for ... the first time this year.

Item No. 3.—The amount of over- ... draft mentioned under this item is ... made up from the overdraft carried ... from previous years, and the unforseen ... costs in the rebuilding of the Town ... Hall in 1928.

Items No. 4 and No. 5.—The County ... Council increased the Town's Equalized ... Assessment in 1928 by $250,000.00. The ... Town Council of last year refused to ... accept this increased equalization for ... legal reasons, leaving an amount of ... $4,125.00 which the County claimed and ... which the Town refused to pay. An ... agreement was reached with the Coun- ... ty this year whereby the Town agreed ... to pay this amount claimed of $4,125.66 ... and accept the new equalization on ... condition that the County build per- ... manent roads on the Newburgh and ... Selby roads in the Town of Napanee, ... which are connecting links between ... the Town and County road systems. ... This means that in this year's financ- ... ing the amount of County Rate unpaid ... in 1928 and the increased County Rate ... for 1929 have to be provided for out of ... this year's taxes.

Item No. 6.—The new lighting sys- ... tem on Dundas St. has been completed ... and the amount mentioned under this ... item is required to provide for the in- ... creased cost of lighting.

Item No. 7.—On account of the large ... overdraft carried over from last year ... and the fact that the bulk of the new ... debentures and interest coming due ... this year for the first time practically ... all come due early in the year necessi- ... tates the borrowing of larger sums of ... money, which results in much heavier ... interest charges on our current ac- ... count.

Item No. 8.—A thorough investiga- ... tion of the fire insurance carried by ... the Town on Town Property was made ... early this year, and it was found neces- ... sary to increase the amount of insur- ... ance carried to safeguard the Town ... against possible fire losses.

Item No. 9.—The remodelling of the ... Town Hall called for a better system ... of caretaking and requires a good deal ... more time on his part to keep the ... building in proper condition.

Item No. 10.—The Assessor's Salary ... for 1928 was not paid until this year.

The Finance Committee are insisting ... on rigid economy in all departments, ... and with the general cleanup of all ... overdrafts and floating debts, have ... every reason to believe that the tax ... can be materially reduced next ... year. One debenture will be paid off ... this year, another one next year, and ... in the next three or four years several ... debentures will mature and be paid up.

This is the peak year so far as Town ... financing goes, and if no further com- ... mitments are made for capital expen- ... diture the tax rate should gradually ... decrease from year to year.

FORCING BULBS TO BLOOM IN WINTER

There are few house plants that reward the grower with a finer display of bloom in such a short time and with so little attention as do the spring-flowering bulbs when forced in winter. Those most commonly forced include tulips, hyacinths, daffodils, and crocuses and they come in such variety that the amateur is likely to be bewildered by the long lists of names. However, a careful study of the bulb catalogues enables one to choose a collection that will give a succession of bloom beginning in early December and lasting until the tulips bloom out of doors in late May.

Bulbs should be potted as soon as they are received in September and October. Those intended for very early bloom may be had in September but the main supplies are not on the market until October. A good potting soil consists of equal parts of loam, well-decayed cow manure, leaf mould, and sand. The size and style of pot used will depend to some extent on the personal preference of the grower, but a six-inch pot will hold six tulips, a five-inch pot may be used for a single hyacinth bulb and a seven or eight inch pot will be required for five or six narcissus bulbs.

In potting, leave the top of the bulbs level with the surface of the soil and press it firmly about them but do not have it too compact beneath them since this causes bruising when root growth takes place.

After planting, water the pots and set them in a cellar or darkened room at a temperature of 40 to 50 degrees Fahrenheit. If the pots are plunged in sand they will require less careful watering, and burying to a depth of two inches above the bulbs will help to prevent heaving. After the bulbs are well rooted and there is evidence of top growth, they may be brought to the living room to bloom. To economize in window space a cellar window or any north window may be used until the plants closely approach the blooming period. If kept too long in a dim light the plants will become tall and weak-stemmed. If placed in too hot a place the buds will wither; therefore a window too close to a stove should be avoided.

After the plants are in bloom if they are kept in a cool part of the room, and not exposed to bright sunshine the blossoms will last for twelve or fourteen days.

Early Single Tulips—Due Van Tholl, Prosperine, Brilliant Star, Couleur De Cardinal, Cramoise Brilliant, Cullinan, Flamingo, La Reine, Mon Tresor, Prince of Austria, Prosperity, Rose Grisdelin, Rose Luisante, White Hawk, Yellow Prince, Fred Moore, and Ibis.

French Roman Hyacinth Dutch Hyacinths—La Victoria, Gertrude, Lady Derby, Queen of the Pinks, Marconi, L'Innocence, La Grandesse, Enchantress, Grand Maitre, King of the Blues, and Queen of the Blues.

Polyanthus Narcissus of Bunch Daffodils—Paper White and Grand Soleil d' Or.

Crocus—Purpurea Grandiflora, Yellow and Mont Blanc.—By J. E. Parks, Dominion Experimentol Station, Rosthern, Sask.

Mr. Weir treated me very well and paid me exceedingly liberally—the harvest work was hard but not exceedingly so and we made good money. The food was good and other farm hands all English and very nice. The general regularity of the life did me a lot of good and I am feeling wonderfully fit."

Neville B. Palmer, who is a student at Jesus College, Cambridge, says, "We never told the farmers we were students, always letting them believe we were laborers, in order to see the better for ourselves the conditions in Western Canada. The first job we were informed after three days trial that we were unsuited on account of not being used to the long hours. Then we went to Regina and obtained a job through the labor office which lasted a week and brought us $21.90. Again we got a threshing job near Regina and stayed until we had to leave for England. Our total earnings were $86.00 even with no necessity for saving in our case we returned to Winnipeg with $30.00 in our pockets quite satisfied that there is good money to be made in the harvest fields for any man who is keen and willing to work."

CANADIAN GARDENING BULB PLANTING TIME

There is no rest for the gardener. Now that work is about over with the flowers and vegetables this season it is time to start preparing for the 1930 garden. For a brilliant show in the Spring and for Winter flowering indoors, bulbs are essential. Most of these come from Holland and they will now be available in all seed stores. A brilliant display of tulips, hyacinths, crocuses, and other spring bloomers is a simple matter if planting is done in September or early October. By choosing early, medium and late sorts, the period of bloom can be spread over a couple of months, easily bridging the gap between the opening of the season and the first of the annual flowers. Most of these bulbs, especially those marked "forcing" in the catalogues, will bloom in the house. They should be planted in pots and kept in a cool, dark place until the roots are well developed.

Perennials

September is an important month in the perennial garden. The new plants which were started from seed in June or July will now be ready to move into the nursery beds and preparations should be made to give them adequate cover in the form of leaves or straw and full drainage before they go into Winter quarters. As soon as the great heat of Summer is over and one feels that the soil is not likely to dry out again, the old perennials may be divided, or reduced in size. Plants that have been in the same position for four or five years will give better results if moved; or if they have a portion of the root system cut off. Late August or early September is the proper time to move Oriental poppies and iris. In re-planting the pieces of iris, they should be put in quite shallow, the fleshy root being barely covered with soil. Peonies are best moved in September. The top buds of these plants should not be more than an inch or two below the surface of the soil. Deep planting is one of the causes of peonies not blooming well. Delphiniums and phlox are moved in October. One can secure roots of these perennials and also most shrubbery, vines and roses at the seed stores now while this is not probably just as good a time to move as in the Spring the work can be done quite satisfactorily and a quicker start secured, provided the bed is well prepared, than if one waits until next April or May.

Saving Seeds

It does not pay to save your own vegetable and flower seeds unless one is prepared to give the same care as is given by professional growers. Such a practice makes an interesting hobby but generally speaking t is absolutely impractical. In the first place, one must have plenty of room so that varieties do not get a chance to mix, and secondly the flowers of both the vegetables and flowering plants must be screened so that bees and insects will not mix the pollen. Three kinds of corn growing in the same garden, even if the garden is fairly large, will become hopelessly mixed in a single season. The crop of ears the first year, of course, will be true to variety, but if the seed from those ears is sown, a mixture of all three will result. With flowers, colors mixed and usually a dirty white grow a sickly yellow will be the result of sowing the seed next year. There is another important point also. With vegetables, the very earliest and highest quality is essential, yet in the average garden it is the very earliest vegetables that are used with the late stuff held over for seed. With flowers, bloom will soon fade if the seed pods are allowed to develop.

REID RE-UNION

On Thursday, August 15th, at O'Neil's Point, on the north shore of Beaver Lake, friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ramsay Reid and daughters, of Tisdale, Sask., to the number of two hundred, gathered together to do them honor, as Mr. and Mrs. Reid have not been home for twenty-three years, and it was the first meeting of the daughters with their friends in the East.

In other words, its was a gathering of the Reids, their relatives and friends. It was a home coming to many of these who had not met for many years and the day will long be remembered by those who attended the picnic.

At 12.30 tables were spread on the balcony of the pavilion facing the beautiful lake. Abundance was there for everyone and was enjoyed by all.

When the dinner was over they were called to order by the chairman, Alderman G. A. Reid, of Belleville, who proposed a toast to the president and he was ably supported by Mr. Warren Hawley and others and replied to by R. S. Reid on behalf of himself and family. The afternoon was somewhat marred by rain but the crowd enjoyed themselves in visiting and dancing. Old time dances were enjoyed by many. It was a happy re-union and plans were laid for an annual picnic, which will be held sometime in August, 1930.

Too much praise can not be given to Mr. O'Neil, for his hospitality and kindness; everyone voted him an ideal host.

IT takes three to complete a telephone call: the operator, the person calling and the person called. If any one of the three is at fault, the call fails.

Uncompleted telephone calls are a serious public problem. We call attention to it because we want you to have the best possible service at lowest possible cost.*

Every day in Ontario and Quebec there are over one million local telephone calls which are blocked — a waste of two million minutes a day — a congestion of traffic — a source of irritation — a handicap to perfect service.

Some of these uncompleted calls cannot be helped and some are due to our own errors, which we are constantly reducing. Many of the failures — "Line's Busy" — "They don't Answer" — "No one on the Line now" — "Wrong Number" — originate with the other two parties to the call.

We plan now to give publicity to common faults in telephone usage in the hope that there may be a mutual effort to maintain high efficiency of telephone service.

*It is costing more than $27,000,000 this year to extend and improve telephone service in Ontario and Quebec.

A brilliant display of tulips, hyacinths, crocuses, and other spring bloomers is a simple matter if planting is done in September or early October. By choosing early, medium and late sorts, the period of bloom can be spread over a couple of months, easily bridging the gap between the opening of the season and the first of the annual flowers. Most of these bulbs, especially those marked "forcing" in the catalogues, will bloom in the house. They should be planted in pots and kept in a cool, dark place until the roots are well developed.

Perennials

September is an important month in the perennial garden. The new plants which were started from seed in June or July will now be ready to move into the nursery beds and preparations should be made to give them adequate cover in the form of leaves or straw and full drainage before they go into Winter quarters. As soon as the great heat of Summer is over and one feels that the soil is not likely to dry out again, the old perennials may be divided, or reduced in size. Plants that have been in the same position for four or five years will give better results if moved, or if they have a portion of the root system cut off. Late August or early September is the proper time to move Oriental poppies and iris. In re-planting the pieces of iris, they should be put in quite shallow, the fleshy root being barely covered with soil. Peonies are best moved in September. The top buds of these plants should not be more than an inch or two below the surface of the soil. Deep planting is one of the main causes of peonies not blooming well. Delphiniums and phlox are moved in October. One can secure roots of these perennials and also most shrubbery, vines and roses at the seed stores now while this is not probably just as good a time to move as in the Spring the work can be done quite satisfactorily and a quicker start secured, provided the bed is well prepared, than if one waits until next April or May.

Saving Seeds

It does not pay to save your own vegetable and flower seeds unless one is prepared to give the same care as is given by professional growers. Such a practice makes an interesting hobby but generally speaking t is absolutely impractical. In the first place, one must have plenty of room so that varieties do not get a chance to mix, and secondly the flowers of both the vegetables and flowering plants must be screened so that bees and insects will not mix the pollen. Three kinds of corn growing in the same garden, even if the garden is fairly large, will become hopelessly mixed in a single season. The crop of ears the first year, of course, will be true to variety, but if the seed from those ears is sown, a mixture of all three will result. With flowers, colors mixed and usually a dirty white grow a sickly yellow will be the result of sowing the seed next year. There is another important point also. With vegetables, the very earliest and highest quality is essential, yet in the average garden it is the very earliest vegetables that are used with the late stuff held over for seed. With flowers, bloom will soon fade if the seed pods are allowed to develop.

REID RE-UNION

On Thursday, August 15th, at O'Neil's Point, on the north shore of Beaver Lake, friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sidney Reid and daughters, of Tisdale, Sask., to the number of two hundred, gathered together to do them honor, as Mr. and Mrs. Reid have not been home for twenty-three years, and it was the first meeting of the daughters with their friends in the East.

In other words, its was a gathering of the Reids, their relatives and friends. It was a home coming to many of them who had not met for more than mean, and the day will long be remembered by those who attended the picnic.

At 12.30 tables were spread on the balcony of the pavilion facing the beautiful lake. Abundance was there for everyone and was enjoyed by all.

When the dinner was over they were called to order by the chairman, Alderman G. A. Reid, of Belleville, who proposed a toast to the guests and he was ably supported by Mr. Warren Hawley and Mr. Reid replied to by R. S. Reid on behalf of himself and family The afternoon was somewhat marred by rain but the crowd enjoyed themselves in visiting and dancing. Old time dances were enjoyed by many. It was a happy re-union and plans were laid for an annual picnic, which will be held sometime in August.

Too much praise can not be given to Mr. O'Neil, for his hospitality and kindness; everyone voted him an ideal host.

IT takes three to complete a telephone call: the operator, the person calling and the person called. If any one of the three is at fault, the call fails.

Uncompleted telephone calls are a serious public problem. We call attention to it because we want you to have the best possible service at lowest possible cost."

Every day in Ontario and Quebec there are over one million local telephone calls which are blocked — a waste of two million minutes a day — a congestion of traffic — a source of irritation — a handicap to perfect service.

Some of these uncompleted calls cannot be helped and some are due to our own errors, which we are constantly reducing. Many of the failures — "Line's Busy" — "They don't Answer" — "No one on the Line now" — "Wrong Number" — originate with the other two parties to the call.

We plan now to give publicity to common faults in telephone usage in the hope that there may be a mutual effort to maintain high efficiency of telephone service.

"It is costing more than $27,000,000 this year to extend and improve telephone service in Ontario and Quebec.

WELLAND SHIP CANAL IS FOURTH AND GREATEST

As the Welland ship canal nears completion — its formal opening being promised for 1930—it is interesting to note that of the new waterway is in reality, the fourth Welland canal, and that the town of Thorold is divided by all of them.

At Allanburg stands a cairn testifying to the turning of the first sod for the original canal—which was completed in 1829—by George Keefer and Hon. William Hamilton Merritt, the remains of one of whose locks is still to be seen just west of the Thorold fire hall. This canal, which is now but a hydraulic raceway supplying power to a number of manufacturing plants, was superseded by what has been known for nearly a half a century as the Old Welland canal, which itself practically lapsed into disuse as regards navigation in the early 80's. It was then that the new Welland canal, one of the greatest engineering feats of the day, was opened for the passage of vessels.

25-Lock Waterway

The new waterway connecting Lake Erie with Lake Ontario contained 25 locks, accomodating boats drawing up to 14 feet of water, together with a guard lock, near the head lock at Thorold, and an additional lock at Port Colborne, the Lake Erie entrance to the canal.

Thirty years ago an agitation started for the building of a deeper waterway that would accomodate the largest type of lake carriers. In this campaign the leaders were the late Thomas Conlon, vessel owner and capitalist of Thorold, the late S. W. Secord, bank manager of St. Catharines, and D. W. Carter, of Port Colborne, who has long been identified with tug and shipping interests.

Ship Canal Started

Finally in 1913 the construction of the Welland ship canal was started and was well under way when the outbreak of the world was compelled cessation of work, as every energy of the federal government, and of the federal government and of the Canadian people was of necessity given to the prosecution of the war. Hostilities over the work was resumed as soon as possible, with the result that the great waterway with its eight (including a twin) locks, each with a volume 22 times that of any lock in the canal now in operation, and with a total lift of 342 feet, is practically receiving its finishing touches.

This $115,000,000 undertaking provides locks 83 feet deep, equipped with steel gates weighing 32 tons each, and operated by electricity, which will admit vessels 800 feet long. Vertical lift bridges will carry roadways across the canal, which was not constructed without many and grievous problems requiring solution.

Obstacles Surmounted

At Welland, for instance, in the vicinity of the aqueduct, the Welland river had to be taken underneath the new ship canal. In doing this and also in building the piers for the bridge on Main Street, the clayey soil encountered almost baffled the engineers. Only the dogged determination of Superintendent Engineer Grant saved the day, and the work was eventually carried forward. At Thorold recently a leak near the Ontario paper mill caused considerable delay and has only now been repaired, while previously the crashing of a 32-ton steel lock gate caused loss of life and held up operations for some time. Only the other day, at Port Welland, the Lake Ontario entrance to the canal, workmen were seen constructing a cement bar across the bottom of lock one, as a support for the lock's concrete walls, in holding the banks in order, thereby preventing a slide.

To a casual observer, it would seem that rough water in Lake Ontario would surge back into the almost crescent-shaped entrance to Port Welle and make it difficult, if not impossible, for vessels to moor at the approach to lock one. Whether or not a break water outside of the pier has been provided for in the plans is not known, but a brief visit there certainly suggest that such protection would be advantageous.

Locks Nearly Finished

While navigation of the new waterway will not be possible before the coming year, the completion of the locks will not be long delayed. In fact, lock eight at Port Colborne is now being finished, and will shortly be ready for the official opening. This done, lock seven at Thorold—opposite lock twenty-four on the present canal—alone will be incomplete. Much of the equipment for handling the gates and operating the locks and bridges has yet to be installed, and other details to be taken care of, before the Canadian people shall be able to refer with just pride to the passage of vessels between Lake Erie and Ontario through the ship canal, which will stand for years in testimony of the vision, optimism, courage and enterprise of the men who led the agitation in its favor, and who, with one or two exceptions, did not live to see the realization of their dreams. Almost a titanic undertaking for a country with our population, the new waterway will rank as one of Canada's finest achievements in respect of public works.

The teacher had explained that the ending "ous" means "full of," as shown in such words as dangerous and furious. She then asked for sentences to illustrate the lesson, and one boy submitted: "Charlie could not run because he was pious."

TRANSLATING SANSKRIT.

Scholar Writing Story of Jainism First Time In English.

To present an authoritative English translation of a famous Sanskrit work, the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Research Foundation of New York City, recently commissioned Dr. Helen M. Johnson—a Sanskrit scholar of America—to delve into the archives of India's Jain libraries.

Dr. Johnson is in Poona, translating ten books of the famous Sanskrit work, "The Sixty-Three Heroes of Jainism." The book, which deals with the lives of numerous ancient potentatves of India, has never before been translated into English. A German edition is the only volume that has ever been published outside India. It was written by a Jain Monk, Hema Chandra, who was born in 1088 and who lived at Patan on the Kathawar peninsula, where Jainism was the state religion. He was a great scholar—known as "the omniscient of the Kali Yuga."

Dr. Johnson is completing the commentary on "the first book, which will be published shortly.

To obtain the most authoritative information for her work, she has visited several well-known Jain centres and secured the services of Jain sages. The work was started in the United States several years ago, and Dr. Johnson has been working in India two years.

HIS FIRST AUDIENCE

Lauder Sang "I'm a Gentleman Still" at Band of Hope Meeting.

It was while we were living in Arbroath that I started to sing, writes Sir Harry Lauder in "Roamin' In the Gloamin'."

Like many more people in the world I have always been rather fond of hearing my own voice! Even as a very small boy I used to imitate my father when he hummed or sang some of the old Scottish lyrics. I cannot say that my father was a good vocalist, because I don't remember. But he was aye croonin' awa' at some snatch of melody. One day, he turned to my mother and said, "This wean's going to be a singer, Jess!" And he thereupon began to teach me the words and melody of "Draw the Sword, Scotland." I had as much idea of what drawing a sword for Scotland meant as of Greek lambics. So I learned this song and one or two others, including a most melancholy ditty entitled "I'm a Gentleman Still." The tune to which this song was set had an extremely sorrowful wail about it and it became a sort of obsession with me. It never left me for years. I would start singing or humming it at any time and in any circumstances.

The Band of Hope meetings I loved. They were bright and colorful. The officials were good men and women, full of high ideals. The singing at the meetings appealed to me from the start. Moody and Sankey, the American evangelists, had left a deeply religious effect all over Britain, and the hymns they sang at their revival meetings had taken a powerful grip of the people of Scotland. Their melodies were simple but swinging; they sent themselves admirably to community singing. I forget many of the hymns we sang at the Band of Hope, but such favorites as "Shall We Gather at the River?" "Throw Out the Life-Line," and similar haunting airs stand out in my memory. I loved every note of them and yelled them out most lustily.

At the Band of Hope meetings it was the practice of the superintendent to ask any of the boys or girls to stand up and sing or recite any little things they knew. For many weeks I was too shy to "take the floor," but one night a companion who had evidently heard me singing at the mill or in the school playground nudged me in the ribs, saying, "Gosh, Harry, stan' up and dae something." So up I got from my seat, walked to the little platform and modestly said that I was willing to sing a song. I had fully intended to sing "Draw the Sword, Scotland," or "Annie Laurie," or one of the other songs I had learned since leaving Musselburgh. But, could I remember, facing my first audience, that any other song existed in the world with the exception of "I'm a Gentleman Still"? No . . . and this is what I suddenly found myself singing in a high treble voice:

"Thank God I can look the whole world in the face
And say, I'm a Gentleman still!"

Surely no more incongruous spectacle could be imagined than the little bare-footed half-timer from Gordon's Flax Mill standing there proclaiming, in accents that the poor . . . he was a gentleman still! But I got a good reception. The Band of Hope children applauded me to the echo. There has been no sweeter moment in my life than when I finished the song and made my way back to the "form" with the hand-clapping and the shouting of my comrades ringing in my ears. I wouldn't have changed places that night with Queen Victoria or the President of the United States!

THE QUEEN'S CHEQUE-BOOK.

King George's Consort Believes In Helping Others.

The working girls of Hoxton, needing a place for rest and recreation, planned a fine hostel, and the Queen sent $500 toward it.

After a time the Queen asked how things were getting on, and was told that money came in slowly. She sent the hostel builders $20,000, the money earned by the exhibition of the Queen's Doll's House at Wembley.

Later she inquired again and found that the scheme must fall to the ground unless a further $10,000 were raised. Money was wanted for so many other charitable causes that it was hard to get it, and the Hoxton must lose their hostel. Then the Queen opened her cheque-book again and sent $10,000.

The hostel was finished at last, thanks to the Queen, and she was asked to open it. She chose a certain day convenient to herself. But a social worker whispered in the Queen's ear that to come on this day would ruin the street hawkers. So the Queen changed her arrangements for the costermongers.

No wonder they turned up in hundreds to cheer her when she opened the hostel. No wonder the Princess of Hoxton, Rose Phillips, in a dress gleaming with 2,000 pearl buttons, had a bunch of flowers and a smile for the Queen.

Ivy Is Unpopular.

Ivy has been so long used as a symbol of close and undying affection that it comes as a surprise to Canton municipal authorities to learn that the ivy which covers a certain building is a menace to the public safety.

Ivy, they say, is the favorite abode of rats, and the rodents have been making their way from the ivy into the basement of the building, causing much damage to property.

Ivy is a beautiful thing, ivy; its leaves are exquisitely shaped; its color is satisfying. Yet we are told to pull down ivy as an enemy both to buildings and trees. All the same, I know walls covered thick with ivy where I used to locate birds' nest, which I shall always regards with affection, says a correspondent. And I have known trees smothered by ivy, which were far less pleasant to look on than the creeper which deprived them of life.

Wearing old clothes is all right if you know you don't have to.

Colonel Leonard P. Ayres, the economist and financier, said in a success talk in Cleveland:

"You can't keep a good man down. Look at Jonah. Look at Sir August Harris.

"Harris wound up as the millionaire proprietor of Drury Lane theatre. And how did he make his entry into Drury Lane? Why, on his uppers. He was to Sir Augustus then. He was plain Gus Harris, hungry and shabby and looking for a job.

"Bruce" the boss of Drury Lane, glared at Harris from the heap of papers on his desk.

"Well?" he said.

"Do you want a stage manager?" said Harris.

"No; I'm my own stage manager," said Bruce.

"Do you want an acting manager?

"No; I'm my own acting manager.

"Do you want a press agent?

"I'm my own press agent.

"Do you want an actor?

"No!" Bruce growled. "No. I don't want nothing. For heaven's sake make clear out. Vamoose. Can't you see I'm so busy I don't know which way to turn?"

"Then you want help" said Harris, peeling off his coat. "I'll stay and help you.

"And stay he did and he soon owned the theatre.

Dreaded anaemia can be banished!

IN middle life, when vitality is not as great as it once was, and the blood stream is naturally thinned and devitalized, anaemia easily lays hold on the system. At first, just a tired feeling, it quickly results in bodily weakness that ordinary tonics cannot avail.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills then become a wonderful aid. They supply the necessary oxygen to the blood, increase the blood count and renew waning vigor.

"I was seized with anaemia," writes Mrs. Charles Lambert of Port Hope, Ont., "and was in a very bad state. As a girl I had taken Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for a run-down condition and decided to take them once more. Again the result was marvellous. In a little while I was fully well again."

You cannot begin too early to check anaemia. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold at your druggist's or by mail, postpaid, 50 cents, from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. 545

CANADA'S CIVIL AVIATION

Progress in Commercial Flying Since 1919—Air Mail Service

Civil aviation in Canada has become an important factor in the many phases of the business and community life of the Dominion. It is just ten years since civil aviation began in the Dominion, when, after experiments carried out by the Federal Government in forest fire protection, a commercial aviation company obtained a contract from the Quebec Provincial Government to patrol a large area of forest land in the St. Maurice valley for fire detection during the summer of 1919. Since this beginning progress has been steady and new developments in aircraft and methods of operation have aided greatly in the general advancement of this branch of flying.

Many uses have been found for aircraft which include forest fire detection and suppression; timber cruising; air photography; transportation of passengers, express and mail; instruction; advertising; sightseeing; and "joy-riding." Sixty-two organizations or individuals are now engaged in civil flying, including the Ontario Provincial Air Service, while twenty-one Light Aeroplane Clubs are in operation. There are 330 aircraft licensed for commercial use in the Dominion by the Department of National Defence, and 278 commercial pilots and 253 air engineers hold certificates. Fifty-three airports and seaplane ports are similarly licensed, while a large number of municipalities in every province are giving consideration to the construction of airports. Nine schools of flying are conducted and a large number of pupils are receiving instruction. In addition, there are twenty-two private owners of aircraft, and 221 licensed private owners.

Apart from the forest areas, which are patrolled during the season of fire hazard each year by Dominion Government and commercial operators, covering some 25,000,000 acres, perhaps the most important part being played by aircraft is in connection with mineral development in the northern parts of the Dominion. Commercial companies have been formed, and without assistance or subsidy from the Government, have successfully organized the northland with adequate fuel caches so that to-day every district is within flying range of a base. Flying in these regions is continuous throughout the year. The numerous lakes and rivers which abound everywhere in northern Canada provide suitable alighting places for float seaplanes in summer and the frozen surfaces provide good landing in winter. Cabin aircraft and air-cooled engines enable flying to continue under the most severe weather conditions. Hundreds of tons of equipment and freight have been transported, mails delivered, and mining properties, prospectors, and employees conveyed to and from the scenes of activity.

Another important phase of development is the carriage of mail by air, linking scattered communities and annihilating distance. Eighteen months ago mail was delivered to a few outlying districts under special arrangement between the Post Office Department and commercial operators. In December, 1927, the Postmaster General awarded the first contract for the carriage of mail between Leamington and Pelee Island, Ontario, for the period of closed navigation. Since then extensions of the air mail service have been made and in 1928 there was ten services in operation. This year further extensions are being made with the ultimate object of establishing a main trunk line from the Atlantic to the Pacific with feeder lines from other centres. The Department of National Defence plays an important part in the organization of these airways.

The services at present in operation under contracts with the Post Office Department are:—Winter: Leamington-Pelee Island, Quebec-Seven Islands-Anticosti, Moncton-Charlottetown, Moncton-Magdalen Islands. Summer: Rimouski-Montreal-Ottawa, Lac du Bonnet-Wadhope-Bissett. Yearly: Montreal-Toronto-Windsor-Detroit, Montreal-Albany, N.Y. Toronto-Buffalo, Winnipeg-Regina-Calgary-Banff-Regina-Edmonton, via Saskatoon, Sioux Lookout-Red Lake Area, Kissaking-The Pas.

During 1928, 316,631 pounds of mail were conveyed, of which 277,184 pounds were carried under Post Office contracts. For the first six months of this year 245,750 pounds have been carried by contractors. Certain routes operated throughout the year are being lighted and radio beacons will be erected by the Department of National Defence to enable the mail to be conveyed rapidly between the hours of darkness. Special services are run between Waterways and Simpson, on the Mackenzie River, with occasional trips to Good Hope on the Arctic circle, and from Whitehorse to Dawson, Yukon Territory. An experimental service was run over the route Ottawa-Montreal-St. John-Halifax, during last winter, with a view to hastening the trans-Atlantic mails throughout the year.

The Light Aeroplane Club movement, inaugurated in the autumn of 1927 by the Department of National Defence to encourage aviation, has shown splendid results. Twenty-one clubs are active and it is expected that three more clubs will receive the Government grant of two aircraft in the near future. These clubs have a membership of 4,248 of which 279 are solo pilots; and have to their credit a total of 5,975 hours in the air to date this year. One hundred and fifty-eight Private Pilot and forty-seven Commercial Pilot licenses have been obtained by members, besides stimulating public interest in flying, the clubs ensure good aerodromes wherever they are established, which is one of the urgent needs of to-day.

The construction of an airship base and airport at St. Hubert, near Montreal, followed the decision of the Dominion to participate in Empire air communications by airship. A mooring tower has been erected and equipped with the most efficient machinery obtainable for the reception of the British airship R-101, which is expected to make its first trans-Atlantic passage in the autumn this year. An aerodrome comprising 792 acres, is being constructed, which, when completed, will rank as one of the finest in the world. A number of commercial aviation companies use St. Hubert for passenger, freight, and mail services. It is the terminal for the International Air Services between Montreal and New York, and Montreal and Detroit. Radio and meteorological stations have been established, and facilities installed for broadcasting reports to operators over established routes.

The progress of civil aviation each year since 1925 is indicated by the following figures. They include commercial operators, the Ontario Provincial Air Service, and Light Aeroplane Clubs:—

Operating Firms	8	14	20	53

Eramus Wills' English Health Salts, (for stomach, kidney and liver), have enjoyed a tremendous sale in the old country for years. Their introduction into Canada not so long ago has met with exceptional success. Sold in 50c tins at Wallace's, Napanee Agents.

A man who had political ambitions having just delivered his first public speech of importance, asked a boosom friend what he thought of the effect. "Well, what you said was all right," said the friends; "but it seemed to me you did not make the most of your opportunities."

"My opportunities?"

Servant Girl: "Madam, master lies unconscious in the hall with a piece of paper in his hand and a large box alongside."

Mme. X (joyously): "Oh, my new hat has arrived."

Many of us would not mind a woman having the last word if she didn't make it last so long.

She (sarcastically): "I guess maybe you prefer the other type of woman who doesn't talk so much."

He: "What other type?"

WEDDING BELLS

Allison-Parks

The spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard T. Parks on Hay Bay was the scene of a charming wedding on Saturday evening at eight o'clock, when their youngest daughter, Marjorie Leone, was united in marriage to Frederick Hugh Allison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Allison, of Adolphustown. Rev. J. E. Beckel of the Bay Circuit officiated.

The drawing-room was beautifully decorated with gladioli and asparagus fern, in colors of yellow and green.

The bride who was given away in marriage by her father, looked lovely in a gown of maize georgette and carried a boquet of pink roses tied with mauve.

The wedding music was played by Miss Edith Allison. Following the ceremony a buffet lunch was served by a number of young friends of the bride.

Later the happy couple left for a boat trip to Montreal Quebec and the Saguenay. On their return they will reside in Adolphustown.

Any woman who has been married more than a couple of years knows that there are two sides to every question—the right side and her husband's.

NEW OIL-ELECTRIC ENGINE ENGINE DESCRIBED

Toronto, Aug. 28.—In a few modest sentences yesterday afternoon the most talked of men in the realm of world transportation described how the phenomenal new oil-electric engine produced by the Canadian National Railways received its birth.

Speaking at a directors' luncheon at the Canadian National Exhibition yesterday afternoon before an audience of civic representatives of many Eastern cities, technical experts and railwaymen, he assured his listeners there was no locomotive in the world like his own brain child officially known as number 9000.

Despite 9000's achievement yesterday when it made the most gruelling run on the National system and carrying a full load, demonstrated its superiority over the steam giant which preceded it from Montreal to Toronto, C. E. Brooks, Chief of Motive Power of the Canadian National Railways, inventor of number 9000, would only permit himself the statement that his department was leading up to a success. The only compliment he allowed himself and co-workers was in his closing remarks: "In the ventures as in other developement work it is our end to give you the very best transportation that can be given."

Revolutionize Methods

The remarks of Mr. Brooks, however, were preceded by the words of W. A. Kingsland, General Manager of the Central Region of the Canadian National Railways, "I think we will revolutionize transportation methods in North America."

In describing how the National system reached the decision to embark on its oil-electric venture as a motive power for both light and heavy work, he said that in this Central Region fuel was both costly and available at great distances. After travelling through England, Scotland, Germany and Sweden, he, accompanied by two other of the system's power experts found many oil engines. They were confined to marine work, however, and too big both in weight and dimension to permit of locomotive work. The party obtained its first real clue to the costly fuel problem, which they sought to remedy, in an oil engine experiment, then being developed by the British Air Ministry. It was made by William Beardmores, the Scottish engineer.

"That engine was the forefather of the one we have here," said Mr. Brooks. "We progressed from the first engine we brought over here in 1924 through to 1926 when we really developed the idea of taking the big step and building a real road locomotive." The only other engines approaching the number 9000 were much smaller ones, having but half the capacity of one of the two units used on number 9000.

In the two units of the new engine, he revealed, there was developed an energy of 3,000 horse power. Apart from the fuel economy, the new engine was able to use all its power all the time. This was the inherent advantage of electric transmission. All power generated could not be used in a steam locomotive until it was running at high speed.

His department's research had shown that four pounds of oil would produce power equal to seven pounds of gasoline. It has shown that the oil engine could get seven times the amount of work out of a unit of heat as out of a similar unit generated in the steam locomotive by use of coal.

Mr. Brooks said that some power was lost transferring the energy generated by the old engine into electricity for transmission, the reason the power did not go straight to the rails, he said, was that it was found impracticable and such a method had so far proven generally unreliable. Before closing his address, he paid high tribute to the assistance rendered the railway by the technical experts of the various concerns that had contributed in the manufacture of number 9000.

EARTH A POWER HOUSE.

Has Huge Amount of Electrical Energy That Man Cannot Harness.

The earth itself is a huge electric dynamo generating enough current to supply light, heat and other electrical needs to the ten largest cities in the United States for at least one million years, says a Science Service bulletin. Recent researches on thermal reactions inside the earth, conducted by Dr. Ross Gunn, civilian scientist of the Naval Research Laboratories, and inventor of a short wave oscillator and airplane altimeter that have been taken up by the radio and aircraft industries, indicates that the earth is the greatest known electrical wonder in the universe.

Dr. Gunn has published a theoretical treatise on his studies in the Physical Review. The intricate theoretical problem of the earth's electrical condition showed that the currents generated inside the earth, amount to more than 200,000,000 amperes. Dr. Gunn is careful to emphasize that this tremendous source of energy is unavailable for use by man. Like atomic energy, it will be kept in nature's storehouse for the use of the generations of perhaps a million years in the future, he says.

According to Dr. Gunn, the tremendous electrical currents that are produced inside the earth arise from the motions of the tiny electrical charges known as electrons. The motions are caused by the very high temperatures existing well inside the earth's crust.

Due to a peculiar and complicated type of interaction the electrons are caused to drift around the earth's axis of rotation. This drift of electrons constitutes an electric current which is so large that, if it were sent through the huge cables supporting Brooklyn Bridge, it would melt them in less than a thousandth of a second.

The presence of the currents that flow in the hot interior of the earth may be detected by anyone who cares to observe the action of a magnetic compass on the surface of the earth, says Dr. Gunn, for it is precisely these deep-seated electric currents that orient the compass needle in a north-south direction. He adds that it has been known for thousands of years that the earth behaved like a giant magnet, but the mechanism by which this magnetism was produced was not understood.

The study pursued by Dr. Gunn sheds much light on the manner in which the earth was originally formed. His work and known facts relating to the earth's magnetic field indicate that the earth was part of the sun or some other liquid star millions of years ago. When the earth was thrown off the sun, it came off in such a manner that the hemispheres now embraced by the continents was made up of relatively cool surface material having a mean temperature of perhaps 50,000 degrees while the hemisphere embraced by the Pacific Ocean came from deeper and much hotter layers.

This unsymmetrical temperature distribution of the earth's interior is said to account for the volcanic activity and earthquakes in the countries in and adjacent to the Pacific Ocean.

RIVAL FOR WHEAT FLOUR.

Scientist Succeeds In Making Flour From Soya Bean.

Will bread made from the flour of the Manchurian soya bean lead to the building up of an important new British industry?

The soya bean, known to have been grown in China as far back as 2,300 B.C., has played a prominent part in the poorer Chinese people's diet ever since. In England and Europe it has, so far, been used only for cattle food and the extraction of oil.

A Yiddish scientist, however, has succeeded in making from the soya bean a flour which, while retaining its nourishing qualities, does not go rancid. It is from this that soya bread will be made. Whether the new bread will find favor in this country remains to be seen. Brown bread has never been really popular, and broadly speaking soya bread has all the qualities of brown, but in color is creamy and tastes slightly of almonds. The bean is to be grown by British farmers. Mr. James L. North, curator of the Royal Botanic Society's Gardens, has succeeded in growing the bean in England.

New Role for Storks.

Airmen are amused by a story originating from Germany, that an experimenter working on the problems of motorless flight has tamed a number of storks and attached them by light lines to an engineless soaring machine, inducing the birds to tow him through the air. Supported by his gliding surfaces, and drawn through the air by his "team" of storks, the story is that he flew from the summit of a hill in Central Germany across some low marshland. Those who warn us not to touch at this tale declare that they cannot see any reason why, granted sufficient patience, birds should not be trained to draw through the air a light load supported by curved sustaining surfaces.

Paid In Fish Hooks.

An island on which an able-bodied young man is satisfied with five fish hooks for a day's work and an axe for a fortnight's work, is described in a Colonial report. This spot is Rennell Island, one of the least known of the Pacific Islands, which was recently the subject of a geological survey. The inhabitants of the island are estimated to number at least 700 and are still untouched by white influence. They are described as "abjectly poor" and practically vegetarians.

A Mile High Railway.

The Nebelhorn cable railway is over three miles in length and will be the longest suspension railway in the world. The longest span between two supporting pillars is about 2,200 feet. The Nebelhorn is 7,500 feet above sea-level, in the Bavarian Alps.

TONGUES WAGGING OVER 1930 CARS

Now that new car announcements, first contributions to the 1930 motor ballyhoo are making their effervescent appearances, the motorists' mind begins to explore the future. What he asks himself do these early 1930s forecast?

That question never has been an easy one. This year, it is much more difficult than usual. Yet there are numerous hints and rumors. From these, with a fairly close acquaintance with the history of those of whom they relate, the ever-busy prophet are making deductions.

A Long List

These include, at the moment, the following:

That there will be more straight eights in the price class that once was the stronghold of the six.

That no one would be surprised if one new V-eight made its appearance early in 1930.

That the talk of a 12-cylinder car being so voluminous, there must be some truth it it. It is an absolute certainty and is coming from the plant of one of the finest big car makers of the moment, some insist.

That, while it is unlikely that there will be an immediate rush in that direction, the two-front-drive cars of the moment may be supplemented by one or two more early next year.

Improve The Chassis

That the chassis rather than the body, is going to be the object of the designer's greatest attention in many laboratories new experimenting with 1930 products.

That silence will be further enhanced through the more advanced use of rubber in various parts of the chassis.

That specialists seeking valiantly and vigorously to produce improved braking systems may see their efforts climaxed by comparatively early success.

That the engine, already the most highly developed part of the car, is slated to stand pretty much as it is while other features are brought proportionally to the same high level of engineering.

That down-draught carburation, considerably improved over its first forms, may be more generally employed.

That the differential will get attention designed to silence the gears through different tooth shape and to improve lubrication.

Easier Steering

The steering will be the object of further research with a view to reducing wheel fight and wheel wobble.

That double breaker distributors will be more widely adopted to increase the efficiency of the ignition system which must be efficient in these days of high speed, high compression engines.

That the front axle to which no end of research has been devoted lately will cause fewer complications to driving ease.

The front-wheel alignment will be less of a problem by the time the 1930s appear en masse.

That sloping windshields will be more generally used as an antidote to light glare.

Very busy individuals, these prophets. The list of prophecies, long as it is, does not include everything that is likely to happen between the introduction of the first 1930 cars and the coming of the larger group, as always, in January.

With regard to the trend toward larger engines, that is, engines of eight and even twelve cylinders where sizes and eights previously bloomed, the constant trend toward refinement in the last four or five years has given smaller engines, in less expensive cars greatly improved performance. To give still better performance many believe, it will still pay to step into the multi-cylinder field.

1929 Cars Pretty Good

Of the other prophecies most of which deal with the refinement of 1929 refinements, that which declares greater engineering attention will be focused upon the chassis is among the most interesting. Heretofore it is pointed out, such chassis units as have been markedly improved owe their progress to parts makers in a very large degree. The manufacturer has been exceptionally busy with engine development and body design.

Now, it is pointed out, he is satisfied with the former and not especially desirous of doing anything more with the latter. So, he is directing his attention to such features as brakes, steering, spring suspension, the elimination of vibration, the further development of silence, improved chassis lubrication, shock absorption and the like.

GATINEAU RIVER NAMED AFTER EARLY TRADER

When Champlain in his ascent of the Ottawa river in 1613 reached what is now the site of the capital of the Dominion on June 4th, he noticed a tributary coming from the north. This river was called Gatineau. Champlain gave to it and also to a township through which it flows the name of Gregoire. Historians of Canada agree that the first navigator of any name to ascend the river Gatineau was Champlain in 1613. In the year Lieut. David Jones made a survey to Governor Haldimand of the Province of Canada. Jones made a report on the Ottawa and United Empire Loyalist settlements, this he made in coming from the mouth of the Lettrace river to Shaubenaw. The latter is about a mile above the River Lievre Falls. At "River Lievre" Jones is said "supposed to be good mill seats" on the upper Ottawa River. Back full of numbers."

The river is also shown by name on many maps in the Geographic Branch collection till 1820. A map of the Rideau canal by Col By in 1826 shows "Gatineau River" as a small stream.

The name seems to commemorate Nicols Gatineau of Gatineau Point on the Rivers who engaged in the fur trade from 1650 till his death about 1680. Gatineau and his sons after him became associated with the Algonquins of the Maurice river. Whether his name was applied to the river which now bears it because he descended the river whose source is near that of the Maurice, or because the trade of the Indians on the portages with Ottawa is a matter of surmise.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Some years ago when horses and buggies were the best means of locomotion, a young man and his sweetheart drove into Westmount to spend the evening. They stopped their horse near a popcorn vending machine and the odors were unusually tantalizing.

"Gee, that smells good, don't it?" said the young woman.

"It sure does," said the bashful and stingy lover. "I believe I'll drive up a little closer."

Many have been relieved of corn by Halloway's Corn Remover. It has a power of its own that will be found effective.

To have the children sound and healthy is the first care of a mother. They cannot be healthy if troubled with worms. Use Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator.

A sensational murder case was nearing its close, and in rebuttal the prosecution had called a famous mental alienist.

"Now, doctor," demanded counsel for defence, "how do you account for the fact that Dr. Gurk who preceded you, testified the defendant is as crazy as a crazy quilt?"

The noted "specialist considered. Then the obvious answer came.

"Why," he said, "why, he's crazy, too!"

A Corrector of Pulmonary Troubles.—Many testimonials could be presented showing the great efficacy of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in correcting disorders of the respiratory processes, but the best testimonial is experience and the Oil is recommended to all who suffer from these disorders with the certainty that they will find relief. It will allay inflammation in the bronchial tubes.

Two Irish doughboys were in a mopping up party which was following the assault lines. In a large shell hole they found 10 Germans sound asleep from exhaustion of battle, who had apparently been passed over by the front line troops.

"Shall we shoot 'em or bayonet 'em?" asked Mike.

"Aw, no," said Pat, "let's wake 'em up and have a fight."

It Has Many Qualities.—The man who possesses a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is armed against many ills. It will relieve a cough, break a cold, prevent sore throat; it will reduce the swelling from a sprain, relieve the most persistent sores and will speedily heal cuts and contusions. It is a medicine chest in itself.

There is nothing repulsive in Miller's Worm Powders, and they are as pleasant to take as sugar, so that few children will refuse them. In some cases they cause vomiting through their action in an unsound stomach but this is only a manifestation of their cleansing power, not an indication that they are hurtful. They can be thoroughly depended upon to clear worms from the system.

Mrs. Wooley excitedly entered her lawyer's office. "Have you filed my application for a divorce yet?" she asked.

"No, madam," replied the lawyer, "but I am at work on the papers now."

"Thank goodness, I am not too late. Destroy all papers and evidence at once, please."

"A reconciliation has been brought about between you and your husband, I infer?"

Her father brought home to dinner an earnest young man with a very pale face. He had a miserable voice, like a broken foghorn and when he lifted his watery eyes to the ceiling and said:

"Every man should have a mission in life," she asked—

"What is yours?"

"The saving of young men,' said he lugubriously.

"Er, do save a nice one for me!" said she.

A party of clergymen were attending a Presbyterian conference in Scotland. Several of them set off to explore the district.

Presently they came to a river spanned by a temporary bridge. Not observing a notice tha the bridge was unsafe, they started to cross it. The bridge-keeper ran after them in protest.

"It's all right," declared the spokesman, not understanding the reason for the old man's haste: "we're Presbyterians from the Conference."

"I'm no' carin' about that," was the reply, 'but if ye dinna get off the bridge you'll all be Baptists!'

STEADY FLOW OF MOTOR TOURISTS TO PARKS

Notwithstanding a late opening due to the backward spring season, tourist travel to Canada's national parks in the record figures of last year. Reports covering the early part of the season from Banff, Kootenay, Yoho, and Waterton Lakes parks show great activity in all these scenic playgrounds and a brisk motor traffic. It is estimated in the National Parks of Canada Branch of the Department of the Interior that approximately 36,000 tourist cars entered these four parks during the period up to July 15th. The late departure of the snow from the high passes particularly in Kootney park slightly lessened the flow of motorists through the western entrance to the Triangle motor tour through Banff, Kootenay, and Yoho parks but the number of cars entering by the Kananaskis or eastern gateway was heavy. During the first two weeks in July, 5,143 cars were admitted at the Kananaskis entrance. The popularity of Waterton Lakes with the motoring public has not diminished and a heavy flow of motor tourists to the southern Alberta playground is indicate by the early figures from that park.

Registrations at the Banff Springs hotel in Banff park, at the Prince of Wales hotel in Waterton Lakes park and at Jasper Lodge in Jasper park, show that many visitors are also travelling by rail to the parks in the Rockies. The numerous recreational attractionse of these areas are drawing increasing numbers. Golf, bathing in the hot springs, trail riding, and mountain climbing all, have their thousands of devotees and the activity in these different pastimes indicates a busy tourist season in Canada's national playgrounds.

CLOTHES MOTHS

Clothes moths cause much damage to materials of animal origin, such as woollens, furs, hair, feathers, etc., and their ravages to articles of clothing, upholstered furniture, piano felts, carpets, etc., are familiar to most housewives. Damage by clothes moths is caused by the fooding activities of the caterpillars of this insect, which are the young of the small winged moths that may be seen at times flying about the house. In a treatise on "Household Insects and Their Control," by the Dominion Entomologist and a member of his staff, it is stated that there are two species of the clothes moth known as the webbing clothes moth and the case making variety. The adults of both species are small, having a wing spread of one-half inch or less. They are similar in general appearance and habits but differ slightly in color, the webbing species being entirely pale buff, and the case making species grayish-yellow with inconspicuous dark spots on the forewings. These insects are most active during the spring and summer months. This publication, Bulletin No. 112, of the Department of Agriculture, at Ottawa, describes fully the habits of these and many other household insects.

It is recommended for preventing damage to clothing to avoid leaving such articles as are likely to be attacked undisturbed for long perods, particularly during the summer months in such places as cupboards, trunks, attics, etc. Such articles, after being thoroughly brushed and beaten, preferably in strong sunlight, should be placed in well-made trunks or chests with tightly fitting lids, or enclosed in cotton or paper bags or in cardboard boxes sealed with paper strips. Wrapping clothing in two thicknesses of strong paper, taking care to see that the edges are turned so that no moths may gain entrance, is also recommended by the authors of this bulletin as an alternative measure. A good repellant of the clothes moth is fresh naphthalene flakes scattered among the garments when they are put away. Clear instructions are also given in the bulletin for protecting piano felting, upholstered furniture and other goods liable to be damaged. Issued by the Director of Publicity, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

WILTON W. M. S.

(For last week.)

The regular monthly meeting of the Wilton Women's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. W. H. Mills with a large attendance. Mrs. B. Mills and Miss Keitha Babcock were in charge of the program, over which Miss Keitha Babcock presided.

The meeting was opened by singing Hymn 216, after which prayer was offered by Mrs. B. Mills. The scripture lesson was taken by Mrs. J. E. Milller. The roll call was answered by a scripture passage containing the key-word, faith.

The business was presided over by our president, Mrs. A. W. Babcock. Reports from the secretary, treasurer, and stranger's secretaries were then received which proved very efficient. A letter had been received from the Moscow ladies from which we learned that they had accepted our invitation to come and give us their drama, entitled, "Two Masters." Further plans were then made for the annual W.M.S. Sunday service during our parter's absence while on his holidays.

The program consisted of three excellent reading dealing with Dr. Gunn's travels in the old land. The meeting was brought to a close with prayer offered by Mrs. George I. Perry of Camden East. We were all very glad to have Mrs. Perry with us.

Delicious refreshments were then served by the hostess and all enjoyed the social half hour which followed.

(For this week.)

The monthly meeting of the Wilton Women's Missionary Society will be held at the home of Mrs. A. W. Babcock on Friday, August 30th, with a good attendance.

The program was in charge of Mrs. S. Cain and Mrs. O. Henderson, Mrs. Henderson presiding. The meeting was opened by the singing of Hymn, "For the Beauty of the Earth," after which the Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison, led by Mrs. Cole. The scripture lesson was taken from Psalm 103. The president then took charge of the business. Reports from the various secretaries and treasurers were read and adopted.

The program consisted of five very fine readings given by Misses Marian Miller, Gladys Wallace, Ida McPherson, Eleanor Emberley and Nellie McPherson, respectively. Misses Gladys Wallace and Marian Miller also favored us with a piano duet.

The much enjoyed program was brought to a close by all using and repeating together the Mizpah.

Lunch was served by the hostess and all enjoyed the social half hour which followed.

THE LATE W. J. PAUL, EX-M.P.

The funeral of the late Mr. W. J. Paul, ex-M. P., who died in Ottawa on Sunday night, September 1st, took place from his late residence at Tamworth on Wednesday afternoon, September 4th. It was very largely attended by his old friends from all walks of life, and was a striking tribute to one who was raised and lived amongst them and upon whom in life they had bestowed their greatest honors by electing him reeve, county councillor, commissioner, member of the Provincial Legislature at Toronto and member of the Dominion Parliament at Ottawa from whence he retired some time ago on account of ill health.

The late Mr. Paul was born in Camden Township on the 9th of July, 1854 and was the son of the late Robert Paul and the late Mary Stewart, both of Scottish decent. He attended the public school in the township of Sheffield having had as one of his teachers the late Chas. Jas. Tetley, of Croydon, who was one of the grand old teachers of the part of Ontario. Subsequently he attended Napanee High School for a number of years and also as a centre manuitenarist.

The sermon was preached by the Rev. Mr. Beckstead, minister of the United Church at Tamworth, and who had associated with him the Rev. Mr. Hodgson, minister of the Church of England, at Tamworth. Due to the illness of Rev. Mr. Ballantyne, a former minister of the Presbyterian Church at Tamworth and a close personal friend of the late Mr. Paul it was impossible for him to be present to address himself with the Rev. Mr. Beckstead and Mr. Hodgson. The words were greatly appreciated. The choir under the direction of Mrs. Leonard Sale rendered as an anthem

Council Chamber,
September 3rd, 1929.

Present—Reeve Tustin and Councillors Wiseman, Loucks, Daly, Fitzpatrick, Ungar and Paul.

A communication was read from A. E. Wilson & Co., Limited, in reference to claim made by F. W. Barrett against the town for damage to his auto. Also enclosing claim form to fill up.

Referred to the Finance Committee to investigate, with power to act.

Mr. Owen Harity, Chairman of the Chamber of Commerce and Industrial Commission of the City of Belleville, also secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Central Power Association addressed the Council in reference to the question of the Town of Napanee taking over the system for distributing electricity within the town.

The principal object of his visit was to endeavor to have the machinery set in motion for the taking of a vote of the ratepayers on this question.

Napanee is one of twelve municipalities within the Central Ontario division who do not at present control the local distribution of power within their own municipality. The people of Deseronto and Brighton are practically unanimous in having a vote taken on this same question at the January elections.

The Ontario Government and the Hydro Electric Commission would like to have this situation cleared up. The vote in Oshawa was about ten to one, and in Belleville four to one in favor.

The local distributing system had cost the government about $90,000. Napanee's share of the reserve fund would be about $22,000; thus the local distributing system would cost the town around $69,000.

The Hydro Electric Commission would look after the question of the financing, and there would be nothing added to the local taxes.

Last year the local operating profits were nearly $16,000 per annum, and if the local distributing system was bought this money would be kept at home, and could be used to retire the cost of the system in about five years. Or the above mentioned profit could be used to reduce the cost of electricity to the local consumer.

Mr. Harity advised the council to get this movement under way as quickly as possible in order that a vote could be taken at an early date.

Some may ask the question, "Why does the Hydro Electric Commission want to get rid of the local distributing system?"

The answer is that the mission of the Hydro Commission is the wholesaling of electricity. From its inception the Hydro has not been a money-making concern, but strive to give the people electricity at cost.

The profits from the local distribution of electricity would probably increase from year to year, and thus it would make it easier for the town to pay off the cost of the same in a few years.

On motion the Clerk was instructed to writ the Hydro Commission for the financial standing the the local utility, and also to ask for forms of agreement which are necessary in case of sale.

Coun. Daly, "Chairman of the Finance Committee, presented the monthly financial report of the town treasurer, which on motion was received and adopted.

1 That Mr. A. E. Cook, Night Constable, receive an increase in salary of $200. per annum, and that all fees earned be turned over to the town.

2 The he report for duty at 8 o'clock each evening, except Saturday, when he shall come on duty at 7 p.m.

3 That Night Constable Cook take over the police duties one Sunday in four, and that Chief Watts take one evening till midnight every four weeks.

4 That Chief Constable make a report to council monthly.

5 That a sum not exceeding $50. be at the disposal of the Chief Constable on O.K. of chairman of Police Committee, for contingent expenses.

Report received and adopted.

Referred to the Town Solicitor to get his advice on the matter.

Mr. A. MacGregor appeared before the council and asked that the council purchase a slide trombone for a new member of the band. At present the towns owns all the band instruments and this would be a new acquisition to those no owned.

Referred to the Finance Committee to investigate and report.

Mayor Howitt reported that December 4th was the date fixed for the radio broadcast program advertising the Town of Napanee. The committee were busy preparing an appropriate program and hoped to provide something that will be profitable and creditable to the town.

Accounts

The following accounts were ordered paid:

McIntosh Bros.	$ 1.00
Wallace's Drug Store	5.80

An account from P. Gleeson, $150.00, was referred to the Finance Committee; also the usual Bell Telephone accounts were referred to the Town Clerk with power to act.

Mayor Howitt reported that a committee had taken up the question of the early blasting noises at the Raynor Construction Co.'s works on Roblin Hill; also unnecessary noises at the Farmer's Dairy plant. They had been cordially received by the management of both concerns and remedial remedies promised.

On motion letters of appreciation will be forwarded to the Raynor Construction Co., and W. G. Cowle, manager of the Farmer's Dairy.

The council considered the question of the appointing of a town magistrate. Under the present system a certain amount of fees are sent to the Ontario Government, and it was pointed out that at a small salary, enough of these fees would be left to be a profitable investment for the town.

A PLA-BUK.

Like a Dolphin, Scaleless, With a Hide an Inch Thick.

A giant fresh water fish, about the size of a cow and its capture is described in the Bangkok Daily Mail. "Pla-buk" is the Siamese name of the creature described as much like a dolphin, scaleless with a hide an inch thick, and edible flesh. The eggs are a rare delicacy in Bangkok, but unfortunately often imitated.

The capture of the fish, according to the correspondent, is no mean affair, involving practically the entire population of Chiensaan on the bank of the Pekong river. Two by two the great creatures fight they way upstream in springtime from the fresh water lakes of Cambodia to spawn, cleaving the water behind them similar to the wake of a motor-boat.

When the fish are sighted, nets, sewed together, are cast across the river. Barges holding the net lines move into position. The enormous fish —there may be one or two—strike against the nets, the barges yield to the impact, and the lead fisherman twists the net about the fish. There follows a primitive tug-of-war, in which the fish pulls most of the population upstream until tired, and then the fishermen row back downstream and cast the fish unceremoniously up on the shore. The day's work is cooperative, the correspondent states, and if the fish are sold the money is divided.

STANDARD DIET FOR WORKERS.

Proved to Be a Success in Ehime Prefecture.

Introduction of a standardized diet among residents of a factory dormitory in Ehime prefecture, Japan, has proved such a success that it is likely that the plan will be adopted in a large number of similar establishments. Under the supervision of the Government Institute for Research of Nutritious foods experiments were carried on as to the best methods of gaining a maximum of efficiency out of common Japanese foods.

The great trouble in the menus provided by the factory, the women operatives being obliged to live in the dormitories, was that there was too much rice and not enough other food. The introduction of a slight amount of meat in the diet was found to be beneficial as well as making for a great increase in the amount of work. By this method the amount of rice eaten was cut about half. The rice cooked food supplied at the factory cost 10 cents per employe per day under the old system. While since the change in diet the cost is about 14 cents per person.

VILLIAN OF SEA TALES

Octopus figure as the villians in the villians in many a sea story, but they also figure in the more prosaic statistics of the Canadian fishery. Reports of the Fisheries Branch of the Department of Marine and Fisheries show that a number of octopus are caught annualy on the Pacific Coast; for instance, the catch totalled 357 hundredweight in 1928. Some of these fish are eaten by Orientals, the others are used for bait.

Under the supervision of the Government Institute for Research of Nutrition, foods experiments were carried on as to the best methods of gaining a maximum of efficiency out of common Japanese foods.

The great trouble in the menus provided by the factory, the women operatives being obliged to live in the dormitories, was that there was too much rice and not enough other food. The introduction of a slight amount of meat in the diet was found to be beneficial as well as making for a great increase in the amount of work. By this method the amount of rice eaten was cut about half. The uncooked food supplied at the factory cost 10 cents per employe per day under the old system while since the change in diet the cost is about 14 cents per person.

tee: also the usual Bell Telephone accounts were referred to the Town Clerk with power to act.

Mayor Howitt reported that a committee had taken up the question of the early blasting noises at the Raynor Construction Co.'s works on Robbin Hill; also unnecessary noises at the Farmer's Dairy plant. They had been cordially received by the management of both concerns and remedial remedies promised.

On motion letters of appreciation will be forwarded to the Raynor Construction Co., and W. G. Cowle, manager of the Farmers' Dairy.

The council considered the question of the appointing of a town magistrate. Under the present system a certain amount of fees are sent to the Ontario Government, and it was pointed out that at a small salary, enough of these fees would be left to make it a profitable investment for the town.

VILLIAN OF SEA TALES

Octopus figure as the villians in the villians in many a sea story, but they also figure in the more prosaic statistics of the Canadian fishery. Reports of the Fisheries Branch of the Department of Marine and Fisheries show that a number of octopus are caught annually on the Pacific Coast; for instance, the catch totalled 357 hundredweight in 1928. Some of these fish are eaten by Orientals, the others are used for bait.

TALES OF LUCKY BUYERS OF FINE WORKS OF ART

Tales of treasure trove have a fascination for most human beings. We have stories of rich finds, of good fortune at gaming tables or on the turf, of lucky or successful speculators or profitable transactions. Perhaps a secret hope lurks in the minds of many men and women that chance will one day smile on them and raise them to unexpected affluence and the accounts of the winnings or profits of others flatter that hope. Whatever the reason, an announcement that some individual has attained wealth by the discovery of a valuable deposit of mineral, or has, through some happy accident, secured for a song a masterpiece of art worth a fortune, is of interest to many people.

Bought a Monat for $11.50

A few weeks ago, an art dealer, Otto Klein by name, strolled into a pawnbroker's shop in Vienna while an auction sale was in progress. He took a fancy to a crayon drawing of a woman resting on a sofa, bid $11.50 for it and gained possession of it for that price. An hour later, it was reported, he was offered $1,200 for the picture and declined to sell at that figure. He was not tempted by the profit he then had an opportunity to make because the picture he had acquired for $11.50 was Claude Monat's "A Lady on a Sofa." The account of Mr. Klein's purchase has led a writer in the New York Sunday Times to recall some other cases in which shrewd, discerning or merely lucky persons have bought valuable works of art cheaply. Not long ago, according to this writer, a dealer attended an auction sale of the goods of a Dortmund family, who were moving from Germany to Holland. He bid $5 for a faded portrait because he wanted its frame. He congratulated himself upon obtaining a fine old frame at so small a cost and sold the picture itself to a dealer in antiques. The latter had the accumulated dust and several coats of varnish removed from the painting and found he had a portrait of Henry IV. of France, adjudged by connoisseurs to be the work of Rubens.

Mr. I. I. Sheimburg is also credited with having bought a Rubens cheaply for a small private gallery in New York. He attended a sale of pictures collected by Dr. George R. Ruelling, Baltimore. A painting, 10 inches by 14 1-2 inches, depicting the Holy Family, was put up for auction. It had the appearance of great age and was ticketed "by Rubens." The majority of dealers and experts present at the sale, evidently questioned the truth of the label that attributed the painting to Rubens. Mr. Sheimberg bought the picture for $110. He had it cleaned and submitted the problem of its authorship to experts. He received from Dr. G. Frank Muller, a well-known authority, a statement upholding the opinion that the painting is a Rubens and saying, "It is not a copy or a replica, but an original production from the Master's studio, and the figures of the Virgin and the Christ child I consider from the Master's own hand."

Cost $200: Worth $25,000

Mr. Karl Loevenich, when he exhibited the picture entitled "Arab Dealer among his Antiques," said to be a masterpiece by Charles Bargue, told how he discovered it. He was looking through the stock in a shop in New York when he chanced upon what the owner believed to be a "decorated lithograph." When Mr. Loevenich picked it up the owner said, "don't bother about that. It's something I got stung with."

"Let me see it," replied Mr. Loevenich. "I like to be stung. What do you want for it?"

The owner asked $200 for the painting. Mr. Loevenich purchased it for that price. When the picture was exhibited in New York three years ago, it was valued at 25,000.

Art dealers are more likely than other classes of people to get such bargains. They have more opportunities than most other people to learn of pictures that are for sale, and, if they are experienced in their business, they are in a better position than most other people to estimate the possible worth of a painting by an unknown artist. While that is so, Mr. Tom Perry, an upholsterer in Harlesden, near London, England, was fortunate enough to pick up a bargain, a few years ago. A stranger walked into his shop and showed him a picture of a woman kneeling by the side of a sleeping figure. Perry was pleased with the beauty of the picture and still more pleased by the frame. He bought the painting for £50. Mrs. Perry, it is said, was by no means pleased when she heard of the purchase but when she saw it she decided that the frame was worth the price. She hung the painting in her home. Later, Perry took it to the left of his warehouse lest the frame should be injured. Months elapsed and Perry did not succeed in selling the frame. Then an art dealer called and asked to see the painting. He offered £200 for it. Perry said afterward that he would have sold the picture then had the dealer offered £75 or £100 for it. He did not sell it then. Other dealers made offers for it and finally, a year ago, Perry sold it for £21,000. It is now known to be Tintoretto's "Diana and Endymion," and is valued at $150,000.

Such Bargains Are Few

Of course, opportunities to procure such bargains do not present themselves often or to many persons. The number of authentic works of great artists likely to be found in the possession of owners who do not know their value cannot be very large. When such works are discovered, they are added to the collections of wealthy connoisseurs and large public galleries, and, thenceforth, they do not change hands for trifling sums of money. Thus, the supply of genuine works of old masters of the art of painting on the bargain counter is small and tends to become smaller. The fact itself adds interest to the news that some lucky individual has been able to acquire a really valuable masterpiece cheaply.

A man will follow a little white ball around all day, and a little pink face all the evening, but he gets very angry if he has to chase his hat twenty yards.

GREATEST EXPOSITION

Empire Year at the Canadian National Exhibition Is to Be the Most Wonderful of All.

The fifty-first anniversary of the Canadian National Exhibition will be a vivid, triumphal two-weeks' celebration of Empire Year, according to a circular issued by the management. In order to realize the magnitude of this Exhibition one must pay it a visit.

There are unusual displays from far-flung corners of the globe at the big Fair. Distant sections of South Africa, the Gold Coast and the West Indies, as well as the British Isles themselves, are among them. Some are from areas scarcely known to the average man, far off the regular tourist routes. Many foreign countries are represented and, of course, the romantic and unusual aspects of the Dominion itself—the prairies; the north of the hunter, trapper and fur trader; the new mining areas recently the scenes of spectacular gold rushes. Coupled with this is all the traditionally pageantry of Empire—a brilliant picture in which the glamor of the past is blended with the splendor of the present in spectacle, presentation and superb display.

A tour of Exhibition City is a world tour in miniature. There are scores of displays from every clime. The million-dollar Automotive Building is the finest of its type anywhere. Similarly, the Engineering and Electrical Building has no equal for the exhibits of these two great industries.

The Coliseum and Live Stock Pavilion, the world's largest show building (16 ½ acres under one roof), houses the greatest of agricultural exhibits. In the central arena, there is seating capacity for 12,000 people.

There is the National Aircraft Show, the beautiful Province of Ontario Building, the Manufacturers' Buildings, the Pure Food Building which is a model city in itself, the Process Building and an entire edifice devoted to women's work.

For clean, wholesome amusement, there is the Midway, which in its variety and magnitude dwarfs even the biggest of fairs.

The Goldman Band will also accompany the celebrated Exhibition Chorus of 2,000 voices in a series of Coliseum concerts. Outstanding artists, under the baton of A. P. Thayiu, will present open-air operas.

The $50,000 Wrigley Marathon swim (fourth of these great sport classics) will be staged in two races —one for women and the other for men.

International outboard motor races will be a daily feature.

The Lake Yacht Racing Association regatta and the $5,000 Trenting Futurities, as well as a track meet of Olympic proportions are other sport features.

A carnival of the clouds will be the outstanding item in an elaborate program of aerial displays.

PETROL FROM COAL

Definite Increase In Pulling Power, Says an Expert.

Coal petrol can now be obtained from wayside pumps by motorists passing through the Barnsley district of South Yorkshire, but elsewhere this particular fuel is not yet on sale writes the London correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor.

The low temperature carbonization of coal has for some time been arousing great interest, as it is claimed that on it depends, to a great extent, the re-establishment of the British coal industry. Motorists have been led to expect before long a plentiful supply of home-produced fuel, free from tax, as cheap as the best petrol and giving better results.

The Automobile recently published the report of a test carried out by one of its experts, Donald H. Smith, with coal petrol. Having the spirit, drawn from a sample drum of 50 gallons in various popular cars, Mr. Smith said: "I noticed a definite increase in pulling power in every case. Each car was capable of climbing farther up a given hill on top gear than with ordinary petrol, nor was it possible to produce gradients beyond the normal top gear range of the various vehicles."

In conclusion, Mr. Smith says: "It is a fine thing to see coal, our national wealth, used so that there is not a single bit of waste. And what a change it will make to our northern towns when all the smoke and soot has been turned into motor fuel."

Maple Sugar and Syrup.

The value of the maple sugar and syrup production of Canada in 1928 is estimated by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics at $6,118,656, as compared with $5,584,588 in 1926 and $4,924,811 in 1927. Quebec is the leading province in this field, production being valued at $4,767,377. The value of maple products in Ontario fell from $1,888,622 in 1928 to $1,257,334 in 1929. The estimated production of maple sugar in 1929 was 11,698,926 pounds, of the value of $2,163,829, as compared with 13,796,109 pounds valued at $2,369,686 in 1928, and 9,831,697 pounds valued at $1,366,048 in 1927.

NINETIETH BIRTHDAY

A happy little party of about sixty gathered at the home of George Anderson, Hawley in honor of his mother, Mrs. Thomas Anderson's, ninetieth birthday, September 3rd. Friends from Odessa, Newburgh, Picton, Belleville, and Napanee were there extending to her congratulations, presenting magnificent flowers and small gifts as a token of love. Mrs. Anderson was honored greatly by having her two sisters, Mrs. Fralick, from Odessa; Mrs. Chambers, of Napanee; also four brothers, Geo. Parks, of Picton; Odell, Archie, and Thomas Parks, of Napanee, all of whom were over seventy years of age. Her only children, three sons, their wives and her granddaughter, Jean, were present. At high noon a bountiful dinner was served. The mammoth birthday cake so prettily decorated and provided by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Geo. Anderson, was cut to serve the many guests by Dr. Stratton, of Napanee. After dinner the happy party entertained themselves by playing games on the spacious lawn.

Gramophone and Piano music, with choruses, quartettes and solos, all were cheerfully rendered. Two solos were at time songs, sung by her two brothers, George and Archie Parks.

The guests were glad to call themselves to order and listen to an address read by her eldest son, P. M. Anderson: "Dear Mother,—We your sons extend our congratulations to you on this your ninetieth anniversary of your birth. We sincerely thank Providence for your prolonged life among us. We fully realize you have been a kind and a loving mother, always attentive to our every need. You tenderly cared for us in our infancy and have always been ready to council with us in times of temptations and difficulties all through the years that have past and most of all we admire you for your never failing faith in the One who is our strength and our shield. We commend you to the care of our Loving Heavenly Father, who is always ready and willing to comfort his children and may your life be spared for a greater number of years. Dear mother we ask you to please accept this little gift (purse of gold) as a token of the high esteem in which we hold you, the one we love, who has ever been so faithful, kind and true to us." Signed by her sons, P. M. Anderson, G. D. Anderson, D. A. Anderson.

Do your children require a laxative? If you have not yet tried Rexal Orderlies, so mild and pleasant to take you have still to try the most satisfactory laxative yet discovered—Fine for adults too. 25c and 50c boxes, at Wallace's.

In loving memory of our dear Dorothy, who died September 11th, 1927.
In her innocence and beauty,

With hearts both crushed and sore;
Yet through the gloom the sweet words come,

NINETIETH BIRTHDAY

A happy little party of about sixty gathered at the home of George Anderson, Hawley in honor of his mother, Mrs. Thomas Anderson's, ninetieth birthday, September 3rd. Friends from Odessa, Newburgh, Picton, Belleville, and Napanee were there extending to her congratulations, presenting magnificent flowers and small gifts as a token of love. Mrs. Anderson was honored greatly by having her two sisters, Mrs. Fralick, from Odessa; Mrs. Chambers, of Napanee; also four brothers, Geo. Anderson: "Dear Mother,—We your sons extend our congratulations to you on this your ninetieth anniversary of your birth. We sincerely thank Providence for your prolonged life among us. Two farmers met on the road and pulled up.

"Si, I've got a mule with distemper. What'd ye give that one of yours when he had it?"

"Turpentine. Giddap."

A week later they met again.

"Say Si, I gave my mule turpentine and it killed him."

"Killed mine, too. Giddap."

The worms that infest children from their birth are of two kinds; those that find lodgement in the stomach and those that are found in the intestines. The latter are the most destructive, as they cling to the walls of the intestines and if not interferred with work havoc there. Miller's Worm Powders dislodge both kinds and while expelling them from the system serve to repair the damage they have caused.

JILTS CONDEMNED TO LIFE CELIBACY

Fresh from the wilds of the primitive tribal hills of Albania, Rosita Forbes, the famous woman explorer, found herself, in the striking contrast of a London bent on holiday-making on August bank holiday among every luxury of modern civilization.

"It seems strange to mix with the well-dressed, conventional people of London after the queer society which I have just left," she said to a Sunday Chronicle representatives at her West End home.

Bethrothed Before Birth

"The strangest of all the people I met in the Balkans were the Albanian virgins. These are women who, according to the customs of the hill tribes, have been betrothed before they were born. On reaching marriageable age—13 or 14—they rejected their selected fiances and have been punished by being sentenced to perpetual virginity.

"The first one I met gave me one of the biggest surprises of my life," said Miss Forbes. "As I approached a mountain dwelling I saw standing precariously on a rock what I took to be a man.

"He was dressed in the usual male garb of the hills. He wore a white cotton shirt and baggy white cotton trousers, with a red sash at the waist. On his feet were rough sandals, and he wore also a cartridge belt and carried a rifle.

A Terrific Yell

"Suddenly he threw back his head, opened wide his mouth, and let out such a terrific yell that the veins and muscles of his neck stood out like iron bands.

"It was the signal that guests were arriving, and a very necessary signal too. For in this land affrays are common, but it is the code of the hills that a shot shall never be fired in the presence of a woman or a guest.

"When I remarked on the violence of the yell, which must have carried a mile or more. I was astonished when my host told me that the cries was not a man at all, but a woman—one of the Albanian virgins.

"I learnt," said Miss Forbes, "that when these betrothed girls rejected their fiance they were immediately ordered to dress and live as men. They eat as men, drink as men, sleep as men. They have also to learn to shoot and fight as men, and are expected to take part in the blood feuds and when necessary kill as men.

"The one thing that is barred to them is love-making. Should it be found that an Albanian virgin has been carrying on an intrigue with a man, the man to whom she was betrothed is in honor bound expected to kill him, and usually does."

Engaged For Life

"The sense of personal honour among the hill tribes," Rosita Forbes explained, "is extraordinarily high, and although she will not marry, an Albanian virgin is still regarded as the lawful fiancee of a man to whom she is engaged.

"In a sense the virgins have much for which to be thankful. Living as men they enjoy many advantages and privileges. It is the women who do most of the work, even tolling in the fields.

"The Albanians make the ideal hosts. According to one of their quaint greetings a guest possesses their bread, their salt, and their hearts.'

"My host in the hills," said Rosita Forbes, "slept armed with knife and rifle across the threshold of my room.

Honor Avenged

"In the event of a guest being killed," she added, "the host must avenge his honor by taking five lives, that of the murderer and four of his tribe.

"The Albanians are the most kindly and courteous of people. They have a tremendous regard for the English. No one could do too much for me.

"I met King Zogi of Albania. He is a charming man of about 30, and is doing a great work towards civilizing and modernizing his country."

COPTIC WOMEN

Mme. Esther Fahmy Wissa Is Leader of Social Welfare Work In Egypt.

"To fight illiteracy and foster the arts" is the aim of Mme. Esther Fahmy Wissa Bey, the distinguished Egyptian feminist. She is a Copt, that is to say, an Egyptian Christian, of aristocratic lineage and great wealth, who helped start the woman movement in 1918. Since then she has divided her time between encouraging the Nationalists in their struggle for independence and in organizing social welfare work among the women, writes Beatrice Hill Ogilvie in the Christian Science Monitor.

"I foresee the day when Egypt will be free to work out her own destiny," Mme. Wissa declares. "And when that day comes our women must be ready to share fully in the advancement of our country."

Few women of contemporary Egypt are so well equipped as Mme. Wissa to lead the cultivated minority of women in the vital work of social betterment. As a student of the civilization of ancient Egypt, she knows what Egyptian women achieved in the past. And as a friend of Saad Zaghlul Pasha, as well as of those patriots who now strive to carry on his policies, she has secured thorough grasp of the problems of the present era. It is her conviction that the progress of Egypt depends chiefly on the moral fibre of her people which must be strengthened by educating the masses.

"We need a Moses to lead us and through uplifting our women we will develop one," Mme. Wissa told me recently.

To open doors of educational opportunities for women she employs her brilliant gifts as journalist, polemic speaker and organizer. Not content with the opening of training schools for girls, which alone was a great victory for women, she enlisted the support of many of the wealthiest women of Egypt to form the New Woman Society. Together they raised sufficient funds to start a school for orphans, where in addition to elementary training, girls are taught rug-making and fine needle work. Formerly orphans were fortunate in securing employment as inexperienced servants but to-day they go forth equipped to earn the wages of skilled workers.

Encouraged by the success of this effort, Mme. Wissa determined to dig still deeper at the roots of ignorance. For years she has befriended the wives of the fellahin, Egypt's vast army of illiterate peasants, who toil on the cotton lands of the Nile Valley, and she has given aid to the desperately poor of Cairo and of Alexandria. From this intimate study she was convinced that to reach bedrock in social betterment, a way must be devised to instruct mothers. With this purpose in view she organized the "Work for Egypt Society" which opened child welfare units in Cairo and Alexandria. Just as this movement was being launched, cotton, which is the backbone of Egypt's prosperity, declined in value and the political situation grew steadily more involved. All of her resourcefulness was taxed to the utmost to keep her colleagues united and enthusiastic in the arduous task of raising funds and organizing a staff of social workers. Yet the organization grew and now at the end of two years hundreds of mothers whose interest had to be aroused and whose confidence had to be won, depend upon this organization to guide them in caring for their children.

As this vital service grows, the "Work of Egypt Society" invests new schemes to expand the sources of its maintenance. Last year Mme. Wissa organized an educational fete at Alexandria which was such excellent entertainment that donations from the men equalled those of the women. Eighty boys and girls took part in this historical pageant built around the picturesque personality of King Tut-ankh-Amen. In the background this great king was shown reviewing the glories of his day revealed to him in dance and song. Then the climax came with his vision of Egypt's destiny in a far-off day—a virile, free country working independently to promote peace among nations.

After such an enterprise, it is scarcely surprising that the Minister of Education yielded to the plea of the society to add a course in child welfare to the curriculum of the training school for girls.

Soon after, and while other important measures were pending, the cabinet fell and Parliament was suspended for three years. This political crisis is a severe limitation on all programs for social betterment, but the women are accustomed to waiting, watching and working. Every reform to date has been achieved under difficulties. The Coptic women are thoroughly aware of the needs of their country, and are determined that educational work shall proceed. "If it is necessary, we shall go back into the political arena, where we started our work of freedom for ourselves and for Egypt," declared Esther Fahmy Wissa, the intrepid leader of the Christian women.

A Warning to Mothers

Watch the Health of Your Little Ones At All Times

No mother can expect that her child will escape all the ills to which babyhood and childhood are subject, but she can do much to lessen the severity of these troubles. The mother should be constantly on her guard to prevent childhood ailments, or if they come on suddenly as they usually do, to have the means at hand to relieve them. Thousands of mothers have found Baby's Own Tablets the ideal remedy for little ones—thousands of mother alwhs keep the Tablets in the house as a safeguard against the sudden illness of their little ones.

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative. They regulate the bowels; sweeten the stomach and thus banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fever and make the cutting of teeth easy. The Tablets are absolutely guaranteed free from injurious drugs and may be given to the youngest child with perfect safety. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c. a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. 37a

PESSL
beauty advisor to royalty tells why he recommends Palmolive soap

Today Vienna, in romantic Budapest—there is one name in beauty culture which has been recognized for over a hundred years—the name of Pessl!

Pessl recommends the twice daily use of Palmolive soap for skin beauty. He says, "I earnestly recommend to my patrons that they use only Palmolive soap, its gentle action cleanses the skin thoroughly, and at the same time leaves it in a healthy, smooth, normal condition which is the very foundation of a beautiful complexion."

World-famous beauty authorities urge this treatment twice a day: with both hands make a rich lather of Palmolive soap and warm water. Massage it gently into the skin, perpetuating it to penetrate the pores and free them of all impurities. Then rinse, first with warm water, later with cold. That is all. Start to-night. 25t

PALMOLIVE SOAP

The heir apparent to the British Throne is ready at all times to laugh —ready, moreover, to laugh at himself. The fact that he has this habit of laughing at himself crops out in anecdote after anecdote.

Once, at a function exactly like dozens of others which he had attended, the principal speaker, the mayor of some English town, was so impressed with the tremendous importance of the occasion that he broke down lamentably part way through his pompous speech of welcome to the Prince.

"Not only do we welcome your Royal Highness as the representative of His Majesty," announced the Mayor, "but we—but we—"

There he stuck. He fumbled furiously for the next page of his carefully prepared speech, which in his aggitation he had mislaid.

"But we—but we—"

No use. Those present shuffled nervously. But the Prince of Wales, a survivor of countless similar dull speeches, cheerfully interjected. "But we welcome you for yourself."

Sighing with relief, the Mayor repeated the words. The Prince smiled radiantly. The audience howled with delight. The situation was saved—World's Work.

DOMINION STORES CELEBRATES ITS 10TH ANNIVERSARY

Beginning September 12th, and during the two weeks following, Dominion Stores will celebrate its Tenth Anniversary and to commemorate the occasion will inaugurate a huge birthday party for the thousands of customers who have helped to build it into the largest Retail Grocery Organization in Canada. This party is unique, in that the birthday presents will go to the customers in the form of exceptional values in quality food products during the entire two week period.

Starting in 1919 with only a few stores and a handful of men, this great organization now owns 559 stores, which are located in almost every city and town in Ontario and Quebec. The district covered by th. great chain of food stores extends from Cochrane, Ontario, on the North to Niagara Falls and the south, from Windsor on the west to Chicoutimi, Quebec, on the east.

The company maintains large warehouses in Toronto and Montreal with three bakeries to supply its stores with a steady stream of fresh food products every day in the year.

The latest innovation of this great food service is the addition of cooked meats and delicatessen department. Dominion Stores make shopping easy as each store is standardized and the same high quality food products are arranged in exactly the same manner in all stores.

OBITUARY

Marshall C. Wagar

The friends of M. C. Wagar of Stirlerville were greatly shocked by his sudden death on August 21st 1929. He had been in poor health for some time but had improved sufficiently to be out and dropped dead while at his barn.

Marshall Coleman Wagar was of U.E.L. descent, being the youngest son of the late John V. Wagar and his wife Amelia Breault, pioneers of Camden Township. He was born on the old Wagar homestead near Centreville where he lived the most of his life, moving to Sweetville 4 years ago.

He was a prosperous farmer and general opinion made him many friends. Early in life he united with the Methodist church and all through life he held fast to his faith in God's love.

Mr. Wagar was twice married, first to Maud, daughter of Thomas Miller, Tamworth, who died after a short married life, leaving one daughter, now Mrs. Roy Garrison, Morven. His second wife, who now mourns his loss, was Mabel L., daughter of James Henderson, of Desmond. Their only son, Archie, is at home, and there is also one surviving brother, J. W. Wagar, Centreville.

The funeral which was very large was held at the home on August 23rd, many beautiful floral tributes attesting the esteem of his friends. The service was conducted by his pastor, Rev. R. M. Seymour and Mrs. Seymour sang an appropriate solo. Interment took place at Centreville.

A stage carpenter went to the theatre manager one day and asked for an increase in his wages. The manager appeared surprised. "Why," he exclaimed, "I really don't see my way to giving you a raise! You have nothing much to do. Half the time you are merely standing in the wings listening to the play." "Yes, sir," replied the carpenter grimly, "that's just it!"

"LINE'S BUSY"
. . . time wasted

ANYONE trying to call this telephone will be told by the operator: "Line's Busy". But the line is not busy. It is really idle. Someone at the other end of the office is wanted and the telephone waits there until he arrives.

The idle telephone, with its receiver off the hook, is a common cause of "Line's Busy", and a common cause of uncompleted calls which are wasting two million minutes every day in Ontario and Quebec. Other causes of unnecessary "Line's Busy" are inadequate office equipment, long conversations during peak hours, trying to repeat too soon after the "busy" report, and calling another to get your party for you.

Many offices may not need more telephones, but they do need to have their present telephones more conveniently located. You may be losing calls because your line is thus "Busy" but really idle. And you may be losing business.

We want you to have the best possible telephone service and we are making every effort to provide it.* We are ready at any time to survey your telephone equipment and submit a report.

*New telephone plant and service improvements will mean an outlay, for 1929 alone, of more than $27,000,000.

The McClary Sunshine Warm Air Furnace burns all the gases that cause soot! This is made possible by the famous 'VENTI-BLAST' Ring—an exclusive McClary feature. Smoke and volatile gases are ignited, into an intensely hot flame. You get ALL the heat! Even the cheapest grades of fuel can be burned without waste!

A McClary Sunshine Warm Air Heating system, Standard Code Installed, costs only about half as much as Hot Water or Steam! Talk things over with a McClary Sunshine Representative today. He is in a position to add to your comfort and save you real money.

ANYONE trying to call this telephone will be told by the operator: "Line's Busy". But the line is not busy. It is really idle. Someone at the other end of the office is wanted and the telephone waits there until he arrives.

The idle telephone, with its receiver off the hook, is a common cause of "Line's Busy", and a common cause of uncompleted calls which are wasting two million minutes every day in Ontario and Quebec. Other causes of unnecessary "Line's Busy" are inadequate office equipment, long conversations during peak hours, trying to report too soon after the "busy" report, and asking another to get your party for you.

Many offices may not need more telephones, but they do need to have their present telephones more conveniently located. You may be losing calls because your line is thus "Busy" but really idle. And you may be losing business.

We want you to have the best possible telephone service and we are making every effort to provide it.* We are ready at any time to survey your telephone equipment and submit a report.

*New telephone plant and service improvements will mean an outlay, for 1929 alone, of more than $27,000,000.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Meanly was an impatient landlord, and when the rent from a certain tenant was two days overdue he sent the offender this letter:

"Dear Sir,—I regret to inform you that my rent is overdue. Please remit same by return of post."

A day or so later. Meanly received this reply:

"Dear Sir,—I don't know of any reason why I should pay your rent. I can't even pay my own."

For years Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator has ranked as a reliable worm preparation and it always maintains its reputation.

He had proposed. She had refused him.

"You are just a joke," she said.

"Well, can't you take a joke?" he asked.

The ease with which corns and warts can be removed by Holloway's Corn Remover is its strongest recommendation. It seldom fails.

An American on entering London for the first time, engaged a taxi. On passing the Thames he called out to the driver:

"Say, Buddy, what do you call that drop of stuff over there?"

The driver looked around, then shouted to the Yank: "Well bust me, if my tank ain't leaking again."

The Oil for the Farmer.—A bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in the farm house will save many a journey for the doctor.. It is not only good for the children when taken with colds and croup and for the mature who suffer from pains and aches, but there are directions for its use on sick cattle, there should always be a bottle of it in the house.

Susan: What is Bobie crying for?

Harold: He's not crying for anything. He's had it."

The Poor Man's Friend.—Put up in small bottles that are easily portable and sold for a very small sum, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil possesses power in concentrated form. Its cheapness and the various uses to which it can be put make it the poor man's friend. No dealer's stock is complete without it.

Husband: "But, my dear, you've dated that letter 18th, and today is only the 7th."

Wife: "Yes, darling, I'm going to give it to you to post."

With so thorough a preparation at hand as Miller's Worm Powders the mother who allows her children to suffer from the ravages of worms is unwise and culpably careless. A child subjected to the attacks of worms is always unhealthy, and will be stunted in its growth. It is a merciful act to rid these destructive parasites, especially when it can be done without difficulty.

Little Susan: "Mrs. Browning, will you draw something for me?"

Visitor: "Why, my dear child I can't draw!"

A Foe to Asthma.—Give Asthma half a chance and it gains ground rapidly. But give it repeated treatments of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy and it will fall back even faster. There is no half way measure about this remedy. It goes right to work and drives asthma out. It reaches the inmost breathing passages and leaves no place for the trouble to lurk. Have it by you for ready use.

"Hew are the plans of your new house getting on?"

"Splendid!" My wife has finally laid out all the cupboard she wants, and now all the architect's got to do is to build the house round them!"

Flies are dangerous. They are also the filthiest insect known. They deposit germs in three ways. By contact vomit spots and excreta. They taint everything they touch. FLY-TOX kills flies. It is safe, stainless. Simple instructions on each bottle (blue label) for killing ALL household insects. Insist on FLY-TOX. FLY-TOX is the scientific insecticide developed at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by Rex Research Fellowship. FLY-TOX brings health, comfort and cleanliness with its perfume-like fragrance.—Adv.

She: When are you going to buy some new shirts, dear?

He: Why I have more than plenty now.

She: I know, dear, but I'm running short of pins.

WEDDING BELLS.

Fenwick-Cousins

A very pretty wedding took place on Tuesday, September 3rd, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Johnston Cousins, Clover Hill, when Miss Pansy M. was united in marriage to Mr. Oscar Scott Fenwick, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Fenwick. The bride entered the drawingroom while her sister, Miss Cousins played the wedding march. The bride's wedding dress was of poudre blue georgette and she carried a beautiful spray of sweet peas and maiden hair fern. The vows were received by the Rev. T. H. P. Anderson, Newburgh. While the register was being signed, Miss Berneice Cousins again played very pleasingly. The wedding party consisting of the members of the immediate families, Mr. Switzer, grandfather of the bride, Mr. Edwin Cousins of Vancouver, uncle of the bride, and Miss Maude Wagar, an intimate friend, enjoyed a very dainty wedding breakfast. The bride travelled in a gown of Canton crepe in brown and tan shades with all accessories to harmonize, wearing the groom's gift, a silver necklace. The groom's gift to the musician, was a handsome silver bracelet set with topaz. The young people are spending an extended honeymoon in Toronto. Port Huron and Chicago. Their hosts of friends join in good wishes.

It is those who have tried it most frequently who are convinced that marriage is a failure.

The way to keep young, says Dr. Mayo, is to live with young people. And the way to grow grey is to try to keep up with them.

Children nowadays are said to grow taller than their parents. They probably get a good start in early years trying to reach their mother's skirts.

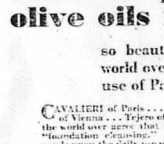
so beauty authorities the world over urge twice-a-day use of Palmolive

CAVALIERI of Paris . . . Jacobson of London . . . Pessl of Vienna . . . Tejero of Barcelona . . . beauty experts the world over agree that facial loveliness depends upon "stimulation-cleansing." And foundation cleansing depends upon the daily use of a soap blended of palm and olive oils.



To rid your skin of powder-clogging dust, dirt and make-up, there is the simple treatment these famous beauticians would give you in their own salons of beauty: Make a fine, creamy lather of Palmolive soap and warm water. With both hands massage it gently into the pores. Then rinse thoroughly, first with warm water, then with cold.

Palmolive leaves your skin refreshed and radiant.

A Farm of Your Own

MOST of the prosperous farmers of to-day began by working for some one else.

Spurred on by the desire to own their own farm, they put their money in the bank month by month, and season by season, until they could pay for land of their own.

If you, too, are working for another man and want a farm of your own, your course is clear—put your money in the bank.

OBITUARY

Edwin A. Jenkins

Again, with sorrow, we are called to chronicle the death of one of Scottsville's foremost citizens, Edwin A. Jenkins, who died at his home in this village Saturday morning, August 24th, 1929, in his 69th year.

Mr. Jenkins had been in ill health for more than a year, but had been about until last Thursday morning, when his condition became serious and he failed to rally.

He was born in Napanee, Ont., Canada, October 14th 1860 and came to Scottsville 45 years ago, where he has continued to reside. For many years he was engaged in the well-drilling business, selling out twelve years ago to William Rebholz, of Scottsville.

Nearly twenty years ago he became actively engaged in Republican politics and for the past thirteen years has been a Monroe County Deputy Sheriff and Republican leader in the town of Wheatland.

He served one term, 1923-24, as president of the village and was a member of the Village Board and a member of the Republican County Committee for many years.

On January 10th, 1912, Mr. Jenkins was shot in the neck and seriously wounded while a member of the late Sheriff Harley Hamill's party that first attempted to capture Wm. Twinman, negro murderer, who had barricaded himself in the brick house on Caledonia avenue, after killing his father.

During the many years that Mr. Jenkins has lived in Scottsville he has taken an active interest in the civic affairs of the village. He was a quiet, unassuming man, who enjoyed the respect and admiration of the entire community and will be greatly missed.

Mr. Jenkins married Miss Elizabeth Gatenbee, of Scottsville, who survives him; with one brother, Clifford Jenkins, and four sisters in Canada.

Funeral services were held from his home on Rochester Street, Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, Rev. Russell B. Henry, of the Union Presbyterian Church officiating. Interment was made in Oatka Cemetery, Scottsville.

Among those present at the funeral were a large delegation of deputies from the sheriff's office, Rochester, and Harry G. Harvey, Simon W. McDonald, William C. Pape and James Armstrong of Mumford.

The bearers were Selden S. Brown, William T. and John H. Keys, R. L. Becker, Harvey D. Smith and Joel D. Tarbell; all neighbors.

EMPLOYS MORE THAN 85,000 PERSONS

Statistics compiled by the Fisheries Branch of the Department of Marine and Fisheries, subject as yet to final revision, put at more than 85,000, the number of persons employed in Canadian fishing industry in 1928, but, indirectly, the fishery also brought work and wages to large additional numbers of Canadians.

Approximately 65,000 persons were employed in 1928 in the primary operations of catching and landing fish and 20,000 others were at work in fishing canning and curing plants. In both divisions of employment the figures for 1929 show an increase over those for the preceding year.

But to tell the whole story of the significance of the fishery as a source of work and wages in Canada there would need to be added to the statistics, touching employment in the industry itself, the figures covering many other industries. For Instance Canadian miners dig many tons of coal for the fish canneries and curing establishments; in 1927—the last year for which this information is available —those canneries and curing plants used coal valued at $239,419, nearly all of the product of Canadian soft coal mines. Handling shipments of fish and fish products and supplies for fishermen and for the canning and curing plants is an important factor in keeping Canadian transport workers busy. The gas and oil companies and their employees, the cordage plants, the boat builders and sail-makers—these and others find business and wages running into the millions year after year in Canada as a direct consequence of the fishing industry. It is such things as these which make the fishery of such great economic importance to the Dominion, and of greater importance than perhaps the average Canadian has yet realized.

WHEN BABY IS WELL MOTHER IS HAPPY

The happy mother is the one whose baby is well—it is the laughing, gurgling baby who always brings joy to the home. When baby is ill everyone in the home suffers—not only through worry over the little one but through loss of sleep—no one can find rest with a sick baby in the home. Thousands of mothers are happy mothers because they have found the way to keep their little ones well—or if sickness does come on suddenly, as it usually does with little ones, they have found the way to speedily bring the baby back to health again. Mrs. George Keech, Lindbergh, Alta., is one of these mothers, and she writes as follows: "I am the happy mother of a seventeen-month-old baby girl. Baby is healthy and strong and sleeps well at night. I give her no other medicine but Baby's Own Tablets and she just loves them. I am never without the Tablets in the house."

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach and thus drive out constipation and indigestion and make the cutting of teeth easy. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. 38a

HONEY FOR EXPORT

In order to build up a profitable export trade in honey it has been considered necessary by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa to give some attention to the mater of inspecting the honey on its way out of the country. In the latest report of the Dominion Apiarist, published by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, Canadian honey, it is stated, is commencing to hold a prominent position, particularly in the markets of the United Kingdom. The effect of inspection and grading is to establish confidence in the mind of the buyer as to the actual quality of the product. Last year considerably more than a million pounds of honey destined for the European markets were inspected by the Department. The honey was classified as Water White, 41,520 pounds; White, 215,820 pounds; Golden 256,800 pounds; Light Amber, 312,140 pounds; Dark Amber, 218,720 pounds; Dark, 69,280 pounds, while some 65,000 pounds were held off the market for reasons of low quality. The honey for export and indeed for any good trade must be put up in fine condition. In the course of the inspection honey was graded down for reasons of poor straining, low density, damaged containers, foreign material in the honey, liquid condition, and for very coarse granulation.

Man is fearfully and wonderfully made; woman is fearfully and wonderfully made up.

"What is your finger wrapped up for?"

MEDICINAL COD LIVER OIL YIELD GREATER

Upwards of 1000,000 gallons of medicinal cod liver oil are yielded every year as a by-product of Canada's expanding sea fishery.

The oil owes its specific medical value to richness in vitamine content and, in a lesser degree, to its iodine value.

In 1925 the production of medicinal cod liver oil from the Canadian Fishery was only 36,836 gallons, but since then there has been a great increase. In 1926 the production was 94, 383 gallons, and in 1927 slightly less than that—92, 597 gallons. Figures for 1928 have not yet been completed and finally revised by the Fisheries Branch, but it is not expected they will show any material difference from those of 1927.

The Nova Scotia fishery is the largest producer of medicinal cod liver oil. Quebec was second in 1927, producing 22,640 gallons, valued at $18,924, as compared with Nova Scotia's 57,264 gallon production valued at $53,130. New Brunswick produced 12,489 gallons which were valued at $12,226. British Columbia's production so far is small.

Cod oil, as distinct from medicinal cod liver oil, is another by-product of the fishing industry, which adds $90,-000 or so to the annual fishery production, but oil obtained as a by-product of the British Columbia pilchard fishery represents approximately ten times that figure.

A license if I should cook a meal,
Or bake a pie or cake.
A license if I should buy a hat,
And place it on my head;

BATH FIELD DAY

A very successful Field Day and Dance was held September 4th, by B. W. I. The parade, marshalled by Mr. S. Calver and led by Odessa Band left the School at 1.30 and marched through the streets of Bath, which were attractively decorated. At the grounds the judging was done, races held and baseball played. Cars, trucks, bicycles, carts were beautifully and humorously decorated. The old fashioned turnouts added much to the parade. The school children marched and after arriving at the grounds they sang. Bath school received first prize, Millhaven' second.

After judging was completed, various races were held, the outstanding ones being the three-legged race and the swimming race. The winners of the swimming races were: 1st S. Calver, 2nd Miss Barriage, 3rd J. Thompson.

Everybody had a very pleasant time, many feasted on the ice cream and other sweets provided at the booth. The prizes were won by—Cars: Mrs. Osborne, 2nd Mr. and Mrs. H. Collins, 3rd Miss S. Dwyer, 4th Mr. and Mrs. G. Loyst. Trucks: Mrs. R. Calver, 2nd Mr. C. McQuinn, 3rd Mr. B. Calver. Bicycles: 1st Boy Blue, 2nd Allan Thompson, 3rd Kenneth Young, 4th Keith Turkington. Specialties: 1st Waving, Thanking Standard, Mr. and Mrs. G. Stevenson, 2nd Mrs. Amey and friends, 3rd The Grey Horse.

Odessa Band gave fine music all afternoon. At night a dance was given, when Circle Six Orchestra rendered music to a large crowd of Young people, who seemed to have the spirit of the day right in them.

The Orchestra and B.W.I. plan giving another one near the end of the month. Watch for further advertisement. May we here thank all those who in any way, whatever, helped to make this a success. BATH FIELD DAY

A very successful Field Day and Dance was held September 4th, by B. W. I. The parade, marshalled by Mr. S. Calver and led by Odessa Band left the School at 1.30 and marched through the streets of Bath, which were attractively decorated. At the grounds the judging was done, races held and baseball played. Cars, trucks, bicycles, carts were beautifully and humerously decorated. The old fashioned turnouts added much to the parade. The school children marched and after arriving at the grounds they sang. Bath school received first prize, Millhaven second.

After judging was completed, various races were held, the outstanding ones being: the three-legged race and the swimming race. The winners of the swimming races were: 1st S. Calver, 2nd Miss Barriage, 3rd J. Thompson.

Everybody had a very pleasant time, many feasted on the ice cream and other sweets provided at the booth. The prizes, were won by—Cars: Mrs. Osborne, 2nd Mr. and Mrs. H. Collins, 3rd Miss S. Dwyer, 4th Mr. and Mrs. G. Loyst. Trucks: Mrs. R. Calver, 2nd Mr. C. McQuinn, 3rd Mr. B. Calver. Bicycles: 1st Boy Blue, 2nd Allan Thompson, 3rd Kenneth Young, 4th Keith Turkington. Specialties: 1st Mr. and Mrs. G. Stevenson, 2nd Mrs. Amey and friends, 3rd The Grey Horse.

Odessa Band gave fine music all afternoon. At night a dance was given, when Circle Six Orchestra rendered music to a large crowd of Young people, who seemed to have the spirit of the day right in them.

The Orchestra and B.W.I. plan giving another one near the end of the month. Watch for further advertisement. May we here thank all those, who in any way, whatever, helped to make this a success. Is your daughter enjoying life?

IT is just in her "teen age" that a girl should be getting the most fun out of life!—Yet so often it happens that girls of sixteen-to-twenty have outgrown their strength—are quickly tired, pale, nervous, generally run-down and unhappy!

These are sure signs of anaemia, a condition that results from thin, worn-out, under-nourished blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have corrected this in thousands of girls. Here is the actual experience of Mrs. Ben Nicholas of Erieau, Ont.

"My daughter was in a run-down state. She was easily tired and did not wish to associate with others. As this was unnatural, I began giving her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and they soon made a strong healthy girl of her. Now she is as happy a girl as one would wish to see."

Start your daughter on this proven treatment now by buying Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at your druggist's or any dealer in medicine or by mail, 50 cents, postpaid, from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. 5-33

FURTHER DEVELOPMENT OF ALBERTA FISHERIES

In a report to the Fisheries Branch of the Department of Marine and Fisheries, S. Travers, Fishery Overseer for territory centred around Lac la Biche, far up in Northern Alberta, says that one of the Western fish companies has definitely decided to extend its operations next winter to new lakes north-east of Peter-Pond Lake, which is in Overseers Travers' sub-district, though situated in Saskatchewan. Fishing is already carried on to some extent in waters more northerly than Peter Pond Lake, but the plans reported by Overseer Travers are another indication of the gradual expansion of the fishery in the Prairie Provinces.

The fish taken in the waters of Northern Saskatchewan and Northern Alberta, include whitefish, pickerel, pike, trout, tullibee, greyling, sucker, perch and ling.

"Home Made"

She always makes her own salad dressings. She prefers to create her own desserts. And she makes her own mustard pickles.

In this way she can develop her own combination of vegetable ingredients—and be sure they are firm and fresh. She can use the purest of vinegars, peppers and spices. And, most important of all, she can give her pickles that superlative, indispensable tang of flavour imparted only by a real old English Mustard like KEEN'S!

PICKLED BEANS
String a quarter of a pock of tender green beans, throw them into a kettle of boiling water, add 1 teaspoonful salt and boil 25 minutes. Add 1 pod red pepper, 1 calender, let stand until cold, then put into jars. Sprinkle lightly with cayenne, add one tablespoonful of Keen's Mustard, 1 tablespoonful chopped horse - radish and cover the whole with strong cider vinegar.

Protect

your BUILDINGS from FIRE AND WEATHER

Specially adapted for use in putting on metal roofing. The lead on the head positively seals the nail hole—making it weather-tight and water-proof. No washers; no more "shrinking". Expert's Free sample on request.

Rib-Roll Galvanized roofing shields property from lightning and fire. Wooden roofs are easy prey. In 1927 in Ontario alone, $1,514,700 worth of property was destroyed by fire caused by spontaneous combustion and by embers falling on inflammable roofs. Rib-Roll is absolutely fire-proof and water-tight. It protects your crops from dampness that is conducive to spontaneous ignition. Handsome; permanent; easy to lay on any roof. Has seven ribs to nail; others give less security.
Take stepsnow to protect your livestock, crops and buildings. Write for a free sample of Rib-Roll.

Prevent Spontaneous Combustion and have a Well Ventilated Barn
Warm, moist air in an improperly ventilated barn produces conditions conducive to spontaneous ignition. Preston Ventilators for the roof, adjustable side-wall windows and spacious doors protect the barn from fire dangers by keeping the air in constant circulation. They are built to keep the elements out. Write for full particulars.

Barn Door Tracks and Hanger
Preston hot-galvanized four-wheel Hangers and birdproof Barn Door Track are the best hardware made for heavy barn doors. The Hanger is adjustable up and down, and in and out. This makes erection so easy that hundreds of builders will use no other type.

PRESTON STEEL TRUSS BARNS
—the strongest barn on the market. There are more Preston Barns in the Provinces than all other metal barns combined. Fireproof, roomy, well-ventilated, handsome. To our knowledge, no Preston Steel Truss Barn has ever been destroyed by lightning or spontaneous combustion. Write today for our big Barn Book.

WEDDING BELLS

Barrett-Lacey

On Monday, September 2nd the Church of Assumption, Erinville, was the scene of a very pretty Autumn wedding when Mr. Michael Joseph Barrett, Tamworth, and Miss Anna Gertrude (Bird) Lacey, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard J. Lacey, of Tamworth, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. Father O'Hanlon. The sanctuary and altars were beautifully decorated for the occasion.
The bride entering the church to the strains of Lohengrin's "Bridal Chorus," capably rendered by Miss Helen Yorke, looked charming in a French gown of beige georgette trimmed with rhinestones and lace. She wore a becoming hat of velvet and chenille, gold shoes and a taupe fox fur, the gift of the groom and carried an arm bouquet of butterfly roses. Her only attendant was her sister, Miss Irene Lacey, who were sand georgette with touches of brown and yellow, brown velvet hat, and shoes and carried yellow roses. The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Vincent Barrett. The acolytes were Messrs. John Lacey and Patrick Way.
During the ceremony Mrs. (Dr.) Gleeson, of Lindsay, sang very beautifully, "Millard's, "Ave Maria," and other solos.
After the signing of the register a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Later the young couple left amid showers of confetti and good wishes on their honeymoon, the bride travelling in an ensemble of powder blue and sand.
The bride and groom were the recipients of many substantial cheques and costly presents, showing the esteem with which the young couple are held in this community.

Conway-Greer

A very pretty September house wedding took place on September 9th, at the residence of the bridegroom's mother, 356 Park Street, Peterboro, when James Harold, third son of Mrs. W. E. Conway and the late W. E. Conway was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Florence Mabel Greer. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. R. C. Blagrave, D.D., and the wedding music was played by a cousin of the bridegroom, Miss Althea Clarinfield, of Buffalo.
The house was beautifully decorated with a profusion of flowers. The living room was banked with Ferns and palm gladioli, phlox and asters, in tall standards. The white ribbons which formed an aisle for the bridal party were held by two small nephews of the bridegroom, acting as smart little pages. They were little Jack Conway and Billy Farrow, of Toronto.
The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle wore an exquisite gown of orchid crepe romain, the skirt graduating to longer flares at the back. She wore a velvet picture hat of orchid, velvet and silver slippers and hose. Her bouquet was of madam butterfly roses and lily-of-the-valley.
The bridesmaid, Miss Mary O'Brien was in green georgette, with hat of black panne velvet, black satin slippers and black silk hose. She carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses.
Mr. Walter Creary acted as best man. After the ceremony a reception was held and a dainty wedding breakfast served at the bride's table which was done in yellow and white, with yellow marigolds and white tulle around the bride's cake. Mrs. Conway, mother of the bridegroom, was in black crepe with a black Spanish lace scarf and corsage bouquet of roses and delphiniums.
Mrs. Joseph Mills, aunt of the bridegroom, wearing black silk crepe with black hat and corsage bouquet of pink roses; and Miss Sadie Clark, of Toronto, aunt of the bride, in a dress of silk crepe in brown and sand shades with sand hat and corsage of roses, presided at the table.
On their return they will live at 471 Mark St., Peterboro. The gift of the bridegroom to the bride was a leather purse, to the bridesmaid, an enamelled silver mesh bag, and to the best man a pair of gold cuff links.

MacRow-Rogers

On Tuesday, September 3rd 1929, a quiet home wedding was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Rogers, Wesley, when their eldest daughter, Myrtle M. was united in marriage to Mr. Harry MacRow, of Bath, the bride was given in marriage by her father. The wedding ceremony was performed under an arch of flowers in the spacious living room. The wedding vows were received by her pastor, the Rev. T. H. P. Anderson. The bride was becomingly gowned in peach georgette and carried a spray of fern and gladioli.
After the signing of the register, the wedding party enjoyed a very sumptuous dinner. The newly married couple motored to Toronto leaving with the best wishes of their friends.
Among the guests from a distance, were Mrs. Rennie, of Chicago, Mrs. MacRow, of Cataraqui; Mr. Milligan and Miss Milligan, of Big Island, P.E. BRIDGE AND MUSICALE AT GOLF CLUB

On Friday evening, nearly a hundred people attended the Bridge-Musicale at the Golf Club and there were twenty-nine tables of bridge in play. The club room was tastefully decorated with autumn flowers, and the balcony was arranged as a platform for the concert which followed the game of cards. Huge logs burned cheerily in the fire-place and softly shaded lamps lent a cosy, home-like atmosphere.

The program was provided through the kindness of Mrs. Bensaug, violinist; Mrs. J. E. Madden, pianist; Miss Mary Daly, mezzo-soprano, and Mr. Aubrey Pringle, bazso. Mrs. Beaucang, who has just completed three year's study abroad, charmed her audience with the sweetness of tone, and the beautiful rendition of the Andante, from Symphonie "Espagnole," by Lalo; the "Gypsy Serenade," by Valdez and a delightful encore entitled, "Romance," by Martini.

Miss Mary Daly gave as her first number "The Blind Ploughman," by Robt. Clark, which she always sings with heart-stirring expression. She also sang, "Menagerie" by Foster, and as an encore, an attractive little song, "Oh, Miss Hannah." One of Miss Daly's chief attractions is her perfect enunciation, which enables her listeners to enjoy her music more fully.

REAR ADMIRAL SAMUEL McGOWAN VISITS NAPANEE

Editor Napanee Beaver :

Having had the great good fortune to spend the week-end in Napanee, I have been much impressed and highly delighted.

Expecting to find an ordinary village, I have seen what is really a small city, signs of progress and prosperity and up-to-dateness everywhere. Should I try to mention half of the various features of Napanee that pleased me, this communication would be so long that you would not print it and I want only to please do so because I have an important suggestion to make.

In front of the Court House, as all Napanee knows, is a monument to the men from Lennox and Addington killed in the World War. According to the record their number reached the heroically amazing total of almost two hundred. It is appropriately—and as slight token of gratitude for their heroism and sacrifice—their names are all chiselled in the granite as part of the monument; and, equally appropriately on the base is inscribed: "Their name liveth forevermore."

It should. It must. But how be sure that in the present generation it is gone, the name for each and every one of these brave Ontarioans will live forevermore?

They will do it; and I commend it to the community with all the earnestness of which I am capable: Require every pupil in every school in the two counties to memorize those names; and let no pupil ever from this time forward graduate or ever pass from grade to grade unless (or rather until) he or she has written from memory—as a regular compulsory part of final examination—every one of those names (initials and all) in alphabetical order under the significant caption, "Their Name Liveth Forever."

Pardon a foreigner for seeming to interfere in your local affairs. But be assured that my interest in sincere and whole-hearted, that brothers in arms know no border-line and that, by the very simple plan suggested, ensure that your comrades who gave their all for your country (and mine) will never be forgotten!

(Signed) Samuel McGowan,
Ed. Note—The above article was written and handed to The Beaver by Rear Admiral Samuel McGowan, Paymaster General, United States Navy, Retired, and offers a suggestion that might well be taken up by our Board of Education.

agrees with notable Parisian specialists in advising use of Palmolive soap.

IN Paris the Palmolive foundation cleansing beauty method is urged by France's leading specialists . . . Cavalieri; Le Blanc; Payot; Massé; Vincent. It is only natural, therefore, that in Montreal . . . the Paris of the new world . . . this simple method of preserving skin loveliness should be advocated by the noted Pundé.

"I attribute a great part of my success," says Pundé, "to my insistence that foundation cleansing become a daily habit. Twice-a-day, I say to my customers, do not fail to cleanse your face thoroughly with Palmolive soap."

This is the twice daily treatment that is recommended by beauty experts in Canada and all over the world: First, a rich lather of Palmolive soap, rubbed well into the pores with both hands. Two minutes of soap massage; rinse, first with warm water, then with cold. In this 2 minute beauty treatment, millions of women find a solution to their problem of skin care.

AFTER CULTIVATION OF OF HARVEST

Ploughing hay and pasture sod in the late summer or early fall, by frequent working of the land with the disk harrow until late in the fall, will germinate the seeds of annual weeds and destroy the weed seedlings. If perennial weeds like couch grass are present the ploughing of the sod should be about 5 inches in depth and this operation should be followed immediately by a light disking to prevent the soil baking. Two or three diskings at one week intervals should be made thereafter to break up the sod. After the sod is rotted the cultivator, preferably one with stiff teeth, should be used at week or ten-day intervals until late fall.

If the land to be cleaned is grain stubble, it may not be necessary to plough the land after the grain is harvested, but the disk or cultivator may be started at once, and the soil worked frequently during the balance of the growing season.

A late fall ploughing should be given the land to which these after harvest cultivations are applied, and the land should be left rough over winter. If possible, a cultivated crop should be planted in the following spring, and this should be kept thoroughly worked in order to destroy the weeds which are left.

The weather which prevails during the late summer and fall will be a determining factor in the success which after harvest cultivation has on weed destruction. If the season is not too wet good results should attend these soil cultural operations.

CANADIAN GARDENING

May Sow Grass Again

Grass is a cool weather plant and on this account should be sown only in the Spring and Fall. With hot weather over for another year, it is now safe to start the lawn or to fill in bare spots. To winter well, however, a good growth must be secured before heavy frosts come along. Where a new piece of ground is to be sown, cultivate thoroughly and make sure that all depressions are filled in. It is a comparatively simple matter to get an even surface before the grass is sown but a very difficult job afterwards. Grass, like any other plant, requires food, and it may be necessary to top-dress the site selected with some fine garden loam. Rake the soil and sow with a good grade of seed. It is well worth while to pay a little extra in order to get the best grade of seed procurable as not only will a better catch be secured but there will also be fewer weeds to contend with later on. It is hardly worth while to put in Dutch clover at this time as it is liable to kill out during the Winter, but the ordinary grass can be sown safely, and the clover added early next Spring. Sprinkling a few pounds of this over the lawn just as the snow is going away in March or April is a good practice. Use plenty of seed, one pound for every 200 square feet not being a bit too much. Rake lightly and then go over with a roller or pounder. A sprinkling of nitrate of soda, a scant handful to every two square yards, just when the grass begins to show through the soil will help develope a nice top for the Winter, and another application of the same fertilizer should be made when the lawn begins to green up next Spring. It is also a good plan to dress both the new and old lawns with barnyard manure or pulverized sheep manure late in the Fall, allowing this to stay on all Winter. It will supply food as well as protection, and the strawy part can be raked off in the Spring. Bare spots in the lawn are treated in the same manner; these should be raked, sown liberally with seed, and rolled or pounded down. Protecting these with a little brush or poultry wire will prevent the birds from getting most of the seed.

Spring Bulbs

No garden is complete without some tulips, hyacinths, and other Spring bulbs which are easily grown and make a most brilliant display in the early Spring. There is a fine selection from which to choose if orders are placed immediately. When one realizes that the flowers of these bulbs are practically formed inside the bulb the year before they bloom, the important of securing large bulbs will be apparent. There is a remarkable selection from which to choose, ranging all the way from the crocuses, which come into flower almost before the snow disappears, to the tall Darwin tulips which bloom into June. Bulbs are a good investment as when once established they will increase each year, although unless they are given plenty of fertilizer and good care the flowers have a tendency to become smaller. If they are to be planted in a garden that has been occupied all Summer by other plants, a liberal application of well-rotted barnyard manure will be needed, and this should be spaded in to a depth of about twelve inches.

Planting Depths for Bulbs

Depths of planting depend on the size and it is very important that the bulbs should not be put in too deep nor yet too shallow. The little crocuses and scillas only require two inches of cover, while the big Darwin tulips which have stems eight to ten inches long must be planted about a foot in light soil and six to eight inches in clay in order to develop deep enough root system to support the tall stalk without staking. Be sure and follow with everything but the Darwins is to cover the bulb to a depth of about twice its diameter as they should be planted about the same distance apart. It is also important to get these bulbs in early enough for plantings getting more chance to develop and grow before the freeze-up that those put in later. However, if for some reason or other it is impossible to plant until October or even November in some of the warmer parts of Canada, results will be fairly satisfactory and one can plant right up to Christmas in pots which are to be grown indoors. Just before the ground freezes, it is well to apply a light mulch of strawy manure. This should remain on the ground over Winter and until the first growth appears above the surface in the Spring.

KNOCKER OR BOOSTER

When the Creator had made all the good things, it seemed there was still some dirty work to do, so He made the beasts and the reptiles and the poisonous insects; and when He had finished He still had some odd scraps left over that there were too bad to put into the Rattlesnake, the Hyena, the Scorpion, and the Skunk; so He put all these together, covered it with suspicion, wrapped it with jealousy, marked it with a yellow streak, and called it a KNOCKER.

This product was so fearful to contemplate that He had to make something to counteract it, so He took a sunbeam, put into it the heart of a child, the brain of a man, wrapped it in civic pride, covered it with brotherly love, made it a believer in equality and justice, a worker for and supporter of every good thing in the community, and called it a BOOSTER, and thenceforth mortal man has had the privilege of choosing his associates.

ROD AND GUN

Filled with seasonable stories and articles, the October issue of "Rod and Gun and Canadian Sliver Fox News," Canada's national outdoor magazine, just to hand, will prove of great interest to those devotees of hunting who are packing away their fishing tackle and getting out their guns at this time. The many articles by well known outdoor authorities cover a wide field —moose hunting in Quebec, fishing in the maritime waters and Ontario, goose hunting in the western prairie lands, big horn hunting in the Rockies and trapping in Northern Ontario. In addition are many practical articles dealing with the handling of arms and phases of life in the wilds. The "Canadian Silver Fox News" department contains interesting information of latest developments and practices in the silver fox industry. "Rod and Gun and Silver Fox News" is published monthly by W. J. Taylor, ltd., Woodstock, Ont.

. . . to save time USE THE DIRECTORY and avoid "wrong number"

TELEPHONE numbers are funny things to remember. Often when you think you know a number you have really ironed 7264 instead of 3624! The result is that you get "Wrong Number". You are annoyed and so is the other person. You have wasted your own time and his.

It is safer and quicker to use the directory before you call a number, because "Wrong Number" is one of the chief causes of a million calls a day in Ontario and Quebec which go wrong — tie up traffic — cause irritation — block business.

Some of these are operators' errors, but some are mistakes by the person making the call. He may ask for the wrong number — he may speak indistinctly and be misunderstood.

We want you to have the best possible telephone service. We are constantly striving to provide it by reducing our own errors and by improving equipment.* But it takes three people to complete a call.

Use the directory — speak slowly and distinctly — avoid wrong numbers — save time — help business efficiency.

*To keep a step in advance of demand, and to improve facilities, will involve an outlay this year in excess of $27,000,000.

KNOCKER OR BOOSTER

When the Creator had made all the good things, it seemed there was still some dirty work to do, so He made the beasts and the reptiles and the poisonous insects; and when He had finished He still had some odd scraps left over that there were too bad to put into the Rattlesnake, the Hyena, the Scorpion, and the Skunk; so He put all these together, covered it with suspicion, wrapped it with jealousy, marked it with a yellow streak, and called it a KNOCKER.

This product was so fearful to contemplate that He had to make something to counteract it, so He took a sunbeam, put into it the heart of a child, the brain of a man, wrapped it in civic pride, covered it with brotherly love, made it a believer in equality and justice, a worker for and supporter of every good thing in the community, and called it a BOOSTER, and to-morrowforth mortal man has had the privilege of choosing his associates.

ROD AND GUN

Filled with seasonable stories and articles, the October issue of "Rod and Gun and Canadian Silver Fox News," Canada's national outdoor magazine, just to hand, will prove of great interest to those devotees of hunting who are packing away their fishing tackle and getting out their guns at this time. The many articles by well known outdoor authorities cover a wide field —moose hunting in Quebec, fishing in the maritimes and Ontario, goose hunting in the western prairie lands, big horn hunting in the Rockies and trapping in Northern Ontario. In addition are many practical articles dealing with the handling of arms and phases of life in the wilds. The "Canadian Silver Fox News" department contains interesting information of the latest developments and practices in the silver fox industry. "Rod and Gun and Silver Fox News" is published monthly by W. J. Taylor, ltd., Woodstock, Ont.

A man had been hauled out of the sea, seemingly dead.

Spectator: "We must try artificial respiration—there are six different methods."

"Dead" Man: "If brandy is one of them, leave out the other five."

. . . to save time USE THE DIRECTORY and avoid "wrong number"

TELEPHONE numbers are [illegible] things to remember. Often when you think you know a number you have really transposed the two inside figures. It is so easy to [illegible] instead of 3624! The result is that you get "Wrong Number". You are annoyed and [illegible] the other person. You have wasted your own time and his.

It is safer and quicker to use the directory before you call a number, because "Wrong Number" is one of the chief causes of a million calls a day in Ontario and Quebec which go wrong, tie up traffic — cause irritation — block business.

Some of these are operators' errors, but some are mistakes by the person making the call. He may ask for the wrong number — he may speak indistinctly and be misunderstood.

We want you to have the best possible telephone service. We are constantly striving to provide it by reducing our own errors and by improving equipment.* But it takes three people to complete a call.

Use the directory — speak slowly and distinctly — avoid wrong numbers — save time — help business efficiency.

*To keep a step in advance of demand, and to improve facilities, will involve an outlay this year in excess of $27,000,000.

Would not be Without Zutoo Tablets At Any Cost

Mr. A. O. Norton, the millionaire Jack Manufacturer, of Boston, who recently died, was a great "booster" for Zutoo Tablets.

He suffered from headaches from childhood and when he found Zutoo Tablets stopped these headaches in a few minutes and left no bad effect, he began recommending them to his family and friends. In an unsolicited letter, Mr. Norton says in closing:

"My family use them when ever needed with equally good results. I have frequently given them to friends who were suffering from Headache and they never failed to give quick relief. I always carry Zutoo Tablets in my grip on the road and WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT THEM AT ANY COST."

"I had no colour"

MRS. FRED. PENNY, R.R. No. 4, Norwich, Ont., suffered from anaemia for over three years. Though taking medicine all that time, nothing helped her till she began Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

"I had no appetite", she writes. "I could not sleep. My blood almost turned to water. I was weak and my heart would palpitate violently. I am thankful to say that in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I found the relief I sought. My color returned, my appetite improved, my weight increased fifteen pounds, and it was not long till I could perform my work with ease."

If you are weak and easily tired, subject to headaches, are pale, without appetite, and your work seems a burden, do not delay. Start treatment at once by buying a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at your medicine dealer's or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. 5-17

Jacob Dollar Bell

The many friends in town and surrounding communities were greatly shocked to learn of the death of the late Mr. Bell, which took place at the Toronto General Hospital, on August 14th, especially as he had been visiting in our midst just about two weeks previously.

The second son of the late Samuel and Charlotte Bell, the late Jacob Dollar Bell was born on the old homestead about 3 miles from the village, early connecting himself with the church of his Father, to which he remained true till called to join those gone before.

In the year 1881 he was united in marriage to Caroline W., second daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Brown, of Morven, and for years they made their home in Napanee and vicinity, until 9 years ago, when they moved to Hamilton, Ont., to be with their daughter, Roberta, and again to Toronto last fall, where business called the daughter.

Being of a genial disposition, the late Mr. Bell made many friends in whatever locality he chanced to live.

In January of this year he became suddenly ill and was taken to the hospital, where it was the intention to perform an operation. This decision was altered, however, and after two weeks intensive treatment he was sent home to build his strength equal to the strain of such an operation, during the months that followed the physicians advised a change and he grasped the opportunity of once again visiting among his brothers, sisters and friends, in and about Napanee.

Returning to Toronto July 29th, he grew rapidly worse and was again taken to the hospital on August 5th, where he passed away just nine days later.

A short service conducted by Rev. A. P. Stanley, a friend of the family, assisted by Rev. J. R. Real, a former pastor of Grace Church, Napanee, was held in Toronto prior to the departure for Napanee where the funeral was held from the White Church, Morven, conducted by Rev. W. F. Woodger, pastor of Grace Church and Rev. Chas. E. Cragg, Oshawa, former pastor of Grace Church, and personal friend of the late Mr. Bell.

Mrs. John Thomson

There occurred on Tuesday last, at her home on Bridge St., the death of Mary Gardiner, wife of the late John Thomson, who predeceased her nine years ago.

Mrs. Thomson was born in Windsor Mills and lived part of her life in Newburgh and Kingston, but for many years she has been a resident of Napanee. She was a member of Trinity United Church and was highly esteemed by her many friends and acquaintances. Her only son and daughter died in the early years of their lives, so that she is survived only by nieces and nephews, many of whom were present at the funeral service, which was held from her residence on Bridge St., Friday at two o'clock. The Rev. Harry Pawson officiated. The interment was at Riverside Cemetery.

Among the relatives who assembled to attend the services were Mrs. Ramsay, of Sturgeon Falls; the Rev. and Mrs. Mick, of Lachute, Que.; Mrs. Carmichael, of Coatcook; Mrs. Henry Gardiner, Mrs. Blake and sister, of St. Catharines, Mr. Thos. Gardiner, of Cornwall, C. W. Thomson, Mrs. Clark McLean and W. Henry of Toronto.

Susannah Leucusa Smith

Susannah Leucusa Smith, widow of the late William Henry Smith passed peacefully away at noon on Wednesday. At the residence of her son, Chas. W. Hawley, at Mount Pleasant, Belleville Road. The deceased, who had passed the 83rd mile-stone in June and had been ill for some time, suffered a shock about a week ago, from which she never recovered. The deceased was born in the Township of North Fredericksburgh, being the eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith, a decendant of the U. E. L. pioneers.

Of a family of seven children four have passed on to join the great majority; three surviving are: Maud, Mrs. Hudson, Desmonto Road, Jennie, of Chicago; and Charles, with whom she resided. There are thirteen grandchildren and nine great grand children left to mourn her loss.

The deceased was the eldest child of a family of eight. Of those, four have passed to the great beyond. The surviving are Mr. Robert Smith, South Napanee; Will Smith, of Iroquois.

The funeral was held on Friday forenoon at 10 o'clock. The service being conducted by Rev. H. W. Avery, of United Church of Selby circuit, of which deceased had been a member for years.

The remains were laid to rest in the River View Cemetery beside her husband who predeceased her twenty three years ago.

WILTON

Several from here attended the Rural School Fair at Odessa, on Friday.—Dr. and Mrs. Walter Jacquith spent Thursday last at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Simmons.—Mrs. Richardson has returned to her home in Kingston after a visit with her daughter, Mrs. S. Carr.—Mr. and Mrs. Ira Davison and son, Billy, of Oxbow, Sask., are visiting with his brothers, Messrs. Arthur and Carter Davison.—Mr. and Mrs. F. THE RESPONSIBILITY OF EVERY MOTHER

The child in the home is a very failing source of joy, but, at the same time a never-failing responsibility to the fond mother. It not infrequently happens that minor ailments of the child distress and puzzle her. She does not know just what to do, yet to them not serious enough to warrant calling in the doctor. At just such times as these it is found that Baby's Own Tablets are the mothers greatest help and friend. Most childhood ailments arise in the digestive tract—the bowels become clogged and the stomach sour. Baby's Own Tablets are a never-failing relief for this condition. They are a mild but thorough laxative and through their action on the stomach and bowels they banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fever; allay the pain accompanying the cutting of teeth and promote health-giving sleep. Concerning them Mrs. W. Jennings, Markdale, Ontario, writes:—"I have used Baby's Own Tablets and think so highly of them that I would not be without them. Please send me your little book, let on the care of children." Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams's Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. 39a

OBITUARY

Jacob Dollar Bell

The many friends in town and surrounding communities were greatly shocked to learn of the death of the late Mr. Bell, which took place at the Toronto General Hospital, on August 14th, especially as he had been visiting in our midst just about two weeks previously.

The second son of the late Samuel and Charlotte Bell, the late Jacob Dollar Bell was born on the old homestead about 3 miles from the village, early connecting himself with the church of his Father, to which he remained true till called to join those gone before.

In the year 1881 he was united in marriage to Caroline W., second daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Brown, of Morven, and for years they made their home in Napanee and vicinity, until 9 years ago, when they moved to Hamilton, Ont., to be with their daughter, Roberta, and again to Toronto last fall, where business called the daughter.

Being of a genial disposition, the late Mr. Bell made many friends in whatever locality he chanced to live.

In January of this year he became suddenly ill and was taken to the hospital, where it was the intention to perform an operation. This decision was altered, however, and after two weeks intensive treatment he was sent home to build his strength equal to the strain of such an operation, during the months that followed the physicians advised a change and he grasped the opportunity of once again visiting among his brothers, sisters and friends, in and about Napanee.

Returning to Toronto July 29th, he grew rapidly worse and was again taken to the hospital on August 5th, where he passed away just nine days later.

A short service conducted by Rev. A. P. Stanley, a friend of the family, assisted by Rev. J. R. Real, a former pastor of Grace Church, Napanee, was held in Toronto prior to the departure for Napanee where the funeral was held from the White Church, Morven, conducted by Rev. W. P. Woodger, pastor of Grace Church and Rev. Chas. E. Cragg, Oshawa, former pastor of Grace Church, and personal friend of the late Mr. Bell.

Mrs. John Thomsen

There occurred on Tuesday last, at her home on Bridge St., the death of Mary Gardiner, wife of the late John Thomsen, who predeceased her nine years ago.

Mrs. Thomson was born in Windsor Mills and lived part of her life in Newburgh and Kingston, but for many years she has been a resident of Napanee. She was a member of Trinity United Church and was highly esteemed by her many friends and acquaintances. Her only son and daughter, died in the early years of their lives, so that she is survived only by nieces and nephews, many of whom were present at the funeral service, which was held from her residence on Bridge St., Friday at two o'clock. The Rev. Harry Pawson officiated. The interment was at Riverside Cemetery.

Among the relatives who assembled to attend the services were Mrs. Ransay, of Sturgeon Falls; the Rev. and Mrs. Mick, of Lachute, Que.; Mrs. Carmichael, of Coatlcook; Mrs. Henry Gardiner, Mrs. Blake and sister, of St. Catharines, Mr. Thos. Gardiner, of Cornwall, C. W. Thomson, Mrs. Clark McLean and W. Henry of Toronto.

Susannah Leucas Smith

Susannah Leucas Smith, widow of the late William Henry Smith passed peacefully away at noon on Wednesday. At the residence of her son, Chas. W. Hawley, at Mount Pleasant, Belleville Road. The deceased, who had passed the 83rd mile-stone in June and had been ill for some time, suffered a shock about a week ago, from which she never recovered. The deceased was born in the Township of North Fredericksburgh, being the eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith, a decendant of the U. E. L. pioneers.

Of a family of seven children four have passed on to join the great majority; three surviving are: Maud, Mrs. Hudson, Deseronto ,Road, Jennie, of Chicago; and Charles, with whom she resided. There are thirteen grandchildren and nine great grand children left to mourn her loss.

The deceased was the eldest child of a family of eight. Of those, four have passed to the great beyond. The surviving are Mr. Robert Smith, South Napanee; Will Smith, of Iroquois.

The funeral was held on Friday forenoon at 10 o'clock. The service being conducted by Rev. H. W. Poley of the United Church of Selby circuit, of which deceased had been a member for years.

The remains were laid to rest in the River View Cemetery beside her husband who predecessed her twenty three years ago.

THE RESPONSIBILITY OF EVERY MOTHER

The child in the home is a responsibility of joy, but, at the same time a never-failing responsibility to the fond mother. It not infrequently happens that minor ailments of the child distress and puzzle her. She does not know just what to do, yet to them not serious enough to warrant calling in the doctor. At just such times as these it is found that Baby's Own Tablets are the mothers greatest help and friend. Most childhood ailments arise in the digestive tract—the bowels become clogged and the stomach sour. Baby's Own Tablets are a never-failing relief for this condition. They are a mild but thorough laxative and through their action on the stomach and bowels they banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fever; allay the pain accompanying the cutting of teeth and promote health-giving sleep. Concerning them Mrs. W. Jenning, Markdale, Ontario, writes:—"I have used Baby's Own Tablets and think so highly of them that I would not be without them. Please send me your little booklet on the care of children." Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. William's Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. 39a

ERNESTTOWN W. I.

The Ernesttown W. I. held their regular meeting, September 12th, with a good attendance. Singing of the Ode was followed by the Lord's Prayer. Roll call was answered by, "Why I belong to the W. I.?" The answer given by many of the members being "Because of the broader outlook on life it gives one." The minutes of the last meeting were read, followed by correspondence and reports of various committees. Then came our program.

An instructive and amusing paper on "World's Greatest Benefactors," was given by Mrs. K. Priest. What a varied and long list it was. Next came a competition: "Seven Greatest Benefactors," won by Mrs. G. Young. A splendid address on "The Great Natural Resources of Canada," was given by Mrs. A. E. Huffman, Moscow. One is apt to forget what a vast, wealthy and beautiful country our Canada is, but Mrs. Huffman's address makes one remember and think. After singing the National Anthem, dainty refreshments were served and a most entertaining afternoon ended.

SNAILS STOP TRAINS.

Pests Have More Than Once Held Up Traffic.

A report from Cornwall recently received stated that a train was held up for some hours by a swarm of snails which crawled on the rails and made them so slippery that the wheels could not grip.

Two years ago a swarm of locusts disorganized the railway between Nisert and Pembroke-le-Conte by settling on the permanent ways and the same pests have more than once caused trouble on the South African railways, which in truth has run into a swarm creeping the lines, and their crushed bodies have rendered the rails two slippery for the wheels to grip.

Not many years ago a swarm of bees held up the traffic at Burgess Hill Station, on the Brighton line, and a solitary cockroach, by chance, into the telegraphic instrument in a signal-box, once held up an express between Toronto and Winnipeg for some considerable time.

One on the Duke.

An amusing story was told recently by H.R.H. the Duke of York. It seems that one day while he was at the Royal Naval College, in the Isle of Wight, he was overtaken by a dense fog while out riding alone, and completely lost his bearings. After riding about for quite a while, looking in vain for some familiar landmark, he at length espied a rustic sitting upon a gate. Turning his horse's head towards him, he asked: "My good man, is this the way to Ryde?" The rustic surveyed him critically for some moments, and then said: "No, it isn't, young fellow-me-lad. Thee turns thee toes out too much."

Beautify Your Back Yard.

Beautify your back yard and live there, away from the noise of the street, is the advice of Lorine A. Schuler, editor of the Ladies' Home Journal. Eight hundred nurserymen from all over the United States were commended by Mr. Schuler at the opening session of their fifty-fourth annual convention in Boston, for their slogan, "It is not a home until it is planted."

The increase of automobile traffic has made it desirable to turn homes right around, with the living quarters fronting on a garden away from the street, Mr. Schuler said: "Color in the garden should be given the same attention as in dress and care."

Common salt is an excellent weed-killer.

SNAILS STOP TRAINS.

Pests Have More Than Once Held Up Traffic.

A report from Odessa recently received state that a train was held up for some hours by a swarm of snails which crushed on the rails and made them so slippery that the wheels could not grip.

Two years ago a swarm of locusts disorganized the railway between Nort and Fcitchoy-le-Comte by settling on its permanent way, and the same pests have more than once caused trouble on the South African railways, when a train has run into a swarm crushing the locusts, and their crushed bodies have greased the rails too slippery for the wheels to grip.

Not many years ago a swarm of bees held up the traffic at Barrow Hill Station, on the Brighton line, and a solitary cockroach, by climbing into the telegraphic instrument in a signal-box, once held up an express between Toronto and Winnipeg for some considerable time.

One on the Duke.

An amusing story was told recently by H.R.H. the Duke of York. It seems that one day while he was at the Royal Naval College, in the Isle of Wight, he was overtaken by a dense fog while out riding alone, and completely lost his bearings. After riding about for quite a while, looking in vain for some familiar landmark, he at length espied a rustic sitting upon a gate. Turning his horse's head towards him, he asked: "My good man, is this the way to Ryde?" The rustic surveyed him critically for some minutes, and then said: "No, it isn't, young fellow-me-lad. Thee turns thee toes out too much."

Beautify Your Back Yard.

Beautify your back yard and live there, away from the noise of the street, is the advice of Lorine A. Schuler, editor of the Ladies' Home Journal. Eight hundred nurserymen from all over the United States were commanded by Mr. Schuler at the opening session of their fifty-fourth annual convention in Boston, for their stand. "It is not a home until it is planted."

The increase of automobile traffic has made it desirable to turn homes right around, with the living quarters fronting on a garden away from the street, Mr. Schuler said: "Color in the garden should be given the same attention as in dress and cars."

Common salt is an excellent weed-killer.

GMR Cylinder Head 58 h.p. BIG Six Engine Fuel Supply Pump

COMPARATIVE tests . . made with the "fifth-wheel" speedometer . . prove Pontiac to have more than top speed and fastest acceleration of all cars in its price range. Its 200-cubic-inch engine delivers 58 brake horse-power at 3,000 r.p.m., exceptional power at moderate engine speed spelling long life for Pontiac's Big Six engine.

Higher compression performance, with ordinary fuels is provided by Pontiac's GMR cylindr-head, developed by General Motors Research Corporation and available in no other car at Pontiac price. Positive fuel-pump assures full supply of gas and prevents starving on long, steep hills.

The only true performance is all-round performance . . . power, speed, acceleration and LONG LIFE. That is why Pontiac is worth more today than other cars at its price. Compare Pontiac's BIG SIX beauty, performance and dependability with anything else in the price field can offer . . then make your decision

TIME TO CLEAN THE LAYING HOUSE NOW

Buildings that were used during the past season should be thoroughly cleaned, repaired and disinfected before the young stock is moved into them. A thorough cleaning is meant removing of poultry house fixtures and scrubbing with hot lime wash and ceilings with a stiff broom to get the litter out. If the floor is concrete, wash it with hot lime, burning all the cakes of manure that have collected off before using the lye. A good plan is to give the interior a coat of whitewash; for it will improve the appearance of the place, make it lighter, and at the same time, aid in disinfecting the house. Many poultrymen mix one pint of some coal tar disinfectant to a gallon of whitewash and use it as a spray.

A fire which started in an Ohio coal-mine forty-five years ago is reported to be still burning. We wish our coal-dealer would deliver stuff like that.

"Yes, I used to shoot tigers in Africa," said the big game hunter.

"Nonsense!" exclaimed the zoologist. "There are no tigers in Africa."

"Granted—I shot them all."

CANADIAN PRODUCTS ABROAD

Before leaving Great Britain to study conditions in which farm products are raised in Canada five students of the Institute of Certified Grocers were addressed by Major MacLean of the Marketing Board. Major MacLean credited Canada with giving the lead in the direction of encouraging food distributors to acquire first hand knowledge of the products of the Dominion. "Canada" he stated, "had everything to gain and nothing to lose by the people of Great Britian being better informed of the excellent conditions in which Canadian foodstuffs are produced and sent abroad."

Referring to Canadian apples Major MacLean told the students that they will probably be amazed at the vast extent of the Canadian orchards and the army of people engaged in spraying the trees, gathering fruit and packing and sending it to some other country in ships specially fitted with refrigerator space to insure the fruit being placed on the English breakfast table in excellent condition.

TOMATO STREAK

Within the last few years Streak, or Winter Blight has been a very troublesome disease among tomato growers, causing the loss of many valuable crops. The malady has been reported from many districts in Canada as well as in the United States and Europe. It is a systemic disease, that is, once a plant has become infected, any part of it carries the infective principle.

Streak can easily be identified by its symptoms, which may be seen on any part of the plant but most frequently on leaves. Small dead areas of various sizes and shapes appear on the plant shortly after infection. The entire plant, or the upper foliage only, may be stunted. Badly infected plants may dry up and die. On the fruit, lesions cover larger areas, sometimes extending a considerable distance around the fruit, deforming it and making it unmarketable. Along with these streak lesions a deep mottling of the foliage is generally seen, especially on the younger leaves.

The true cause of the disease is not known as yet to anybody. Several theories have been advanced, but, instead of clearing the problem, they have made it more complicated. No organism has ever been found associated with the disease. It can be transmitted easily from one plant to another by means of insects and cultural methods. Experiments carried out at the Dominion Field Laboratory of Plant Pathology at St. Catharines have shown that healthy tomato plants could be infected with streak by inoculating them with different straight and combined plant juices. It has definitely been proved that the virus from streak infected potato and tobacco plants when injected into healthy tomatoes, produces tomato streak. The same is true with a combination of juices from mosaic potato and mosaic tomato, or mosaic tomato and healthy potato plants. These experiments show the necessity of eradicating mosaic infected or streak infected solanaceous plants, whenever these appear in the neighborhood of a crop of tomatoes.

All varieties of tomatoes are susceptible to the trouble although certain varieties, such as Chalk's Jewel and Earliana, have shown some resistance in certain experiments carried out at the Field Laboratory at St. Catharines. But these results, like many others obtained by workers on virus diseases, are not consistent.

Whether streak is transmitted through seed, we have no definite proof as yet. However, we have reasons for believing that a certain amount of virus is carried in the seed; seedlings grown from seed taken from streak infected plants when developing under favorable conditions, have produced a certain percentage of streak plants.

Control measures:

1 Use clean seed which you know has come from mosaic-free and streak-free plants.

2 Do not plant immediately in soil from which plants attacked by mosaic or streak have been taken out.

3 Do not use too much nitrogenous fertilizer, such as sodium nitrate.

4 Attend to proper ventilation of the greenhouse.

5 Keep the temperature and moisture constant, thereby helping the plants to make an even growth.

6 Keep aphids away, especially if other solanaceous plants are growing nearby.

7 Rogue all plants showing symptoms of mosaic or streak.

MEXICANIZING MEXICO

REPUBLIC IS WELDING THREE DIVERSE GROUPS.

Leaders are Bringing a Conscious Nationalism to a Preponderant Indigenous Population—A Stupendous Problem.

The Mexicanization of Mexico is the goal of renaissant Mexico, writes Robert S. Allen in the Christian Science Monitor.

The United States with a vast foreign population has its Americanization problem, but in Mexico the task entails the unusual feature of bringing a conscious nationalism to a preponderant indigenous population.

Mexico's leaders to-day, political, cultural, labor, agrarian and economic, are bending all the energies of their awakening fatherland to this objective. Especially is the ideal of national unity inculcated in the youth of the nation, for whom for the first time public education is zealously being made available.

The problem is stupendous and nation wide. Of Mexico's 14,000,000 population, 4,000,000 are Indian and 2,000,000 of them do not either speak or understand Spanish, the national language. Some 8,000,000 are mestizos (Indian and Spanish) and 2,000,000 are Spanish.

The Mexicanization of Mexico is a multiple problem. It entails not only the transforming of the Indian into a Mexican with a conscious nationalism but of ingraining the same ideal in the transplanted Spaniard. So far throughout Mexico's history the interests of the leaders of this class, with some illustrious exceptions, have been wholly for the advancement of their own caste.

The Indian and the mestizo were ground down to suppor..the interests, luxury and purposes of the small white class, and the Roman Catholic Church was an unswerving ally in this policy, which explains in a large measure the firm anti-clerical stand Reform Governments have taken.

The Mexicanization of the Indian masses, hundreds of thousands of whom are still living in the most primitive manner, little removed from their condition when Cortez overthrew the Aztec monarchy, presents, according to Prof. Moises Saenz, Under-Secretary of Education, the nation's most difficult task.

Mexico's 4,000,000 Indians are divided into fifty-four tribal groups, with one, the Aztecs, numbering close to 2,000,000. This indigenous population is to be found in 60,000 villages, each village with its own history, its own traditions, customs and habits.

This further complicates the work of evolving a common national culture. How to develop this national ideal, to make a Mexican of the Indian, the mestizo and the Spaniard, is the problem to which the new Mexico is devoted.

The Indian becomes a Mexican, Prof. Saenz declared in an address before the fourth annual seminar of the Committee on Cultural Relations with Latin America, by improvement in his economic condition, by education and by civilizing contacts with the modern world's machinery, motion pictures, sanitation and justice.

Some leaders see Mexico's problem as one of developing a middle class. Such a class is in its early stages of organization to-day. It is barely beginning, but the economic and political renaissance of the country is strongly tending to establish such a group.

The Mexican Revolution (in Mexico the word "revolution" is a problem for there are revolutions with large R's and small r's) is rapidly expanding class groups whose interests are tied up with national interests.

Labor is highly organized. The Agrarians are formed in bands, and in the recent rebellion both groups gave vital aid to the National Government, something that would have been impossible ten years ago. These economic groups stress national consciousness. They are developing not only group leaders but national leaders.

These groups and leaders are interposing their forces and interests against those of the past—the hacendado or estate owner, the army and the church. They are striving for an awakened Mexico, for the evolution of a clear-eyed, liberal, national consciousness.

Prof. Saenz also emphasized that by the Mexicanization of Mexico he did not imply that the Mexican people lack patriotism against foreign foe, but that what is needed is a national ideal of common progress and advancement for all classes in politics, social organization, education, culture and justice.

LAND OF RICE AND WATER

Twenty Varieties of Grain Are Sown and Gathered In Siam Like 2,000 Years Ago.

This is how M. Paul Morand describes Siam in "Earth Girdled": "Lands of Siam, so low that they seem to have escaped from the sea as by a miracle. Alluvial plains raised daily higher by red soil torn from the north. The sea crossed at last, the horizon gives way, gaps open in it suddenly. Entry into the bankless river where mangroves, areca, tamarinds and banana trees fall into the water."

This is the same landscape, hardly less delightful, described by the Abbe de Choisy in 1685, when he arrived at Siam, as they said in those days, with the embassy of Louis XIV. "Both sides of the river," he writes, "are lined with areca and cocquitos, which are green trees all laden with fruit, monkeys and birds. There are birds which are all blue, others all red, others all yellow; the prettiest are the algrettes, which are snow white."

Each curve of the river as it unfolds presents a landscape. On the banks barges, covered with curved wicker or open, full of paddy, which is rice in the husk as it comes from the field, wait near the husking works to be relieved then reloaded. Thus Bangkok suburbs become an Oriental Rotterdam, a kind of barbarous Hamburg.

Rice and water; that is Siam. Rice "swimming," cultivated like fish, rather than grain; its raising and harvesting stamp its rhythm on the whole country. Rice fields cracked in summer like pottery, flooded at the rainy season; rice fields which are green lawns if you look at them horizontally and lakes vertically. Twenty kinds of rice in Siam; sown and gathered as it was 2,000 years ago; still annually invited to grow by ritual ceremonies, and fully bestowed by the tropical soil, which is wise and rich enough to endow all its children. Lastly water, the second element of wealth, water spreading in fertilizing floods, trickling through thousands of canals.

The Siamese have a charming greeting, hands joined in prayer and the body bowed. When inferiors are come before the great they prostrate themselves and advance crawling on their knees. It is pleasant to be treated thus in these countries which know not the crisis of servants' agencies and to say to one's self, like the seventeenth century traveller, "No grandeur is so imposing as a large multitude of men engaged in your service." Queen Victoria, when she received a Siamese embassy at Windsor, was greatly frightened at seeing these alert hunters creeping toward her. Sometimes, to show still greater respect, the hands are most gracefully joined over the head. In Siam the head is sacred. One reason why the houses have only one storey is that one must avoid walking over the heads of others.—Siam Observer.

KING OF THE DUSTBINS.

Collects Everything That Has the Least Value.

M. Verdier-Dufour has the strangest kingdom in the world. This enterprising and energetic Frenchman has built up a large business—founded on dustbin waste.

The operation begins in the gutter, where the householder has dumped his bin of refuse for collection. When he first set up in his astonishing business M. Verdier-Dufour made a bargain with the Paris collectors whereby his employes were permitted to rummage in the bins before the collecting carts came round.

His employes collect everything that has the least value and convey it to his warehouses. Here the precise value of each scrap of rubbish is known. Nothing is too small to be examined and each article has its individual storage bin.

His waste commands the admiration of the firms to whom he sells it, because he maintains the standard of his products. Manufacturers know they can rely upon him to such an extent that they merely have to dump the waste into their machines, thus treating it as if it were new raw material. They do not have to spend a further penny in preparing the waste for their purposes.

GIVE THE BIRDS PLENTY OF ROOM

Be sure to not overcrowd the laying house. For heavy breeds, allow four to five square feet of floor space and for light breeds four square feet per bird

Overcrowding is bound to lower the production of the flock and will tend to cause all sorts of vices as, for example, feather pulling, egg eating and the like. Crowded roosts develop into colds, roup, chickenpox, canker and so forth as they do not permit proper ventilation, thus the birds are too warm, which tends to weaken them.

You will actually get more eggs from your hens by allowing them plenty of room in the laying house.

WEDDING BELLS

McKinley-Detlor

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday morning at the parsonage, when Edith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darius Detlor was united in marriage to George Hubert McKinley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. McKinley, of Seeley's Bay.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. I. N. Beckstead, B.A., in the presence of a few of the immediate relatives.

The bride looked girlish and charming in a dainty white satin gown with fitted bodice, and skirt flounced with point d'esprit and lace. She wore a wreath of orange blossoms in her hair and carried an arm bouquet of yellow roses. White satin slippers completed her costume. She was attended by Mrs. Chas. Detlor, sister of the groom, who was becomingly attired in blue crepe and hat to match, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations and fern. The best man was Mr. Chas. Detlor, brother of the bride.

The bride's going away costume was a suit of blue chiffon velvet with felt hat, and shoes to match, and a fox fur.

Gardner-Foley

A very pretty marriage took place on Saturday, September 4th, at the United Church parsonage at Bethany, when Miss Mary Gertrude Foley, eldest daughter, of Rev. and Mrs. H. W. Foley and Mr. Mark Thorne Gardiner, son of Mr. Mark N. and Mrs. Gardiner, of Garden Hill, were married in the presence of a small company of guests. The bride was a charming picture in the quaint bridal gown of ivory chiffon over taffeta, together with veil and slippers worn by her mother at her marriage a quarter of a century ago. She carried pink bridal roses and wore (as her only ornament) the groom's gift, a white gold and diamond bar pin. Mr. Frank C. Foley, B.A., the bride's brother, who flew by plane from Chibougamau mining district in Northern Quebec, for the occasion, gave the bride in marriage and the ceremony was performed by her father, Rev. H. W. Foley, B.A., B.D. The wedding music was played by Miss Dorothy Wilson, of Garden Hill. After the ceremony delicious refreshments were served. The drawing room was decorated with gladioli, asters, carnations, roses and lilies from the parsonage gardens. Mr. and Mrs. Gardiner left later for their honeymoon at the family summer cottage at Bobcaygeon, the bride wearing a crepe and velvet gown in autumn shades of brown, with matching coat, hat and shoes. Guests were present from Toronto, Garden Hill, Bowmanville, and St. Catharines.

Mr. and Mrs. Gardiner will reside at Garden Hill, on the farm homestead which has been in the Gardiner family since the grant from the Crown.

RECEPTION AT ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH FOR REV. A. J. WILSON

On Thursday evening the congregation of St. Andrew's Church met in the Sunday School room to welcome back their minister, who had just returned from a three month's study tour of the orient. Over two hundred sat down to supper which was served by the ladies of the church. After supper reports were given by the missionary and church treasurers. Community singing was led by Mr. MacGregor. This was followed by a concert of unusual quality, by Miss Mary Daly, Mrs. Eppelett, Mr. Aubrey Pringle, and Mr. Jack Caldwell. The accompanists were Miss Baughan and Mr. Kendall.

Mr. Moffat, the chairman of the official board, who acted as chairman, surprised the audience when he called on his son, Tom, to make a presentation to the congregation. He presented on behalf of the Moffat family a new name plate for the church. The plate is of mottled marble of Gothic design and beautifully lettered in Old English lettering. It was an artistic, and beautiful gift for which the congregation expressed deep appreciation.

Another event of interest at the meeting was the presentation to Mr. and Mrs. John Gibson of a Bible, which is to be properly inscribed, commemorating the sixtieth anniversary of their wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Gibson have been members of St. Andrew's for many years and during that time have endeared themselves to the whole church community.

Mr. Wilson had the unique experience of being introduced to his own congregation. This Mr. Cockhill did in his own inimitable manner. He spoke of the fourteen years of happy relationship that had existed between pastor and people, and of the influence which the church had exerted on the community. On behalf of the congregation he welcomed Mr. Wilson back and hoped that before long they would see him looking as fit as when he left.

Mr. Wilson when he rose to reply spoke of the joy he experienced at being back again. His first impression as he looked around was the wealth and luxury of the town and country as compared with the poverty of the places he had visited. He was deeply moved at the kind thoughtfulness of the people in thus greeting him. He had hoped that he might be even more worthy in the future, than he had been in the past, of all the love and affection which the people had displayed toward him. He could hardly express the happiness he felt at being home and his gratitude for a safe return. He announced that at his evening services he would give the congregation an opportunity to a more intimate knowledge of where he had been and what he had seen, as was possible at that time.

After the singing of the national anthem the meeting dispersed.

ERNESTTOWN FAIR

Record Attendance—Good Sports — Splendid Weather

The ninety-fourth annual exhibition of the Ernesttown Agricultural Society was held at Odessa on Thursday and Friday last, and was greeted with ideal weather.

The officers and directors are to be congratulated on the success attending their efforts, as this year a record attendance was on hand the second day and it was a jovial, good-natured crowd that filled the spacious grounds to capacity during the afternoon.

The exhibits of horses and cattle were up to the usual good standards, and the judges were compelled to take a second look in many cases to decide which horse or cow should be given the first prize.

Sheep and swine came in for a good deal of attention and the exhibits in these classes were equal, if not superior, to former years.

The poultry exhibit was unusually large, and, compared to a few years ago, was far superior to the birds shown in those days, due in no small measure to the educational measures put forth by the Department of Agriculture.

In the palace the exhibits of vegetables, fruits, etc., and ladies' work, both fancy and useful, were admired by hundreds of people during the afternoon, and the lady exhibitors are certainly to be congratulated on the many articles of handiwork exhibited by them.

The thanks of the press are due the genial Secretary, Mr. A. M. Fraser, who was untiring in his efforts to assist your scribe in every way possible.

THE LATE D. A. VALLEAU

(From the Oshawa Daily Times.)

One of the best-known and most highly esteemed citizens of Oshawa, D. A. Valleau, collector of customs for the port of Oshawa, passed away at his home, 467 Masson Street, Thursday morning last. Mr. Valleau had been in poor health for some time and the news of his death came as a distinct shock to his wide circle of friends and acquaintances. In his position as collector of customs, which he held for the last three years, he came in close contact with the public, and generally esteemed and respected by all who knew him.

Mr. Valleau had been a resident of Oshawa, for over twenty years. He was 59 years old, having been born at Selby, Ontario, on April 22, 1870, and came of United Empire Loyalist stock his family having been of old Irish-Huguenot descent, and having settled at Adolphustown on coming to Canada. Early in life he began his career with the Bay of Quinte Railway, and gradually worked his way up from office boy to superintendent. In 1908 he was transferred from Napanee to Oshawa to become superintendent of the Oshawa Railway Company. Since then he had, in various capacities, seen Oshawa grow from a small town to a flourishing city, and he had no small part in that development. On September 18th, 1916, he was appointed appraiser of customs at Oshawa, and on December 1, 1926, received a well-merited promotion to be collector of customs here, a position which he held up to the time of his death.

In addition to being well-known because of his position and associations with business people, Mr. Valleau took a keen interest in the social and fraternal life of the city. He was very active in the Red Cross work during the war years, and since the inception of the Cemetery Board of Oshawa he had acted as its chairman. He was also a past president of the Thirty Club of this city.

Mr. Valleau was prominent in various fraternal organizations. His particular interests were in the I.O.O.F. and the Masonic order, in both of which he held high offices. He was a Past Grand of Napanee Lodge No. 46, I.O.O.F., of Napanee; and Past Master of Union Lodge No. 9, A.F. & A.M., of the same town. He was also a member of Mount Sinai Chapter, Royal Arch Masons, Napanee, and in Oshawa associated himself with Temple Lodge, No. 649, A.F. & A. M. of that city. He was a member of St. George's Church of this city.

Mr. Valleau is survived by his widow, who was formerly Miss Emma Shane, and one son, D. A. Valleau, Jr., of 92 Hillcrest street, Oshawa. His mother, Mrs. M. A. Valleau, of Hyde Park, Vermont, U.S.A., also survives, along with the following brothers and sisters, Dr. A. J. Valleau, Morrisville, Vt.; Mrs. C. H. Crane, Morrisville, Vt.; A. Z. Valleau, East Hartford, Conn.; Mrs. H. A. Noyes, Hyde Park, Vt.; and C. P. Valleau, Michigan City, Indiana.

The funeral service was held at Mr. Valleau's late home, 467 Masson street, at 10.30 a.m. on Saturday, after which the remains were conveyed to Napanee for interment in the Cemetery here. The service at Napanee was under the auspices of the Masonic order.

SILVER WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

On Saturday evening September 14th, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Mastin celebrated their twenty-fifth anniversary.

Mrs. Mastin was Lillie May Whiteman before her marriage eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Whiteman. Mr. Mastin is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Adam Mastin. They were married in 1904 at Melrose by Rev. Mr. Crookshanks. Mr. and Mrs. Mastin have lived near Lonsdale in the same neighborhood of their birth, since their marriage.

The bride and groom were at the door to meet their guests., Mrs. Mastin in an embroidered navy and sand ensemble of georgette. Everyone extended their heartiest congratulations and hoped that they would be able to celebrate their Golden Wedding. Brother Frank, who was unable to attend, sent his greetings by telegram.

As one entered it was a picture to see the beautifully decorated wedding cake and the many gifts of silver surrounding it. Among the silver were a dozen knives and forks in the La Prance pattern, given by their family.

The early part of the evening was spent in visiting and card playing. A buffet luncheon was served about 11 o'clock. When everyone had finished, Mrs. Clayton Anderson, stepped up beside the bride and groom and read an address, suitable to the occasion, and presented them with a gas lamp, the gift of the "Whiteman family." Mr. Mastin replied in a few well chosen words.

The rest of the evening Miss Edna and Russell Sexsmith entertained with banjo and mouth organ music. The evening came to a pleasant close with the singing of, "Blest be the Tie That Binds."

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE CAMDEN EAST

Our "Grandmother's Day" was celebrated at the August meeting held at Mrs. Black's home. There were present fifteen grandmothers, ten other visitors and the usual number of members. In a few well chosen words the president welcomed the grandmothers. Then Mrs. Dunn read a very appropriate paper entitled, "Grandmother." Roll call was answered by each member exhibiting an antique. This interesting collection of exhibits contained, candle-snuffer and tray, warming pan, 100 years old glass water bottle, very old glass salt dishes, one of which (brought from Ireland years ago) weighs one pound, one of the very tiny glass fruit nappies used by our great-grandmothers; lady's satchel and baby's bonnet, over fifty years old, two brooches, set in silver, one of rock from Gibraltar and the other of Aberdeen Granite; and lastly a woman's hat of fifty years ago, resembling very much a child's bonnet.

The "Current Events" read by Mrs. Curran were much enjoyed. Then followed a buttonhole contest for the grandmothers, after which the president presented each grandmother with a bouquet of sweet peas.

After community singing of several "old favorites" the president announced that the grandmothers would "play sing or say." This was responded to very nicely by each. The eldest grandmother present played and sang very sweetly., "The Shaking of the Hand," while several other voiced their appreciation of the W. I. and its efforts put forth for their entertainment. The last grandmother to respond gave us "An Old Tune," played on a basin. She said, "I don't know its name, but I always liked-it." The audience was much the same; they didn't recognize the tune but they liked it.

The singing of the National Anthem and serving of lunch brought to a close a very pleasant meeting. Several grandmothers in the community, who were ill and could not attend, were remembered and a table bouquet sent to each.

The September meeting of Camden East Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Sexsmith, eighteen members and six visitors being present. After the usual opening exercises, roll call was answered by each member naming an Ontario county and telling why it is important. The minutes of last meeting were read and approved. correspondence, consisting of letters of thanks for flowers and a letter introducing the Department of Health's leaflet on Infantile Paralysis, was read. Much time was spent making plans for our refreshment booth for the school fair.

Business concluded, the following program was enjoyed:—A paper, "The Food Value of Milk and its Products," by Mrs. G. Scheidley; Bandaging Demonstration, by several members; an Historical Paper, "Our County," written by Mrs. E. Hamilton.

Following the singing of the National Anthem a dainty lunch was served by the hostess and committee.

Traveller (to train is about to leave)—Have I time to go to the gate and say good-bye to my wife.

DRESSED POULTRY

The shipping dressed poultry to market the most popular is the box holding one dozen birds. That is the opinion of Mr. F. C. Elford, Dominion Poultry Husbandman, as expressed in Bulletin No. 99 of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa. Standard boxes are made in different sizes so as to pack birds of different weights. It is recommended that such boxes are used and that packing employed as will ensure the birds fitting tightly, so as to avoid shifting about in the journey to market.

For birds weighing 2½ to 3 pounds the inside measurements of the shipping boxes is 19 ⅝ inches by 15 ¼ inches and 4 inches deep, birds from 3 to 3 ½ pounds to be shipped in dozens require a box 21 ½ inches long, 16 inches wide, and 4 ½ inches deep. Large, well finished birds weighing 4 ¾ to 5 ½ pounds required a box with inside dimensions of 26 ½ inches by 18 inches, by 5 ¼ inches.

Whichever of these boxes is used should be lined with parchment paper and for fancy quality it is well also to wrap each bird in this paper. The appearance of the birds when the box is opened largely determines the prices that they will bring.

With dressed poultry as with many other articles of merchandise the pasteboard carton is taking the place of wooden boxes. Mr. Elford recommends a carton 6 inches high, 6 inches wide and 11 inches long for a 5 or 6 pound roaster, or two broilers.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

The other day a woman purchasing a ticket at the reservation office was asked by the booking clerk whether she required an "insurance" ticket.

"No, thank you," was the reply, "we are always taking tickets and we never have any luck."

The indications of worms are restlessness, grinding of the teeth, picking of the nose, extreme peevishness, often convulsions. Under these conditions one of the best remedies that can be got is Miller's Worm Powders. They will attack the worms as soon as administered and they pass away in the evacuations. The little sufferer will be immediately eased and a return of the attack will not be likely.

An attorney recently received an amusing, if cynical, letter from an educated Indian client, who desired him to collect a debt.

After two pages of meticulously correct English the letter concluded: "If you cannot collect the debt by fair mean, try legal proceedings."

Strangled with Asthma is the only expression that seems to convey what is endured from an attack of this trouble. The relief from Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy is beyond measure. Where all was suffering there comes comfort and rest. Breathing becomes normal and the bronchial tubes completely cleared. This unequalled remedy is worth many times its price to all who use it.

Very Slow and Talkative Plumber: "Oh, I remember your little boy, mum. He were in the Infants' class when I went to do a job at the school some time ago."

Exasperated Lady: "Indeed! And what class was he in when you had finished?"

Someone had congratulated the club wit on becoming a father. "Oh, yes, thanks," he said gloomily, "we're quite an international household now. I represent England, my wife Scotland and the babe wails." The club wit was then taken out and destroyed.

An Oil of Merit.— Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is not a jumble of medicinal substances thrown together, and pushed by advertising, but the result of the careful investigation of the healing qualities of certain oils as applied to the human body. It is a rare combination and it won and, keep public favor from the first. A trial of it will carry conviction to any who doubt its power to repair and heal.

Middle-aged Lady: "Then it won't do. When I take it off I shall look ten years older."

"Young Mainwaring was turned down by a lovely girl.

"'No, Mr. Mainwaring,' the girl said, 'it is impossible. The only man I ever loved and ever shall love was killed'—she gulped back a sob—'was killed in the battle of—the battle of—' ?

"'Of Bull Run,' said Mainwaring, and with loud and bitter laughter he rose from his knees, brushed off his trousers and dashed from house."

Ready-made Medicine.—You need no physician for ordinary ills when you have at hand a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. For couchs, colds, sore throat, bronchial troubles, it is invaluable; for scalds, burns, bruises, sprains, it is unsurpassed; while for cuts, sores and the like it is an unquestionable healer. It needs no testimonials other than the use, and that will satisfy anyone as to its effectiveness.

Billiard Player (to marker): "Now can you tell we what a billiard ball does when it stops rolling?"

Marker: "No, sir."

Player: "Locks round, my dear fellow!"

Who tell us that nature is grand,
I fully agree with the poets;
Who tell us that nature at grand,
But I have little praise of a few of her ways:
Which I find I cannot understand.
The bugs which arrive in my orchard,
Leaving sheer desolation behind 'em,
When they go on their raids are arrayed in such shades
That the weeds and the robins can't find 'em.

The aphids, there razor-jawed creatures
Which are scattered around by the gusts,
Are clad in a green of a translucent sheen
That matches the stalks of the plants,
And by never a bug-eating songster
Which over the garden has hovered
Is a forage for food for his hungering brood
The pirating mites are discovered.

The hen, although noisy, is useful
Because of the eggs she will lay,
But a hawk or a kite as they pass in their flight
Can see her a half mile away.
And the birds which make wonderful music
Are a prey to the foes that beset them:
Their plumes are so bright that they glow in the night
And the pot-hunting tomcats can get them.

So I file this complaint against Nature, as given, I hold, to mistakes,
I've contended for long that she's rather too strong
For the worst of the creatures she makes;
For the most of her plentiful blessings
I am filled with a sense of thanksgiving,
But I think that she errs in the habit of hers
Of letting the pests go on living.

WEDDING BELLS

Kennelly-Fraser

A very pretty autumn wedding was solemnized in St. Kilian's Roman Catholic Church, Ardock, Tuesday, September 17th, when Anne Marguerite, elder daughter of Mrs. Catherine Fraser, became the bride of James Edward, third eldest son of Mrs. J. Kennelly, of Cloyne.

Promptly at 10.00 a.m. to the strains of Lohengrin's "Wedding March," played by Miss Mary Gunsinger, cousin of the bride, the bridal party entered the church which was tastefully decorated with autumn flowers. The bride carrying an arm bouquet of Sunburst roses and maiden hair fern, was becomingly attired in a pretty ensemble adorned with lace bodice further enhanced with touches of embroidery in gold and pale pink beads. Her hat and shoes blended in shade with the dress, while trimming of hat harmonized with the shoes.

Miss Rose Fraser was her sister's bridesmaid and wore an attractive gown of rose beige georgette, with touches of silver and gold beaded embroidery and carried a bouquet of cream asters, bridal roses and maiden hair fern. Dan Kennelly ably assisted his brother as groomsman.

The bridal party left the church amid showers of confetti and good wishes to the home of the bride's mother, where dinner was served to immediate relatives. A reception was held in the hall that evening by relatives and friends who gathered from far and near. Those from a distance who attended were: Mrs. Kennelly, Joe and Dan; Mr. and Mrs. Tim Hunt and Nora, of Cloyne; Miss Lena Hunt and brother, Anthony, of Newburgh; Mrs. Evans and John Kennelly, of Centreville; Mr. and Mrs. Pat Hunt, Tom and Jos. of Erinsville; Mr. and Mrs. Will Hunt, of Marlbank; Misses Nora and Margaret Hunt and Pearl Love, Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Martin, Mrs. Kingston; Mr. G. Weber and Michael Scott, of McDonald's Corners. The gifts were numerous and costly, including a large sum of money and a handsome feather travelling case, presented to the bride by the staff of Havelock Park Dairy, Kingston, where she had been employed for the past three years.

Beauty Advisor to smart Toronto society

tells why he agrees with Massé of Paris on "foundation cleansing" with Palmolive soap.

Toronto, dean of Canadian beauty specialists, by the authority of long experience and expert knowledge of all matters of skin care, "Foundation cleansing can best be done with the palm and olive oils in Palmolive soap. This is the basis of all facial treatment. Skin refreshed and cleansed with Palmolive responsive to my own exclusive methods."

Palmolive beauty treatment: With both hands make a bland lather of Palmolive soap and warm water. For two minutes, massage this well into the skin. Then rinse, gradually cooling the water to icy temperature.

This simple method removes all impurities and leaves the skin smooth, refreshed, radiant with healthy, natural color. Palmolive cleanses more gently, more thoroughly.

PUBLIC HIGHWAYS DESECRATED BY SIGNS

For a good many years newspapers have protested against the desecration of natural scenery by billboard advertisements. Sometimes they have not been wholly disinterested, and they have been accused of trying to do in a rival under the cloak of aestheticism. But whatever their motives they have been able to make out a good case, and have enlisted as supporters of their contention most artists and lovers of nature. In late years they have had a much broader basis of enlistment. The motor car has made travellers out of millions who previously know nothing of the country beyond their immediate neighborhood or knew it only from glimpses from a train window on their occasional trips abroad. These travellers, not unnaturally, have taken note of the scenery on their way from one town to another, and when they have found it obliterated or disfigured by advertising signs they have protested. In the United States indeed, there is an association of consumers pledged to boycott the products of advertisers who have chosen beauty spots along a highway to call attention to their wares.

National advertisers who make a study of the public mood now take care in their outdoor advertising that they do not offend the sense of propriety and decency which has been revolted by Niagara Falls, the Grand Canyon and other famous places being desecrated by invitations to buy somebody's liver pills or hair tonic. In the Yellowstone park, for instance, the officials not only forbid advertising but have followed vandals who used rocks to call attention to some product and made them come back to remove their paint. We are strongly in favor of equally drastic measures being taken to prevent public highways in Ontario and the public domain through which they run being disfigured by bill boards and agents of advertisers who deface even the ancient rocks. If there is not a law forbidding such obnoxious practices there should be one. If there is a law it is not enforced, and the responsible minister should see that this negligence is corrected.

On the Fergusen Highway

One Bracebridge garage has signs at staff who recently travelled over the Fergusen highway from Toronto to Temagami brings back a gruesome report of what he saw. He says that hotels, garages and missionaries are the worst offenders. The former call attention to accommodation which they are prepared to supply on the spot. The last hint darkly at accommodation in the world beyond. "Where will you spend eternity?" is an uncomfortable question addressed to travellers whose minds are perhaps occupied with the question of where they will spend the night. These signs, we are assured, are as common along the road as outcroppings of low-grade iron. North of Huntsville on the face of a rock cliff 100 feet above the road there is a proclamation to the effect that Christ died to save the ungodly. To make this point, an artist probably risked his life swinging from a rope hitched to trees above.

Busy Evangelists

One Bracebridge garage has signs at mile and even half mile intervals over a stretch of 40 miles. On the side of the road even the golf clubs, from which one might expect some dignity and reticence, have plastereed signs to draw the old green fee from the tourist. Through the Temagami reserve signs of all kinds are barred. There are not even hot dog stands. Simple name plates mark each lake and river. But the evangelical sign painters have forced their way through and their ominous warnings about eternity deface some of the finest scenery in all the north. They have tried to make their admonitions as permanent as possible for they have painted them on the rock. There are indications that forest rangers have tried to obliterate these by smearing them over with neutral colored paint.

All On Public Property

From North Bay to Sault Ste. Marie one garage has ugly signs at mile intervals over a stretch of 100 miles. There are a few hot dog stands and they warn the tourist long before he reaches them. There is also a religious text actually chiseled in the rock. In this wholesome desecration the scripture vandal seems to have led the way, hotly pursued by garage and hotel owners and the keepers of hot dog emporiums. Considering the fact that the Fergusen highway has been opened for only three years the work of debauchery has made a most promising start. Unless stern measures are taken to check the exuberance of these gentlemen the scenic beauties of the road will be spoiled and one of the great assets of the province pre-empted by imprudent advertisers. To the nature lover it does not much matter whether a charming view is ruined by a text from the Bible or a slogan from some high-priced advertising expert. To the man who is trying to sleep it is a matter of little importance whether he is kept awake by the jazzing of a cocktail party or the braying of a Salvation Army band.—The Mail and Empire.

"That's quite a new departure," as the hotel-keeper said when the guest left by the fire-escape at midnight.

HOLLAND

A Dreamland Filled With Sleeping Villages—Windmills, Peace and Content.

As one-half of Holland is below sea level, windmills are set up like sentries to pump the water into ditches leading to sluice gates, thence to the sea which for ever seeks to flood the water back again. There are tiny toy-like mills also, watchers in the wind, but into gear by wooden floats in the ditch. As the water rises it lifts the float and when the pressure of water threatens to engulf the adjacent lands, the windmill is automatically set working, and its frantic spinning sends the anxious people to their pumps.

Next to windmills the most entertaining feature of a Dutch landscape is a Dutch cow. In Holland cows sometimes wear straw hats or sunbonnets, and it is diverting to see one cow approach another as if asking the old-familiar question, "Is my hat on straight, dear?" Also the motorist will occasionally see one cow being snubbed, if not actually cut, by the herd. She is obviously wearing one of last year's fashions.

We passed crowds of little children as we left the Hook, writes Lt.-Col. P. T. Etherton and A. Dunscombe Allen, in "Through Europe and the Balkans." They were being marshalled in column of route by parents and teachers. Nobody could be so solemn as a Dutch child looks.

We had not travelled a kilometer before we saw an old housewife with brush and bucket washing the trunk of the spreading family tree growing in her trim garden patch. Why? Possibly some Jan Saan had his back against it, and she was thinking of his best coat, or it may be she just washed the tree as she washed the cobble stones—for the sheer joy of washing. We did not know. We only marvelled.

Holland of the musical comedy and the picture postcards exists—but only in parts. The captivating Dutch costume can be seen, especially on Sundays and in Zeeland. Bobbed hair, baggy trousers, tight jackets that stop too soon, and wooden shoes are the correct wear for the men, and the girls remain faithful to a dozen or so petticoats, and a head-dress in full sail. The head-dress of the Zeeland girl varies according to district and religion, but generally its consists of a wide, flared bowl of white-starched linen, cunningly set off by large gold ornaments of square or cockscrew pattern fixed in the hair above the temples.

But what a country to motor through! It is a dreamland filled with sleeping villages en route like that one always seems to be in the same place. Restfulness, peace, content; these things are the charm of Holland, whose quiet beauty acts as a sedative.

Everside brings the message of the bells, for Holland is famous for its carillons. These bells are worked either by a wheel in the shape of a revolving cask, or by a skilled musician striking the notes on a keyboard.

Mooring through quaint villages and medieval towns, one hears over land and water, the sweet music of Dutch folk-songs, wafted from the belfries. The art of the bell-player or carillonneur in the Low Countries is an honorable profession directed by strict and ancient rules.

But all Holland is not an embanked plain. Later we renewed acquaintance with the pine-clad hills around Arnhem, which extend by the rolling heath and woods of Oisterwijk, Laren, and a hundred other localities, where there are many bold prospects. We were charmed with the spreading forests of great trees, magnificent country seats and parklands with delightful vistas, which follow after the dyked Holland country has been left behind.

BULL FIGHTS IN FRANCE.

This Form of Sport Is Spreading In the South.

The spread of the sport of bull fighting in France is arousing the indignant opposition of some of the French newspapers.

A writer in the Figaro declares that cities like Bourges, Nevers and Vichy now have their Plazas de Toros with star matadors imported from Spain, and "extensive publicity to whet the appetities of those who find a thrill in spectacles of butchery."

One advertisement quoted points out that "women and children should witness this memorable spectacle and come to admire the skill of the matador who won the prize for bull-fighting in 1925."

The writer in La Figaro concludes: "Apart from considerations of humanity, the spectacle of bulls and horses being butchered in the arena is calculated to harden the rising generation to the callousness and cruelty of modern warfare, to blunt that sense which with horror at the thought of such human butchery as has been witnessed in the cellars of the Chekа, if that most ferocious and dangerous of beasts, the mob, is given a taste of blood, then beware!"

Monument to Patriots.

The city hall of Stockholm, Sweden, is a massive $10,000,000 structure of red brick, with a roof of bright copper. The copper was laid on in plates, each of which represents the patriotic spirit of the citizens. During the great war, when copper rose in value, the city council decided that the high cost prohibited the use of copper on the roof. But then the citizens of Stockholm subscribed as individuals, each contributing $6 to buy a copper shingle. Nobody was allowed to give more than one plate, but many thousands contributed, and thus the building got its copper roof. The name of each donor is engraved on the plate he paid for.

A DOUBLE-DECKED CITY

Sao Salvador Getting In Elevators—Population of 350,000.

While congested cities in the United States are planning double-decked streets, Brazil is using United States capital to improve her double-decked city, Bahia de Sao Salvador de Todos as Santos (Bay of Holy Saviour of All Saints), better known as Bahia, or Sao Salvador, which has existed since 1510.

It is a city of 350,000 and until 1762 was the capital of the country. It is the first important port north of Rio de Janeiro. Those whose business takes them between the first and second storeys of the city must make use of an elevator or a road like a long, winding ramp. Most of the business and residence sections are on the second storey, while the docks are below. New elevators are being built by the Brazillian Electric Power Co., an adjunct of the Electric Bond and Share Co. of New York, which has the light, power, telephone, trolley and elevator concession in Montevideo, Uruguay.

The bizarre reinforced concrete structure with its tower will be 240 feet high. Two shafts are 200 feet, each with an elevator with a capacity of 27 persons, operated by electricity and making the trip in thirty seconds. If they step lively, 4,000 riders can be handled in an hour.

Small But Mighty.

A small electrical instrument, four inches across and not seven inches high, will, it is claimed, detect an escape of only 1¾ per cent. of gas in any tunnel or inspection chamber. When the escape occurs this instrument warns the nearest telephone exchange.

Miles of Bandages.

In one of the London hospitals last year 127 miles of bandages were used.

MANCHURIA ATTRACTS.

Thousands Leave War-Torn Section to Prospect Land of Opportunity.

Manchuria, according to a Science Service bulletin, especially the northern part through which runs the disputed Chinese Eastern Railway, is the golden land of opportunity for Asia. This area, once the hunting ground of the Manchu princes, is now the promised land for thousands of immigrants. They are hunting not merely the wild game which still abounds but the fertile land for farms and homes.

Last year about 1,500,000 people flocked from the war-torn and famished parts of China to the part of Manchuria that is served by the Chinese Eastern Railway. It is estimated, however, that about two-thirds of this territory still remains uncultivated. About forty-five million acres of rich arable land in North Manchuria are yet untouched by the plough.

Lighthouses Before 1822.

Before lighthouses were lit by oil they were lit by coal fires. The last of these burned until 1822.

If any of the visitors of The Hague Conference take a day off on one of the canals they will soon come across a novel method of measuring time.

The canal men of Holland measure the distance they travel by the number of pipes they smoke en route, and, as they are continually smoking, it forms a reliable guide.

Similarly in some of the country districts around the Rhine the peasants repeat the Miserere slowly while making tea. When they finish their "piece" the tea is "drawn." The Lord's Prayer, repeated slowly, is a frequent method of timing the boiling of an egg.

IS YOUR APPETITE POOR?

PERHAPS by dieting or other means, you have been treating the symptoms, rather than the cause. Loss of appetite, heartburn, sour stomach, are symptoms that the blood is impure. This explains the successful use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in all such cases. Here is a typical example:—

"I began to feel easily tired," writes Miss Margaret White, of Parry Sound, "and when I sat down to a meal I felt I did not want to eat. A doctor told me I was anaemic but I made little progress with his medicine. When I started taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I soon noticed that my appetite was improving, that the headaches came less frequently and that I was not so easily tired. Now my weight has increased, my cheeks are rosy and every ache and pain has vanished."

Start today to improve your appetite. Buy Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from your druggist's or by mail, postpaid, at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ontario. Send for free book—"What to Eat and How to Eat".

LAND REFORM IN SPAIN.

Large Estates Are Being Turned Into Small Holdings.

The remarkable change which has been in process in the agricultural organization of Spain since 1925 is described in a report prepared for the International Labor Office at Geneva by one of its experts, O. Gafrel.

In eighteen months up to August, 1929, the General Directorate of Agricultural Social Questions took over "19 estates with a total area of about 20,000 hectares (45,000 acres) inhabited by 2,278 settlers' families." The land is "assigned to settlers on a long-term loan, subject to an immediate payment equal to 20 per cent. of the value of the holding." Two of the estates were "municipal property and were offered free of charge to the Directorate. The others belonged to private persons and were purchased at a total cost of 9,132,700 pesetas or less than 500 pesetas per hectare."

The large estates in Spain date mainly from the struggle to expel the Arabs. The Kings of Spain, wishing to insure the support that was indispensable to them, made large concessions of land to the nobility and clergy. "Some of these estates came to cover immense tracts of land," and in the arid regions they were entrusted to serfs to work for the benefit of the overlord; where there was a considerable rainfall, the estates were parcelled out on a peashold system which did not give sufficient security of tenure. Consequently, the "considerable improvements in agricultural conditions" introduced by the Arabs who had "done much to develop irrigation, particularly in the east and south" fell into disuse. The Arabs "had also introduced new crops such as rice, fruit-trees and sugarcane—which require active cultivation and which consequently led to dividing the land into relatively small holdings."

Land reform in Spain dates from a bill approved by the Cortes in 1907, but up to 1925 very little had been done, and in the way of rural settlement on the large estates, only some 11,000 hectares altogether having been divided among 1,672 settlers since 1908. In the eastern provinces, on the other hand, where conditions favor small-scale farming, the land was, and still is, parcelled out into "a great number of holdings which are sometimes too small."

The new scheme has already cost the State 10,000,000 pesetas merely for the purchase of land.

THE EUCALYPTUS.

Landscapes of California Enriched by Introduction of Australian Tree.

The landscapes of California have been greatly enriched by the acclimatization of the eucalyptus. It is not often that the presence of an imported ingredient adds a natural element to the charm of scenery; but the eucalyptus . . . has so truly native an appearance that it seems as if its introduction from Australia must have been more in the nature of a home-coming than of an adoption. The wide plains and valleys are now everywhere graced by ranks and splinneys of these fine trees, beautiful alike, whether trailing their tufty sprays in the wind, or standing, as still as if painted, in the torrid air. . . The long, scimitar-like leaves are as fine in shape as can be imagined, and each tree carries a full scale of color in its foliage—the blue-white of the new, the olive of the mature, and the brilliant russets and crimsons of the leaves that are ready to fall. The bark is as interesting as the foliage, its prevailing color a delicate fawn, smooth enough to take on fine tone reflections from soil and sky. Long shards and ropes of bark hang like brown feather from stem and branches, making a lively clatter as they rasp and chafe in the wind, and revealing, as they strip away, the dainty creams and greenish-whites of the inner bark.

The tree's habit of growth sets off its beauties to the best advantage, long spaces of the trunk, arms, and smaller branches showing all their handsome colors and "drawing" between the dense plumes of foliage. In early summer the tree blows with a profusion of blossoms uniquely tasteful, and later, the seed - vessels are as quaint and curious as rare seashells. To crown all, the tree is as fragrant as sandalwood, and the scent a hundred times more robust than that exotic perfume.—J. Smeaton Chase, in "California Coast Trails."

A WONDERFUL AIRPLANE.

Has Been Built as a "Tramp" of the Skyways.

The bulkiest articles can be transported across the world at a speed of 100 miles an hour is a new airplane which has recently passed the fullest flying tests. Its spacious cabin looks like a railway baggage van, for the machine has been built as a "tramp" of the skyways.

It is known as the Vickers Vellore, and can be used as a freight-carrier, for the transport of troops, or as a long-distance liner. The two Napier Lion engines with which it is fitted develop more than 1,000 horsepower, and with extra tanks to carry additional petrol, the machine could remain in the air for between seventy and eighty hours.

Electricity supplies the lighting of this aerial pantechnicon. The sides and roof are reinforced with wooden stays, and the floor, built up of wood in the manner of an underground railway carriage, is similarly strengthened.

GOOD IN EVERY WAY

Baby Own Tablets Banish Babyhood and Childhood Ailments.

A medicine that all mothers praise is one that is good in every way—one that will quickly banish minor ills of baby-hood and childhood—the medicine to keep in the house, ready for use in the nursery chest; to always have on hand for use at the first sign of emergency. Such a medicine is Baby's Own Tablets, for they are helpful at all times. They are a mild but thorough laxative, made by regulating the bowels and stomach banish colds and simple fevers, correct constipation and indigestion, relieve colic and diarrhoea and make the cutting of teeth easy.

Thousands of mothers use no other medicine for their little ones. Among them is Mrs. J. H. Bromley, Westmeath, Ont., who writes:—"I have two children and whenever any of them are ill I always use Baby's Own Tablets and have found them good in every way. I would not be without the Tablets and would also like your little booklet, Care of the Baby in Health and Sickness."

There is a "Death Chamber" in the FLY-TOX factory. It is used to test the quality of FLY-TOX as a spray to kill flies, mosquitoes, bedbugs, roaches, etc. During a test a large number of young, healthy insects are placed inside the cabinet. These insects are raised in incubators for testing purposes. While the insects are flying and crawling around in the "Chamber of Death," FLY-TOX is sprayed inside. Less than a teaspoonful is used. Instantly there is a change. Within five minutes not a buzz is heard. All insects are dead, the insects are carefully removed from the "Chamber of Death" and placed in incubators in an effort to revive them. If a wing flutters, the FLY-TOX tested never leaves the factory. This test is your guarantee of FLY-TOX quality. It does what you want it to do—kills insects in and about your home. Yet, PLY-TOX is positively harmless to people. FLY-TOX was developed at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by Rex Research Fellowship. It will not stain. Has a delightful perfume-like fragrance. There is only one FLY-TOX—insist upon the genuine in bottles with blue labels.—Adv. 40a

THE LIFE OF WM. BOOTH

"GOODNESS IS NOT DULL AND STUFFY," HE SAID.

Was Fifty Years of Age When He Set In Motion World-Wide Organization—Only Love Could Save the World, He Said.

Just a hundred years ago there was born in a mean Nottingham street a child destined to make more unhappy people happy than anyone else of his generation.

William Booth was his name. He was nicknamed Wilful Will in his youth, and in his age the world called him General Booth of the Salvation Army.

His childhood was as sad as a rainy day in a sooty backyard. There was so much gloom at home that he was driven to find his fun in the streets, where he became ringleader of a band of boys who called him the Captain.

His father was born poor, but with a longing to be rich. He made enough money to set up as a builder, buy property and live in rather a grand style. But he was ruined, and died of heartbreak. One night William was called from his sleep to say good-bye to his father.

Mrs. Booth tried to make a living by opening a shop where she sold cotton and tape and such odds and ends. She was oppressed by the thought of how the family had come down in the world, and people were half afraid of the silent woman with the tragic face.

William, the only boy of four children, had been told that his father would make a gentleman of him, but at 13 he was sent to work for a pawnbroker. Every day he saw the poorest and lowest sort of people, every day he heard tales of hardships and want.

He thought about it till one thing became very clear: most of the unhappiness in the world came from badness. What was the cure for the selfishness that made the world full of sorrow? At 15 William Booth quietly decided that there was no cure but the love of God and man.

He had a friendship, like the friendship of David and Jonathan, for a youth who was doomed to die of consumption; but before he died this lad started street meetings in the Nottingham slums and made shy William Booth join in the hymns. At last William Booth found that he must speak too.

He was 17 then, a tall, pale boy with flashing black eyes. Someone who remembered that first sermon 70 years later said it was given in a tiny cottage in Kid street. It was such a strange sermon for a young man to preach, the women thought. He described a baby learning to walk, and asked if a mother would scold it for stumbling? He said it was hard to live a Christian life, and we ought not to judge the stumblers but to run and help them.

Another time the same hearer listened to him preaching in the street to a sullen group of men, asking them if there was a child at home cold and hungry because they had wasted their wages. That was a fiery sermon, not like the tender sermon preached in the cottage, and William Booth's whole character can be guessed from the two.

At last he gave up the pawnbroker's shop and determined to be a preacher, even if he starved. He became a minister in a chapel, but in the end he found that the worst people were afraid of churches and chapels, and, of course, it was the worst people he wanted to reach.

So he created a new thing, the Salvation Army. Few people realize that this great organization was founded, not in the flush of his youthful strength, but in his fiftieth year, and when his health had gone. Into the slums it came, flags flying, drums beating, tambourines ringing, to tell the bad people: "Goodness is not something dull and stuffy. Goodness is happiness!" Too many hymn tunes are dismal, so William Booth made his followers sing hymns to the tunes of popular songs. "Why should the devil have all the best tunes?" he asked.

At first the Salvation Army had bitter enemies. Its meetings were broken up by bullies, and the processions were pelted with stones and refuse. But, inspired by the wonderful characters of William and Catherine Booth, the soldiers withstood all persecution. Gradually the world saw that they really were making bad people good and sad people happy. They were finding starving men, scrubbing dirty homes, and clothing ragged children, too. Rich people started to give to the poor through the Salvation Army, and it spread over the whole world. Wherever there were slums the Army flag appeared. Wherever there was poverty Salvation Army came to the rescue with some principal plan for helping the sufferers to help themselves.

Then, in his old age, when his beloved wife was dead and he was blind, kings and princes paid tribute to William Booth, Oxford honored him, and he received the Freedom of the City of London. But when he lay on his death-bed he was not thinking of these things, "Promise me," he demanded of his son, "promise that you care for the homeless. I am not thinking of this country only, but of all lands. Look after the homeless."

So he died at 83, still full of pity that had touched his heart at 15, and still certain that only love could save the world. On the night of his death thousands were praying for him in shelters and homes who would have been sleeping in prison or on doorsteps but for William Booth.

If his father had prospered, and if William Booth had had a better chance in life, what a tragedy it would have been for the whole world!

MUD DEPOSITS VALUED AS SOIL AMENDMENT

Muds are deposits formed by tides or found in beds of ponds, lakes and streams. Their composition is extremely variable and dependent to a large degree upon their origin and method of formation; they consist largely of ground up rock matter, clay and sand, together with shell, more or less broken up, and organic debris (the remains of plants and animals) in variable quantities.

The percentages of plant food in mud are, as a rule, not high. In many cases they do not exceed those of good soils. Certain muds, however, contain notable amounts of nitrogen and organic matter and these, more particularly, are of value as soil amendments. Possibly the value of most "muds" has been found to be in improving the mechanical condition of worn and exhausted soils. Muds characterized by a high lime content, as for example "unleached mud" and "Oyster shell mud," will be found useful amendments for acid soils and soils in need of lime, furnishing fairly high amounts of carbonate of lime. While the lime contained in the shells of these classes of mud acts somewhat slowly, the results are lasting, and these materials have been used with good results for the correction of soil acidity on many farms of the Maritime provinces. Muds, even of good quality, cannot, however, be expected to take the place of manure and fertilizer.

Of late years the practice of "mudding" the soil has become less popular and apparently is gradually dying out. This is probably due to the fact that recent advances in scientific agriculture have made it possible to more economically improve the productiveness of the soil by improved methods of farming, including the rational use of manure, than by the application of this class of soil amendment.

While there are many soils which may no doubt be temporarily improved by a dressing of good mud, care should be taken to ascertain the nature with respect to the composition of the soil, the cost of labor for digging, etc. Tests by field trials on a small scale before any great expenditure is made.

Decorative Bulb Planting

This is the last chance to make sure of a fine display of flowers in bulbs next Spring. Tulips, Jonquils, Daffodils Snowdrops, and Crocuses should be secured immediately and planted so that they will be able to establish themselves before Winter sets in and be all ready to spring into flower shortly after the snow disappears seven months hence. Many kinds of these Spring bulbs are well adapted for planting in the grass along the driveway or walks, or here and there through the lawn. Some people make a practise of throwing the very early Spring bulbs, such as crocuses over their shoulder on to the lawn and of planting wherever they fall. A hole is dug with a trowel and about two inches of good soil placed in the bottom and the bulb planted a depth of about twice its diameter. The larger bulbs make a better showing when placed in clumps of from half a dozen to twenty-five and planted in the perennial bed or in borders. There are many varieties of tulips, so that, if a proper selection is made a steady supply can be had from early Spring until June.

Planting Outside

It is a simple matter to have a brilliant display of blooms within a few weeks after the snow disappears. To get this picture bulbs now and plant outside. These bulbs are imported by the seedsmen from Holland where they were grown this year, and in which the flower for next year is already formed. On this account, it is advisable to get the largest size bulbs which naturally contain the largest flowers, and with which fewer "misses" in bloom will be experienced. The bulbs are planted outside in September, where they will develop root growth before they freeze-up and in good position to spring forth just as soon as the snow disappears in the spring. Snowdrops will bloom as soon as this disappears. C. D. Batchelor presents a cartoon depicting highway robbery as-was and gone, and these are followed in rapid succession by scillas, crocuses, Grape and Dutch hyacinth, narcissus, Cottage, Darwin and Breeder Tulips There is also a single early tulip which will come first of all, although it is not as beautiful as the Darwin and later sorts. By selecting varieties carefully, and keeping in mind the time of blooming there will be some flowering by these bulbs from early in April until almost July. Tulips, narcissus and hyacinths should be planted from four to six inches deep and about the same distance apart, while the smaller bulbs should be planted about two inches apart and about two inches deep. In very heavy soil, the shallower planting should be followed.

Planting Inside

This is the time to plant those which one wishes to have bloom indoors from late November until March. This is a simple form of gardening and practically all of the ordinary Spring bulbs such as narcissus, hyacinths, Chinese lillies, tulips, freesias, scillas and daffodils can easily be grown indoors in soil, water or fibre.

The latter substance which can be bought at any seed store, along with the bulbs, is the cleanest to handle, can be used over and over again and usually gives generally satisfactory results. With the exception of the Chinese lily which is planted with the top of the soil, fibre or gravel; the bulbs should be planted in pots deep enough so that the roots will grow above the surface. Water lightly and place in some dark, cold corner where the temperature can be kept well below 50 degrees, is possible. The narcissus will bloom in about six to eight weeks, while the hyacinths, tulips and daffodils will not come on for two or three months. By planting in succession, particularly with narcissus, two or three crops can be secured, but with these bulbs that take a longer time to flower a succession of bloom is more easily obtained by using early, medium and late varieties. With the tulips, select those varieties which are specially adapted for forcing. Drainage should be provided where soil is used, but it is not necessary with fibre, which substance makes ideal material where fancy bowls are used. After planting, with the exception of the freesias, leave in the cool temperature and dark place until a good root growth has developed and the sprouts are up about an inch. One or two pots can be turned out in the hand to make sure that the root growth is spreading around inside. When this stage has been reached, water more liberally and bring out into the light at a temperature of about 5 degrees. In a week or two, remove to full sun and 65 or 70 degrees. Under the plants are only dark but they will develop too quickly and small sickly flowers are the result. Usually they commence to bloom only a few weeks before blooming. After they are out in flower, keep in a cool room or garden, regularly, if you can spare one of the country's detrimental to the state at large. Highway advertising as now practised in many places has this effect."

The ideal condition would, of course, be municipal statutes clearing the roadside at least five hundred feet the only proper place, if any, for rural billboards being that far back, parallel and not en curves.

But how are you going to get such laws enacted? My observation has been that any such proposed legislation can easily get favorable committee action but by the time the actual passage, there has been a great change of heart, and invariably, the brave little bill is fore-doomed to failure.

And so, whenever I hear of another such ambitious legislative program, I recall the closing words of the colored preacher's funeral sermon: "We hope he's gone where we know he ain't."

You see the average politician can think in terms of votes alone. To be sure, he does not put it exactly that way. His claim is that he means to obey his constituents' wishes—to represent them in fact as well as in name. Yet it is notoriously true that the people's mandate is far more audible just before election day than at any time therefore. To try to excite people's sympathy, the billboard blighters whine that, if (and when) billboards are abolished, a number of workers will be thrown out of employment. That's true. But its' equally true of bootlegging, also of the manufacture of toy cannon and the wherewithal for various other forms of public nuisance.

The press, as a rule, is willing, but weak—anxious enough in the editorial sanctum to stand for anything that's right, but the business office keeping its ear close to the ground lest some present or potential patron curtail his advertising space. My own active interest had been decidely on the wane when, to my surprise and delight, I happened to read just a year ago a ringing editorial in the biggest newspaper in the United States. I really believed they meant what they said and that they intended to "stay put." So I wrote congratulating and thanking them; pointing out that, if they would keep it up and force the fighting, the days of such "highway robbery" were numbered. Imagine my amazement a few days later to see my signed article deleted without my authority and printed under a headline with my sentiments! Disgusted though I was, I could not repress a smile for I was reminded of the many old croon, who, while she was accidentally sliding down a dangerous cliff, screeching at the top of her voice: "Good Lord, good devil; Good Lord, good devil!" (Not knowing where she was headed for, she was determined to take no chances with either side). It also called to mind the master-strategist, Kuropatkin, who never won a battle because he invariably planned his retreat before ordering his advance! Well, that great metropolitan daily was not the only source from which I received billboard rebuffs during the last twelve months, for the editor of a well-known weekly —probably the greatest in the world—wrote me that he was whole-heartedly with us but that the subject was not sufficiently important to unduly stress. Another Kuropatkin; more "good Lord, good devil." Anybody with ordinary common sense can see that any thing mock-modesty and worse than half-hearted attitude, the newspapers and magazines are actually encouraging the billboard blighters to grab a considerable part of the advertising that properly belongs on the printed page and act along the roadside where it is in fact resented by the purchasing public. If, or, rather when rural billboards disappear the newspapers and the magazines cannot fail to come into their own. Every dollar legitimate business out of which the blighters are now cheating them. The women of Honolulu won a bloodless victory over night by telling the local merchants in plain English that the billboards had to go. And they went! If in Hawaii, who not here? Downright threats are not necessary wherein alternatives are presented. Gentlemen prefer always count; and if the advertiser is to awake to the needless expense to which he is being subjected to enrich the few and annoy the many, it will be necessary to enlighten him in no uncertain terms.

Owen Meredith said: "The world is a nettle. Disturb it, it stings. Grasp it firmly, it stings not. The same philosophy inspired an American soldier in the front-line trenches to write:

If you think you're beaten, you are
If you think you don't dare, you don't Though you'd like to win, if you think you can't
It's almost a cinch you won't

Life's battles don't always go
To the stronger or faster man
For it generally happens the one who wins
Is the fellow who thinks he can.

The will to win is half the fight; and when right and might are power of overwhelming sentiment stand—as in this instance—shoulder to shoulder, there should be and can be but one result. And believe me, those billboards—every one of them—will come edown just as soon as the powers make it known that they so decree and (most of all) that they don't mean "maybe!"

(Signed) Samuel McGowan.

REAR ADMIRAL SAMUEL McGOWAN DISAPPROVES OF BILLBOARDS

Theodore Roosevelt said: "Do not let selfish men or greedy interests skin your country of its beauty, its riches or its romance."

Are "selfish men" and "greedy interests" being made to understand that the words of the immortal Roosevelt are to be translated into action?

James J. Montague answers under the caption—

He Who Rides Must Read

Along the rural thoroughfare
I often travel here and there;

And as I drive, I look and learn
On every straightway and turn.

Unless my molars I would lose,
I've learned what tooth paste I should use.

I learn from many a pictured scene
To buy eight kinds of gasoline.

And what to smoke and what to wear
And where to find pure mountain air.

And where my wife can purchase gowns
In half a dozen different towns.

I rarely see a field or hill,
A lake, a river or a rill;

The oaks, the maples and the pines
Rise grimly behind rows of signs

Which stretch in one long, winding lane
Across the hills and o'er the plain.

But, when once more I reach my cot,
I will admit I've read a lot.

Of the present billboards along our country roadsides, the Chief of the United States Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Public Roads says:

"Their disfigurement of the landscape is a matter of disgrace."

William Evans

The many relatives and friends of William Evans, Dalhousie, will be deeply grieved to learn of his death, which occurred at Rochester, Minn., while on his way to his former home at Moscow. Mr. Evans and his wife were motoring to Canada, when he developed pneumonia and after a day's illness passed away August 26th.

The late Mr. Evans was a gentleman of splendid character of undoubted honesty and integrity and a devoted husband and father. Leaving his farm home in Moscow some thirty-eight years ago he went to reside in Texas, where he has lived ever since. He had just retired from active work a month previous and was going to enjoy a prolonged visit with his former acquaintances and friends, when he was called to his eternal home.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife and son, Hugh, of Dallas, and a daughter, Mrs. Roscoe Purvis, Arlington, as well as two brothers, James and John, of Moscow and six sisters; Mrs. Thomas Dunn, Mrs. Mary Scalin, Mrs. Frances Dillon, Mrs. Joseph Penn, of Enterprise, Mrs. Thos. Scanlin, of Tamworth, and Miss Ella, of Moscow. The sympathy of the entire community is extended to them in their recent bereavement.

Thomas French

On September 3rd the village of Roblin was shocked to hear of the death of its well known citizen in the person of Thomas French.

The deceased had been in poor health for some time and in spite of the best of earthly care he continued to grow steadily worse until death at last relieved him of his suffering.

The late Mr. French was in his fortieth year, a son of the late William French and Mrs. Fralick and a life long resident of this village.

In earlier life he had the misfortune to have on of his legs amputated but with his characteristic courage he continued at his work until the time of his death.

Among all the people of the countryside he stood as an example of what may be obtained by perserverance and courage, even in the face of great obstacles.

While following the occupation of a thresher he met many people and he was "everyone's friend." Kindly remembered for his cheerful manner, his ambition and his kindness.

His funeral, which was largely attended was held in the Holiness Church, on Thursday, September 5th, interment being made at Camden V. Cemetery.

FATHER

DONKEYS IN TANGIER

Patient and Gentle, They Do Their Duty In Spite of Many Difficulties and Hardships.

In Tangier, and indeed everywhere in the East, the donkeys speak for themselves, no testimonials are necessary. They do their duty in spite of many difficulties and hardships, with an individuality and peaceful charm which, as one watches them day by day, grows ever more impressive. Coming down the hill into the Grand Socco early one morning, you may see numbers of them standing in a row inside the railing, waiting for their masters. First a tiny gray thing, almost like a mouse, were it not for those long feathery ears. The little legs are so slender, such wee hoofs, he seems only fit for a plaything; and yet he will carry his load with courage; you can see it in the soft yet bright eye, and the toss of his woolly head. Next him are two little dark fellows, their coats almost the same warm brown hue as the faces of their owners. These have pert tawny noses; the long ears come forward, they are taking notice, perhaps discussing some knotty problem of weight or distance. Donkeys always have so wise a look. Near by stands a tall, light gray Algerian beast; beside his small brothers he is like a coach horse beside a Shetland pony. Patience is written all over him; even resignation. He does not show so much interest in his surroundings as do the little neighbors. And there are others, a long line; all colors, all sizes, grave and gay. Everywhere you look they are around you; coming, going, waiting in the Socco, climbing the narrow street, loading up with charcoal in the market. Here a big one with boxes pannierwise on either side full of syphons, there a string of little ones carrying bricks or sand. Then a tall, bearded Moor bestrides a small dark beast, long brown legs dangling on either side; or a fawn-colored one bearing vegetables, crowned with a great cluster of gourds, which look like a gigantic clutch of eggs in a nest of lettuces. Upon some, veiled women ride slowly, on others, small bare-legged boys; Negroes negligently balancing in sidelong attitude, donkeys with loads, donkeys with riders, with none, with both; donkeys gay and lively, or grave and serious — but mostly serious.

They creep into one's affections; it is easy to see each one as an integral feature of the household, in which he is indeed a most important possession. Such toil as he undertakes should meet with a greater appreciation. But appreciated or not, the donkey shows no resentment, meets all with patience, and sets forth daily on his round of duty. Whatever the burden, however long the journey, you cannot fail to be impressed by the courage, the resolution and endurance shown by these sturdy little animals. They plod along with bent heads through the beating rain and wind, moisture streaming from their shaggy coats, but still plucky and willing, though maybe their ears may droop a trifle sadly. Bright eyed, ears pricked, gay, in the hot sunshine, little pattering hoofs hurrying toward their goal. In rain or shine, in heat or cold, willing, faithful, enduring.

And here in the East pictures come to thought, of Mary the gentle mother riding down to Bethlehem; and of Jesus as He entered into Jerusalem,—"Lowly and riding upon an ass"—as the prophet foretold. Here in Tangier to-day, as through all the intervening centuries, patient and gentle, the donkeys carry their burdens in honorable service.

JAPAN'S CHRISTIANS.

Has 154,521 Protestants, Showing an Increase of 5,237.

Christians of registered Protestant church membership in Japan number 154,521, an increase of 5,237 over last year, according to the National Christian Council.

The Presbyterian Church heads the list with over 40,000 members. There are nearly 160,000 Sunday school students in the country. The amount of offerings collected in these churches totalled more than $1,000,000 during last year, while a sum equal to about one-quarter of that was received for the support of these churches from the United States. This does not include funds received for educational, medical or other institution.

While the number of Christians among the Japanese is proportionately small, being less than one-half per cent. of the population, many benefits from the work of missionaries are acknowledged and appreciated. One observer, himself not a church worker, said recently: "The Japanese church is the child of the west's bankruptcy of conscience. Any one who measures a child's worth by its size!" Roman Catholic and Greek orthodox missions are not included in the figures, but together they do not number more than 150,000.

"Italian Only."

A manifesto signed by the Podesta or Mayor of Bolzano, described by foreign reports as "most important," posted in the streets of Bolzano, marks definitely the end of the Germanic language in the public life of Bolzano, Tyrol. Hitherto all signs, street names and public notices have been written in both the Italian and German languages for the benefit of Italy's new subjects, who could only understand German, but from Nov. 1 all German signs, whatever their nature, must be cancelled. Only signs written in the Italian language will be allowed to be posted in public places. From Oct. 1 onward, too, teaching in the elementary schools of Bolzano will be imparted exclusively in the Italian language.

FARMER'S WIFE GETS STRENGTH

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Wilton, Ont.—"I am taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound through the Change of Life. It helps me and I cannot praise it too highly. I was troubled with heat flashes and my limbs were heavy so I could hardly walk to do my farm work. I saw in the newspapers year ad about the Vegetable Compound and thought to give it a trial. The first bottle gave me relief and I have told others what it does for me. I am willing for you to use my letter if you choose."—Mrs. D. B. Perras, Wilton, Ontario.

U. S.-CANADIAN TRADE.

In Twenty Years It Has Increased to Over $1,000,000,000.

Since Canada and the United States have become each other's chief customer it is interesting to note the growth of this trade and the type of commodities that pass back and forth across the international boundary country.

Going back twenty years we find that the Dominion's total trade with the United States was valued at less than $500,000,000, with the exports representing a little less than a third of it. A decade later this had grown to approximately $1,000,000,000, the proportion of imports as compared with exports remaining about the same.

For the twelve months ended April 1928 the imports alone amounted in value to $724,000,000, or an increase in total trade of around $250,000,000 in ten years. For the same period ending last April there occurred another upward jump of $119,000,000, so that the total trade with the United States now represents over $1,411,000,000. As exports account for $505,000,000 of this Canada's balance of trade has slightly improved, although it still has behind to the tune of nearly $400,000,000.

Canada is forced to buy from the United States such "raw" products as iron, cotton, coal and petroleum, at an annual cost of $325,000,000, $48,000,000, $30,000,000 and $51,000,000 respectively. It also buys crude rubber to the extent of $17,000,000, raw silk costing $4,500,000, vegetable oils $7,000,000, unmanufactured tobacco $5,500,000 and unmanufactured wood $10,000,000. The annual bill for fruits, largely fresh, is $31,000,000, for furs $12,000,000, and for grain and grain products $16,500,000. When it comes to purchasing of the finished article the Dominion incurs a bill for its automobiles amounting to $104,000,000, over half of which, however, is for parts. The same year in 1928 cost only $10,000,000. It pays $51,000,000 for rolling mill products, $56,000,000 for machinery, $41,000,000 for agricultural instruments, $25,700,000 for chemical products, $13,500,000 for books and printed matter and $11,000,000 for paper. Another major item is electric apparatus, costing $25,000,000 a year.

When it comes to selling goods to the United States the largest return is from paper (largely newsprint) amounting to over $125,000,000 annually, the second is from metals (chiefly copper, binder copper, nickel and gold), totalling $78,000,000, and unmanufactured wood, nearly $73,000,000. Manufactured wood brings in $37,000,000, largely for chemical pulp. Nearly $20,000,000 worth of grain and products, for which wheat accounts for more than half, $15,000,000 worth of fish and $17,000,000 worth of live animals cross the border into the United States each year. The revenue from alcoholic beverages comes to $24,000,000. Tourists, largely American, expend annually around $250,000,000 in the Dominion, thus leaving a credit balance in favor of Canada.

MICHIGAN'S FAVORITE BIRD.

Robin Is Best Known and Best Loved Native Bird.

With 275,000 votes to its credit, the robin walked away with the honor of being chosen as the official bird in the State of Michigan. Of course, it was anticipated for many days that the robin was the favorite from the choice of the school children, but the actual votes cast,

The late Prof. Burrows, Michigan's great ornithologist, said the robin is "our most abundant, best known, and generally best loved bird," and this is also given as the most sufficient reason for its selection.

John Burroughs always claimed that the robin is the most nationalized democratic" of all our birds. Of one thing we are certain, there is no lovelier known bird than this. It is early, the first we learned to identify and it always dominated our bird world through its aggressive personality.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Mr. Editor—

Through the courtesy of your pages, the British Welcome and Welfare League, Toronto, would like to broadcast a message to every Britisher in Canada.

Since 1907 our institution has been carrying on a great work—extending to deserving settlers from the British Isles, a hearty welcome, temporary accommodation and rendering such other help and advice as will enable them to become worthy citizens of Canada.

The League is a public patriotic, philanthropic organization, carried on by public-spirited citizens, aided in a small degree by municipal, provincial and dominion authorities, but in the main dependent upon public subscriptions for its maintenance.

In a few weeks our financial year will close, and we must set out to raise $12,000 to carry on for the coming year. May we appeal most earnestly to all Britishers, particularly those hundred thousand newcomers, who have been offered a welcome at our hands—to rally to our aid at this time.

Funds are urgently needed. From $1 to $1,000. Subscriptions will be most gratefully received, and will be formally acknowledged by our treasurer.

Yours cordially,

ALBERT CHAMBERLAIN,
President, British Welcome and Welfare League, Toronto, Corner Gerrard and Pembroke, Sts Toronto.

NAPANEE COLLEGIATE LOSE TO TRENTON, BY SCORE OF 1-0

The N.C.I. rugby team inaugurated the rugby season in Trenton on Saturday last, when they played their first game in a very impressive manner, although beaten by a score of 1-0.

The summary is as follows: Trenton kicked off, leaving our boys well back of their own line, and what a proved to be the winning point was allowed the men from up the bay on a rouge. But N.C.I. seemed unfazed for they pulled off a neat-forty yard run on their second down immediately afterward. This was made by Robinson and Moore. Before the quarter time twenty yards were gained. Napanee looked the better team in this quarter.

The second quarter seemed to be filled with fumbles and loose playing and at half time the score still remained 1-0, with N.C.I. always aggressive. Napanee kicked off in the last half. Trenton could not seem to make any gains and the ball was soon in our possession. Amy and Exley then contributed with some good plays and the play was forced right down to the Trenton ten yard line, but the opposition gained possession. To put the ball out of the danger zone the T.C.I. boys kicked on their last down. With the ball in their possession and a yard to be made to tie the score and three minutes to go N.C.I. kicked and brought the Trenton ball quickly and a few yards outside the latter's line. The final whistle found our boys fighting like demons, but not so exhausted to gather on the field and give that good old N.C.I. yell. All the way through, Napanee showed superior power, their plunges through the line moving the yard-sticks on several occasions. But fumbles were costly and spoiled good chances to get away. At no time during the game was either line in real danger. N.C.I. play their next game at home with Deseronto on October 9th.

The teams were:

Napanee—F. Wing, Moore, Webster-Halves, Davy Kinkley; Quarter, Robinson; Snap, Thompson; Insides, Hogle MacGregor; Middles, Howitt, Chant; Outsides, Exley, Amey; Subs, Prink, Loucks, Hagerman, Howitt, Webb, Creighton, Oliver, Donoghue.

ODESSA

The Agricultural Show held last Thursday and Friday, was a wonderful success, financially and otherwise. The ideal weather brought crowds from far and near, and the excellent exhibits and beautiful fancy work, surpassed by far any of the previous years and the crowd was the largest they ever had on the Agricultural grounds. The gate receipts amounted to seven hundred and fourteen dollars and the receipts from the different refreshment tents will swell the amount to about eight hundred dollars. There was a concert in the Town Hall last Friday night, given by Ionic Male Quartette. Torento and the talented artists delighted the large audience with their many vocal and instrumental selections and vaudeville acts. The special dance that followed was very much enjoyed by the young folks, and the excellent music was furnished by Fisher's orchestra, Kingston. An interesting event of the afternoon, between the ruins, was a game of baseball between the Ivy and Adolphustown. The score was 11-10 in favor of Odessa.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Mr. Editor,—

Through the courtesy of your pages, the British Welcome and Welfare League, Toronto, would like to broadcast a message to every Britisher in Canada.

Since 1907 our institution has been carrying on a great work—extending to deserving settlers from the British Isles, a hearty welcome, temporary accommodation and rendering each other help and advice as will enable them to become worthy citizens of Canada.

The League is a public patriotic, philanthropic organization, carried on by public-spirited citizens, aided in a small degree by municipal, provincial and dominion authorities, but in the main dependent upon public subscriptions for its maintenance.

In a few weeks our financial year will close, and we must set out to raise $12,000 to carry on for the coming year. May we appeal most earnestly to all Britishers, particularly those two hundred thousand newcomers, who have been offered a welcome at our hands—to rally to our aid at this time.

Funds are urgently needed. From $1 to $1,000. Subscriptions will be most gratefully received and will be formally acknowledged by our treasurer.

Yours cordially,

ALBERT CHAMBERLAIN.
President, British Welcome and Welfare League, Toronto. Corner Gerrard and Pembroke, Sts Toronto.

NAPANEE COLLEGIATE LOSE TO TRENTON, BY SCORE OF 1-0

The N.C.I. rugby team inaugurated the rugby season in Trenton on Saturday last, when they played their first game in a very impressive manner, although beaten by a score of 1-0.

The summary is as follows: First boys kicked off, leaving our boys well back of their own line, and what proved to be the winning point was allowed when from up the bay on a rouge. But N.C.I. seemed undaunted for they pulled off a neat forty yard run on their second kick-off, immediately afterwards. This was made by Robinson and Moore. Before the quarter time twenty yards were gained. Napanee looked the better team in this quarter.

The second quarter seemed to be filled with fumbles and loose playing and at half time the score still remained 1-0, with N.C.I. always aggressive. Napanee kicked in the last half, Trenton could not seem to make any gains and the ball was soon in our possession. Amy and Exley then contributed with some good gains. The play was forced right down to the Trenton ten yard line, but the opposition gained possession. To put the ball out of the danger zone the T.C.I. boys kicked on their last down. With the ball in their possession and a point to be made to tie the score and three minutes to go N.C.I. kicked and brought the Trenton ball carrier down a few yards outside the latter's line. The final whistle found our boys fighting like demons, but not too exhausted to gather on the field and give that good old N.C.I. yell. All the way through, Napanee showed superior power, their plunges through the line moving the yard-sticks on several occasions. But fumbles were costly and spoiled good chances to get away. At no time during the game was either line in real danger. N.C.I. play next week's game at home with Deseronto on October 9th.

The teams were:

Napanee—P. Wing, Moore, Webster; Halves, Davy Kinkley; Quarter, Robinson; Snap, Thompson; Insides, Hogle MacGregor; Middles, Howitt, Claus; Outsides, Exley, Amey; Subs. Frink, Lonck, Hagerman, Howitt, Webb, Creighton, Oliver, Donoghue.

CHAS. W. HAMBLY, Ex-M.L.A. CHOSEN CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATE

MR. HAMBLY HAS BEEN ACTIVE IN POLITICAL AFFAIRS OF THE COUNTY FOR MANY YEARS HAVING BEEN WARDEN OF THE COUNTY AND A MEMBER OF LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY FROM 1924 TO 1926.

The Conservative Convention held at Odessa Town Hall on Thursday, October 3rd, was an enthusiastic gathering of delegates from all parts of the riding. The crowd of over 350 people filled the hall to the doors, and the standard bearer of the Conservative party in Frontenac-Lennox was heartily acclaimed when the result of the balloting was announced. Dr. C. M. Stratton, president of the Conservative Association, presided and the following gentlemen were nominated: Mr. D. J. Rankin, of Collins Bay, son of the late A. M. Rankin, for many years Conservative member for Frontenac; A. G. Kimmerly, of Napanee; Matthews, of Kingston Township; W. R. Aylesworth, Warden of Frontenac County; Arthur C. Tummon, of Selby, ex-Warden of Lennox and Addington; and Chas. W. Hambly, of Napanee. All the nominees withdrew except Mr. Tummon and Mr. Hambly. Upon Mr. Hambly's election, Mr. Tummon immediately arose and moved that Mr. Hambly's election be made unanimous. In addressing the convention, Mr. Tummon said there was no doubt the Ferguson administration would be returned to power and he would do everything he could to help the candidate for Frontenac-Lennox win out in this election.

Mr. Hambly in addressing the gathering thanked the delegates for the confidence placed in him by nominating him as the candidate for the riding and asked for a united effort on the part of all Conservatives to help win the election. He said he would use all his influence to see that the Liquor Control Act was administered in the best interests of the people, and that he would see that the affairs of the riding were properly looked after.

Short address were then made by Dr. Stratton, Wilfred S. Wilson, secretary-treasurer of the association; and J. N. Osborne, of Bath, all of whom spoke in praise of the splendid record of the Ferguson Administration and expressed confidence in the return of the Conservative candidate at the election.

The president then called on Major Belford, ex-M.L.A., of Northumberland, who delivered a stirring address dealing with the record of the Ferguson administration. In his opening remarks Major Belford congratulated Mr. Hambly on his election as the choice of the Convention. He then stated that either Mr. Hambly or Mr. Tummon would have made a good representative and spoke very highly of the splendid spirit in which Mr. Tummon had shown in his defeat for the party's standard. Referring to Mr. Hambly, he said that he had sat in the Legislative Assembly with him for three years and knew at first hand everything that came up effecting his riding received his whole-hearted interest and attention.

The speaker analysed in detail the efforts being put forth by each of the opposition leaders to get votes on the people at this election, by promising all kinds of impractical things. He said the Ferguson Government went to the people on its record of things accomplished and held out a program of progress and development which would be particularly beneficial to the rural communities.

In the course of his address Major Belford urged the women to take an active part in this election and pointed out that they wielded a large influence and that they should use it to see that the Conservative candidate and the Fergusson Government were returned on election day.

It does not pay to run tires till they go to pieces—because—

—It's dangerous. A blowout may easily lead to a crash.

—It's false economy. You can't afford the time, the trouble and the inconvenience that blowouts bring.

—It's not worth the worry. You can't ride in comfort if you know a blowout is due any minute.

TIPS ON CIDER MAKING

Sweet cider is apple juice that has not been fermented.

Hard cider is apple juice that has been fermented by the action of yeast, and it contains alcohol in varying percentages, manufactured by the yeast from the sugar.

Cider vinegar is made from hard cider by the action of the vinegar bacteria, mother of vinegar, Bacterium aceti, which, by an oxidation process produces acetic acid from the alcohol.

To make good cider or cider vinegar, only sound, fairly ripe apples should be used. The flavor of the cider will vary with the kinds of apples from which the juice is obtained, and their degree of ripeness. The Red Astrachan, Yellow Transparent, and Duchess will give a tart acid flavor. The Baldwin, Wealthy and Spy will give a sub-acid flavor. The cider from Snow, McIntosh and Delicious will be somewhat aromatic. Crab apples will be astringent and give a "bite" to the cider. The kind of apples may be mixed to modify the flavor as desired. The apples should be picked over and decayed or wormy ones discarded, as such specimens are apt to spoil the flavor of the cider. The remainder should then be washed in clean water. The apples, as soon as washed, should be ground or crushed to fine pulp in cider mill. Fill the pulp into clean canvas bags and fold it in clean sacking and press out the juice in the cider press. Catch the juice in thoroughly cleaned enamelware or wooden containers. Metals are apt to discolor the juice and they are readily acted on by the acid. The juice may then be strained through cloth to remove the coarser particles of pomace left in the juice, and then allowed to stand for about twelve hours at a cool temperature to allow sedimentation of the finer particles of pomace held in suspension. The clearer liquid should be then carefully siphoned off from the sediment and this juice constitutes the sweet cider. If the fresh cider is for immediate use, it may be filled into suitable containers and disposed of at once. If it is to be kept any length of time as sweet cider, care must be taken to prevent it from fermenting. This may be done for a short period by keeping it at a low temperature and adding one-tenth of one per cent benzoat of soda, if it is to be kept in bulk. This will keep the action of the wild yeasts present.

If it is to be kept for a longer time it should be pasteurized in order to kill the yeasts and moulds. This is most conveniently done by filling it into clean bottles, placing these in a water bath, and raising the temperature until the contents of the bottles reaches 175 degrees. This temperature should be maintained for twenty minutes, after which the bottles should be removed and at once tightly corked with corks taken from the boiling water. The corks should be picked from the boiling water with forceps and tightly driven home. The bottles should then be quickly cooled. If the temperature during pasteurization goes above 175 F., or if the cider is not quickly cooled after pasteurization, it will have something of a cooked flavor.

To make hard cider take the fresh apple juice or sweet cider after it has been strained, and run it into well cleaned barrels until they are about two-thirds full. Lay them on their sides and have a bunghole at each end near the top covered with fine meshed wire, or two layers of cheesecloth for aeration. As acetification is an oxidation process there must be free access of air to the surface of the liquid, and the liquid should not be too deep. To ensure and to make more rapid the process of acetification, a vinegar starter (mother of vinegar) which contains the vinegar bacteria should be added to the contents of the barrel. One pint to one quart of good unpasteurized vinegar to a barrel of hard cider will answer this purpose. During the acetic fermentation the material should be kept at room temperature for best results. Care should be taken not to disturb or stir up the contents of the barrel, as the bacteria form a gelatinous layer on the surface, and it is here, where the air is available that the process of acetification takes place. In two or three months if everything has been satisfactory, the vinegar should be ready for use—By Professor D. H. Jones, Dept. of Bacteriology, O.A.C.

The professor came into the lecture room looking quite excited. "I want you to give me your attention," he told his students. "I have here an interesting specimen—extremely interesting—a dissected frog."

All eyes were fixed upon him as he took from his pocket a small package, removed the wrapping-paper, and showed the class—half a dozen sandwiches!

For a moment he gazed blankly at the unexpected sight. Then the class heard his murmur—

"But, good gracious, I am sure I ate my lunch!"

After waiting a quarter of an hour for the curtain to go up, the principal sent a messenger to find out what was wrong. The stage manager came in person to explain.

"Very sorry, sir," he said, "but the fact is that Lady Macbeth has scarcely finished shaving."

MOTHER

Always be kind to Mother,
To you she's always true,
No matter what misfortune
She'll always stand for you.

There is no friend like Mother,
In joy, or sigh, or song;
It breaks her very heart strings
When she sees you go wrong.

O, it's Mother, Mother, Mother,
When oft fever beds we lie;
Send all the other folks away.
But Mother, keep clore by.

She walks so softly in the room,
And never thinks of sleep,
The only thing she longs for most
Is her darling son to keep.

We see her eyes fill up with tears,
Her kind hand on our brow;
She's praying that the Saviour
Will spare her loved one now.

There's no substitute for Mother,
I don't care what people say.
There's no one just like Mother
Can dry the tears away.

Say, you can have your doctors,
Yes, and nurses trained galore,
But give to me my Mother,
And I will want no more.

And when I land up yonder,
Two faces I would see;
I want first to see my Saviour,
Then have Mother come to me.

MOLASSES IN EGG MASH

Almost every poultryman finds it necessary to feed his birds epsom salts occasionally, in order to overcome constipation, as the result of heavy grain feeding and close confinement. The bad feature of giving salts is that it tears down the calcium in the body.

Molasses in the poultry ration will do the same thing as epsom salts, and will not have the bad effects of salts. Besides, molasses is extremely rich in vitamin B, rich in minerals, and ranks high in digestibility. It is richer in vitamin B than some yeasts and is one of the few ingredients used in poultry rations not deficient in potash.

Not one Royal Master in a thousand will ever run out.
Not one in ten thousand will blow out under two years of service.

Does it pay to wear tires OUT?

It does not pay to run tires till they go to pieces—because—

—It's dangerous. A blowout may easily lead to a crash.

—It's false economy. You can't afford the time, the trouble and the inconvenience that blowouts bring.

—It's not worth the worry. You can't ride in comfort if you know a blowout is due any minute.

It will pay you to let us pull off those old tires and put on a set of brand new Dominion Royal Cords or Royal Masters. They will free you from worry. Royal Cords will cost you less in the long run than any other tire in their class—Royal Masters are in a class by themselves.

TIPS ON CIDER MAKING

Sweet cider is apple juice that has not been fermented.

Hard cider is apple juice that has been fermented by the action of yeast, and it contains alcohol in varying percentages, manufactured by the yeast from the sugar.

Cider vinegar is made from hard cider by the action of the vinegar bacteria (mother of vinegar), Bacterium aceti, which, by an oxidation process produces acetic acid from the alcohol.

To make good cider or cider vinegar, only sound, fairly ripe apples should be used. The flavor of the cider will vary with the kinds of apples from which the juice is obtained, and their degree of ripeness. The Red Astrachan, Yellow Transparent, and Duchess will give a tart acid flavor. The Baldwin, Wealthy and Spy will give a subacid flavor. The cider from Snow, McIntosh and Delicious will be somewhat aromatic. Crab apples will be astringent and give a "bite" to the cider. The kind of apples may be mixed to modify the flavor as desired. The apples should be picked over, the cider pressed or wormy ones discarded, as such specimens are apt to spoil the flavor of the cider. The resulting cider should then be washed in clean water. The apples, as soon as washed, should be ground or crushed to fine pulp in cider mill. Fill the pulp into clean canvas bags and fold it in clean sacking and press out the juice in the cider press. Catch the juice in thoroughly cleaned enamelware or wooden containers. Metals are apt to discolor the juice and they are readily acted on by the acid. The juice may then be strained through cloth to remove the coarser particles of pomace left in the juice, and then allowed to stand for about twelve hours at a cool temperature to allow sedimentation of the finer particles of pomace held in suspension. The clearer liquid should be then carefully siphoned off from the sediment and this juice constitutes the sweet cider. If the fresh sweet cider is for immediate use, it may be filled into suitable containers and dispensed of at once. If it is to be kept any length of time as sweet cider, care must be taken to prevent it from fermenting. This may be done for a short period by keeping it at a low temperature and adding one-tenth of one per cent benzoat of soda, if it is to be kept in bulk. This will keep the action of the wild yeasts present.

If it is to be kept for a longer time it should be pasteurized in order to kill the yeasts and moulds. This is most conveniently done by filling it into clean bottles, placing these in a water bath, and raising the temperature until the contents of the bottles reaches 175 degrees. This temperature should be maintained for twenty minutes, after which the bottles should be removed and at once tightly corked with corks taken from boiling water. The corks should be picked from the boiling water with forceps and tightly driven home. The bottle should then be quickly cooled. If the temperature during pasteurization goes above 175 F., or if the cider is not quickly cooled after pasteurization, it will have something of a cooked flavor.

To make hard cider take the fresh apple juice or sweet cider after it has been strained, and run it into well cleaned barrels until they are about two-thirds, or not more than three-quarters full. Lay the barrels on their sides and have a bunghole at each end at the top. Cover the bungholes with fine meshed wire or a double layer of cheesecloth. This will allow aeration and prevent contamination during the process. Keep the barrels at room temperature, or about 65 F., as this is the most favorable temperature for the alcoholic fermentation by the yeasts. The process of fermentation is made much more rapid and satisfactory if some fresh yeast is added before the bungholes are covered. A fresh yeast cake for every five gallons of juice gives very good results. The yeast cake should be broken and stirred up in a little of the cider and then run into the casks and stirred up. After two or three weeks the alcoholic fermentation will be complete. The clear hard cider should then be siphoned off into fresh sterilized containers, when it is ready for use as hard cider. It is usually improved by ripening, i. e., keeping it stored away for a time in a cool place.

To prepare cider vinegar run the clear hard cider into freshly cleaned and sterilized barrels until they are about two-thirds full. Lay them on their sides and have a bunghole at each end near the top covered with fine meshed wire, or two layers of cheesecloth for aeration. As acetification is an oxidation process there must be free access of air to the surface of the liquid, and the liquid should not be too deep. To ensure and to make more rapid the process of acetification, a vinegar starter (mother of vinegar) which contains the vinegar bacteria should be added to the contents of the barrel. One pint to one quart of good unpasteurized vinegar, to a barrel of hard cider will answer this purpose. During the acetic fermentation the material should be kept at room temperature for best results. Care should be taken not to disturb or stir up the contents of the barrel, as the bacteria form a gelatinous layer on the surface, and if it is here, where the air is available that the process of acetification takes place. In two or three months if everything has been satisfactory, the vinegar should be ready for use—By Professor D. H. Jones, Dept. of Bacteriology, O.A.C.

The professor came into the lecture room looking quite excited. "I want you to give me your attention," he told his students. "I have here an interesting specimen—extremely interesting—a dissected frog."

All eyes were fixed upon him as he took from his pocket a small package, removed the wrapping-paper, and showed the class—half a dozen sandwiches!

"But, good gracious, I am sure I ate my lunch!"

OBITUARY

Mrs. D. L. Amey

One of the oldest residents of Bell Rock passed to her reward on Sunday morning, September 29th, in the person of Susan Pomeroy, wife of D. L. Amey. Mrs. Amey came to Bell Rock when a child with her father, the late Wm. Pomeroy, when he opened up the mills in this section and for years she taught school in the surrounding district. She was a graduate of the old Grammar Schol, at Newburgh, and of Albert College, Belleville.

She was dearly beloved by all, who knew her. A zealous worker in the Sunday School and church of which she was a member.

M. Yorke, of Kingston; and three brothers, John, Dan and Samuel, of Bell Rock.

WEDDING BELLS

Smith-Brown

A pretty autumn wedding was solemnized at the United Church parsonage, Yarker, on Wednesday afternoon, September 25th, when Gladys Lucille Brown, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Brown, Napanee, became the bride of Mr. Norman Smith, Yarker. Rev. G. T. McKenzie, performed the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by Mr. J. Knight, wore a pretty frock of royal blue satin, with hat and shoes to match, and a fox fur. She carried a bouquet of Gladioli and maiden hair fern. The brides only attendant was Miss Gladys Clarke, who wore a brown satin frock, with hat and shoes to match and red fox fur. The best man was Mr. Kepple Edgar. The groom's gift to the bride was a string of pearls; to the bridesmaid, a string of pearls, to the best man, gold cuff links. On Wednesday evening, a buffet supper was held at the home of the bride's parents, when an enjoyable evening was spent. Later the bride and groom left on their honeymoon, to Brantford, and other points west.

SALMON RICH IN PROTEINS

Investigations made by scientists have established that Canadian salmon are higher in protein content than practically any of the meats and considerably higher than cereals or vegetables. The importance of this fact, from the dietary standpoint, is that proteins are not only sources of energy but they are builders of tissue as well. The Pacific coast salmon that is richest in protein content is the Pink, and not, as may be popularly thought, the more famous Sockeye. Protein content is also higher in the Coho than in the Sockeye, whose favored place in public opinion is largely due to its more attractive color. The Atlantic salmon ranks next to the Pacific in percentage of protein.

Few people ever think that there is similarity between chickens and fish but similarity is present, none the less. The similarity is that the composition of fish protein resembles that of chicken muscle, a fact which is pointed to by Dr. Donald K. Tressler, of the famous Mellon Institute of Research, as especially important from the dietary standpoint in view of the recognized high nutritive value of chicken meat. This protein content, moreover, is the chief food constituent of fish and in it, in ample proportions, are all the essential amino-acids, "the wonderful compounds of which our muscles and many of our other tissues are constructed." These facts explain, in part, the increasing emphasis which scientists and dietitians are putting on food value of fish, but it is only explanation in part.

Not only are sea fish rich in a protein which contains tissue-building compounds that are lacking in varying degrees in some other foods but fish are easily digested, they contain much higher amounts of fat-soluble vitamins than are to be found in meats. They include some inorganic elements of nutritive value that are missing in many foods, and the presence in them of such substances as iodine makes them preventatives of goitre and other diseases. These are among the reasons which of late years have led doctors and other health experts more and more to advise the regular and frequent inclusion of fish in the articles of diet.

Dr. Tressler, in one of his recent books, points out that the exceptional value of cod liver oil from the health standpoint has been known for a great many years but not until recently was it discovered that this value is due to high content of fat-soluble vitimines—a content which is similarly present in sea fish. In some cases this vitamine content in cod liver oil is two hundred times as great as in butter, and though fish are not by any means as rich in these vitimines as cod liver oil they contain much larger percentages than most foods. One consequence of this vitimine richness is that the use of fish in the diet prevents and cures rickets as well as certain diseases of the eye. There is a testimony to this effect from different authoritative sources. For instances, referring to an official United States bulletin to the efficacy of a fish diet in preventing rickets, Dr. E. V. McCollum wrote: "Even in those parts of the world where the climate and hygienic conditions are such as to favor the development of bone defects, these are rare among children, where fish forms a prominent article of diet! It's a wise mother who sees to it that her growing children get plenty of tasty, well-cooked fish, and she will find that the cost of fish is less than the cost of many other foodstuffs.

Investigation has brought out other points of importance as regards the healthful effect of fish in the diet, both because fish are so readily digested and are rich in body-building substances and because of the health-giving elements which they contain. For example, fish contain calcium which is essential to the human body for growth and strength of bones and teeth, and in which many other foods are deficient, and fish are unusually high in iodine while, on the other hand, to quote Dr. Tressler, "most common foods such as meat, bread, milk, and most fruits contain very little iodine!" The chief importance of this high iodine content in fish, from the diet and health standpoint, is that "foods containing iodine have been a great help in preventing and controlling goitre," and it has been found that "the prevalence of goitre is roughly inversely proportional to the iodine content of food and drinking water." At the Pan-Pacific Surgical Conference this summer it was pointed out by Dr R. E. McKechnie, of Vancouver, that the absence of iodine in a human system renders the body vulnerable to-the invasion of the microscopic organism which is the probable cause of goitre. At the same conference Dr. D. C. Hall, of Seattle, presenting the results of a study he had made of the occurrence of goitre in certain territories in the American Northwest, showed that as iodized food came into increasing use over a period of years the percentage of cases of the disease had been very greatly lessened. In the same connection, and emphasizing the usefulness of fish foods in preventing thyroid gland diseases, there is the significant fact that in Japan, where the per capita consumption of fish is large, there is virtually no goitre.

"Bull-fighting calls for quick decision and immediate action," we read. He who hesitates is lacked.

A Farm of Your Own

MOST of the prosperous farmers of to-day began by working for some one else.

Spurred on by the desire to own their own farm, they put their money in the bank month by month, and season by season, until they could pay for land of their own.

If you, too, are working for another man and want a farm of your own, your course is clear—put your money in the bank.

RAILWAYS IN INDIA.

Will Construct One Thousand Miles In Five Years.

Five crores of rupees, roughly $18,000,000 will be expended during the next five years in India, to construct about one thousand miles of railway line. The Hindu still regards the railway train as a vehicle of romance and the railway system as an incomprehensible machine, difficult to understand and yet unfailing in its task.

New railway stations have been built at the principal cities, and efforts are being made to reduce the terrific number of criminal cases which have their origin on the railway. This question, indeed, is one of the major problems before railway authorities in India. Notwithstanding a special staff of police, now enlarged in consequence of recent crimes committed on railways, considerable difficulty is being found in restricting the railway crime wave.

It has been further proved that nearly 20 per cent. of passengers avoid paying any fare, and there are in existence large bands of dacoits who specialize in robbing the personal property of European travellers and in committing petty thefts on Indians in the second and third-class carriages. So far, however, the Indian railway thief has proved himself a match for the most intricate and baffling locks and safety devices that have been invented.

SUGAR YIELDS ALCOHOL

By-Product of Queensland Industry Promises Good Returns.

The production of power alcohol as a by-product of the Queensland sugar industry is being developed rapidly.

The installation of an improved plant is expected enormously to increase the quantity and quality of the product.

Leading representatives of the sugar industry conferred some four years ago with the agents of the Distillers' Company of Edinburgh and London. They formed the Australian National Power Alcohol Company, which was floated with a nominal capital of almost $5,000,000.

It was controlled by the Australian board and supported by the financial and technical resources of the British distilling interests.

They erected their first distillery at Sarina, near MacKay, which is producing approximately 1,000,000 gallons of power alcohol yearly.

Far-reaching results, having a profound influence not merely on the economics of the Queensland sugar industry, but on Australian secondary industries, in general, are expected as the industry develops.

Meanwhile the industry is consolidating its ground work and concentrating on the perfection of its primary and essential manufacture, alcohol fuel.

OUR TELEPHONE RECORD.

Toronto Percentage Second Only to San Francisco.

With a percentage of 12.2 telephones for every hundred of population, Canada comes second only to the United States in relative telephone development, the figures reaching 16.8 per cent., according to the latest available statistics, which summarize data available till the beginning of 1929.

The Toronto percentage on January 1 of that year was 28, placing this city second, on a parity with Washington, D.C., and Stockholm, Sweden, surpassed only by San Francisco, which has the remarkable figure of 32. Since these figures were compiled there has been a decided development, particularly in home telephones in Toronto, and it is just possible that Toronto is now in second place without qualification.

Canada leads the world in the extent to which cities of 20,000 and over have been provided with telephone facilities. Her percentage for these is 22, the United States coming second with 21.2. As regards the actual number of telephones in use, Germany comes second to the United States, yet her figures per hundred of population are only 4.4 instruments.

MUSICAL PROPOSAL.

Student Chose a Very Appropriate Hymn.

A minister says it was customary for the divinity students of one of the Nonconformist colleges in the Old Country to be invited each Saturday in batches of four or six to the home of one of the leading church officials, to spend the evening, during which singing was indulged in.

On one occasion one of the unmarried and eligible daughters of the official presiding at the piano turned to one of the students and said: "Have you any particular choice of a hymn, Mr. ——?"

"Yes," was the reply, "I think we might sing number 427 in Sankey's Hymnbook."

The awkwardness of the choice was discovered when the refrain after each verse turned out to be "And take me as I am." My informant, who was present on the occasion, does not say if there was any sequel to this musical proposal.

Salted Herring to the Orient.

A large increase in the production of dry-salted herring and the development of a big trade with the Orient in this respect has been one of the striking items of progress in connection with British Columbia's fisheries in the past few years. Last year the pack of dry-salted herring in the province amounted to 167,218,800 pounds, practically all of which was sold to the Orient.

The "Speaker."

The Speaker of the House of Commons derives his title from the fact that in the old days he was the "Spokesman" of the Lower House, and alone had the right of "speaking" to the sovereign—conveying grievances, petitions, and so on.

FOURTH ANNUAL MEETING TAMWORTH SECTION OF W. M. S.

The fourth annual meeting of Tamworth Section of the Women's Missionary Society was held on October 2nd in the Marlbank United Church. Mrs. D. B. Wilson, of Napanee, was appointed Secretary for the coming year.

Mrs. McCutcheon, Marlbank, brought greetings from the Marlbank Auxiliary and welcomed us to their midst. Mrs. M. A. Egglett, of Napanee, responded to these greetings.

The devotional exercises then opened with the singing of a hymn and a passage of scripture. The various societies then reported. Fourteen out of the fifteen auxiliaries responded when called upon. The total membership in this section is 402 and the number of women in those same churches who are not members of the W. M. S. is 321.

The question of allocations was discussed. Five auxiliaries had reached or exceeded theirs.

The Supply Secretary spoke of her work and of the splendid contributions she receives for the bales she packs. Any clothing is acceptable as long as it is clean and mended.

Mrs. Switzer, Corresponding Secretary for the Belleville Presbyterial, spoke on the various aspects of her official work. Please send in the reports promptly. Write plainly and give accurate information. Appoint some one to every office and send in the correct name. Be sure that the financial reports sent to the Corresponding Secretary and the Treasurer of the Presbyterial agree.

Mrs. Black gave a recitation entitled "Her Happiest Time." After the offering was received, the Bands and Circles reported. These have a membership of 299.

After singing the hymn, "The Whole Wide World for Jesus," the Rev. Mr. McKenzie, of Yarker, closed the morning session with prayer.

Afternoon Session

Miss H. M. Paul, of Newburgh, and Mrs. R. J. Wilson, of Reidville, conducted the Quiet Half Hour service. After singing "Love Divine, All Love Excelling," and repeating the Lord's Prayer, the thirteenth chapter of the first Corinthians was read. Miss Paul spoke on the subject of "Love." Love was a characteristic quality of the early christians. It is the great thing and the fulfilling of the law. God is Love, and Love is of God. "By this mark shall ye be known as mine, that ye love one another." The Master's reply to the question, "Which is the great commandment?" was, "Love the Lord, thy God, with all thy heart, and all thy soul, and with all thy might, and thy neighbor as thyself."

Hymn, "O, Love That Will Not Let Me Go," was sung, and then Mrs. Wilson, Miss Jackson and Mrs. Paul led in short prayers. All joined in singing a verse of "Take Time to be Holy."

The minutes of the morning session were read and confirmed. The roll was called.

Mrs. Gay, President of the Belleville Presbyterial, spoke on the meeting of the Board in Toronto. There were 27 missionaries on furlough at that time, and by their presence and addresses they proved a great inspiration to those attending. Miss Mitchell, one of our travelling missionaries, told of a little Japanese woman who was very near loving God, but something seemed to stand in the way. One day when Miss Mitchell was urging her to pray she said, "But I can't speak English." That was what was holding her back, and how happy Miss Mitchell was to tell her that God understood Japanese. From then on she went about telling other women of her happiness and that God understood Japanese.

A Ukrainian convert in our west says: "Unless the world sees Jesus Christ in you and me every day, the resurrection, as far as we are concerned, is a failure."

In the last four years since union, 600 home missions have become self-supporting. Last year 72 new fields were opened up. The Kingdom of God will never be established by the raising of money, but it can never be extended without it. In the Girls' School in Hanhsing, which was built by donations received in answer to prayer, the students feel that so much is being done for them that they go without their rice in the morning in order to support two other teachers in India.

There is now a call for higher education for the women of the East and the Board has decided to help such a school in Tokio.

Two of the Marlbank ladies favored the guests with a duet.

Mrs. Wartman, of Newburgh, gave a short address on Temperance. She spoke of the work of Mr. and Mrs. Browning and of their wonderful spiritual poetry. Whence comes this? They saw the totality of life and that right is right and will ultimately prevail. At the National Conference the W.C.T.U. in Oshawa, the thought of the temperance women being precious leaven was brought up. If we hold together and by our vote and work leaven the whole, we shall this issue which lies over us, and bring again the sun. Forbear in love, pray and vote as we pray.

Miss McIntosh, of Honan, Speaks

Then followed an address by Miss McIntosh, of Honan. She has spent twenty-three years in the Master's service there and has seen many changes. After the Boxer Revolution, when the Chinese tried to exterminate the Man of the Cross, the gates of hell could not prevail against the Church. For every missionary killed and sent out at that time, three later returned to take the place of one. Today there is again a great anti-foreign movement and the missionaries in certain places have again had to leave.

There is still a great deal of illiteracy in China. In some districts only one in a thousand can read and write. Some of the women to whom the story of Jesus is told, seem unable to grasp its meaning. Those who do become converted are usually persecuted and treated harshly. Many continue in the faith, while others fall by the wayside. The Chinese women though secluded often are the means of leading others to the Lord.

In several places where there has been severe sickness, the young people of that district have promised to go for 3 years to the main city temple and there present their offerings to the gods. The spirit world has a great hold over them and keeps them in bondage. They go by thousands and with heavy chains about their necks. These are the souls Christ died to save and He has given us the command to go and enlighten all men.

In the radio world there are some wave lengths reserved especially for S. O. S. calls, i.e., for service to those in distress. The S.O.S. call is undisputed king of the air. Today the call comes for His message and often must we listen in on the chance of hearing a call, so that we may be ready to answer. He has given us wonderful privileges and many chances of hearing of the needs in other lands and He looks to us to share the responsibility and be willing to do our share. Prayer is a great means of intercession and should be more widely used.

Mrs. B. Finlay, of Strathcona, sang a solo, entitled, "I shall not pass again this way."

The Resolution Committee brought in the following report: "We the officers and delegates of the Napanee (Tamworth) Section of the W.M.S. are resolved that the Napanee Section and the Napanee (Tamworth) Section meet in union every five years as a body, the first meeting not earlier than 1931.

Mrs. Switzer on behalf of the Courtesy Committee thanked all those who in any way contributed to the success and enjoyment of the meeting.

The members were invited to meet in Newburgh next year.

The minutes of the afternoon session were aceptced as read. The meeting then was brought to a close with a prayer by Miss McIntosh.

LATE CHARLES J. COY

On Monday, September 30th, there occurred at Bath, N.Y., the death of Charles J. Coy, beloved husband of Stella Dennee Coy, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Dennee.

Mr. and Mrs. Coy with friends had left their home at Syracuse on Sunday to go to Bath, N.Y., when within a short distance of that place Mr. Coy's car suddenly left the road plunging over a thirty-foot embankment, causing injuries to him from which he died on Monday.

Mr. Coy was a contractor and builder, having spent most of his life in Syracuse. Beside his wife he is survived by distant relatives. He had embraced the Catholic faith and his remains, were brought to Bath, Ont., where funeral mass was said at St. Lucy's Church, and interment at St. Lucy's Cemetery.

DORLAND

The county was treated to a good rain on Wednesday and Thursday but the weather was pleasant over the week-end.—No service was held here on Sunday but nearly every one enjoyed hearing their former pastor, Rev. W. S. P. Boyce, of Brighton, preach at Hayburn. All are hoping for good weather and large congregations next Sunday to hear Rev. W. Watts, B.A., of Kingston, and also on Monday evening when there will be a fowl supper followed by a good program.—The representation from the local W. M.S. at the Sectional Meeting at Anderson, on Thursday, might have been larger had the weather been more favorable.—Mrs. William McGuiness, of Belleville, is with her brother, Mr. Herman John, who is seriously ill.—Mrs. Andrew Magee is also not in good health.

Parson, meeting neighbor bringing home a load of hay—Jenkins! Would it be better if you attended services instead of working this way? Jenkins—Mr. Dawkins, I don't know whether it would be best to sit on the load of hay and think of religion or sit in the church and think of the hay.

BLACK SHEEP ORIGINATE IN WHITE FLOCKS

Most people who have given any thought to problems of crime and juvenile delinquency have, no doubt, speculated as to whether heredity or environment had the greater influence in the production of these indigestible elements of society. The heredity vs. environment debate has been proceeding for some hundreds of years and has arrived precisely nowhere. We have been told that if sums were abolished, juvenile delinquency and adult crime would also be abolished or materially reduced. Similarly we were told that if the saloons were closed, the jails and poor-houses would automatically close themselves. We were also told that if a hair from a horse's tail was put in a pail of water and let stand over-night, it would be found in the morning to have turned into a kind of snake. One statement is about as worthy of credence as the others, which does not prevent their solemn reiteration. Those who think that heredity is of major importance, advocate not only birth control, but the sterilization of the unfit, and with the ultimate ideal of the state arranging marriages on the principle that the stock-breeder controls the mating of his flocks and herds.

In the Same Family

But how does either camp explain the notorious fact that from the same family, among brothers and sisters, brought up in the same environment, one boy may become a priest and one girl a nun, while another brother may become a gunman, and another sister the hostess of a night club? Their heredity is the same. Their environment is the same, but their characters are as different as it is possible to imagine. There must have been a good deal of untrained speculation upon this subject, but so far as we know the first scientific examination of it has been made by a sub-committee of the Crime commission of New York state. This committee examined the records of enough boys to permit useful generalizations, some of which are extremely interesting. For example, it is found that the juvenile who tends to slip into criminal ways is, generally not so intelligent as his brother who remains upright.

Mechanical Aptitude

Oddly enough the delinquents are, as a rule, of greater mechanical bent and can handle tools better than their brothers and also better than the average normal boy. It is here that a point is scored for the environmentalists. A boy equipped with a tool-chest and a work table in the basement takes pride in making things with his hands. The same boy, denied this outlet for his ingenuity, may turn to picking locks and opening window catches. The inference is that if boys of this character could be early identified by social workers it should be possible to turn their mechanical knack to good account. Instead of becoming a clever sneakthief or burglar the boy might develop into rather a commonplace but honest and useful carpenter or radio repair expert. It is here that all educational systems break down, or perhaps it would be fairer to say that they are undeveloped.

Discovered Too Late

In New York city, for instance, while the juvenile delinquent is numerous he yet amounts to, statistically, but 6 per cent. of the school population. Now the school system is devised to meet the needs of the other 99.2 per cent., and the teacher has little attention to give to the fraction of a boy who, nevertheless, may grow up to attract more attention than any included in the 99.2. For he may become a celebrated murderer or racketeer. It is obvious that some system is required whereby the potential criminal should be disclosed and instructed. So long as the educational systems in New York, and elsewhere are devoted to mass production it will be difficult to give the delinquent the teaching he needs. After his delinquency has become notorious, of course, he finds himself in the hands of the police and is sent to a reformatory as a matter of course. But if he could have been picked out earlier, just as an inspired teacher will early detect genius in a child, he never would have taken this wrong turn and the social workers would have much more malleable material to work with.

Cain and Abel

"Herman, case 39, is superior in every type of mental activity; but is eccentric, prides himself on it, acts up to it, is thoroughly disagreeable, impossible to get along with and considers himself quite an idealist and philosopher. His brother John is dull, obedient and affectionate. Isadore, case 4, is a thief, cheat, bully, truant and show-off, who hits his mother as a matter of course and beats the smaller boys in school. His brother Moses is well behaved, ambitious, cheerful, rather dull, healthy, honest and truthful. Case 2 concerns Louis, who is his mother favorite, a member of a gang, periodical participant in raids on Chinese shops, a ruffian, silent, uncommunicative and sullen. His brother Harry is clever, popular, athletic, honest, well-behaved, timid with adults, and sells candy after school to help his mother. So it goes and so, we gather, it has always gone for in the first family of which we have a really well documented history, Cain and Abel differed tragically.

Edward W. Browning, the real estate operator who has created a $12,000,000 fund to supply toys for children in hospitals, said to a New York reporter:

"Success means had work. Now hard work is hard, no question about that, but I sometimes think that shirking is harder. The shirker has to do so terribly, you know, in order to hoodwink his employers.

"Wash Sinclair, a road mender, was observed by his running mate to be holding his heavy sledge motionless, high above his head, ready to be brought down the instant the boss looked at him.

"'What the dickens are you doin', Wash?' his mate muttered.

"'Sh!' said Wash, in a low voice. 'Can't ye let a chap rest a minute when the boss' back is turned?'

The project of a school for the Southern mountain children recalls the story of the teacher who was drilling her Kentucky class in grammar:

"Pete, what's the singular of guadiwahs?"

"I'm none. Kant have a hoss 'tho one foot."

RUNS IN THE FAMILY.

Most Famous Family of Bandmasters In the World.

The recent marriage of one of the famous Godfreys who had conducted the Crystal Palace military band for twenty-seven years, draws attention to one of the most striking cases of families in which some special talent "runs." In their case it is music and conducting. His father was the Coldstream Guards bandmaster for seventeen years; his brother conducts the Hyde Park band; his cousin, Sir Dan Godfrey, is musical director of a gramophone company after a brilliant conducting career. The original Dan Godfrey was also a Coldstream bandmaster, one of his sons a Grenadier bandmaster, and another ruled over the bands of first the Scots Guards, and then the Royal Horse Guards. The music that "runs" in the Godfreys has made them the most famous family of bandmasters in the world.

Cricket "run" in a Hampshire family so strongly that in a recent summer they played a match with an eleven made up entirely from their members. That is rare enough, but it is possibly even rarer to hear of a whole family of five joining religious orders and entering convents. Yet it happened recently in Luxemburg. Politics "runs" in some families, as was shown when a recent by-election made a father, son, and son-in-law all M.P.'s. Several cases of law "running" in families have been strikingly demonstrated by barrister sons appearing in court before father judges.

Ontario shows the greatest increase in population. In 1921, the date of the last census, Ontario's population was 2,933,662, but the Dominion statistician's estimate now is 3,271,300. In the same period Quebec's population increased from 2,361,199 to 2,691,000.

LOVE OF PERFUMES.

Sixth Sense Drives Woman to Use Fragrant Scents.

Woman's sixth sense, her protective sense, says a scientist, drives her to the use of perfumes. Science has discovered that fragrant scents are disinfectants and preventers of illness. The heavy masculine smoker can claim a similar sixth sense. Men like tobacco for much the same reason that women like scent—because it is fragrant and soothing.

But it, also, is a great disinfectant, and our teeth would probably be far worse even than they are bodies were we not so rapidly becoming a nation of smokers. Man's way of getting his perfume, by burning it, is really better than the feminine distilled essences, which are so often mixed with cheap oils.

Why not try some burnt odors? They are an ancient habit and very pleasant. An old English way is to burn a stalk of dried lavender and to wave it about the room. It has a most refreshing smell, will give a pungent cleanness in it, and is excellent in the sick-room. Pine cones or a tiny bit of Eastern sandalwood can be thrown on to the fire, when they send a delicious fragrance into the room.

MISTAKEN GENEROSITY.

Fill Customer's Order Exactly as It Is Given.

"One of the secrets of success in business," recently remarked Mr. Gordon Selfridge, multi-millionaire, "is to fill a customer's order exactly as it is given, for you may be sure that he knows better than you precisely what his requirements are. For instance," continued Mr. Selfridge, "there was the case of the newly-engaged young man who informed the lady of his choice, aged twenty-four, that he was sending her on her birthday a bouquet of roses—one for each year of her age. To a florist he gave an order to send the lady two dozen of the finest roses he could procure. 'He's a good customer,' remarked the florist to his assistant, 'put in an extra half-dozen.' The engagement was broken off."

Grain shipped from Vancouver.

Vancouver shipped out 97,561,716 bushels of grain in 1928, according to the annual report of the Harbor Board just issued. Grain handling facilities were increased by the new 7,400,000 bushel elevator of the Alberta Pool and the 500,000 bushel elevator of the Midland Pacific Elevator, Limited, bringing storage capacity up to 10,635,000 bushels. It is noted that flour exports increased by 42 per cent. the previous year, of which 1,000,000 barrels went to China and 300,000 to Japan.

SELECTING THE LAYERS

To be able to select the best pullets for production purposes, it is important to have the young chicks hatched at that time of year which will allow them, under proper management, to make a steady, vigorous, uniform growth. It has been found at Nappan that the April hatched chickens are of more quality by the middle of September than those of May. This period of time of six to six and one half months gives the birds a chance to have size, vigor, body capacity and egg type.

However, at present, there has not been a successful method worked out of selecting high and low producing pullets before they commence laying, but all birds of low vitality, crow headed, slow maturing and off type individuals, as well as those with breed disqualifications, are culled out. An individuld, whose body is deep as measured from front of keel to the centre of the back; gradually tapering flat sides, wedge shape, back of good breadth carrying its width to the base of the tail; good width throughout the pelvic region and wide, full breast is one that possesses both capacity and egg type. Along with the proper body conformation, the type and shape of the head has a very important part in selecting good layers.

The pullet to select is one that has a head that is clean cut, of medium length and depth, wide and flat, the width increasing uniformly from the attachment of the beak to a point directly behind the eye; the eye should be large, bright and prominent and the face smooth and clean, with skin fine in texture.

By selecting birds showing a combination of the above characters, we have found at Nappan that we are able to pick a large percentage of the pullets that prove to be good layers.—M. H. Jenkins, Dominion Experimental Farm, Nappan, N.S.

What a Test!

Nine Competing Radios in one Room!

ON the evening of Friday, July 12th, the test was made . . .

Nine competitive and leading makes, side by side . . .

All hooked up to the same aerial. . . .

Same ground connection. Same room . . .

All in good working order. All new models . . .

And then they were tuned in, by means of a multiple switch, one after the other . . . to the same station, before a dozen spectators.

Careful record was made of the performance of each, for volume, for "pick-up" (sensitivity), for clearness, for tone.

And then they were put to an even more severe test . . .

Each was given a turn of the dial, to record the stations brought in, their volume and clarity.

There was in that group one Radio that brought in stations with an unbelievably greater volume and clarity than any of the others . . .

that one Radio was the Rogers!

When the others were barely audible with their full volume turned on, the 1930 Rogers, in several instances, could be cut down one-fourth and every word and note came in clearly.

The laboratory test is more severe than any home test. It deals only with cold, comparative results. It asks not that allowances be made for conditions; the time and the place affect all alike.

Just a few hours' test, but one that means years of radio satisfaction to you.

The 1930 Rogers is offered to you with the hope that you will expect much of it, with the promise that you will not be disappointed.

The 1930 Rogers, all-new in construction but backed by a record of five years proven performance and with the only guaranteed A-C tubes, comes to you with the highest rating earned by any receiving set.

BLACK SHEEP ORIGINATE IN WHITE FLOCKS

Most people who have given any thought to problems of crime and juvenile delinquency have, no doubt, speculated as to whether heredity or environment had the greater influence in the production of these indigestible elements of society. The heredity vs. environment debate has been proceeding for some hundreds of years and has arrived precisely nowhere. We have been told that if sums were abolished, juvenile delinquency and adult crime would also be abolished or materially reduced. Similarly we were told that if the saloons were closed, the jails and poor-houses would automatically close themselves. We were also told that if a hair from a horse's tail was put in a pail of water and let stand over-night, it would be found in the morning to have turned into a kind of snake. One statement is about as worthy of credence as the others, which does not prevent their solemn reiteration. Those who think that heredity is of major importance, advocate not only birth control, but the sterilization of the unfit, and with the ultimate ideal of the state arranging marriages on the principle that the stock-breeder controls the mating of his flocks and herds.

In the Same Family

But how does either camp explain the notorious fact that from the same family, among brothers and sisters, brought up in the same environment, one boy may become a priest, and one girl a nun, while another brother may become a gunman, and another sister the hostess of a night club? Their heredity is the same. Their environment is the same, but their characters are as different as it is possible to imagine. There must have been a good deal of untrained speculation upon this subject, but so far as we know the first scientific examination of it has been made by a sub-committee of the Crime commission of New York state. This committee examined the records of enough boys to permit useful generalizations, some of which are extremely interesting. For example, it is found that the juvenile who tends to slip into criminal ways is, generally not so intelligent as his brother who remains upright.

Mechanical Aptitude

Oddly enough the delinquents are, as a rule, of greater mechanical bent and can handle tools better than their brothers and also better than the average normal boy. It is here that a point is scored for the environmentalists. A boy equipped with a tool-chest and a work table in the basement takes pride in making things with his hands. The same boy, denied this outlet for his ingenuity, may turn to picking locks and opening window catches. The inference is that if boys of this character could be early identified by social workers it should be possible to turn their mechanical knack to good account. Instead of becoming a clever sneakthief or burglar the boy might develop into rather a commonplace but honest and useful carpenter or radio repair expert. It is here that all educational systems break down, or perhaps it would be fairer to say that they are undeveloped.

Discovered Too Late

In New York city, for instance, while the juvenile delinquent is numerous he yet amounts to, statistically, but 6 per cent. of the school population. Now the school system is devised to meet the needs of the other 92 per cent. and the teacher has little attention to give to the fraction of a boy who, nevertheless, may grow up to attract more attention than any included in the 92. For he may become a celebrated murderer or racketeer. It is obvious that some system is required whereby the potential criminal should be disclosed and instructed. So long as the educational systems in New York and elsewhere are devoted to mass production it will be difficult to give the delinquent the teaching he needs. After his delinquency has become notorious, of course, he finds himself in the hands of the police and is sent to a reformatory as a matter of course. But if he could have been picked out earlier, just as an inspired teacher will early detect genius in a child, he never would have taken this wrong turn and the social workers would have much more malleable material to work with.

Cain and Abel

Herman, case 39, is superior in every type of mental activity; but is eccentric, prides himself on it, acts up to it, is thoroughly disagreeable, impossible to get along with and considers himself quite an idealist and philosopher. His brother John is dull, obedient and affectionate. Isadore, case 4, is a thief, cheat, bully, truant and show-off, who hits his mother as a matter of course and beats the smaller boys—in school. His brother Moses is well behaved, industrious, cheerful, rather dull, healthy, honest and trusty. Case 2 concerns Louis, who is his mother favorite, a member of a gang, periodical participant in raids on Chinese shops, a ruffian, silent, uncommunicative and sullen. His brother Harry is clever, popular, athletic, honest, well behaved, timid with adults, and gets handy after school to help his mother. So it goes and so, we gather, it has always gone for in the first family of which we have a really well documented history, Cain and Abel differed tragically.

Edward W. Browning, the real estate operator who has created, a $12,000,000 fund to supply toys for children in hospitals, said to a New York reporter:

"Success means hard work. Now hard work is hard, no question about that, but I sometimes think that shirking is harder. The shirker has to toil so terribly, you know, in order to hoodwink his employers.

"Wash Sinclair, a road mender, was observed by his running mate to be holding his heavy sledge motionless, high above his head, ready to be brought down the instant the boss looked at him.

"'What the dickens are you doin', Wash?' his mate muttered.

"'Sh!' said Wash, in a low voice. 'Can't ye let me rest a minute when the boss' back is turned?'

The project of a school for the Southern mountain children recalls the story of the teacher who was drilling her Kentucky class in grammar:

"Pete, what's the singular of gunsmoke?"

RUNS IN THE FAMILY.

Most Famous Family of Bandmasters In the World.

The recent marriage of one of the famous Godfreys who had conducted the Crystal Palace military band for twenty-seven years, draws attention to one of the most striking cases of families in which some special talent "runs." In their case it is music and conducting. His father was the Coldstream Guards bandmaster for seventeen years; his brother conducts the Hyde Park band; his cousin, Sir Dan Godfrey, is musical director of a gramophone company after a brilliant conducting career. The original Dan Godfrey was also a Coldstream bandmaster, one of his sons a Grenadier bandmaster, and another ruled over the bands of first the Scots Guards, and then the Royal Horse Guards. The music that "runs" in the Godfreys has made them the most famous family of bandmasters in the world.

Cricket "runs" in a Hampshire family so strongly that in a recent summer they played a match with an eleven made up entirely from their members. That is rare enough, but it is possibly even rarer to hear of a whole family of five joining religious orders and entering convents. Yet it happened recently in Luxemburg. Politics "runs" in some families, as was shown when a recent by-election made a father, son, and son-in-law all M.P.'s. Several cases of law "running" in families have been strikingly demonstrated by barrister sons appearing in court before father Judges.

ONTARIO'S POPULATION.

Passes Three-Million Mark as Dominion Nears Ten Million.

The population of Canada lacks nearly a quarter of a million of the ten-million figure popularly estimated to be the present count in the Dominion. The Dominion statistician figures that the population of Canada as at June 1, 1929, is 9,796,800.

Counting noses will commence in 1930 for the decennial census, but there was a count of the three prairie provinces in 1926.

The Dominion statistician puts the population of the various provinces thus:

Ontario	3,271,000
Quebec	2,690,400
New Brunswick	419,300
Nova Scotia	550,400
P. E. Island	86,100
Manitoba	663,200
Saskatchewan	866,700
Alberta	646,000
British Columbia	591,000
Yukon	5,600
N.W. Territories	9,400

Ontario shows the greatest increase in population. In 1921, the date of the last census, Ontario's population was 2,933,662, but the Dominion statistician's estimate now is 3,271,300. In the same period Quebec's population increased from 2,361,199 to 2,691,000.

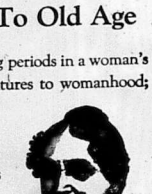
From Youth To Old Age



THERE are three trying periods in a woman's life: when the girl matures to womanhood; when a woman gives birth to her first child; when a woman reaches middle age. At these critical times Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helps to restore normal health and vigor. Countless thousands testify to its worth.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO., Lynn, Mass., U. S. A. and Cobourg, Ontario, Canada

"Why are you not working with the men?" asked the lady visitor of an inmate in an asylum.
"I'm crazy," was the candid reply.

"But surely crazy people can work," argued the lady.
"Yes," retorted the inmate, "but I'm not so crazy as that."

DO NOT NEGLECT YOUR LITTLE ONES

At no time of life is delay or neglect more serious than at childhood. The ills of little ones come quickly and unless the mother is prompt in administering treatment a precious little life may be snuffed out almost before the mother realizes the baby is ill. The prudent mother always keeps something in the medicine chest as a safeguard against the sudden illness of her little ones. Thousands of mother have found through experience that there is no other medicine to equal Baby's Own Tablets and that is why they always keep a box of the Tablets on hand—why they always feel safe with the Tablets. Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which by regulating the bowels and stomach banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and promote healthy natural sleep. Concerning them, Mrs. Isaac Sonia, St. Eugene, Ont., writes:—"I have been using Baby's Own Tablets ever since baby was a month old and have found that they reach the spot and do more good than any other medicine I have ever tried. I always keep the Tablets in the house and would advise all other mothers to do so." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PARIS NOON CANNON IS TO ROAR AGAIN

Paris—Too many good old traditions perished with the war, and few have been revived. All the more reason to rejoice that the noon cannon at the Palais-Royal will soon begin to boom again.

The noon-day gun of the Palais-Royal—which is almost in the mathematical centre of Paris—is unlike any other timepiece in the world. It is fired—or used to be—by an ingenious clockwork mechanism, which as the sun reaches the zenith, focuses its rays on the priming charge through a magnifying glass.

The cannon, of brass, is a tiny one, hardly loud enough to frighten anyone, except perhaps the sparrows, which used to burst into startled flight when it went off, but soon settled down again to the banquet of crumbs spread by shop-girls eating their luncheon snacks in the Palais-Royal gardens.

Nevertheless the authorities decided, when war broke out fifteen years ago, that the sound of the little brass cannon every midday might awaken needless alarms in Parisian breasts, and so it was decreed that it should be silent "until victory was achieved."

Victory came, but the gun remained silent. It was said that the ancient caretaker, whose duty it was each morning to reload the piece, and each afternoon to clean and polish it, had died or moved away, or else that his salary had been stopped and he had found other work. The little brass cannon, however, remained ever in its place, under a protecting glass cover.

Now in response to the demands of local merchants it is proposed to find a new guardian—or even the old one, if his services are still to be had—and start the old custom going again.

Probably Parisians will not readopt the habit however, of setting their watches by the Palais-Royal gun. Daylight saving time has played havoc with all systems of solar time-telling.

NEURITIS?
Sciatica? Rheumatism?

T-R-C's are wonderful for Neuritis. Mr. W. H. Davis of Grand Bend, Ont., had this so badly that his wife had to dress him. T-R-C's made him well. He says, "My wife also used them for Arthritis. She wouldn't be alive but for them." T-R-C's are equally good for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica and Lumbago. Quick. Safe. No harmful drugs. 50c and $1.00 at your druggist's.

SAVE WHAT YOU HAVE PRODUCED

The chief object in maintaining an apiary is to produce a crop of honey, this is not usually done simply for the fun of doing it but for the revenue that can be obtained for the honey after it is produced. A crop of honey represents a certain amount of investment and labor expended and for which one naturally desires to reap adequate returns. Unfortunately however, this hope is not always realized because a portion of the crop produced is too often allowed to go to waste and the labor of producing it recurs no rewards. Honey is a perishable article and unless it is properly cared for after being harvested it will soon ferment and spoil. Save what is produced by first allowing all honey to become thoroughly ripened before it is removed from the bees. Unripe honey quickly ferments and spoils, after it is extracted. Honey that is fully ripened when extracted will spoil if stored in unfavorable conditions. Remember that honey contains the natural ingredients for fermentation and if kept in conditions favorable for the growth of the ferments, spoilage quickly occurs. The honey should be extracted, strained and canned as soon as possible after it is removed from the bees and then stored in a cool, dry place. Comb honey must be stored in a warm dry place to prevent loss. In an apiary run for extracted honey, a considerable amount of wax is also produced sometimes running up into several hundred dollars worth. Render the cappings and discarded combs at the end of the season, or clean them so that they are safe from rodents or wax moth. A little care given to the storage of honey or wax may turn loss into gain.

The other day a man, hitherto without a spot on his character, inquired with well-feigned innocence:

"How can five persons divide five eggs so that each man will receive one and still one remain in the dish?"

After the company were all but distracted in the name of this proposition, the fellow meanly said:

"One take the dish with the egg."

WISE AND OTHERWISE

The late Thomas F. Ryan said one day at a luncheon in the Metropolitan Club:

"The suspicion that once existed between capital and labor has practically died out. Most of this suspicion was based on an error anyway. Yes, the recriminations on both sides were often as erroneous as the shameful attack on widows that was contained in the schoolboy's examination paper.

"In answer to the question, 'Tell what you know about the Black Hole of Calcutta,' this schoolboy wrote:

"'A lot of Englishmen were shut up in the Black Hole of Calcutta with one small window, and only four got out alive.'"

An Oil for All Men.—The sailor, the soldier, the fisherman, the lumberman, the out-door laborer and all who are exposed to injury and the elements will find in Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil a true and faithful friend. To ease pain, relieve colds, dress wounds, subdue lumbago and overcome rheumatism, it is excellent. Therefore, it should have a place in all home medicines and be amongst those taken on a journey.

"I suppose you know your little town fairly well," remarked the recent arrival to the oldest inhabitant.

"Rather."

"Do you know Jew's Walk?"

"No."

"Well, they do," replied the recent arrival as he dodged round the corner.

An Oil That is Prized Everywhere.—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil was put upon the market without any flourish over fifty years ago. It was put up to meet the wants of a small section, but as soon as its merits became known it had a whole continent for a field, and it is now known and prized throughout this continent. There is nothing equal to it.

Why, old man, there were so many of us children, that we had to eat at three tables—first, second and third, you know, like a church supper. I was the unluckiest little feller in the world.

"Yes? How so?" said I.

"Why," said the opponent of birth control, 'I, being the youngest, always had to eat at the third table and—believe it or not—I was 14 years old before I knew that a chicken had anything but a neck."

Miller's Worm Powders do not need the after-help of castor oil or any purgative to complete their thoroughness, because they are thorough in themselves. One dose of them, and they will be found palatable by all children, will end the worm trouble by making the stomach and bowels untenable to the parasites. And not only this, but the powders will be certain to exert most beneficial influences in the digestive organs.

Dr. Hilary B. McMasters said in Toledo in a lecture on birth control:

"Even the opponents of birth control make damaging admissions now and then. One of our bitterest opponents said to me the other day:

"'All the same, old man, a little birth control in our family wouldn't have done much harm at that.'"

A Real Asthma Relief. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy has never been advertised by extravagant statements. Its claims are conservative indeed, when judged by the benefits which it performs. Expect real relief and permanent benefits when you buy this remedy and you will not have cause for disappointment. It gives permanent relief in many cases where other so called remedies have utterly failed.

Mrs. Newlywed: "Will you try some of my angel cake?"

Mr. Newlywed: "No thank you."

Mrs. Newlywed (pouting): "Why, are you afraid it isn't good enough?"

Mr. Newlywed: "No, I'm afraid I'm not good enough, my love."

Mrs. Newlywed (eagerly): "Good enough for what, dear?"

Mothers can easily know when their children are troubled with worms, and they lose no time in applying a reliable remedy—Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator.

A little girl was acting as bridesmaid at a wedding. When the ceremony was over she asked the bride if she was feeling very tired.

"No," was the reply. "Why do you ask?"

"Well," answered the small girl, "mother said the other day that you'd been running after Mr. Jones for two years."

EXTRA DAYLIGHT HOURS PROMOTE PRODUCTION

As fall advances, the days become shorter. A flock that is in good condition and getting a good mash will lay more eggs and lay a larger percentage of them when prices are highest, if given additional daylight. Short days have been one of the limitations in egg production during the winter months.

When using lights, care must be exercised with regard to making changes in the hours of lighting and in the method of handling the flock. Sudden changes are almost sure to mean an upset and apt to result in a moult. Forgetting to turn on the lights a few mornings in succession is apt to throw the birds into a moult. This is especially true with pullets.

We also must not overwork the hens. Birds put under lights for more than twelve or fourteen hours of actual daylight lose weight and break down.

Feed hens under lights in much the same manner you would without lights. A good day mash is very important. Keep the mash before the birds in hoppers where they have an unlimited opportunity to eat all they want. In the evening before they go to roost, give them a chance to fill up on grain.

MONEY IN BACON HOGS

The price of pork certainly affects the profit made from hogs. But the producer would have to go very low before Mr. Morrow, of Stirling, lost any money.

On Tuesday, October 1st, Mr. Morrow marketed at Stirling a litter of 12 hogs, which weighed 2610 lbs. These hogs were 169 days old and graded, 3 selects, 4 bacons, and 5 butchers. The butchers were either a trifle heavy or a trifle too fat but were of bacon type.

It took just 62 cwt. of feed to get these hogs fit for market and the secret seems to be that they never stopped growing from the time they were born till they were weighed. Because of the weight, size and quality of this litter Mr. Morrow stands a good chance of getting into the money of the Bacon Litter Competition. This Competition is conducted by the Provincial and Dominion Departments of Agriculture to discover the factors which enter into the feeding of hogs.

Mr. Morrow's sow is kept busy and is expected to farrow a similar litter very shortly. A sow which produces at the rate she does and whose litter makes a pound of pork with two and one third pounds of grain is not the kind that is shipped after she has one litter.

LOBSTER CANNERY WASTE IS MEAL FOR STOCK

Lobster meal has been added to the menu of foxes in a number of Maritime Province fox ranches. A New Brunswick lobster canning factory which recently began the manufacture of meal from lobster bodies and shells reports that it has found a market for the new product with the fox raisers who are quoted as describing the meal as excellent for feeding purposes. Fish meal of other kinds has already been proven of great value in stock and poultry feeding. Successful employment of lobster bodies in the manufacture of meal will mean the utilization in profitable by-product operations of material which hitherto has been only the waste of the lobster canning industry.

Fisheries Advancing.

"The fisheries on the whole Atlantic coast, as well as the rest of Canada are advancing," said William A. Found, Deputy Minister of Fisheries, Ottawa, when on a visit to St. John, N.B. "Last year the increase in the marketed value of the fisheries on the Atlantic seaboard was 15 per cent. over that of the previous year, and the outlook is becoming more promising, with the re-organized service of the Department commencing on August 1." The main purpose of the re-organized service, he said, was to encourage and assist the industry in every feasible way by direct information, advice and inspection; and to bring all fishery products, no matter in what form prepared, up to the standard of the best marketed anywhere.

. . . Why you should ANSWER PROMPTLY

BY the time this woman finishes her hand of bridge and reaches the telephone the party calling will have given up. The tardy bridge-player will be told "Sorry — there's no one on the line now, Madam".

Both of them will be annoyed—the person calling and the person called. Both of them have wasted time. Remember—it takes three to complete a call—

There are over one million local calls in Ontario and Quebec every day which fail to get through. These uncompleted calls mean two million minutes a day wasted—congestion of traffic—constant irritation—a handicap to business.

Some of them are unavoidable and some of them are our own errors. But many of them are mistakes made by the person calling or the person called. It takes three people to complete a call.

We are constantly striving to reduce our own errors. We are now pointing out some of the common errors in telephone usage because our aim is to provide the best possible telephone service* and in telephone service, co-operation is essential.

Answer promptly when your telephone rings. If it is not conveniently located in your home, consult us about it. And when you make a call, wait a reasonable time before giving up and causing a "No one on the line now".

Extensive new construction and replacements of both local and long distance telephone plant will mean an outlay in 1929 of more than $27,000,000.

GIRL STRUCK BY CAR

Miss Marjorie Sager, fourteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sager, Robbin's Hill, Napanee was accidentally struck by a motor car on the Kingston Highway in front of Fairview School on Thursday, September 26th, and escaped with a slight bruise. The little girl had just alighted from a truck which had given her a ride to school and was about to cross to a car coming from the east driven by Mr. Harry Brunner of Brooklyn, N.Y. the highest attaining her down. Fortunately the car was going at a low rate of speed. Mr. Brunner stopped in time and under the little girl up and rushed her to Dr. Goldsmith's office where she was given medical attention and afterwards she was taken to the home where she is recovering nicely.

ELECTORS OF FRONTENAC-ADDINGTON

Two separate Conventions of your party have brought to have deliberately named me as Candidate for this Riding in the Provincial Elections.

In the city of Bristol, England, at the foot of the statue of Edmund Burke, is engraved this saying: "I want to be a member of Parliament that I may have my share of doing good and resisting evil." If I may venture to adopt the words of so great a man, these will express my sentiments. Especially am I not satisfied with the effect of the "Liquor Control Act." If you see fit to elect me to the Legislature rest assured there will be made a determined effort to enact, and to enforce a liquor law better than either the "Liquor Control Act," or the "Ontario Temperance Act." And the need is urgent. I submit that any crusade and injudicious that it be made easy to get drunk.

Other issues there are, but this one eyes-tops them all.

Frontenac-Addington is seventy-five miles long, and thirty-five miles broad, be the same more, or less. It contains more than 30 villages scattered over twenty-one townships. No newspaper is published within our borders. Within twenty one days, three of which are Sundays, a candidate can hardly visit all the neighborhoods in this Riding. I hope to address many of you, but firstly accept this as an effort to do that. And, believe me, it is to be serviceable in your interests more than in my own, that I have become a candidate for your favor.

Your humble servant,
GEO. ANSON AYLESWORTH

JOHN G. FRASER
New Manager of The Dominion Bank

The above photograph is that of Mr. J. G. Fraser, who recently assumed the position of manager of Napanee branch of the Dominion Bank. Mr. Fraser is a Scot, educated at Stewart's College, Edinburgh, and received his training in the British Linen Bank in that city. Some years prior to the world war the Dominion Bank induced the British Linen Bank to part with about a dozen of their most promising "colts" for service in Canada. Among them was Mr. Fraser, who, after a spell in several Toronto branches, was quickly marked out for preferment. This, however, was deferred by the war, during which he went overseas with the Canadian Expeditionary Forces, but on his return to Canada he was appointed manager of the East-end branch at London, Ont.; thence to East-end St. Thomas; from there to Bloor and Runnymede, Toronto, and then to Napanee. While in St. Thomas Mr. Fraser was president of the Lion's Club, which did much useful service, and he was Junior Deacon of Talbot Lodge, No. 342, A.F. & A.M. Mr. and Mrs. Fraser have taken up residence in the Kelly apartments and will be a welcome addition to the social life of the community.

WEDDING BELLS

Wiseman-Higginson

A pretty autumn wedding was celebrated on Saturday afternoon at Inkerman, Ont., at the home of the bride's parents, of Miss Lilian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hanson, to Mr. Reginald Wiseman, of Napanee, Ont.

Rev. Charles Brown performed the ceremony, the bridal party standing under an arch of ferns, flowers, autumn leaves and asters.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Miss Ruth Jones, of Picton, and by bridesmaid, Mr. George Daly, of Napanee, was best man.

A lovely gown of ivory satin, with a long bodice and long robe fitting sleeves was worn by the pretty bride. The court was of Chantilly lace with an uneven hem line. Her long tulle veil was arranged in cap effect and adorned with tiny clusters of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of Talisman roses and lily-of-the-valley with maidenhair fern.

The bridesmaid was dainty in a period frock of mauve crepe back satin and she wore a hand-painted hat of mauve mohair. She carried an arm bouquet of yellow rosebuds and wore silver brocade shoes.

The rooms of the home were effectively decorated with Pernet, Butterfly and Template roses. Miss Estelle Higginson, sister of the bride, played the wedding music and Miss Doris Donnelly, Kingston, sang "O, Promise Me," during the signing of the register.

The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a handsome fawn Kolinsky coat.

Mrs. Higginson, the mother of the bride, was in a gown of black georgette and lace with a corsage of pansies and yellow roses. Mrs. Wiseman, mother of the bridegroom, wore a frock to match in tan and shoes of the same shade and a corsage bouquet of Ophelia roses.

After the ceremony, a buffet luncheon was served. Mrs. Dwight Irvine poured tea and Mrs. Aubrey Lott cut the ices.

The young couple left on a motor trip to the Southern States, returning by New York and Syracuse. For travelling, the bride wore a dress of leaf brown crepe with a brown fur-trimmed coat and hat, shoes and handbag of the same shade.

About 50 guests were present and among those were Dr. W. L. Higginson, of Pembroke, and Dr. Frank Higginson, of New York, brothers of the bride.

On their return the young couple will reside in Napanee. Ont.—Ottawa Journal Oct. 2nd.

McCullough-Kent

The marriage of Miss Florence Kent, daughter of Mrs. Blanche Kent of 228 North Fifth street, to C. A. McCullough, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. McCullough, of Napanee, Ont., took place last Saturday at the First Baptist Peddie Memorial Church, Newark. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. M. Joseph Twomey. Mr. and Mrs. Evan Johns, of Kearns, were the attendants.

After a wedding trip to New England the couple will reside at 223 North Fifth street.

MR. AND MRS. MacGREGOR'S SILVER WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

The dining room of the Paisley House was a scene of interest on Monday evening, when Mr. and Mrs. MacGregor, of Napanee, entertained at dinner about fifty of their friends. The dining room had been tastily decorated. The tables were arranged in conventional banquet fashion, and looked very beautiful with their shining silver decorations and autumn flowers. A table of particular interest was one which was filled with silver gifts, tangible tokens from friends far and near.

The guests met in the reception hall upstairs and then proceeded by couples to the banquet room and circled the tables while Mr. Roy Kendal played the wedding march. After dinner Mayor Howitt, who acted as chairman, proposed a toast to "The King," which was responded to in the customary fashion. He then congratulated Mr. and Mrs. MacGregor and spoke of the contributions which they had made to the life of the community.

Rev. A. J. Wilson proposed a toast to the bride and groom. He offered his falicitations and spoke of the friendship of the MacGregor family and their willingness always to do what they could for the good of other people. That he said was particularly evident in the church which Mr. and Mrs. MacGregor had served so faithfully and so well.

Mr. MacGregor and Mrs. MacGregor both replied and thanked the guests for their presence, and commented on the large number present, who had been with them when they were married twenty-five years ago.

Dr. Fletcher, of Oshawa, proposed a toast to the children. As general secretary of the O.R.E.C., he had come to know the work that Mr. and Mrs. MacGregor had done for the young people of the county. He had come to know the family intimately, too, and was pleased for the opportunity to propose a toast to the two young members of the home. Gordon MacGregor made suitable reply and then served two cornet solos.

Mr. W. MacIntosh in genuine Scotch fashion then spoke of the good old times and kept the guests in laughter, as he recounted something of his own experiences and those of Mr. MacGregor in the first few years of their residence in Canada. Mr. Wm. Whytock responded to the toast that Mr. MacIntosh proposed and told many interesting and personal incidents connected with the good old days.

Rev. T. H. P. Anderson proposed a toast to the aged parents of Mr. MacGregor. They were in the old land, he said and he knew how proud they would be to have been present if possible. He could, not let an occasion like this pass without remembering them in the festivities. Mr. MacGregor briefly paid a tribute to the life and character of his parents as he replied.

Mrs. MacCaffey spoke on behalf of the ladies present and offered congratulations to the bride and groom.

Among the out-of-town guests present were: From Madoc, Mr. and Mrs. James Whytock, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whytock, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Whytock, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Foote, Mr. and Mrs. A. Cochrane, Mr. and Mrs. George West, Mrs. E. West, Mr. and Mrs. MacCaffrey. The roll call was amusingly answered with Aunt Het's sayings. A reading on Institute work in Canada and other countries by Mrs. J. Fitchett, made clear the broader vision the Institute has made possible and also showing where there is yet room for further broadening out. Next followed a splendid address on Developement given by Mrs. J. B. Robertson, vividly outlined the pushing forward of the Institute for Canada. The North-West is on the verge of a period of growth which bids fair to surpass the development of the other frontiers of Canada in the early days.

GOOD MASH HOPPERS PAY BIG DIVIDENDS

The annual waste of egg mash through the use of poor mash hoppers is enormous. While you are getting everything into readiness for another year, see that your hoppers are in good condition and that they are of the type that will not permit wasting of the mash.

There is no cheaper investment that can be made in a poultry house in point of returns than proper mash hopper equipment to give all the hens all the mash they want. Supply at least two running feet of hopper space per ten hens. If the hens do not have that amount of space they will have to take turns getting to the hopper. You will find most of the hens will want to eat at the same time and it should be possible for practically all of them to do so.

The table type of hopper with a wire top keeps the mash clean and wholesome, helps to prevent fighting at the hopper and does not clog as do most of the wall hoppers.

CENTREVILLE W. M. S.

The September meeting of the Centreville Auxiliary of the W.M.S. of the United Church was held at the home of Mrs. E. W. Lochhead, thirteen members being present and three visitors.

After devotional exercises, the minutes of last meeting were approved and the roll call was answered by a verse of Scripture. Several letters were then read, one from our Presbyterial Vice-President, Mrs. T. H. P. Anderson, another from Mrs. Hill, Presbyterial Missionary Monthly Sec., urging us to renew our subscriptions early and to get every member to subscribe, for without the M. M. we cannot be well-informed, regarding missionary activities. The third letter was from Rev. J. S. McMullen, a former pastor, now in charge of a mission in Belleville, asking for help for the unemployed, who will be needy this winter. It was resolved to pack a bale of clothing, all articles to be left at Mrs. Robt. McGill's. Mrs. C. H. Lochhead was appointed delegate to the Sectional Rally to be held at Marlbank.

A very pleasing part of the program was the presentation to Miss Annie Doupe, of a Life Membership Certificate, and mention was made of Miss Doupe's interest in the society as evidenced by her voluntary undertaking of much work and her unfailing promptness regarding fees and offerings. Miss Doupe thanked the Auxiliary but said the work was a pleasure, and the gifts of money only a duty.

As the subject for study was "Pioneer Days in Canada." "Faith of our Fathers" was sung and several ladies recalled interesting tales told by their mothers of early days in Camden Township. Mrs. H. E. Weese gave a reading showing the great advancement made in Angola, Africa, during the fifty years since the pioneer missionaries began work. A patriotic hymn was sung, and one present took part in the season of prayer. After the meeting was over, the hostess served delicious refreshments and a social half hour was much enjoyed. The October meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. J. H. Milligan.

FERGUSON GOVERNMENT'S RECORD A GOOD ONE

For the first time in fifteen years an Ontario political leader goes to the polls with a united party behind him. Even in the last election there were dry Conservatives who did not approve of Mr. Ferguson's proposals, and in other elections since 1914 the liquor issue bedevilled politics and alienated long party allegiance. Even those Conservatives who note imperfections in the Liquor Control Act will frankly admit that it is a great advance on the other systems of handling the liquor problem which this province has tried. Not only the party but, we believe, the great majority of electors, irrespective of party believe that the present Government has given progressive and honest administration. There have been no scandals, despite the fact that the expenditure have been on a scale of magnificence undreamed of a generation ago. There has been a general disappearance of the nagging which one used to hear of the lack of loyalty to Hydro principles on the part of the Government. The Hydro has been developed and the prime minister has announced plans for further development. Never before have Hydro matters been handled on such business basis, and the fruit of this policy is to be found in the proposed reduction of rates to rural users of electric current.

The heavy capital outlay on highways has been most fruitful. It has resulted in a general advance in the standard of living and has promoted the happiness and convenience of the farming community, as well as it has contributed to the pleasure and the profit of the urban dwellers. It is mainly responsible for the tremendous annual influx of visitors from the United States. Our good roads have played the major role in bringing into this country scores of millions of dollars which are spent in this province and, as time goes by, we believe the scores will have mounted to hundreds. The great highway plan being well on the way to the scores will have mounted to hundreds. The great highway being well on the way to completion, the Government proposes to give special attention to secondary roads which will even more directly benefit the farmers and give them easier access to the great arteries of traffic that now pour through every city and large town in the province.

Northern Ontario has not been neglected. It never had a better friend in provincial politics than Hon. Charles McCrea, whose indefatigable efforts for the district that is his special charge is only equalled by his willingness to remain out of the limelight. Money will be spent in further exploration of the mineral possibilities of new Ontario. The discovery of a valuable vein of lignite is only the forerunner of further treasurer to be unearthed. The bounty on iron ore is well calculated to develop an industry which may eventually make us independent of the American iron fields and conclusively prove of as much importance as our gold and silver mining industry. If, in the future Canada's needs for iron and coal can be supplied within her own boundaries, those who have done the pioneering work in these fields will be remembered as among the greatest benefactors this nation has brought forth.

Encouragement of more scientific methods of farming and more effective means of marketing farm products are to be credited to the minister of agriculture. Farming, after all, is our basic industry and it is the industry which has to face world-wide competition. Nothing short of absolute efficiency will retain for Ontario farmers the name they have won and help them expand their markets. Our agricultural colleges have an international reputation which never stood higher than it does today. On all these matters of public interest and importance the Ferguson Government has given faithful service. It might well stand simply on its record and ask the public to record its approval. But it is progressive and lays before the people a program that promises further advancement. The congratulations upon his election pronouncement which have greeted the prime minister are not more gratifying to him than they are satisfactory to the party which he leads.

BREEDING PEN SHOULD BE SELECTED IN FALL

Fall is really the ideal time to select the breeding pen. The thing to do is to select the hens to be used as breeders and put them in a house by themselves.

Birds that have been laying continuously for a year need a rest prior to the hatching season. Take the dairy cow: Every dairyman strives to have his cows dry six to eight weeks before freshening. They have found that the cows will give a heavier milk flow for the year and produce a better calf when a rest is given.

The same is true of hens. A rest provides an opportunity to get the birds back in condition. Health, growth and vitality of the chicks depend upon the health and condition of the parent stock. It pays to be particular in selecting birds for the breeding pen. Handle every hen, to avoid breeding from birds decidedly underweight or out of condition. Birds with serious defects, which would disqualify them from the show room, should not be used. Keep nothing but a pure bred flock.

Success in breeding depends to a large extent upon the care given the birds. A house that is well ventilated, warm, dry, and provides plenty of room, is an ideal place for your breeders.

Aside from comfortable quarters, breeders must receive proper nourishment. They should be kept in good flesh, for hens out of condition at hatching time ordinarily produce poor hatching eggs. If they hatch, the chicks are small, weak and unthrifty.

All through the rest period, breeders need a mash to supply the essential body building material. Equal parts of a good growing mash and a good egg mash make an excellent ration for conditioning breeders. Such a mixture does not force the birds into laying, but gets them into the best physical condition by the time the hatching season starts.

If you will give the breeders a rest and properly nourish them, you will enjoy unusually good hatches.

it takes 3 to complete a call

. . . if one slips . . . the call fails

THERE are three people to every telephone call. If any one of them makes a mistake the call fails. It may be the operator, it may be the person calling, it may be the person called.

There are over one million local calls in Ontario and Quebec every day which fail—"Line's Busy"—"No Answer"—"No one on the line now, sir"—"Wrong Number".

These uncompleted calls are a serious matter. They mean two million minutes a day wasted — congestion of traffic — constant irritation — a handicap to efficient service.

Some of these cannot be avoided and some of them are due to our own errors, and many of them are due to lack of co-operation by the other two parties.

*We are constantly reducing our own errors and we are constantly striving to give the best possible telephone service at lowest possible cost. As part of this effort we are now giving publicity to common faults in telephone usage in the hope that there may be mutual endeavour to secure and maintain maximum efficiency.

It takes three people to complete a call — if one makes a mistake, the call fails.

*It is costing more than $27,000,000 this year to extend and improve telephone service in Ontario and Quebec.

ELECTORS OF FRONTENAC-ADDINGTON

Two separate Conventions of yourselves, unbesought, have deliberately named me as Candidate for this Riding in the Provincial Election.

In the city of Bristol, England, at the foot of the statue of Edmund Burke, is engraved this saying: "I want to be a member of Parliament that I may have my share of doing good, and resisting evil. If I may venture to adopt the words of so great a man, these well express my sentiments. Especially am I not satisfied with the effects of the "Liquor Control Act." If you see fit to elect me to the Legislature, rest assured there will be made a determined effort to enact, and to enforce a liquor law better than either the "Liquor Control Act," or the "Ontario Temperance Act." And the need is urgent. I submit that it is unsafe and injudicious that it be made easy to get drunk.

Other issues there are, but this one over-tops them all.

Frontenac-Addington is seventy-five miles long, and thirty-five miles broad, be the same more, or less. It contains more than 39 villages scattered over twenty-one townships. No newspaper is published within our borders. Within twenty one days three of which are Sundays, a candidate can hardly visit all the neighborhoods in this Riding. I hope to address many of you; but kindly accept this as an effort to do that. And believe me, it is to be serviceable in your interests more than in my own, that I have become a candidate for your votes.

Your humble servant,

GEO. ANSON AYLESWORTH.

"I saved it," Mrs. Brown exclaimed, 'out of the money you gave me for the new carpets. I had the carpets charged to our account."

Miller's Worm Powders can do no injury to the most delicate child. Any child, or infant in the state of adolescence, who is infected with worms can take this preparation without a qualm of the stomach, and will find in it a sure relief and a full protection from these destructive pests, which are responsible for much sickness and great suffering to legions of little ones.

Mrs. Alden was about to engage a new servant girl. "And do you have to be called in the morning?" she asked the applicant.

"I don't has to be mum," the girl replied, "unless you happens to need me."

An Old That is Famous.—Though Canada was not the birthplace of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil it is the home of that famous compound. From here its good name was spread to Central and South America, the West Indies, Australia and New Zealand. That is far afield enough to attest its excellence for in all these countries it is on sale and in demand.

Mayor Walker praising New York in an after-dinner speech, told a story.

"And yet," he said, "the rest of the country is mistrustful of New York —as mistrustful as Aunt Sue.

"Aunt Sue and Uncle Horace started off from the farm for a Christmas visit to New York, and at Philadelphia Uncle Horace got off to buy a paper, and the train sailed away without him.

"But the Philadelphia railroad people were more than kind to the old gentleman in his predicament. They put him on an extra-rapid express, and he actually arrived in New York 20 minutes ahead of Aunt Sue. He was standing at the exit in his black Sunday suit, carpetbag in hand, when she came through the gate. "Here we are again, hey?" he said, and he gave her a gay hug. "I tell ye, old lady, I thought I'd lost ye for good.'

"But' Aunt Sue wrenched herself free. She glared at Uncle Horace. Her eyes glinted.

"You clear out, mister,' she snapped. 'None of New York confidence tricks on me. I left my Horace in Philadelphy.'"

Continually grumbling destroys all sense of humor, says an authority. In other words, when the whine is in the wit is out.

Specially adapted for use in putting on metal roofing. The lead on the head positively seals the nail hole—making it weather-tight and water-proof. No washers; no more "threading". Econo-lb. Free sample on request.

Rib-Roll Galvanized roofing shields property from lightning and fire. Wooden roofs are easy prey. In 1927 in Ontario alone, $1,814,700 worth of property was destroyed by fire caused by spontaneous combustion and by embers falling on inflammable roofs. Rib-Roll is absolutely fire-proof and water-tight. It protects your crops from dampness that is conducive to spontaneous ignition. Handsome; permanent; easy to lay on any roof. Has seven ribs to nail; others give less security.

Prevent Spontaneous Combustion and have a Well Ventilated Barn

Warm, moist air in an improperly ventilated barn produces conditions conducive to spontaneous ignition. Preston Ventilators for the roof, adjustable side-wall windows and spacious doors protect the barn from fire dangers by keeping the air in constant circulation. OBITUARY

Mr. Jeptha Scott

After an illness of ever two years' duration there passed away in the Kingston General Hospital on Monday morning of a former well-known resident of Napanee, in the person of Mr. Jeptha Scott, at the age of 68 years. Some two years ago, while residing in the West, the deceased suffered a slight stroke and since that time his health began to decline. A year ago last winter he came east, hoping that a change in the climate would be beneficial. In the early spring he again went West, where he remained until this summer, his condition becoming so serious that he decided to come east again. On reaching Napanee he was taken to the Kingston General Hospital, where he had been undergoing treatment for the past two weeks. For the past two weeks little hope had been held out for his recovery. The late Mr. Scott was one of seven brothers, two of whom have passed on before Wilmot and Frank. He was born near Napanee, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Scott. When a young man he went to Michigan and later to Idaho, and had resided in the Western States ever since. Many of his old friends in Napanee are gone, but those who were associated with him in early life will regret to learn of his death. Four brothers survive, Lester A. Scott, E. W. Scott, P. S. Scott, all of Napanee and Rev. Perry A. Scott, who is at present taking a trip to the Canadian West.

RUGBY

Napanee Collegiate Institute Beats Deseronto High School 13-1

The N.C.I. rugby team, playing a vastly superior game with a far greater degree of steadiness all through, defeated their old friends, Deseronto High School by the overwhelming score of 13-1 at the Driving Park on Wednesday last, and left no doubt but that they will be the team to beat for the title of their division in the League.

Napanee were the aggressors right from the kick-off. The only event of note in the first quarter was the point made by N.C.I. on a rouge and a beautiful 50-yard run by Kinkley. In this quarter there were a few loose plays by both teams. In the last of the first half Napanee secured the kick. The Deseronto boys couldn't seem to keep from fumbling and as a result, lost the ball. After a sensational run by Creighton on the first down Bob Howitt went through for a touch, making the score 6-0. Oliver then converted to raise the score to 7-0.

Deseronto seemed more aggressive when after the kick, they secured possession to kick, forcing N.C.I. to yield a point. Nevertheless, our boys did not enter the second half too over-confident, probably remembering the last game played in Deseronto last season when they entered the final half with a substantial lead only to see D.H.S. come from behind with a see the Deseronto team come from behind to win the game. Deseronto secured the kick-off and then on Napanee's first down Robinson and Moore executed a thrilling forty-yard run. Then on the next down we were penalized ten yards for an off side. When Deseronto secured possession they made no gains so were forced to kick. Then Robinson again got away for a sensational run, passed to Oliver, who carried the ball still farther. That pass was ruled a forward although our boys or no one else except the referee could see it. Deseronto now had possession, but as usual they could not make any gains. On the acquisition of the pigskin by our fellows Kinkley rose to the spectacular to carry it for forty yards and on the kick that followed Deseronto yielded another point to make the score 8-1.

The last quarter opened with Deseronto in possession. They kicked on their final down giving Napanee the ball. Then after the ball had changed possession twice one of the D.H.S. players gave Moore the ball "in mistake" and Harry galloped up the field for an easy touch, with the whole Deseronto team trying to overtake him. This made the score 13-1 and it remained so till the final whistle. Deseronto fought hard against a slightly heavier and better team. Their players were really less experienced and did not seem to know what to do with the ball and thus lost many chances to gain yards. The game was the proverbial two bucks and a kick except for the few thrilling runs dished up by our boys at intervals throughout the game. No individual stood out as the star of the game but everyone co-operated. Robinson worked his plays in masterful style and "Cliff" Howitt was no less effective. Moore, Webster, and Kinkley all showed speed and power to make long gains. Oliver's tackling was perfect, but no more so than his running. Capt. Walter Exley fought hard and kept up the enthusiasm among his men all through the game. Bob Howitt and MacGregor broke through time after time for yards. Thompson, at snap, proved his worth as did Davy Hogle. Bill Howitt and Claus, Contrary to the game played in Trenton, the better team won and one cannot give too much credit to the coaching of Mr. Shoemaker and to the boys themselves. After the game we entertained the D.H.S. team to supper and a very enjoyable dance. N.C.I. play their next game at home with Trenton on Saturday, October 19th. A win means a great deal to our boys so come and give them the support they deserve.

No Medicine Like Baby's Own Tablets

To once use Baby's Own Tablets is to use them continually—that is as long as there are young children in the home. That is the testimony given us by mothers from all parts of Canada. They all say that they know of nothing to equal the Tablets, that they find them safe and efficient and at the same time pleasant to take.

Mrs. John Hollinworth, Maidstone, Ont., writes:—"I have three children, the eldest fourteen and the youngest nine months old. I have always used Baby's Own Tablets for them and have found no other medicine to equal the Tablets as a relief for the many ailments of childhood."

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach. They drive out constipation and indigestion, break up colds and simple fevers and make the cutting of teeth easy. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. 42a

THE CANADIAN DEPARTMENT STORES LIMITED

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

To Editor of The Beaver.—To my astonishment it has become plain that some electors of this riding do not intend to vote for me, nor to let others do so, if it can be prevented. They are whispering around "Aylesworth is ineligible; he holds a Government office with pay attached." At first it was told to me that the scheme was, "Wait till the hour for nomination is past; then let this out; and—presto!—Mr. Black will be in again, without any voting just like last time!" But, "the best laid schemes o' mice and men gang aft agley." I hold no office, or appointment with pay attached, under any Government, nor have I had any such office since November 1st., 1924.

The Hon. C. J. Doherty, K.C.,etc., was Minister of Justice in Mr. Borden's first Cabinet; also he was member of Parliament for Montreal, St. Anne. At the same time this eminent gentleman was in receipt of a superannuation allowance as ex-judge of one of the Quebec Courts, R.S.O. Chapter 12, which my opponents are misinterpreting, disqualifies "any person accepting or holding any office, "—"in the service of the Government—to which salary— or profit of any kind is attached."—the reason being that a member of Parliament ought to be unbeholden to any Cabinet. Hon. Mr. Doherty drew his superannuation allowance not by favor of any Cabinet or Government, but under the provisions of an Act of Parliament. And so do I draw mine. Hon. Mr. Doherty became a member of Parliament, and held his seat notwithstanding his superannuation allowance; and it looks more and more likely that the people of this riding awake to their own interests, and of their own free will, are about to make me a member of the Legislature notwithstanding mine. My opponents seem to think so;—"Hence these tears."

In view of such a precedent as that of Hon Doherty, surely it smacks of "peanut-politics" for men who are old enough to know better, thus to challenge my modest superannuation allowance. More especially as our friend Patrick puts it, "Sure, there's no truth at all, at all, in more than half the lies that's going about." By such silly and misleading rumors can they hope to scare off any electors that wishes to vote for the cause of which I have been made the standard-bearer; A humble candidate I am, and unworthy; but I am not in any way ineligible. They must be conscious of a poor and losing cause who have recourse to misrepresentation.

(Signed) Geo. Anson Aylesworth.

On Thursday, October 17th, 1929, E. J. Courneya will sell by Public Auction for John F. Ervin, Lot 11, Con. 5, Hungerford, 2 miles south of Stoco at 12.30 sharp; Bay team, 10 or 11 years, 2600 lbs; brood mare with foal, age 12 years; bay colt rising 2 years; grey Percheron colt rising 2 years; grey Percheron colt rising 1 year; 11 choice high grade Holstein cows, high grade Holstein heifer 2 years, 3 high grade yearling heifers; purebred bull, Prince Echo Alheld his seat notwithstanding his superannuation allowance; and it looks more and more likely that the people of this riding awake to their own interests, and of their own free will, are about to make me a member of the Legislature notwithstanding mine. My opponents seem to think so;—"Hence these tears."

In view of such a precedent as that of Hon Doherty, surely it smacks of "peanut-politics" for men who are old enough to know better, thus to challenge my modest superannuation allowance. More especially as our friend Patrick puts it, "Sure, there's no truth at all, at all, in more than half the lies that's going about." By such silly and misleading rumors can they hope to scare off any electors that wishes to vote for the cause of which I have been made the standard-bearer; A humble candidate I am, and unworthy; but I am not in any way ineligible. They must be conscious of a poor and losing cause who have recourse to misrepresentation.

N. C. I. Honors Mr. Beattie

The pupils of the Napanee Collegiate Institute had their first opportunity to express their appreciation to Mr. Beattie, for his untiring efforts with them.

On Friday afternoon when he visited the school for a short time the members of Students' Council on behalf of the school presented him with a purse of gold. On the platform were Mr. Beattie and Mr. Jamieson and representative members of the Students' Council.

"Mr. Jamieson gave a short talk in which he said it was not necessary to introduce Mr. Beattie. He also said he was proud to succeed the former principal, and spoke of the school spirit of the Collegiate.

"Bob Howitt, president of the Athenian party read the address while Dorothy Wilson, president of the Spartan party presented Mr. Beattie with the purse of gold.

Dear Mr. Beattie,—When, last summer it was noised abroad through numerous channels of hearsay, that our principal would not be with us for another term, despair descended upon us. Alias might well have dropped his burden, or gravity lost its force, for our world---our school world---seemed quite purposeless and unguided. All the plans of improvement and progress which our principal had partially unfolded to the Students' Council were now things of the past, like dreams which would never come true.

We feel that during the years in which you were our principal, numberless improvements were made in our school outline, our courses, and our social life. The acquisition of a Students' Council enabled us to feel that we ruled ourselves, and were not simply at the command of a despotic superior; and in every other way, school conditions were raised to a higher status.

Material worth, however, was not the strongest bond between principal and pupils. That comradely good---sportsmanship and sympathetic understanding of youth which were prevalent on every occasion of contact with the students, won a spot in every heart which another can never fill.

As pupils of N.C.I. we have wished that we, too, might hold a place in your memory, and have anxiously awaited an opportunity of making this hope a certainty. So it was with us today, and we ask you to accept this token of our respect and affection. We hope that as you travel from place to place, you will remember that in thought, we are with you---glad at your every success, and hoping that life may hold in store for you even greater things.

On behalf of the pupils of the Napanee Collegiate Institute,

(Signed) LOIS STALKER,
BOB HOWITT,
DOROTHY WILSON.

Mr. Beattie was completely taken by surprise, but thanked the pupils sincerely. He said that he, too, would remember the pupils. He wished them success in their studies, and would look forward to returning to Napanee Collegiate in an official capacity with great pleasure.

Mr. Newlywed: "Do you think I'll make a satisfactory mate dear?"

Mrs. Newlywed: "Wonderful, darling! Now tell me what you think of pour captain."

First Office Boy—Can't you say your grandmother's dead?

Second Lad—No, she works here too.

PROHIBITION LEADER IS CHAIRMAN FOR FERGUSON

T. W. Duggan, head of Dale Nurseries, Supports Col. Kennedy in Peel

Brampton—A life-long temperance worker who opposed the Conservative party in 1926, was chairman of Premier Ferguson's meeting here on Monday.

He is T. W. Dugan, head of the Dale nurseries here, and former chairman of the Peel county license commission under the Whitney government, when one by one, every liquor license in the county was cancelled.

Because he believed in the government's sincerity of purpose as a temperance force, and because he felt its financial and general administrative record was beyond criticism, Mr. Duggan declared that this time he was behind Col. T. L. Kennedy, veteran Conservative member for the riding who again is the candidate. It was Col. Kennedy whom Mr. Duggan worked against in 1926.

"I believe," Mr. Duggan said, "that the election of Mr. Kennedy will be in the interests of temperance and good government generally more than the election of his opponent."

Mr. Duggan read a letter which he wrote to Dr. A. J. Irwin general secretary of the Prohibition union, declining the letters of invitation to act on the prohibitionist provincial campaign committee.

The letter read in part:

"In the meantime I believe that as a strong temperance man, I can do more to reserve action if such need be at a later date when there may be some hope of success and in the meantime endeavor to have the weak clauses in government control strengthened in temperance interests and give this government control a fair show with proper amendments, believing that Sir Henry Drayton is anxious and willing to give government control success if such be possible at all.

"I cannot therefore subscribe or take any active part in the provincial campaign committee at this period when I believe that success is impossible, and we will gain our ends at a later date if government control proves to be a failure in the long run, in the opinion of a large portion of the electorate. If such a time comes as temperance people we can hit and hit hard. I do not think this is the time."

Tribute was paid to Mr. Duggan by the premier. Opening his address, Mr. Ferguson declared that even when Mr. Dugran opposed him he had always considered him a personal friend.

WEDDING BELLS

Storing-Dowdle

A pretty autumn wedding took place on Saturday September 21st, when Lois Mae, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Dowdle was united in marriage to Wm. Harry, eldest son of Mr. Geo Storring, at the rectory, Camden East, promptly at 9.30, by Rev. Mr. S. H. Spencer.

The young bride looked sweet and natural in a navy tricotine suit, with navy felt hat and grey purse, gloves and shoe to match and wore the groom's gift, a grey squirrel chocker. The bride was attended by Miss Laura Dowdle, while Mr. Archie Dowdle ably supported the groom.

The happy couple motored to Kingston and took the boat to Syracuse, visiting relatives of the groom.

On their return they were tendered a reception of about 50 guests and received many beautiful and useful presents. They will reside at Selby where the groom is a prosperous young farmer.

The proprietor of a restaurant advertised for a cook the other day. The first to apply for the berth appeared to be in every way suitable. Before engaging him the restaurant keeper asked him if he could give him a tip for the 3.50 race. The cook's eyes brightened. He whispered a "dead cert," and mentioned that he had five shillings on the horse himself. That was enough. The proprietor gave him a lecture on the evils of betting, and showed him the door. As he went out he saw another man about to enter.

"Are you going to apply for the job?" he asked. "Well, if you are asked if you know anything about racing say you can't tell a Derby winner from a coster's donkey."

The man took the advice, was engaged, and commenced his duties. presently the proprietor rushed to the speaking-tube, and yelled to the new cook, "Calf's head, one."

Instantly the reply came: "Did he, by George. "What was second and third?"

CENTENARY OBSERVED OF THE STEAM LOCOMOTIVE

Rainhill is not a name in much currency nowadays, but a hundred years ago at Rainhill there was a contest which more profoundly affected human life than the more spectacular contest at Waterloo. For at Rainhill the first public demonstration was given of a practical locomotive, the renowned and immortal Rocket, made by George Stephenson, who, in consequence, has become known as the father of modern railway transportation. Since Watt was the inventor of the steam engine and Stephenson of the steam locomotive, the all-English character of these epoch-making discoveries is worth noting, and it is perhaps in keeping that the speed record for mechanical flight should also, at this moment, repose in the British Isles. For the airplane is as much a descendant of the steam engine as the locomotive. One is a link in the chain of evolution just as the reptile is a link between the fish and the bird. Reading now of Stephenson's exploits, they seem as puny as did the first flights at Kittyhawk of the Wright brothers, but they were pregnant with even greater things to come.

Railway Before Locomotive

A couple of curious facts come to light when reading of the period in which Stephenson's Rocket made history. One is that steam locomotives had been in use for a considerable time previously, and the other is that the railroad which was to be the first in the world to employ steam traction was built before the locomotives which were to operate it were in existence. Many minds had become interested in the invention of a machine which would take the place of the horse for hauling loads after Watt perfected the stationary steam engine. As early as 1804, Richard Trevithick, a Cornish giant, whose especial hobby was wrestling, had built a locomotive which operated in Wales, and later was a toy in London. Half a dozen others, including John Blenkinsop and William Hedley, had constructed working locomotives of different types. Indeed when George Stephenson was a boy, he became familiar with the locomotives which were at work in the coal districts and seemed miraculous enough for the comparatively slight tasks demanded of them.

A Mechanical Genius

Stephenson was a genius mechanically and though he was 18 years old before he could read or write, 10 years later he was recognized as the first authority in England on steam traction. He began to earn his own living when eight years old and from infancy was fascinated by machinery. He designed and built locomotives, using the idea of the men who had preceded him and contributing original ideas of his own. In 1825 he drove a diminutive engine on the Stockton and Darlington railroad. This road used locomotives to move freight and later to carry passengers before the Liverpool and Manchester road offered the chance that was to make Stephenson's Rocket famous. Nevertheless for reasons not altogether clear posterity has chosen to fix 1829 as the year and the Rainhill the scene of the birth of the steam locomotive. At this time Stephenson was chief engineer for the railway company which in the face of tremendous difficulties and the spending of a good deal of money in dubious ways, had secured a charter for its line and had laid its rails and built its tunnels.

International Contest

When the charter was before parliament for approval, the promoters, alarmed by previous experiences, had not emphasized the fact that they expected the trains to be hauled by steam locomotives. They merely said that they would employ mechanical means. They did not themselves know what they might be. There were respected authorities who said that the best scheme was to have stationary engines set at intervals along the line. These engines, by bolts and pulleys, would haul the train up a grade and its own momentum would carry it down. There were some who pinned their faith to a contraption operated by a horse on a revolving platform operated just as dogs have been seen operating churns. In the end the harrassed directors concluded that they would have an open competition and select the machine that it premised the best results. News of the contest was spread all over Europe and America and ten locomotives were built specially for the occasion, of which four actually appeared.

Stephenson's Triumph

England regarded the contest as a sporting event and a great crowd turned out at Rainhill on October, 1829, to see the fun. The four competitors were Stephenson with his Rocket, Timothy S. Hacket with his Sans-pareil, Braithwaite and Ericsson's Novelty and Burstall's Perseverence. The Rocket was the most favorably regarded by the spectators, who, of course, knew nothing about locomotives. Strict conditions were laid down as to what the engines should accomplish and most of them did accomplish what was first asked of a skilled engineer rather than the crotchets of a dreaming inventor. As noted most of the ideas that went into the Rocket had been previously applied by other engineers but it was Stephenson's genius that turned them into the first real locomotive to win both expert and popular approval.

UNBREAKABLE BOXES FOR OUR PRODUCTS

A practical and popular object lesson on the value of scientific research on the part of the Department of the Interior, is to be found in the increased safety with which Canada's merchandise is shipped throughout the country and to points abroad. Damage to freight in transit is a source of loss to shippers which for many years they have endeavored to reduce, and manufacturers are constantly directing their efforts towards the production of a damage-proof carrier. The problem has been submitted to the Forest Products Laboratories of the Forest Service and the research work carried on by that body has resulted in the development of a number of containers for different products which have withstood in tests all forms of violence to which freight in transit is generally subjected.

The Forest Products Laboratories of the Department of the Interior at Ottawa and the branch at Vancouver are equipped with modern testing machines operated by experts, so that when the question arises of securing the best types of produce containers the tests were thorough and practical. In the Timber Testing Building of the Laboratories at Ottawa there is a huge machine known as the Hazard. The duty of the Hazard is to test boxes and other types of containers. It consists, in the main of a large cylinder, seventeen feet in diameter, mounted on car wheels and driven by an electric motor. On the inner surface of the cylinder are diagonally placed shelves which divert the course of the boxes placed therein. The cylinder is revolved at varying speeds and in this way the containers are given thorough testing, bumping and sliding in every direction.

At the request of the Dominion Department of Agriculture types of butter and cheese boxes in most common use, known by the names of the Manitoba "nailed corner" the Ontario "dovetail," and the "lock corner" of Alberta and Quebec were tested at the Laboratories. First the resistive powers of the different woods used in the construction of these containers were tested on the impact, compression, and tension machines and then the boxes were tried in the Hazard.

From these and other experiments the strongest and most economical woods and the most durable types of construction are determined and a standard receptacle evolved for each class of freight. It is now specifically known what are the best kinds of wood for boxes, crates, and other carriers; how these woods should be re-enforced and exactly in what manner they should be constructed to prevent damage to the contents.

The above is only one of the many investigations undertaken constantly in the interests of Canadian trade and commerce. Canadian manufacturers are bringing in increasing numbers their problems to the Laboratories and the Dominion's business is benefiting by the results of the researches carried out.

LIGHTS VERSUS NO LIGHTS FOR LAYING PULLETS

In view of the fact that fresh eggs are nearly always a higher price during the winter season than during the summer, many poultrymen have been interested in the possibility of increasing winter egg production by the use of artificial lights.

At the Dominion Experimental Station, Kapuskasing, Ont., an experiment has been conducted for a period of five years in order to obtain some data on this subject. The experiment covered a period of six months each year, from November 1 to April 30, during which time the electric lights were turned on at four o'clock in the morning and remained on until daylight. One hundred pullets were used. These were divided equally as to weight, general development, and breeding into two pens of 50 each. All condition were made similar except that the one pen had these extra hours of light to work.

Over a five-year period the pen on lights produced on the average 3995 eggs at a cost of 20 cents per dozen in the six months; while the pen without lights produced 3671 eggs at a cost of 22 cents per dozen. This gives an advantage of about 300 eggs for the pen on lights and at a reduction in cost of 2 cents per dozen.

During two of the years covered by this experiment the test was continued until October 31st, making the complete years. In the two year average for the whole year, the pen with lights laid fewer eggs than the pen without lights.

From the figures obtained to date it would appear as though lights have an effect on the number of eggs laid during the winter months, when the eggs are highest in price, but on the other hand they do not seem to materially alter the total number obtained from the whole year.—L.E.Hanlan, Dominion Experimental Station, Kapuskasing, Ont.

Strict conditions were laid down as to what the engines should accomplish and most of them did accomplish what was first asked of them, whereupon the directors imposed new conditions. The contest began on October 6th and lasted through to October 14th. Through all the trails Stephenson's locomotive was the only one that was always ready. The others were always being tinkered with after the fashion of primitive motor cars. The Novelty astounded everybody by developing a speed of nearly 30 miles an hour but failed in a distance test of 70 miles which Stephenson negotiated at the rate of 11 miles an hour. Later when the Rocket was stripped she made 30 miles per hour. As has been well said the Rocket won the tests because she embodied the wide knowledge and experience of a skilled engineer rather than the crotchets of a dreaming inventor. As noted most of the ideas that went into the Rocket had been previously applied by other engineers but it was Stephenson's genius that turned them into the first real locomotive to win both expert and popular approval.

LIGHTS VERSUS NO LIGHTS FOR LAYING PULLETS

In view of the fact that fresh eggs are nearly always a higher price during the winter season than during the summer, many poultrymen have been interested in the possibility of increasing winter egg production by the use of artificial lights.

At the Dominion Experimental Station, Kapuskasing, Ont., an experiment has been conducted for a period of five years in order to obtain some data on this subject. The experiment covered a period of six months each year, from November 1 to April 30, during which time the electric lights were turned on at four o'clock in the morning and remained on until daylight. One hundred pullets were used. These were divided equally as to weight, general development and breeding into two pens of 50 each. All condition were made similar except that the one pen had these extra hours of light to work.

Over a five-year period the pen on lights produced on the average 3266 eggs at a cost of 20 cents per dozen in the six months; while the pen without lights produced 3071 eggs at a cost of 22 cents per dozen. This gives an advantage of about 200 eggs for the pen on lights and at a reduction in cost of 2 cents per dozen.

During two of the years covered by this experiment the test was continued until October 31st, making the comparisons years. In the two year average over the whole year, the pen with lights laid fewer eggs than the pen without lights.

From the figures obtained to date it would appear as though lights have an effect on the number of eggs laid during the winter months, when the eggs are highest in price, but on the other hand they do not seem to materially alter the total number obtained from the whole year.—L.H.Hanlan, Dominion Experimental Station, Kapuskasing, Ont.

Blinks—What do you think of women smoking?

Jinks—Well, to me seeing a girl light a cigarette looks as absurd as it would for a man to pull out a compact in the middle of the block to powder his nose.

The proprietor of a restaurant advertised for a cook the other day. The first to apply for the berth appeared to be in every way suitable. Before engaging him the restaurant keeper asked him if he could give him a tip for the 3.50 race. The cook's eyes brightened. He whispered a "dead cert.," and mentioned that he had five shillings on the horse himself. That was enough. The proprietor gave him a lecture on the evils of betting, and showed him the door. As he went out he saw another man about to enter.

"Are you going to apply for the job?" he asked. "Well, if you are asked if you know anything about racing say you can't tell a Derby winner from a carter's donkey."

The man took the advice, was engaged, and commenced his duties. presently the proprietor rushed to the speaking-tube, and yelled to the new cook, "Calf's head, one."

Instantly the reply came: "Did he, by George. What was second and third?"

THE LAYING HOUSE IN WINTER

Now that the time for the winter housing of the pullets is at hand it is well to realize just what is necessary to fulfil the requirements for greatest results in profitable returns.

Pullets to give maximum results must not only be well bred and well fed, they must be ocmfortably housed, which means that the house must be dry, thoroughly ventilated, without draughts, and bright and cheery. Such a house properly furnished to allow the maximum of unobstructed floor space is a satisfactory foundation on which to start the season's work.

To asure such conditions see that there are no leaking roofs, that all cracks in the walls are well batoned, that the floor is sufficiently elevated above the surrounding ground so that it will be well drained, and if you have been troubled in the past by a moist condition on the roof or ceiling put in a straw loft, and make openings in the gable ends of the house to allow of a cross draught over the straw.

By all means use dropping boards under the roosts and clean them off regularly so that they will not contaminate the air which the fowl have to breathe. When the pullets are brought in from range in the fall try to make conditions as nearly as possible like those they have been accustomed to. They have been on grass range living in open houses, if when they are brought in they are put in close houses you may be almost certain that you will have trouble with fall colds and roup.

When they are put into their winter quarters the house should be kept wide open day and night and the birds allowed to spend the days in the yards surrounding the house. As the weather gets colder the windows may be gradually closed at night, but keep them open during the day, so long as the sun is shining, even in the severest weather.

The birds will do well egen in severely cold weather so long as the houses are dry and thoroughly ventilated without draughts.—George Robinson, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

COUNTY LADIES' AID CONVENTION

The Seventh annual County Conventionvention of the Ladies' Aid Societies was held at Camden East Unitcieties was held at Camden East United Church Hall on Wednesday, Sept. 25th with a large attendance. Promptly at the appointed hour, the president and officers being in place, the Rev. T.H.P. Anderson opened the Convention with devotional exercises, after which the president, Mrs. Elmer Altenbrack took charge. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and approved. The following committee's were appointed, nominating committee, Rev. G. T. MacKenzie, Yarker; Mrs. L. Parks, Hay Bay; Mrs. Richmond, Roblin; Mrs. Wales and Mrs. Wood, Napanee. Resolutions Committee, Rev. S. F. Dixon, Bath; Mrs. A. Babcock, Wilton; Mrs. A. Carscallen, Enterprise; Mrs. Wm. Jackson, Mrs. (Rev.) Anderson was appointed a press reporter.

Mrs. J. Ackerman, Hawley, gave a paper brimful of helpful suggestons on "the problems of Ladies' Aid Societies." Some of the problems dealt with were: Non-attendance of members uninteresting meetings; discussion among the members, and discouragement. Mrs. Jos. Lewis sang in a sweet voice a very suitable solo, "Do something for Somebody." The following thirty societies reported very fully their social activities, methods of work and monies raised:—Anderson, Adolphustown, Arden, Bath, Bethany, Bellrdah, Camden East, Centreville, Colebrook, Conway, Enterprise, Empey Hill, Gretna, Hawley, Hay Bay, Hayburn, Newburgh, Mountain Grove, Napanee—Grace, St. Andrew's and Trinity; Roblin, Odessa, Sand Hill, Sillerville, Tamworth Wilton Union, Yarker.

Camden East's greetings were expressed by Mrs. (Rev.) Anderson and Mrs. Milton Thompson, Bath, responded. At the noon hour about 250 delegates and friends enjoyed a generous dinner.

The afternoon session convened in the church and was opened by convention singing and a pleasing vocal duet by Mrs. G. Scott and Mrs. V. Edgar. The Rev. S. F. Dixon led the devotional exercises

Mrs. Stanley Bell read a paper on new resolutions. This address bristled with gems quoted from many authors. Mrs. Alex Macgregor, Napanee, very ably handled the question drawer.

Mrs. Scott Gives Address

After a hymn was sung and offering taken, Mrs. Gilbride was called to the platform to introduce Mrs. M. Scott, of Montreal, which she did briefly but happily. Mrs. Scott was greeted with applause. In her introduction she congratulated herself on seeing dreams come true. She and Mrs. Gilbride had often wished for just such an organization. As she was attending today. Secondly she congratulated the 250 women present on living in Ontario, for in Quebec no woman had a vote in Provincial elections or even school elections. No woman can be a lawyer, architect or chartered accountant.

In speaking of woman's work in the church and Ladies' Aid, Mrs. Scott said that Church union was the "ultimate victory of righteoufness" and that the work of the Ladies' Aid was a great work. Out of the richness of her experience she very wittely inspired her hearers to be their very best in serving home, church and community.

After a convention hymn, Mrs. Bruce Finley sang very effectively "I shall not pass again this way," words by Ella Wheeler Wilcox, and the music composed especially for it by Prof. Kendal, of Napanee.

Resolutions

The following resolutions were presented by Mrs. Wm. Jackson and passed:—1. That the secretary of each Ladies' Aid notify the District secretary, immediately after the annual meeting, of name and address of each officer for the ensuing year, whether or not any change has been made. 2. That the invitation given by Tamworth Lodies' Aid for the annual convention in 1930 be accepted. 3. We also resolve that the names of our deceased shall be placed in the hands of our District secretary, that special mention might be made of those who have worked so faithfully among us and whom God has seen fit to take home to Himself. 4. That we wish to make special mention of our sister Aids coming from such long distances and bringing large delegations to our Annual Convention. 5. That we wish to extend a hearty vote of thanks to our pastors and all who have helped to make this Convention the success it has been, to the Camden Ladies' Aid, and to the Rev. and Mrs. Anderson for their hospitality and the most excellent dinner which we are sure all enjoyed.

TRENTON CHOSEN AIR HEADQUARTERS

After investigating the merits of 30 different sites in Ontario and Quebec to be used as headquarters for the Royal Canadian Air Force the experts agreed on the one at Trenton, Ontario, as "be best suited for the purpose and after some delay this choice has now been officially confirmed, announcement was made Friday.

This means the displacement of Camp Borden which was first established as an infantry camp and since the war has been used by the Air Force. Camp Borden is considered to be unsuitable for the purposes of the Air Force. It was never designed as the first place for such use. The buildings need replacing and it is claimed that the cost of putting them in shape or erecting new ones would exceed what the new layouts will cost.

A particular advantage claimed for Trenton is that being right on Lake Ontario it is suited to sea plane as well as airplane training. Steps will be taken at once to secure the property which will require considerable acreage. Deseronto was as strong offender for the other.

The anniversary services in the United Church were well patronized both morning and evening on Sunday. The weather was all that could have been desired. The Rev. Principal Gandier, D.D., LL.D., was the special preacher. Both for his own sake, and that of his many friends and relatives of him that filleth all in all." Eph. 1: 22, 23. The choir assisted by Mrs. Bruce Finlay, Strathcona, rendered excellent music. The solo selection by Mrs. Finlay was very appropriate and appealing. The evening service brought a full church. From far and near folk came. In the evening the choir service by Mr. Carscallen took for his text, "God was in Christ reconciling the world unto Himself." II Cor. 5: 19. As in the morning the speaker held the attention of his audience while he presented very simply but most clearly the great appeal of God to mankind. The financial appeal was made by the pastor, Rev. T. H. P. Anderson. The hope was that we might raise five hundred dollars or the amount needed but when the subscriptions and collections for the day were added the pastor was able to announce that the sum of $1,167.09 had been reached. One of the most interesting parts of this service was the reading of a number of extracts from letters received from former residents of Newburgh and announcing the fact that they were enclosing cheques. Among the letters received were: F. L. Hooper, Napanee; Mr. Adam Fullerton, Brockville; Dr. McCauley, Dunnville; Mr. P. and Mrs. Young, Hamilton; Miss Geneva Burdette; A. Friend, and Old Newburgh Boy, A. W. Carter. When the announcement of the total proceeds was made the congregation joined in singing "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow."

The Anniversary Supper and entertainment was held on Monday evening, promptly at six o'clock. The people were there ready for supper. The tables were beautifully laid and decorated. The folk came and went and to say that everyone did justice to a bountiful repast is to express it tritely. The program after the supper in charge of Rev. Mr. Gandier was a anniversary. The Selby Quartette with Miss W. Jackson accompanist were favorites and heartily welcomed. Mr. Merden, public entertainer, of Belleville, very pleasingly gave several selections.

The proceeds of the Ladies' Aid Tea amounted to $135.60.

PREMIER FERGUSON SPEAKS AT NAPANEE

NEARLY 3,000 ELECTORS FILL THE ARMOURIES

IN A MASTERFUL ADDRESS THE PREMIER DEFENDS HIS GOVERNMENT IN ALL ITS ADMINISTRATION

Premier Ferguson is still at a loss to know where W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., Liberal leader, stands on the liquor question.

In an analogy that brought guffaws of approval from his audience, the premier again confessed his bewilderment at the harmonies last Thursday night to the electors of Frontenac-Lennox.

He referred to Dr. Edward Ming, Liberal ex-member for this riding, having stated that he stood where his leader did on this question. "We are all looking for that spot," the premier told his amused audience hearers. "We have out searchlights and corps of men to find where it is. It is here today and there tomorrow. But it is like the veritable flea, it is never where you go to put your finger on it."

The premier then dove another challenge to Mr. Sinclair to declare himself. "Mr. Sinclair has never yet and dare not say whether he is in favor of the O.T.A.," the premier declared. "He says, "I'll give you a plebiscite, that means, I'll shirk responsibility and put it on you."

Nearly 3,000 people from all parts of the southern end of Frontenac-Lennox County attended the rally in the armouries here. The premier spoke in the interests of C. W. Hambly, ex-M.P.P., for the old riding of Lennox from 1919 to 1922, who is the Conservative candidate in Frontenac-Lennox. Greeted by a vociferous outburst of applause the premier opened his speech with a brief review of the province's financial position. He pointed out that the Financial World's opinion of Ontario's credit was shown recently when a higher rate was paid by financiers for a loan floated by the province than they paid on one secured by the Dominion at the same time.

The premier made a pointed reference to the prohibitionist argument, that the province was taking "tainted money" when it accepted liquor taxed revenue. He drew attention to the fact that the dominion government got many times the revenue that the province did out of the liquor traffic. "I say to them," the premier asserted, "take the beam out of your own eye before you look for the mote in ours."

The many promised tax reductions of W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., Liberal leader, could be accomplished, the prime minister submitted only by one means. The retarding of the progress of the province by cutting revenue. Mr. Sinclair, he said, did not offer the single constructive policy wherewith to replace the $7,635,099 revenue reduction he talked of.

Retard Progress

"I would not want to be premier of this province for five minutes if our progress was to be retarded in such a manner as can be only result of this policy," Mr. Ferguson declared.

"A lot of fellows in the legislature don't know as to where going on at all," the premier candidly admitted, while his audience roared with laughter during a discussion of the education grants. He pointed out as an incidental to his statement, that the government had not copped any school to teach anything, that many members of the house did not know the reason as to why grants must be brought down. He referred briefly to the bilingual school question, assuring his hearers that progress was being made.

The premier ventured the opinion that the value was secured from the money spent in carrying education into the north by railway cars than the money used for foreign immigrants here. About 800 children were taught, he said, from these travelling cars, most of them were the children of foreigners.

"People say, why take all the trouble with these few foreign children," the premier remarked. "Because we want to teach them the atmosphere of our country, because we want to teach them to read our papers and thereby assimilate our British thoughts and ideas."

The premier's first mention to date in the campaign of his township school board's plan was a reaffirmation of his confidence that eventually the people of rural Ontario would support the introduction of this reform.

"The township school board plan," he said, "has appeared in the legislature four or five times and has been discussed each time though not passed. They say I am trying to crush it down your throats. I am doing nothing of the kind. I am trying to get you to understand as because I think you will accept it when you understand it."

Liquor Problem

His discussion of the liquor problem was opened by the premier with the fiat, assertion that no country to-day had a successful prohibition law. "Not even the United States," he added, emphatically, amid laughter.

"You just go over there and see how much prohibition they have," the premier continued. "There's liquor all over; the aroma is so strong that you will have to get yourself fumigated when you get back."

"These earnest, sincere, innocent gentlemen who write letters to the press saying that prohibition is a success in the United States and that liquor is banished, these gentlemen are—well, they are innocent, that's all."

am quite sure I didn't—ever asked anyone to vote for the present liquor law in 1920." The premier reminded his hearers. "We simply gave our views and asked them to vote because it was a great moral question."

Unfair Opposition

The candidate, C. W. Hambly, former M.P.P. for the old riding of Lennox, declared that his most unfair opponents was the prohibition organization. Without exception, he declared, most of these men and had supported the Conservative party. "I venture to say," he continued, "that there will never be a peep out of them when the next the King government which licenses the manufacture of liquor goes to the polls. For my part I would like to see Mr. King have prohibition all over the entire dominion."

Returns to Fold

Fred H. Newman, for many years a leading local temperance worker in Prince Edward, and who, in 1926, forsook liberalism and affiliated with the Conservative party to support the present Mr. Justice Raney, then contesting Prince Edward as Progressive leader, preceded Mr. Ferguson, and urged all temperance people to support the premier in this campaign. Tracing the history of temperance work, Mr. Newman declared that the O.T.A. was a success in this country until the bootleggers sprang up under the protection of the dominion government which permitted the manufacture of liquor manufacture. He asked that the premier's proposal for a reasonable trial of the present liquor law, with amendments, provided for next session of the legislature, be given sincere consideration.

The chairman was Dr. C. M. Stratton, president of the Frontenac-Lennox Conservative association. He referred to Hon. E. C. Drury, telling with a tear in his eye of the alleged effects of the L. C. A., but he forgot to mention, the doctor added, the tamboree they had at the parliament buildings in Toronto just a few nights before his government stepped out.

The autumn can scarcely be called an idle time in the rural districts, what with fall fairs, school fairs, plowing matches, threshing bees and silo-filling, in addition to the usual run of chores.

A shortage of feed in many parts of Ontario has hurt the dairying industry to no little extent. A scarcity of water and pasturage has reflected in an increase in production cost of milk.

THE O. T. A. OR L. C. A.

Government Versus Bootlegger Control

When the people of Ontario voted in 1926 for a radical change in the radical change in the method of dealing with intoxicating liquor they felt, and rightly, that the O. T. A. as a cure, was worse than the disease. It was a law designed to prohibit the consumption of liquor "as a beverage." That it failed to accomplish its object became painfully apparent as time went on, and people began to readjust themselves to post-war conditions. Normal tendencies supplanted the tension of war. The problems of peace being radically different from the problems of war, required a different approach and a different solution.

The O.T.A. regarded the consumption of liquor as entirely a social question, its economic side was either ignored or overlooked. But once the act got under way the error was soon apparent. The organized bootlegger appeared. His ratifications could not be ignored. He very soon controlled the consumption of liquor in his own way, and it was not a way calculated to bring peace to the advocates of prohibition. He had quantities of money behind him, and an organization to match.

It was not, however, the bootlegger but the people of Ontario who defeated the O.T.A. And they did so because they became convinced that the O.T.A. was not an effective temperance measure. It had always lacked the support and sympathy of a large section of the people and wherever that support was lacking the Act necessarily failed. The people of Ontario can be led but they cannot be coerced. The elaborate system of spotters, spies, penalties, search warrants and extra police only aggravated the conditions they were intended to remedy and by bringing the law generally into disrepute threatened to do serious damage to the whole social fabric.

The Liquor Control Act accomplished what no previous method of dealing with the problem had ever been able to achieve. It insured that there would no longer exist within the community a group of persons, whose active interest it was to promote the consumption of alcohol. Whether in the guise of saloon-keepers or bootlegger this class had always existed and it was the activities of this class that had made the administration of all temperance measures so difficult. The Liquor Control Act removed "the liquor interest" from the path of temperance reform.

The present Act is not perfect. It was never contemplated either by Government or anyone else that the Statute as first enacted would require no further improvement. The liquor problem is an old one and no thoughtful person could imagine that it could be solved in a day or in a year. But the Liquor Control Act has placed the problem in the way of solution and has opened the road for progress toward true temperance.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Mr. Editor:—I wonder if you would extend the courtesy to a foreign subscriber of publishing a few impressions that my Toledo-born wife and myself got on a recent visit to Napanee.

Please be informed that it is about nineteen years since I last saw Napanee and you will realize the favorable impression that Napanee made on me. I think that it is quite possible to be so close to an object as to be unable to see it to advantage. When we told some of the natives that Napanee was by far the prettiest little town of its size between Ottawa Lake, in Michigan, and Gananoque, Ont., and we were speaking from experience and close observation; they looked at us puzzled and skeptical. Yes, we can fully confirm all that Admiral Mc-Gowan recently said in your interesting little paper. My wife raved about the artistic railroad bridge; the Indian Head gas station nearby; the post office the court house; the soldier's monument; the Collegiate Institute; the M. E. Church, so many large dwellings; the immaculate slate-like streets, the stores, the Grand Cafe with its Japanasese art, all made a lasting impression on us both.

In closing may we make one suggestion, viz., make an entrance from the west as artistic as the railroad bridge affords to the east, and you have the smartest appearing little city in a thousand mile journey.

Respectfully,

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh M. Lasher,
Ottawa Lake, Mich. U.S.A.

ODESSA W. I.

The members of the Odessa Institute held their regular monthly meeting in the Public Library, Odessa, on Wednesday, October 2nd. The usual opening exercises were conducted by the president. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The roll call was responded to with "an apple recipe." Our next meeting is to be "Grandmothers' Day." Come and bring your baby picture. It was decided that we give five dollars to the local Council of Women, Kingston, to help the Salvation Army provide social service workers in Kingston.

Plans for having a Hallowe'en party for the children were discussed, and left with a committee. Mrs. Fred Ham then gave an address on some "do's and don't's for Institute workers," which was very much appreciated by everyone. Lunch then followed and the social half hour brought the meeting to a close.

Following the usual opening exercises the roll call was answered to by, "ways of serving apples." Correspondence was read. After reports from school and sick committees, it was decided to have a sale of home cooking in Kingston, the 2nd Saturday in November. After the items of business were attended to a contest was held—"Things unknown or not in general use fifty years ago." CAMDEN EAST INSTITUTE

The October meeting of Camden East Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. E. Hamilton on Friday evening the 4th inst. There was a record attendance of members and visitors. After the usual opening of meeting the roll call was answered by each member telling how she used left-over foods such as meat, cake, bread, fruit or vegetables. The first business brought before the meting was the appointment of a delegate to the Annual Convention to be held in Kingston, October 24th and 25th. Our president, Mrs. A. M. Robinson was unanimously chosen. Then a motion was made that we help some needy ones in the community. Suggestions and discussions were followed by plans to provide clothing for some needy children and comforts for a very ill and needy person. Several members of Wilton Institute being present to provide the evening's program, their president was then asked to preside.

The following programe was carried out by each member in a very pleasing manner. A piano duet, by Misses Emberley and Babcock; an excellent paper, "Hat's off to the Women's Institute," by Mr. F. McPherson; guitar solo, by Miss E. Emberley; another excellent paper, "Noble thoughts and Noble Women and the influence that they spread," written by Mrs. W. S. Moffat and read by Mrs. A. Simmons; a duet, by Misses Ida McPherson; contest (for all).—Jumbled names of Ontario Cities.

A social hour during which a delicious lunch was served by the hostess and committee brought to a close a very interesting and enjoyable meeting. We heartily thank our friends from Wilton for their excellent program. Our next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Dunn, on November 1st at 7.30. After a very short regular meeting a Hallowe'en Social will be in order.

THE FINAL TEST

One thing I need, if I succeed
In life's energetic game;
One force must be supreme in me
If honors I hope to claim
For this I know: The prize will go
To him whose morale is true.
The best of luck is found in pluck—
The power to see it through!

No kindly fate can make men great
Unless they have goal to win,
Until they name a worthy aim ,
And work for it heart and soul.
The men to-day who fight their way
To lasting success are few;
Lord, grant to me in great degree
The power to see it through!

Not every man who says "I can"
Continues to do his best,
Yet fame is known to him alone
Who answers the final test.
So this I ask: Whatever task
Is waiting for me to do,
Give me the might to win the fight
The power to see it through!

WORRY REAL ENEMY

Doctor Tells the Truth About the Cancer Scare—No Cause for Alarm.

That the world is near a tremendous discovery in the treatment and cure of cancer was the view expressed by Prof. Claude Regaud when he delivered his Cavendish lecture in London recently.

Now, as every doctor in active practice knows, there is a widespread fear of cancer among all classes of patients presenting themselves for examination, writes a doc or in Tit-Bits. This applies especially to those who suffer from troubles connected with the tongue, the throat, the stomach, or some other internal organ whose situation and functions are less familiar to the man in the street.

Signs and symptoms which are obviously associated with innocent, everyday ailment are at once attributed to malignant disease by the victom of the cancer obsession.

However unfounded this fear may be, it is none the less a sure and certain source of ill-health, stressed on either its physical or mental side. And the pity of it is that so many of those whose mentality has a morbid basis continue to indulge their dismal forebodings even after the most scientifically searching examination has demonstrated that their fears are groundless.

To-day it is well understood that the emotions, worry, anxiety, fear, and their opposites, exert a powerful action for good or evil on the various functions and structure of the body. The brain, the nervous system, the blood, the digestion, and so on, all come under the influence of those potent internal secretions which are specifically stimulated by the emotions. In short, depressing thought invite disease, whereas the mental exhilaration induced by equanimity makes for good health.

The accuracy of the clinical and laboratory methods employed as aids to diagnosis nowadays is such that it may be confidently affirmed that should cancer be present in any organ of the body its recognition is almost certain. When dread of the disease alone prompts anyone to consult a medical man, that is all to the good, provided the brooding and worrying frame of mind has not become ingrained. For the making of an early diagnosis is (or should be) of the greatest possible advantage to both patient and doctor.

Unfortunately, it is the hosts of victims of purely imaginary diseases who come forward as present or prospective victims of the scourge. They come long before they get it—if ever they do. However, even that is more sensible than coming too long after the definite evidences of cancer have become manifest. The best that can be said of them is "better late than never." Wonders of healing have been achieved of late by medicine and surgery combined, even in cases which, a very few years back, would have gone from bad to worse.

In those days much was expected from the application of the then novel element, radium, and the disappointment at its repeated failures was correspondingly great. That was because doctors did not know the best way to apply that potent remedy.

Now we have changed all that, and there is a great deal of justification for claiming that many forms of cancer are already amenable to cure. For it can no longer be maintained that cancer is absolutely incurable, or that a diagnosis of cancer is necessarily a pronouncement of doom. Often, indeed, it is the preliminary stage in the improvement of health and working capacity that accrue subsequent to the removal of a new growth.

There is really no cause for alarm at the reported increase of cancer. The very reverse is the case.

MONKEY BUSINESS.

So Daring That They Play the Part of Highwaymen.

Depredations of monkeys at the hill station of Matheran, near Bombay, India, are causing annoyance and anxiety. Cases have been reported where various articles and food have been snatched away from women and children, and in one instance a well-organized raid was carried out on a meat safe full of fruit.

Monkeys abound all over Southern India, but it is unusual for them to become so daring as to play the role of highwaymen. In many parts of India monkeys, as well as peacocks, are encouraged by Hindus to live in the temple precincts, and often near the idol, Hanuman, "the monkey god."

One railway station in India is literally in the hands of monkeys, who swarm all over the roof; and passengers are regularly warned to close the windows of the carriages. Failure to observe this warning inevitably results in the loss of food and small articles from carriages.

Naming the Twins.

A man with a sense of humor found himself the father of twins. As both the girls he christened them Kate and Duplicate. A few years later another pair of twins arrived, this time boys. He named them Peter and Repeater. Still another pair of twins came on the scene at a later period. These he christened Max and Climax. Asked by a friend if by this final nomenclature he had not stumped himself in view of future possibilities, he replied "Certainly not. Because if there are any more twins at our house, the next names will be for me—and they'll be Hugh and Cry."

The Boast of Canada.

Wheat was, and still is, the boast of Canada, and never was there a time when it had been chased off the high seas, declared Dean Rutherford, member of the Saskatchewan Royal Grain Commission. Canadian wheat has a quality of its own, he declared. "Even our number five wheat was quoted at equal and a little better than super. wheat from other countries," he said.

THERE'S NO MISSING LINK

That a circus manager coined the phrase "the missing link," now associated in some minds with the evolution of man, was the revelation made to The Evening Telegram by Professor C. T. Currelly director of the archaeological department of the Royal Ontario Museum.

Professor Currelly was interviewed in regard to the announcement that a graduate of the University of Toronto, Dr. Davidson Black, had discovered in China a portion of skeleton which may prove to be "the missing link—the link connecting the human family by the process of evolution with the family of the great apes."

Dr. Black graduated from the University of Toronto in 1906 with the degree of Bachelor of Medicine and is now professor of anatomy at the Peking Union Medical College.

Barnum Named It

"There has appeared lately in the press," said Professor Currelly, "a funny statement that a brilliant Canadian scientist exploring in China has found 'the missing link.' Whether he originated it or not, the man who brought the phrase into common parlance was the greatest of all scientists, living and dead, P. T. Barnum.

"With a slogan that people loved to be fooled as his motto he proceeded to do it, and one of his great exhibits was always called 'the missing link.' This scientific wonder consisted of an elderly roustabout, a few pounds of glue, a few pounds of hair and some imitation savage ornaments. And so was the greatest scientific marvel of the age produced.

"But sad to say," continued Professor Currelly, "the expression caught and today holds in many people's minds. One does not speak of a link between two branches of a tree," he explained. "There is the trunk from which they spring, and they in turn may have branches and be a trunk to them. But they are not half-way links between the two tips of the branches—they are origins.

Same Family

"Man belongs to the milk-giving family of animals, and the group from which he sprung was, for some reason or other, unspecialized. We still have five fingers and five toes, whereas, for speed the horse specialized in one. The elephant the giraffe, and other animals specialized in other ways.

Effect of Hands

"Now this lack of specialization," went on the professor, "that left us with five fingers, caused us to feel around things, and so to handle them in a way that no other group of animals has learnt to do, till the one group from which man came began to utilize things, even in a crude way to form them.

"From that time man's advance was relatively rapid, and what at last he learnt to chip flint to make a cutting implement he was on the high road to tremendous advancement. And from this all our civilization rages."

Professor Currelly said that in the search for these early implements fine examples of which are to be seen in the Royal Ontario Museum, a certain number of bones have been found which enable us to get a considerable idea of the appearance of the different groups of those whose work we have.

"Certainly," he said, "men already well up the ladder of mechanical ability were ugly-looking brutes, with foreheads sloping way back and the enormous eye ridges that we associate with the gorilla. The early Neanderthal man, a horrible looking brute, was a very accomplished flint chipper, but of the men earlier than him we have very little information.

"The search now for any scrap of bone that will help us is being pursued with the greatest of vigor, and it is sometimes too tempting to build up a whole man on a single tooth or bone. Every few years comes a discovery that fills in a big gap and it is hoped that before long we may have enough to have a very good idea of how man looked as soon as he took to the making of implements."

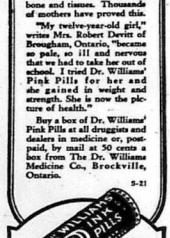
Watch your growing children!

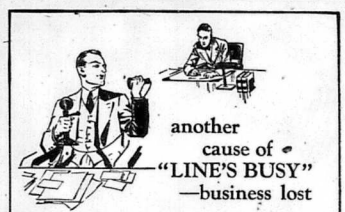
WATCH the health of your growing children! See that they have the health and energy necessary for their school work and play. For growing children—particularly girls—a rich supply of red blood is essential. Languor, nervousness, depression, fickle appetite or pallor indicate anaemia.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills enrich the blood, prevent anaemia and build healthy bone and tissues. Thousands of mothers have proved this.

"My twelve-year-old girl," writes Mrs. Robert Devitt of Broughton, Ont., "became so pale, so ill and nervous that we had to take her out of school. I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for her and she gained in weight and strength. She is now the picture of health."

Buy a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at all druggists and dealers in medicine or, postpaid, by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ontario. 5-21





another cause of "LINE'S BUSY" —business lost

WHEN a call comes for a man at the far end of the office the line is tied up for useless minutes until he reaches the telephone. Anyone else trying to call is told: "Line's Busy", but in reality the line is idle.

An office with only one telephone when it needs two or three, or an office in which telephones are poorly located, is a sure cause of unnecessary "Line's Busy", a sure time-waster, a sure business loser.

"Line's Busy" is the chief cause of the million telephone calls a day in Ontario and Quebec which fail to get through. They mean two million minutes a day wasted — congestion of traffic — constant irritation — a handicap to all business.

We are making every effort to provide the best possible telephone service.* But it takes three people to complete a call. Only through public co-operation can we reach maximum efficiency.

We would be glad at any time to have our experts survey your telephone facilities and submit a report. It will save time — yours and other people's — and it will get benefits for you which you are now losing through "Line's Busy."

New telephone plant and service improvements will mean an outlay for 1929 alone, of more than $27,000,000.*

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

Ontario farmers annually lose thousands of dollars from parasites in sheep and hogs. Dr. L. S. Stevenson has made a special study of this problem and has written several bulletins. Copies can be obtained at your District Agricultural Office.

A DEADLY MENACE

Warning—The perennial Sow Thistle is the worst weed in Canada. It is so serious in some places that farmers have left their farms. Good drainage, good cultivation, short rotations and good farming all help to keep this weed under control. Every farmer should give it special study and attention.

THE SCHOOL FAIR

Township school fairs have been steadily growing in popularity during the eighteen years in which they have been held in Ontario. Figures are available for the 1928 season and from all signs, 1929 will even surpass the excellent results obtained in the past year.

Last year there were 560 school fairs held in Ontario. In these 560 fairs, 4,859 schools were represented, making a total entry list of 135,152. Visitors to the fairs numbered well over 360,000.

The growing popularity of the school fair can be attributed to some extent to the attention given a championship school fair at many of the fall county exhibitions. In many localities the newly organized school fair has proven a greater drawing card than the older township or county fair.

WINTER FAIR

The Royal Winter Fair is more thoroughly a farmers' fair than any other of the exhibitions of the year. ing is the most forceful education; he ing ist he most forceful educator; he matches himself against the best, the surest way to progress. To attend a time and money well spent; to pit your best against the nation's best is enterprise and brings an immediate reward even before success crowns one's efforts. It runs this year from November 20 to 28.

WORLD MILKMEN MEET

More than 1500 milkmen from four continents will gather in Toronto on October 24th for the annual three-day convention of the International Association of Milk Dealers.

Delegates from South Africa, New Zealand, South America, Canada and the United States will discuss problems of the industry, ranging from the question of the annual loss of $6,500,000 from lost bottles to the long standing problem of choosing between horse-drawn and motor-powered milk wagons.

RAINFALL FIGURES

The September bulletin of the Department of Agriculture gives some rather surprising figures in regard to rainfall during the latter part of the summer. In view of the prolonged drought in the latter part of the summer, it is of interest to learn that precipitation for the five months, March to July, inclusive, was 18.3 inches or 4.91 inches above the average. The rainfall in March, April and May considerably exceeded that of the same months of 1928. It fell off badly in June, however, and the same months of 1928. The figures for August and September are not given, but it will occasion no surprise to learn that they likewise slumped.

DORLAND

The anniversary services held in the United Church, October 13th, and 14th, were very successful. Large congregations enjoyed the able sermons delivered by Rev., Dr. Watts, of Queen's College, also the music rendered by the choir. The splendid attendance at the dinner on Monday evening was most gratifying to those who labored to make it a success.—Another interesting event will take place on Friday evening, November 1st, when there will be a Hallowe'en Masquerade, under the management of the younger set, held in the school room. All able to get about without the aid of a wheeled chair are invited to join the procession of spooks, fairies, goblins, etc., which will be present. All manner of interesting stunts will be performed.—A serious motor accident occurred Saturday evening when Roy Beaton drove S. Mack's truck into the ditch a short distance south of the third concession road. The truck turned over completely wrecking the cab and damaging other parts. The driver was the only one badly hurt, although over a dozen boys were riding on the truck. Just how serious his injuries are, has not been learned. He was taken to Kingston Hospital on Sunday. Several of the others suffered minor cuts and bruises.—Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Reyes, Colebrook, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Sanderson, Yarker, were recent guests at W. J. Magee's.—A number from here attended the plowing match last week.—Mrs. J. W. Duffet, Mrs. F. E. Foster, and Miss Jean Foster, spent Thursday with Mrs. J. W. Dorland, of Kingston.—The government nets have been placed in Hay Bay for the fall season.

NAPANEE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the Agricultural Rooms Tuesday afternoon, October 8th, with the President, Mrs. Ralph Ham, in the chair. The meeting opened with singing after which the minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. Correspondence read, discussed and attended to, after which Mrs. Murney Parks, convenor of Immigration Committee, gave a splendid report on the work done in that department, and asked that a spirit of love govern our treatment of our foreign immigrants that we may help to Canadianize these different nationalities.

Following this Miss Lauder, V.O.N., gave a most interesting and helpful talk on maternal and child welfare and urged the Institute members to do all in their power to stop the spread of communicable diseases.

Mrs. Haggerty then read her "Current Events," which were unusually interesting. Mrs. E. W. Metcalfe most capably demonstrated the making of a poor man's Angel Cake, which she cut and served to her appreciative audience. Mrs. Frank Marsh was elected delegate to the Convention in Kingston, which takes place October 24th and 25th; roll was called and the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Felt Tired and Miserable

"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for miserable and tired feelings and it gave me strength to do my work. My nerves are better now. I feel well and can do it with good spirits and able to work every day now. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and you may use this letter as a testimonial."—Miss Delores Welch, Union Road, North Devon, New Brunswick.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The old lady was taking a walk across the fields. As she came to the stream at the end she was shocked to see a number of small boys bathing.

She went up to the edge and regarded them through her lorgnettes.

"Isn't it against the law to bathe here?" she demanded. "Particularly when the costumes are not being worn!"

One of the boys grinned.

"Yes, mum," he said; "it is. But Tommy's father is a policeman, so yo' can come in!"

A gentleman, advertising for a "cook-general," received the following application: "Kind sir,—I wish to ask for a job. I am good cook, and sorry not to be a general, but was very good sergeant by the Cape Corps.—"

DAIRY CLASSES AT THE ROYAL

Prize money for the dairy cattle classes for the Royal Winter Fair in November at Toronto has been increased in four of the classes as compared with last year's figures. The prizes scheduled are: Holsteins, total $4,400, an increase of $710; Ayrshires, total, $3,300, an increase of $280; Jerseys, total $3,220, an increase of $200; and Guerneys, total $3,220, an increase of $200.

CATTLE FOR MANCHURIA

Feurteen milking Shorthorns, most of them from Western Ontario, are soon to be shipped to Manchuria. They were selected and purchased by K. H. Tauboi for the agricultural experiment station maintained by the South Manchurian Railway.

In the shipments are one bull and three females from G. E. Smith, Meadowvale; four females from Peart Brothers, Caledonia; two females from J. Bingeman and Son, Waterloo; two females from D. Z. Gibson and Son, Caledonia; one female from Elwood Denins, Cayuga; and one bull from Kay and Meyer, Guelph.

These cattle, together with a number from the United States, are to be used in improving the native cattle of Manchuria, the Shorthorn being regarded as the most suitable for the purpose.

BOY'S FOAL CLASS

A boy's Clydesdale foal class is on the prize list of the Royal Winter Fair. The competition is open to boys of 16 and under, who must show in the ring a foal sired by a purebred registered Clydesdale stallion, that has been cared for by the boy competitor for a month before the fair, and must have been fitted by him.

BUMPER APPLE CROP

With regard to the apple crop this season, P. W. Hodgetts, head of the Department Fruit Branch, says there will be fewer No. 1 apples, yet more apples and cleaner apples. He stated that the Ontario apple crop was of better quality than in years and the yield was the greatest since 1925. Weather conditions, however, have resulted in fewer No. 1 apples. In comparison with last year the apple crop is 27 per cent. up.

BARNYARD GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

Two Canadian championships in horseshoe pitching and a special competition for the winners at agricultural fairs have been put on the list for the Royal Winter Fair. All the competitions are sanctioned by the Ontario Athlete Commission. An open singles and open doubles, both for the championship of Canada, will be held. In addition a special competition will be conducted at the Royal, open only to winners of horseshoe pitching competitions held by local agricultural fair associations for the best team of two players.

BRITISH APPLE MARKET

The Ontario Fruit Growers' Association have been notified through their overseas representative, Mr. Fulton, that transatlantic apples during the past few weeks have been light in sales with poor quality holding the market down. Liverpool and Glasgow markets, however, show an upward trend in demand and price for good quality red apples. There is likely to be a slow demand for Canadian green apples for some time.

Apple growers are advised to hold greening and pooner quality red varieties for late November shipments. They are requested to advise the association as soon as shipments are made so that the latter can cable Mr. Fulton to arrange for distribution. All that is necessary is to make out bills to Mr. Fulton, at either Liverpool or Glasgow and send same to A. Fulton, 163 Strand, London W.S. 2.

COLD STORAGE PLANT

A cold storage warehouse to cost $100,000 and to accommodate 25,000 barrels of apples will be erected in Norfolk County in the near future. This is the outcome of action taken by the Norfolk Fruit Growers' Association. Local members have signed marketing agreements whereby they will pay the Association 10 cents a barrel for handling their crops. Such a cooling system will save a tremendous loss by spoilage in such a hot season as the present one has been.

CANADIAN AMBER.

Rich Deposits Lie Along the Shores of Cedar Lake, Manitoba.

What is believed to be one of the world's richest deposits of amber lies along the shores of Cedar Lake, Manitoba, located about twenty miles southeast of The Pas and close to Lake Winnipegosis. For generations the Indians gathered amber there.

Reports on these amber deposits were made to the Government over fifty years ago, but exploitation was restricted on account of the impossibility of bringing machinery 1,600 miles overland from Eastern Canada. The situation is now entirely changed, for the Hudson Bay Railway is less than thirty miles away with connection at The Pas with the Canadian National Railways' direct line to Winnipeg.

Great Activity In B. C. Mines.

Lieut.-Governor Bruce of British Columbia predicts great activity in mining work this year with the airplane playing a considerable part. The country is full of engineers, prospectors and investigators of various kinds.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

He had a job as porter on a local railway. As he was closing the carriage door of an out-going train one morning a man rushed up the platform breathlessly:

"Where is this train going to?"

Placing his hand on the inquirer's back and giving him a push that landed him inside a compartment, the porter remarked: "Never mind where it's going. Get inside or ye'll lose it!"

Worms feed upon the vitality of children and endanger their lives. A simple and effective remedy is Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator.

An obscure author sent a copy of his latest novel to a celebrated writer, hoping for a "puff" that might be embodied in an advertisement of the book.

In a few days the author received this crisp tribute from the author:—

"Dear Sir,—I have read your book and much like it."

Requisite on the Farm. — Every farmer and stock raiser should keep a supply of Dr. Thoma's Eclectric Oil on hand, not only as a ready remedy for ills in the family, but because it is a horse and cattle medicine of great potency. As a substitute for sweet oil for horses and cattle affected by colic it far surpasses anything that can be administered.

The electrician returned home one evening to find his small son waiting for him at the gate with a large bandage round his hand.

"Hello, George!" he exclaimed. "Cut your finger?"

The lad shook his head.

"No, father."

"What's happened, then?" he asked. George gazed at his hand with pride. "I picked up a pretty little fly, father," he said, "and one end wasn't insulated."

Asthma Doesn't Wear Off Alone. Do not make the mistake of waiting for asthma to wear away by itself. While you are waiting the disease is surely gathering a stronger foothold and you live in danger of stronger and stronger attacks. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy taken early, will prevent incipient condition from becoming chronic and saves hours of awful suffering.

A receiver of revenue recently received an income-tax return from a farmer which was hopelessly incomplete. He sent it back with large crosses in red ink where it was necessary to be filled in, with the words: "Please complete where marked in red ink."

Some days later the following reply was received: "Dear sir, I have no red ink.—Yours faithfully,——"

Worms are encouraged by morbid condition of the stomach and bowels and so subsist. Miller's Worm Powders will alter these conditions almost immediately and will sweep the worms away. No destructive parasite can live in contact with this medicine, which is not only a worm destroyer, but a health-giving medicine most beneficial to the young constitution.

A little boy was crying in the street. "What's the matter?" asked a kindly passer-by.

"We've got pancakes and treacle for dinner," blubbered the boy.

"Well, that's nothing to cry about."

"I know; but I can't find my way home."

Persian Balm is irresistible. Fragrant as summer flowers. Cool as a mountain spring. Wonderfully invigorating. Softens and whitens the hands. Makes skin soft-textured and youthful. Used by women as a powder base and as a peerless aid to lovely complexions. Used by men as an effective hair fixative balm. And for children, nothing soothes and protects their tender skin like the delicately cool Persian Balm.

"I cannot understand you," said the Magistrate to a bearded Russian baker; "you say you've been in this country for twenty-seven years in the baking line, and still you cannot speak English."

PLOWING IS DIFFICULT

According to current reports furnished by agricultural representatives, rain is badly needed in most sections of the province. Although showers have somewhat relieved the drought in many districts, the parched condition of the soil has not been satisfied. In Eastern Ontario conditions are reported to be slightly better and plowing is going ahead rapidly. In Central and Western Ontario, however the land is so hard and dry that fall plowing is difficult with tractor and almost impossible with horses. Many streams are reported dry for the first time in thirty years. Live stock generally is reported in poor condition with the milk flow much below normal. In some sections factories have already closed and whole milk distributors are finding it difficult to secure their requirements. While some sections report good stands of fall wheat, the reports generally indicate a very spotted condition, with growth at a standstill. The harvesting of apple and root crops is in full swing now. Mangels and turnips are light crops and of rather inferior quality. Potatoes show less acreage but are of good quality and will undoubtedly command a better price.

ANOTHER PHASE OF THE CRIME QUESTION

The moral health of any community is reflected by the quantity and character of the business transacted in its Criminal Courts. What is the situation in Ontario, where we pride ourselves on taking an almost paternal interest in our neighbor's behaviour? Does a contemplation of our Criminal dockets show us to be law-abiding or law-defying? Is it a subject which is more than interesting; it constitutes a side of our character on which other sections of the country and other countries may judge us; and just as we, as a community, stand the test, so does respect or contempt for our government prevail, because in the hands of a government rests respect for the law, and especially the Criminal law—first in the wisdom of the laws on the statute books, and second, in the way they are enforced. If anyone doubts this, let him note the conversational trend the next time he meets a visitor from Chicago.

Our criminal courts under the Ferguson government since the Liquor Control Act, have not been idle, but their activities indicate, that as a people, we are rapidly becoming lawabiding. Crimes of violence, crimes against property, and offences against public moral, were less per capita in 1928 than in 1921. In other words, the serious type of criminal, whose exploits are a real menace, does not find Ontario a congenial field, nor is he produced under conditions which exist at present. The Police Court dockets record minor offences and misdemeanours where formerly they told a story of violent disrespect for law, which was far from encouraging. If this has been due to rigorous enforcement it has also been due to an attitude of mind which results in the same laws with public opinion behind them. How has Government Control affected this? That is the question which suggests itself to all of us when the Police Court is mentioned. The answer is not alone to be gleaned from a mass of statistics. Let anyone who has observed a magistrate's court in operation under the O.T.A. go to the same court today. He will find that the bootlegger is almost as extinct as the Dodo. He will find that it is as hard to violate the L.C.A. and get away with it, as it was easy to flout the O.T.A. He will find that drunkenness is regarded as serious, and that the one dollar fine has been superseded by a two hundred dollar penalty or a term of two months in goal. He will find, in a word, that the illegal consumption of liquor is a matter not to be accepted with a wink or a nod, and he is also free to note that with the government control of liquor, a real control of violations of the Act is possible. The machinery of law enforcement has been freed to deal with the criminal, with a result that promises to eliminate him, in his most serious aspect.

SOAKS RIGHT IN AND LIMBERS UP STIFF JOINTS

Pharmacists call it "Joint-Ease" Because it's for Swollen, Sore, Painful, Creaky Joints Only

It took a good many years to get together a combination of pain subduing and swelling reducing agents declared to be the one remedy that almost instantly penetrates through skin and flesh and starts right in to make swollen, inflamed, creasy, pain racked joints as good as new.

They call this new and wonderful preparation "Joint-Ease" because the medical man who turned the trick, worked for years to perfect some low-priced remedy that would really benefit the millions of people who have one or more joints that need helpful attention.

So "Joint-Ease" is prepared only for people who have a swollen, painful, creaky, distorted or stiff joint, whether it be in knee, elbow, shoulder, ankle, neck or finger and whether it is caused by rheumatism or something else.

Of course, it can't help but quickly put an end to such neuritic ailments as lumbago, neuralgia, neuritis, aching muscles, stitch in the side, crick in the neck or sore feet because of its penetrating action, but what it really recommended for is joint ailments of any nature whatever.

Ask for a tube of "Joint-Ease." You can use it several times in one evening for quick results, because it goes right through the skin with only a few seconds rubbing. It surely is a penetrator and when it gets under the skin, it starts right in to end all joint trouble.

It is made in Canada—costs only 60 cents—All druggists dispense it cheerfully, as do first class druggists everywhere.

Dennie was rather a bad dancer, and the unlucky maiden who was his partner at the moment made up her mind to "cut" the other dances if she had backed, sooner than endure any more of the torture.

Half an hour later she looked at her dance program and the initials "D. B." caught her eye.

"He won't find me here," she murmured, slipping into a curtained alcove; "no sooner were the words out of her mouth than the curtains parted and there he stood.

"May I have the pleasure of this dance mine?" he asked.

Chief: "You are an hour late, Meier. Where have you been?"

Clerk: "I fell down the stairs."

Wealthy man, just rescued from drowning: "Well, I'm much obliged to ye for hauling me out of the water, an' here's a half-a-crown for ye—all the change I've got about me now." Rescuer: "Oh, no; keep your money! I wouldn't think of robbing you!" Wealthy man: "Not 'tall, not 'tall! I'would have been lost, anyhow, if ye hadn't rescued me!"

Napanee South Division of the Belleville Presbyterial held its Fourth Annual Meeting in Anderson United Church on Thursday, October 3rd, despite the steady downpour of rain the attendance was surprisingly large. Before the opening of the meeting Mrs. Hooper, the vice-president, asked for the appointment of a secretary in Mrs. Kitchen's absence; on motion Mrs. R. M. Seymour was appointed. The session opened at 9.30 a.m. with Selby Auxiliary in charge. Mrs. J. C. Hudgins read Matthew 25th Chapter. Mrs. Pringle who lead in prayer besought fresh courage in our work and a plea for the importance of Temperance in our orginization.

In the course of business our president, in her usual sincerity, presented the messages from the Presbyterial Exeutive which were as follows: 1. Cor.-See's should fill in accurately all reports. 2. Christian Stewardship—We must not feel that our allocation is a levy, only an objective; 98 % of our allocation was met last year. 3. Missionary Monthly—More subscriptions must be sent in if the publication is to continue. 4. Pray at noon hour for Missionaries. 4. Supplies — $500.00 worth of supplies received. $125.00 worth were sent to Selkirk, a fire-swept area. 6. Remember and use Mission-ary Sunday. 7. Be sure your Auxiliary President attends the Official Board, of which she is a member. 8. Aim to have a Circle and Mission Band rally in your district. 9. Keep in mind new candidates for our missionary work both home and foreign and report same to Mrs. Hooper.

Greetings from Bay East Auxiliary were extended to the delegates and visitors by Mrs. W. Joyce. Reports from Auxiliaries were very satisfactory, having raised during the year the sum of $1,598.53, with an annual membership of 509 and Life Membership of 108. Each Auxiliary had held its nine meetings. All members of Wilton Church were members of their auxiliary. Reports of Circles and Bands showed good work done and a good financial report.

A paper, "How can the local Church provide leadership and find time to conduct a Band." This paper was written by Miss F. Asselstine and read by Mrs. Dr. Mabee, of Odessa. Her main thought was that she would like to see the ideal W.M.S. as a great anxious spiritual mother yearning for the welfare of her children.

Mrs. Woodger then followed with a similar paper "Consecration a basic principle for Circle leadership." It was necessary to be a consecrated Christian to be a true leader; only one who has felt the power of Christ can persuade others to follow.

The "Quiet Half Hour," was conducted by Mrs. Babcock, of Wilton, after the silent prayer period the singing of "Take Time to be Holy," was followed by Scripture lesson, Matthew 26, 34 to 44. Mr. Mills led in prayer for guidance in our work. Mrs. Babcock urged that we do not make prayed a pious practice but rather a daily communion with God; not asking what we want but rather what God wants of us. The morning session was dismissed with prayer.

The Anderson Ladies must be congratulated not only for their sumptuous repast, but for the efficient and pleasing service throughout the lunch hour and during the day.

Afternoon Session

Bay West Auxiliary took charge of the afternoon devotional service. Miss McIntosh was invited to the platform and introduced along with two Presbyterial officers, Mrs. Fraser, of Trenton; and Mrs. Davis, of Adolphustown. Mrs. Seymour our Christian Steward was with us as secretary. Roll call was responded to by one out of each of the auxiliaries represented, repeating a passage of scripture. Minutes of the morning session were read and approved. Mrs. (Rev.) Seymour replied to greetings. Mrs. Dr. J. E. Maybee in behalf of the Courtesy Committee, thanked all those present, who in any way assisted in the success of the meeting. Mrs. Maybee also read the resolution of the Napanee (Tamworth) Section of the W.M.S. that the two Sections, viz., Northern Section and Southern Section meet in union every five years as a body, the first meeting not earlier than 1931. It was the pleasure of the meeting to cast the vote in favor of the resolution. An invitation was accepted to hold the next Sectional Meeting in Desortnto. Two new members were elected on the Executive Committee. Mrs. Babcock Wilton, and Mrs. J. C. Hudgins, Selby, in place of Mrs. Clement, Deserontо, and Miss Asselstine, Odessa.

"The spiritual force of prayer and study to develope a W.M.S. member," was prepared by Mrs. Isaac Asselstine who set forth most deftly in two paragraphs the embodiment of the source of building and the fundamental requisites in our work. "Prayer and study are the bulwarks upon which the foundation of our society is laid. Remove them and our society falls, reduce them and our society totters, but bring them to the full—and our societies will stand upright and reach beyond our comprehension and measurement."

The next paper, "The relation of the envelop system to our allocation," by Mrs. R. M. Seymour—Just a little talk to strongly urge our societies to adopt the envelope system.

A vocal duet by Mrs. W. Winters and Mrs. Price was very much enjoyed. Offering was taken and Miss McIntosh, of Honan, Chair, the speaker of the day addressed us. Her first remarks were drawn from "Lo I am with you always." She had noticed in the Bible promises of Roll Call so many had responded with that verse of Scripture and it came to her mind how many women loved to be messengers of life, but had not the privilege and "Lo I am with you," becomes especially attractive to them.

Miss Elsie Magee then delighted all with a solo, after which Mrs. Miller, of Deserontо, brought before us a temperance paper on Prohibition so full of facts and thoughts that a standing vote was taken to have it printed.

Duet by Rev. and Mrs. Plant was was much enjoyed.

The minutes of the afternoon session were accepted as read. The amount taken in by Anderson W.M.S. amounted to $82.14. Rev. Seymour closed with prayer.

INCREASED ATTENDANCE

An increase of 18% over last year in the number of students taking the regular Agricultural Courses, and of 12% over last year in the number taking Home Economics Courses marks the progress that is being made at the Ontario Agricultural College. In the Agricultural Courses, last year's total was 276; this year the enrolment has already reached 325. There are 106 students enroled in the freshman class, and this is the first time since 1921 that the number has been over 100. This year also, for the first time in many years, the enrolment in the first year degree course is larger than in the first year associate course, with 56 students in the former and 50 in the latter. The intermediate class has an e nrolment of 33 as against 18 last year.

For the MacDonald Institute there are always more applicants than can be accomodated, but during the past summer some additional accomodation has ben arranged with the result that this year 214 students have been admitted as compared with 190 last year.

The dining hall, which is intended to accommoate both the agricultural and home economics students, is not only full to its capacity, but is overcrowded with this increase of nearly 80 students.

The faculty of the O.A.C. feels that the college has received a vote of confidence from the people of the province when they send this number of young men and women for instruction.

The government is now carrying forward a large building program and is thus making provision for increased enrolment. The College is now in a position to render real assistance to young men and women in the lines of agriculture and home-making. Continued increase in attendance is confidently expected, and why should it not be so at the finest and best known agricultural college in the Empire?

NEW TOOLS COULD PIERCE ANY VAULT

Not even a million-dollar vault would be proof against burglars armed with the latest and most powerful scientific cutting tools—the "fluxing rod" or "the oxygen lance"—with either one a criminal could cut through a steel wall a foot thick in five minutes.

Against these potential tools of safe breakers, no absolute defence is known. The financial world is waiting to see what super-criminal will use them, for to date none has dared to employ either.

So expert must be the men behind these instuments, writes Henry Morton Robinson in the November Popular Science Monthly, that only a dozen men in the world are capable of breaking into a vault with them. Fortunately, these men are not criminals. They are vault experts who have gained their dangerous knowledge by exhaustive experiments with torch, rod and lance upon metal targets, and their names are well-known. But so cautious is the financial world that it must even take account of the possibility that one of these men may turn criminal.

A torch and a "fluxing rod" can cut through any known combination of elements. Solid granite a foot thick can be pierced in ten minutes and crumbles under the rapid heating. Armor plate burns up in half that time. This magic rod is simply a stick of soft steel which the expert operator holds against the metal to be burned. Then he applies the oxy-acetylene flame to the tip of the fluxing rod, which oxidizes so rapidly that the temperature can be raised to unbelievable heights.

The "oxygen lance" has been known for fifteen or twenty years to a few blast furnace experts. It consists of a long iron pipe about a quarter of an inch in diameter through which oxygen gas is forced under pressure. The business end of the pipe is heated red-hot by a cutter-burner. The hot iron ignites in the oxygen stream and flares fiercely. Held against any object it burns its way straight through. Blast furnace men use the oxygen lance to free "frozen" tapholes in furnaces.

The best types of vaults now in existence are not designed to be proof against the fluxing rod and the oxygen lance, for that is impossible. They are engineered simply to delay entrance by an arch-thief as long as possible. Every hour spent in vault-breaking increases a criminal's risk of being caught. One of the strongest vaults in this country might be proof for six hours against the attack of any one of the world's dozen super-criminals. And although vault men fear the potentialities of the new scientific tools there are practical objections to their widespread use. They require an immense amount of equipment and expert technical knowledge. Moreover the oxygen lance generates such intense heat as to be dangerous to use without cumbersome shields. It generates billows of black smoke when it meets cast iron, leading to probable detection—a risk that few criminals would care to run.

Not until he has been some time married does a man really begin to think seriously of matrimony.

Niece: "Auntie you remember old Aunt (a faith healer): "You mean he fancied he was ill!"
Mr. Pottinger who was ill?"
Niece: "Oh, well now he fancies he's dead."

QUESTION OF CRIME

The simplest guage of the moral health of any community is the quantity and quality of the crimes committed within its borders. Formerly this test could be applied simply by examining the court records of the community in question and judging from them, but lately we have seen how in certain parts of the world crime can become organized and systematized until it is able to paralyze the forces of detection and prevention. Fortunately the virulent infection involved in this state of affairs has found no breeding spot within the British Empire. We in Ontario have no reason to doubt the integrity and efficiency of our police or the swift impartiality of our courts. We know that here the vast majority of criminal offenders are apprehended, tried and punished. Our own court records do give an accurate picture of the crimes that are committed.

Does an examination of our criminal dockets show us to be law-abiding or law-derding? The subject is of more than casual interest, it involves a side of our character by which other sections of the country and other countries will judge us and by which we in turn can judge our government. Because just as we as a community stand the test so should respect or contempt for our government prevail since on the wisdom of the government depends first, the laws on the statute books, and secondly, the way in which they are enforced.

An examination of the records does, in fact, reveal a state of affairs from which the people of Ontario may justly derive satisfaction. Crimes of violence, crimes against poverty, offences against public morals; indeed all the more serious offences, were fewer per capita in 1928 than in 1921. In other words, our people have become increasingly law abiding during a period when in the States immediately adjoining us, having similar economic and geographical conditions, there have been increasing symptoms of a growing disrespect for law and the obligations it imposes. We must not be unsympathetic toward our neighbors' problems but we may feel a legitimate pride at having escaped them. At the same time we must realize that the presence of unsatisfactory conditions so near to us has put a severe strain upon our government. Under modern conditions of improved transportation it is no easy matter to hedge off gangsters and criminals who have been produced by conditions existing elsewhere. That we have suffered so little in this regard reflects the greater credit upon our police and those entrusted with the admiration of justice.

It is really surprising that we have escaped so well as we have. The wisdom of making haste slowly in matters of legislation has been amply demonstrated. Laws, after all, are intended to define the minimum and not the maximum requirements of conduct. Nothing is more dangerous than the placing of such legal requirements too high—beyond the sympathies and support of large numbers in the community. To do so is to build the whole structure upon sand and to run the risk of bringing it all down around our ears.

TAMWORTH W. M. S.

The regular meeting of the W.M.S. met on Tuesday night, October 8th, at the parsonage. The President, Mrs. Beckstead in the chair. The meeting opened by singing "A Call for Loyal Soldiers," followed by several short prayers by the members. The Scripture lesson was then read by Mrs. Floyd. She chose the 1st Chapter of Daniel. The secretary read the minutes and communications, after these were discussed, Mrs. S. Haggerty gave a short talk about the necessity of each member taking the missionary monthly, after which she got several subscribers for the same. Hymn 141, "The Son of God Goes Forth to War," was sung. After much discussion plans were made for an entertainment to be given by the W. M. S. on November 12th, also for a special Sunday service for the society in November. We then had a splendid report from the Convention by our delegate, Mrs. E. Huffman. Mrs. Jerry Donavan gave a very interesting reading on temperance. The title of the reading was: "The Trail of the Serpent." In this reading it was pointed out that the revenue gathered from the sale of intoxicating liquors was used for building roads, but was it not better that our roads be paved with crushed stone rather than the broken hearts of women and children? She urged that our motto to pray each day for prohibition and to vote as we pray, be always uppermost in our minds. Several ladies read parts of "Pioneer days in Canada. Hymn 136, "In the Harvest Field there is Work to do," and the Mizpah Benediction closed the meeting. There were 19 members present and two visitors.

PROHIBITION LEADERS SUPPORTING FERGUSON
The Town Hall was filled on Saturday night for a political rally in the interests of Mr. C. W. Hambly Conservative candidate for Frontenac-Lennox in the forthcoming elections.

The chair was occupied by Mrs. Jos. Yeomans, president of the Ladies Conservative Association; the speakers being Mrs. Longheed of Toronto, Mrs. Weese, organizer for Prince Edward County, and Dr. Ames, of Toronto, Rech Mrs. Longheed and Mrs. Weese are fluent speakers and know their subjects well.

The former speaker gave an address in which she referred to the Ferguson results which had been obtained by the good legislation of the Ferguson Government. She referred to education, agriculture, highways, finance and labor. She also made particular reference to the humanitarian work which the government is doing—notably the Mother's Allowance, Workmen's Compensation, Old Age Pensions, Public Health and the care of mental cases, the under privileged and the cripple children.

Dr. Ames who for some time occupied the position of chairman of the North York Prohibition Union, and who, at the election in 1926, stumped against the Government and its policy of Government Control, made an address in which he scored the opponents of the Ferguson Government, and referred to Mr. Ferguson as the greatest Premier Ontario ever had.

Dr. Ames spent a number of years in Chicago and Detroit in which he made a close study of the so called Prohibition Act in the United States—an act which he termed a farce in every way.

Over $154,000,000 had been spent to enforce this act and according to President Hoover this act had created more lawlessness than any other act in the statistics of the American Republic. Dr. Ames asked, "which law is the most consistent, the O.T.A. or L.C.A. By far the latter."

Only five people were arrested in the Canadian National Exhibition grounds during the fair the attendance being nearly 2,000,000. In closing Dr. Ames dwelt upon the good work which is being accomplished for the people and appealed for the support of Mr. C. W. Hambly.

TOWN COUNCIL

Council Chambers,
Napanee, Oct. 21st, 1929.

Members present: Reeve Tustin, and Councillors Loucks, Daly, Paul and Fitzpatrick.

Minutes of last regular meeting were read, and on motion were confirmed.

Reeve Tustin reported progress in the matter of services for Armistice Day. He also reported that Poultry Days had been fixed for November 27th and 28th.

Councillor Ungar entered and took his seat.

Mayor Howitt appointed Councillors Loucks and Wiseman as members of the Armistice Day Committee.

On motion the above request was granted.

On motion is was decided that a wreath be procured and placed on the cenotaph at the Court House on Armistice Day.

Rev. M. Deline was present and asked permission to hold open air meetings on the streets for one hour on Saturday evenings. They would use the same corner as the Salvation Army were accustomed to use, and would hold their services after the Army had retired to their hall.

Considerable discussion took place as to the advisability of allowing further meetings to be held on our streets, owing to the traffic situation. All speakers were in sympathy with Mr. Deline and his congregation, and it was finally moved, seconded and carried that the request be granted.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

The N.C.I. opened the basketball season here Friday night by chalking up two wins against Belleville Collegiate girls in both senior and junior games. The Napanee Seniors won by the score of 55-11 while the Juniors trounced Belleville Juniors, 23-15. Both games were good exhibitions of basketball. Much credit should be given our Juniors, as we have a lot of new players who, although inexperienced, gave a good account of themselves. Both the Senior and Junior teams look good enough for a championship, although one school only has been played. The outstanding player of our Senior team was "Danny" Joyce, while "Kay" McFarland played best for the Juniors. Lenore Stafford stood out for Belleville Seniors while Bertha Gilbert scored often for the Juniors. As this is the first game of the Bay of Quinte League we cannot be too confident, but our teams are good this year and are worthy of support. N.C.I. play Trenton next Friday evening in Trenton, and hope to repeat their victories. The teams were:—

NAPANEE BOYS WIN PRIZES AT PLOWING MATCH

It is gratifying to know that Lennox and Addington was ably represented at the International Plowing Match held at Kingston, October 15th, 16th, 17th and 18th, and despite the very keen competition, the local boys were able to win some of the individual prizes.

The Junior Farmers' Team of three young men (under 21 years old) that competed for the Ontario Farmers' trophy on Friday, October 18th, made an excellent showing, although somewhat handicapped in being pitted against the boys from the counties in Western Ontario who had considerable more experience in match work. There were 7 teams competing for the trophy, and the Waterloo County team was declared the winner. The following boys represented Lennox and Addington:—William Vankoughnet, No. 7, Napanee; Delbert Harvey, Desoronto; Ralph Heiswerth, No. 5, Napanee.

The same young men plowed in the open classes the other days of the Match and on Thursday William Vankoughnet won 4th prize in the boys' class under 18 years, with 19 competitors in a very keen class. The same day Ralp Aylsworth won 6th prize in the Amateur Class—Plain Plows in and Delbert Harvey also did excellent work every day, but being over 18 years of age had to plow in the men's class, where the competition was extremely keen, especially on Wednesday, when there were 58 ploughmen in one class.

Mr. Thos. Craven, of Bath, was also successful and on Thursday won a 2nd prize in the open class. The High Cut Plows in sod, from a large field of experienced plowmen.

Mr. John Kent, and H. L. Aylsworth also competed in the Open Class on Wednesday.

The competitors, and especially the young men, are to be heartily congratulated on their excellent showing and are deserving of a great deal of credit for having courage enough to compete at the International Match where they meet the best plowmen in Ontario.

The experience gained at such a Match will be of great value to them in after years and we are looking forward to them all making a good account of themselves at the local Match to be held on the farm of W. H. Hunter, Napanee, on Saturday, November 2nd, 1929.

Rogers Producing Company, of Fostoria, Ohio, who produced "Bimbo" locally some years ago, have arranged to produce their most spectacular musical comedy under local auspices in about six weeks' time. The costumes and stage settings for this new production, which is called "That's That!" are understood to be on a scale more prodigious than anything ever before attempted by amateurs.

INJURIES FATAL TO E. I. MOONEY

Mr. Edwin I. Mooney, wire chief of the Bell Telephone Company, Belleville, died at eleven-fifteen on Saturday night in Kingston General Hospital, of injuries, received in a motor crash which occurred on Monday night, October 14th, in Kingston.

It will be remembered that Mr. Mooney was badly hurt on Monday night when two young men, accompanied by a young woman, crashed their big car into Mr. Mooney's car, at the corner of Earl and Albert streets in Kingston. Mr. Mooney was knocked unconscious and was taken to the Kingston General Hospital for attention. From the time he entered until he died he never regained consciousness.

N. C. I. LOSE TO TRENTON

Trenton defeated Napanee at the Driving Park on Saturday in a scheduled League game by the score of 6-1. Although play was loose at times, nevertheless it was a good exhibition of rugby.

Trenton got their first point on a rouge at the end of the first quarter. Then in the second quarter they added one of their halves through to make the score 0-6. Trenton had the better of the play through the first half. But in the second half things were different. Our men went into it determined to cut down the six point margin.

They worked their way up the field to within one yard of Trenton touch line, and bucked but could not get through. In the last quarter our fellows first scored a point on a rouge, making the score 6-1. They determined to get a touch they drove T.C.I. down to their own 15 yard line, but the final whistle put away all hopes of a win. But even in defeat our fellows showed excellent sportsmanship, and look forward to other games with Trenton. We also give them our support and best wishes in their games against Albert College.

Big Hallowe'en Dance, October 31st. Good music.

JUNIOR AND SENIOR GIRLS WIN IN TRENTON

N.C.I. Senior and Junior Basketball teams journeyed to Trenton on Friday evening, where they chalked up two more victories against Trenton Collegiate in a very impressive manner.

The Seniors won by the score of 45-26 while the Juniors vanquished the Trenton Juniors 30-9. At no time during the games was N.C.I. at the lower end of the score-board, but nevertheless, Trenton threatened to take the lead on several occasions.

The Seniors first took the floor and at the end of the first period had a margin of ten points. Then the Juniors followed their example to pile up a five point margin. In the two final periods the two N.C.I. teams completely outclassed T.C.I. with their smart and fast combination and accurate shooting.

Our Juniors also showed champion-ship form throughout the game, although on a strange floor and shooting at poor baskets. The forward line, Kay McFarland, Lois Stalker, and Marion Reid worked a good combination that resulted in N.C.I.'s wide margin. Jean Graham and Margaret Exley out-classed her Trenton opponent at centre. Marion Thompson and Mildred Leucks subbed on the forward line both turning in good games.

From the performance of both Seniors and Juniors during their games which they won, making it four in succession we should defeat Picton this Friday evening when we play them on our own floor. Come out and give them the support they surely deserve.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Thomas Manion

An old and highly esteemed resident of Napanee, passed peacefully away in the person of Mrs. Thomas Manion, a farmer, living near Selby, with indescribable and meritorious patience.

She was born in Tyendinaga in the year 1853, being the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Lally. Some years after she married Mr. Thomas Manion, a farmer, living near elby. After farming for some years, when their health was beginning to fail, they moved to Napanee, where they have lived ever since.

EXPORT APPLE MARKET

Prospects for a heavier apple crop in Ontario this season add emphasis to the export market as a profitable outlet for surplus fruit. United States apples are not likely to glut the British market this year and although the Nova Scotia crop is heavy, Ontario apples have come to command a premium over the Maritime product in Britain, due chiefly to the fact that Ontario apples are inspected by the Government before exportation. The permanent appointment of an overseas sales representative at London will greatly benefit Ontario shippers. Full information may be secured from F. W. Hodgetts, Secretary Ontario Fruit Growers' Association Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

TO MILK PRODUCERS OF NAPANEE DISTRICT

Gentlemen:—A few of us have carried on the work of organizing the dairy farmers of this county during the past few months. The work of necessity progresses slowly because of the great area covered and the fact that the work has to be carried on as we can spare time for its promotion.

The nucleus of an organization had been formed and officers appointed and we are in shape to represent you as a selling agency if you will give us your membership and morale support.

The idea behind organization is that unitedly we could market our produce to better advantage than as individuals.

We invite men from the townships of Richmond, Ernestown and North Fredericksburgh to attend a meeting of dairymen to be held in South Fredericksburgh Town Hall, at Sillsville. This meeting is advertised elsewhere in this paper. Look it up.

We want to tell you what has been done and what we are trying to do, and what is yet to be accomplished. We want men to attend who know and believe that the time is at hand when farmers must organize to protect themselves and who are willing to help accomplish this purpose.

The organist, Mr. Eppes, and the vested choir rendered the musical portions of the service according to the best traditions of the Anglican Church. Miss Hilda McGregor taking the solo in the "Agnus Dei" very feelingly.

Rev. W. G. Swayne acted as Cross bearer, leading the white robed procession as they passed up the aisle into the chancel of the church.

After the service, dinner was served in the basement of the church at noon, and the guests from every parish in the Deanery were most hospitably entertained by the ladies of the parish of St. Mary Magdalene. The Rural Dean moved, seconded by Mr. Leech, a most cordial vote of thanks to the ladies of the congregation for their kindness and hospitality.

The afternoon meeting of the W. A. was opened by the Bishop of the Diocese, Mrs. Radcliffe, the secretary, presiding. On the platform were the officers of the Diocesan Board, Kingston, Mrs. Low, president; Mrs. King, cor.-sec.; Miss Burns, treas.; Mrs. Morton, Sec. W. A. Juniors; Mrs. Robinson, convenor Hospital Committee, and visitors. Mrs. Butcher from Moose Jaw, Miss Archer, from Japan.

An address of welcome was read by Mrs. Dumbrille and responded to by Mrs. Pringle. Mrs. Radcliffe was unanimously re-elected Deanery secretary. The Bishop addressed the meeting bringing congratulations. Miss Archer gave a live talk on by her interesting and delightful manner.

After paying the necessary expenses the funds received were voted, on motion of Mrs. Dumbrille, for the support of the Church Army Van, now doing good work in the Diocese. A very pleasant part of the meeting was the making Mrs. Shier, of Tamworth, a Diocesan Life Member by her mother, Mrs. Caxall. Mrs. Low, the president, pinning on the golden cross amidst applause. The 1930 meeting, by invitation, will be held (D.V.) in Desoronto. The meeting was a most enjoyable one by universal consent.

OBITUARY

Lyall Harvey Keech

A gloom was cast over the entire community on Wednesday September the eighteenth when the angel of God called from Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Keech their loving and only son, Lyall, aged three years and eight months. He was born at the home in which he died on January, 6th, 1926, and was always in the best of health until on Thursday previous to his death he was stricken with that dreaded disease diptheria which in spite of all that loving and earthly hands could do he passed peacefully away on Wednesday, the 18th.

He was buried at Moscow and a memorial service will be held for him as soon as his parents are able to get out. He leaves to mourn his loss his loving mama and daddy, besides many other friends and relatives, as Lyall was always a bright and loving child he made friends wherever he went and was loved by all who knew him as he always had a smile and a good word for everyone. He will be greatly missed not only in his home but everywhere he went.

BIG ENROLMENT AT O. A. C.

President Christie of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, reports a largely increased enrolment this year. A total of 225 students have entered for the fall term as compared with 190 last year. This gratifying increase emphasizes the need for greater accommodation, which will be supplied in the form of a new million dollar administration and residence building on which work has already commenced. It will be the largest building on the campus and its equipment and facilities will be modern in every respect. The date set for its completion is Sept. 1st, 1930.

FATTENING TURKEYS

Thanksgiving and Christmas dinner tables in Ontario will not lack for turkeys, judging by reports from different parts of the province. Turkeys raised in the open during the summer cannot stand close confinement during the fattening period and should therefore not be confined to pens. Confinement often results in the birds going off their feed and developing digestive troubles, sometimes in death. The proper time to commence fattening is four weeks before they are wanted for table use, which is usually in November and December. The young birds should be started feeding gradually. The feed should be composed of both mashes and whole grain, the mashes in the morning and at midday and the whole grain at night. The mash is made up of equal parts of ground oats, barley meal cornmeal and wheat bran, and should be in a moist condition from clean, "V"-shaped troughs. Whole corn is the best grain for fattening purposes and should be used for the evening meal. Never give them more than they will readily eat. Turkeys thrive best in the open and even in the fattening period should be allowed to roost outside, with protection, of course, from cold winds and rain.

THE POTATO CROP

Ottawa forecasts estimate the Canadian potato crop at about 16 per cent. below that of last year. In Ontario the crop is nearly 30 per cent. below that of 1928. The United States crop is one of the lightest in ten years, in fact is the smallest with the exception of 1923. It will be readily appreciated that potatoes are in a strong position. Some Ontario and Quebec farmers are short of storage and require ready cash, consequently prices are somewhat depressed at present, but as soon as digging has been completed it is expected that prices will stiffen.

Housekeeping says a writer, is a wonderful game when one has learned to play it. But high steaks should be avoided.

"INVISABLE ARMY" LEAVING RHINELAND

Not often does peace time provide an army with opportunity to add to its laurels but the occupation of the Rhineland by a British force for the past eleven years has given new lustre to its traditions. It has come to be known as the "invisible army" and is as proud of this title as the "Old contemptibles" are of theirs. It has done a difficult job well. It has been compared, much to its own advantage, with the French armies of occupation. Of course the French planted themselves down on German soil with different sentiments. They never forgot that they were conquerors among the conquered. The British never remembered it. Their idea was to do their unpleasant but necessary task with as little inconvenience to the German people as possible. Their best tribute came from Herr Reinard Freundlich, chief lawyer of Wiesaden, whose work has brought him into close touch with the army. "The British soldiers," he says, "have made the occupation as bearable as possible."

Glad to See Them

Yet we fear a good deal of nonsense has been published about the relations between the army and the civilian population. Stories of the people being in sackcloth and ashes when the army began to march out, and of weeping German girls left behind by hoen to returning British Tommies are, in the language of the army itself, so much eye wash. The soldiers were glad to leave, and the Germans were glad to see them leave. How could it be otherwise? If Toronto for ten years had been the headquarters of an army of Americans posted here to maintain order and make sure that Canada's indebtedness to the United States was paid, would there be any regret when the army left? A complete willingness to see the army go is compatible with the belief that the army did the best it could and that on the whole it won the respect of the Germans. But the people of the Rhineland are not without their pride. However much they may have admired the deportment of the British officers and men, if they never see them again that will be soon enough.

Few Social Contacts

There has been a distinct change in the relations between the army and the civilian population since the occupation began. At first the strictest sort of discipline was established. Every German was regarded as a potential enemy. That feeling passed away. Orders against fraternization were repealed one by one. Relations which had been restrained became cordial. But there was surprisingly little intimacy. Between the officers and the civilian population of the same class, there was hardly any intercourse, and there was not much more between the soldiers and the girls of the district. Among the 5,500 men of the last army of occupation there are just 52 German wives. It may be that there would have been more had it not been for the objection of British officers. It is known that at least half a dozen privates who asked permission to marry German girls, were sent back to England, and the only cases of deserted German girls to come to light in the whole period were those of girls whose lovers had been ordered home. Perhaps one reason for the comparatively small amount of social contact between the two races is the presence of a good many English women. Some of these are the wives of officers and soldiers. Some are their friends. English people do not stay in any place for ten years without establishing an English colony. Therefore, of the half-million British soldiers who passed through the Rhineland in the past 11 years, only 560 of them found German wives.

A Little Bit of England

But some British institutions have been established and they may remain. A flourishing golf club is one of the results, and the steward of this club, a non-commissioned officer, will remain after the soldiers have departed. There have been cricket and football leagues and no doubt the Germans have been initiated into the mysteries of these games. Schools have been set up to educate the children of the army, and some Germans have acquired a knowledge of English in them, while the English youngsters have been taught German. The administration of justice has been in the hands of an army court presided over by a major, who, in civilian life, is a London barrister. Some of the penalties inflicted have seemed, to the Germans, excessive, as for instance when a bus driver was fined 40 marks, or three-quarters of his week's pay, for turning his machine without warning. But a bandmaster accused of playing "Deutschland uber Alles" in a public park was acquitted when it was shown that he had played only a couple of bars of this forbidden anthem.

The Invisible Army

So the army fades out. For years its chief aim has been to be as inconspicuous as possible. The headquarters was established at Wiesbaden in a secluded spot. On the railway station one had to search to find the khaki-clad figures, in strong contrast to the horizon blue of the French in other parts of the occupied zone. On the whole, the army has well earned the tribute paid to it in his farewell address by Sir William Thwaites when he said:

"It has been the lot of many units of our army in those 11 years gone by to assist in carrying out the duty laid upon the allied armies by the Treaty of Versailles. The watch on the Rhine could be inscribed in the annals of all such units as a phase in British military history and will become in course of time a tradition of which all ranks may be justly proud, for during the whole course of the occupation the troops have gained a lasting prestige for themselves and for the whole British army in the eyes of all with whom they have come in contact on account of their soldierly bearing and efficiency exemplary behavior and consideration for and courtesy towards those people whose country they are now leaving."

BRITAIN'S SOCIAL CHANGE

Shortage of Adolescents Will Begin In 1930 Which Will Ultimately Have Far-Reaching Effect.

Unknown to most of us, we are nearing the greatest social change that Britain has ever seen. Ahead, and not far ahead, looms a famine in youth. By 1930 will begin a shortage of adolescents that will ultimately have far-reaching effects, says a writer in London Tit-Bits.

Owing to the war—which, it is calculated, doomed 25,000,000 women in Europe to lifelong, spinsterhood—and still more to the influenza epidemic that followed it, as well as to other factors, there has been a great falling off in the number of children "coming on" in Britain. Four years ago the Board of Education reported that there were a million fewer children in our elementary schools than there were before the war, and since then the decrease has gone on steadily at the rate of 100,000 a year.

Yet with the heavy fall in the number of children there has been a great increase in the number of twins and triplets born. Till a few years ago multiple births were curiously localized. A certain street in Deptford used to claim the distinction of being the quarter in which most twins were born, and not long ago there were in Cherry Grove, on the outskirts of Lincoln, a pair of twins to every third house.

The same peculiarity extended to counties, Lancashire came first for twins, Liverpool making the largest contribution, and then followed London, with Yorkshire a poor third.

But during the last five years multiple births have increased everywhere, even in counties where twins used to be rare. At several London hospitals the number of twins born this year will probably constitute a record.

This tendency to multiple births is not confined to Britain. It exists in all parts of the civilized world, and the scientists are unable to account for the phenomenon.

Still, a famine in youth is inevitable, and its effects, which will include a great, if not alarming, decrease in the number of recruits for the labor market, will be intensified by the fact that there will be a rapid up by leaps and bounds, and for years the standard of health has been improving, with a consequent reduction in the death rate. So the proportion of persons who reach seventy is steadily increasing.

When will it remain constant or nearly so? According to calculations made by the Government auditor for old-age pension purposes, the number of persons over seventy will increase as follows: 1931, 1,904,000; 1941, 2,436,000; 1951, 3,030,000. Apparently, therefore, the army of people over seventy will grow for many years.

At all events, great changes in the population are close at hand. In 10 years' will bulk less and age more, and Sir Robert Blair has estimated that by 1932 there will be two million fewer workers than there would have been under the old conditions.

Will life be easier or harder for youth? How will the bigger proportion of the aged and non-productive elements of the population affect those who are beginning the battle of life?

PATRIOTIC SONGS.

Tunes of Well Known Songs Have Had Curious Origins.

"Giovinezza," the Fascist song which Signor Mussolini has ordered shall in future be played only on ceremonial occasions, is a rare instance of a "party" song becoming a national anthem, writes "Looker-on" in the London Daily Chronicle.

But the tunes at least of several well-known patriotic songs have had curious origins. Egypt's national anthem is simply Offenbach's setting of a popular English comic song, "The Old Obadiah and the Young Obadiah."

"Yankee Doodle" was first sung tauntingly by British troops in the War of Independence, but America stuck to it.

"Ca Ira," which sounds even more revolutionary than the "Marseillaise," is really a carillon air of Royalist times.

Rule Britannia" was originally simply part of a long composition by Dr. Arne, "The Masque of Alfred." Popular favor made it a separate patriotic song.

Preacher—You must conquer yourself. I conquered myself when I was about your age.

Jones—Well, you see, parson, I'm a harder man to lick than you are.—Life.

CROSS ON ANCIENT TILE.

Believed Christianity In Britain In Remote Roman Period.

What is believed to be the earliest evidence of Christianity in Roman Wales has been discovered at Caerleon, Monmouthshire. An antefix—a kind of tile—bearing the sign of the cross, and dating from the third century, has been found during the resumed excavations in the site of the Roman fortress.

This, it is held, would indicate that Christianity had been introduced into Britain at an earlier date than was generally supposed.

V. E. Nash-Williams, of the National Museum of Wales, who is in charge of the excavations, says the tile bears a Medusa's mask and above it the symbol of the cross—a Greek cross with splayed ends. The latter symbol, he says, has all the appearance of being Christian, in which case it is the first piece of direct evidence of the presence of Christianity in Roman Wales that has yet been found.

"The discovery is epoch making," declares Mr. Williams, "in that hitherto it has always been believed that Christianity did not reach Wales until, at any rate, the sub-Roman period. The present evidence would seem to show that Christianity had reached Wales at least 200 years earlier.

"Not only does it represent the arrival of Christianity in Wales, but also it has been believed hitherto that Christianity never made made headway in the Roman army. This discovery seems to show that too much weight has been attached to this view.

"These antefixes were used by the Roman legionaries for 'magical' purposes. They were distributed at regular intervals along the eaves of their buildings, and usually they bore various pagan symbols which the Roman soldiers believed to be of amuletic value in protecting them from ghostly foes—particularly the evil eye.

"In the case of the antefix we have found it appears that the soldier was using the cross in a magical way."

Gerbault Is Planning to Build a New Boat to Circle the World.

Most people would think that six years sailing the world's seas alone in a small boat was enough adventure for one man's life. But Alain Gerbault, the former lawn tennis champion, who has just returned to civilization after sailing over 2,000 miles in the Firecrest, doesn't think so. He is planning to have a new boat, still smaller than the Firecrest, built for him—and then he will be "off to sea" once more.

His achievements in the Firecrest are particularly wonderful because the boat, though well built and seaworthy, is hardly the best type for single-handed ocean cruising. That she has done so well is a tribute, not only to M. Gerbault's seamanship, but also to British boat-building—for the Firecrest is British all through.

Gerbault is not the only "hermit of the sea" who has made history by the short, but brilliant career of his predecessor in Captain Joshua Slocum, a tough American sea-doc, who had studied marine architecture and made a hobby of boat-building.

In pursuit of this hobby, Slocum built a little nine-ton ship, which he named the Spray, out of old material. When it was finished, the vessel was hardly of a kind to inspire much confidence, and it has often been said that it is one of the greatest mysteries of the sea how she managed to keep afloat.

However, Slocum had confidence in her, and, six years after she was built, he put her to the supreme test. He set out in her on the wonderful single-handed voyage that took him from Boston to Cape Town; then on to Australia, across the Pacific, through the Magellan Strait, and back into the Atlantic.

Sailing round the world alone was the—1898—an onboard-of feat. And it was all the more remarkable because Slocum was fifty-four years old when his great adventure began.

Gerbault's round-the-world route has been different from Slocum's. He crossed the Atlantic from east to west, and completed his circuit by way of the Panama Canal, the Pacific, Mauritius, and the Cape, returning to Europe by way of St Helena and the Azores.

He has had many adventures, and on one occasion he lay ill and unconscious for hours, while the Firecrest drifted unguided. On another occasion he was offered the kingship of one of the Polynesian islands. He did not definitely refuse the offer, and perhaps he intends to go back there.

ENGLISH LANGUAGE SPREADS.

Surpasses That of Any Other During Past 100 Years.

The amazing growth of the English language, surpassing that of any other during the past 100 years, was illustrated by statistics given by the Neue Auercher Zeitung.

English was spoken by less than 30,000,000 persons in 1830, the statistics showed, while at present no less than 160,000,000 people speak it natively, while an additional 60,000,000 understand it but do not consider it their own native tongue. The newspaper said that the rate of increase far outstripped all other languages, and that there is no part of the world where English is not now spoken.

German was spoken by 32,000,000 persons a century ago and now by between 80,000,000 and 90,000,000 persons, the statistics showed. The use of the Dutch language increased from 6,300,000 to 15,000,000; Swedish from 3,300,000 to 7,500,000; and Danish from 2,100,000 to 5,000,000.

The growth of the Latin languages on the other hand has been less rapid with Italian slightly in the lead. Spoken by 21,400,000 a century ago, that language now is spoken by 45,000,000, while Spanish, which was second in increase, was used by 25,200,000 a century ago, and now is used by 50,000,000.

French, the language of diplomacy, has increased only from 32,400,000 to 45,000,000, but it is understood by an additional 75,000,000 foreigners.

Good for Aberdeen.

Once again Aberdeen leads the principal cities in Scotland with the highest number of marriages per 10,000 of population. Aberdeen also had the third lowest death rate and the third highest birth rate, and the highest percentage of illegitimate births. These facts emerge from the City Medical Officer of Health's report for 1928. The report consists mainly of a statistical survey of the health of the city during the year, as the result of the various experimental investigations of the Public Health Department during 1927-28 were incorporated in the annual report for 1927, issued in October, 1928. The rate of marriages in the city during 1928 was ninety-six per 10,000 of the population. Edinburgh came second with a rate of eighty-eight; Glasgow and Dundee had eighty-seven; Paisley sixty-eight, and Greenock fifty-nine. The birth-rate which places Aberdeen third in the list was 208 per 10,000 of population, Greenock being first with 241, and Glasgow second with 222.

Ancient Scissors.

A pair of scissors, said to be 250 years old, has been acquired by the Guildhall (London) Museum. The scissors were discovered behind some old panelling in the house known as Queen Elizabeth's Lodge in Epping Forest. They were covered with rust, but when this was removed it was found that they had a mark stamped on each blade. This maker's mark consists of a heart above a monogram of the combined letters T and E, and a reference to the records of the Cutlers' Company has established the fact that this heart was assigned as a trade mark to Thomas Elliott in 1673 or 1674. The scissors, therefore, belong to the time of Charles II.

Mrs. Alfred Kent

The funeral of the late Mrs. Alfred Kent, Newburgh Road, who passed away on Friday morning, was held at residence of her daughter, Mrs. Herbert Burnard, Newburgh Road, on Sunday afternoon, the service being conducted by the Rev. W. P. Woodger, of Grace Church. The late Mrs. Kent, although not in the best of health for a number of years, had only been quite ill for a short time and her death will be learned with regret by her many friends. Before her marriage she resided at Wolfe Island, and since her marriage, she and her late husband resided in Napanee for many years.

The deceased had passed the three score years and ten, she being 76 years of age. Her husband predeceased her about two years ago. Surviving are one son, Will, and three daughters, Mrs. Geo. Hawley, of North Fredericksburgh, Mrs. Arthur McLennan, of London, and Mrs. Herbert Burnard, with whom she resided. Interment was made at Riverside Cemetery.

FATTENING TURKEYS

Thanksgiving and Christmas dinner tables in Ontario will not lack for turkeys, judging by reports from different parts of the province. Turkeys raised in the open during the summer cannot stand close confinement during the fattening period and should therefore not be confined to pens. Confinement often results in the birds going off their feed and developing digestive troubles, sometimes in death. The proper time to commence fattening is four weeks before they are wanted for table use, which is usually in November and December. The young birds should be started feeding gradually. The feed should be composed of both mashes and whole grain, the mashes in the morning and at midday and the whole grain at night. The mash is made up of equal parts of ground oats, barley meal cornmeal and wheat bran, and should be in a moist condition from clean, "V"-shaped troughs. Whole corn is the best grain for fattening purpoes and should be used for the evening meal. Never give them more than they will readily eat. Turkeys thrive best in the open and even in the fattening period should be allowed to roost outside, with protection, of course, from cold winds and rain.

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

ACREAGE OF CROPS

Some interesting statistics have been compiled by the department dealing with the acreage of principal field crops of Ontario and the yield per acre in bushels for 1929 as compared with 1928. The acreage of fall wheat is shown to be about the same with an increase in the acre yield. Spring wheat, both in acreage and yield, was slightly off. Oats also showed a similar tendency. More barley was planted but the acre-yield was lighter. Less rye was grown but the yield remained stationary. The acreage of peas dropped about 30 per cent, and the yield per acre decreased. About 25 per cent. more beans were grown and the yield increased. Alfalfa was off considerably from the heavy crops of 1927 and 1928 but still far above the average for the past 16 years. The yield was not so good. Alsike had a good year and a fair yield per acre. Sweet clover fell off both in acreage and yield. But hay and clover had the biggest acreage yet and a fine yield. The figures for other crops will be furnished at a later date. The logical conclusion to be drawn from the above figures is that the unusually dry summer has not been so injurious as might be imagined.

CONQUEST OF PACIFIC

To Study the Biology and Oceanography of Northern Section.

Canada and the United States from the east, Japan, China and Russia from the west, will meet in mid-Pacific in less than ten years with a well-rounded preliminary picture of the biology and physical oceanography of the northern section of that great ocean. This is the prophecy of Dr. T. Wayland Vaughan, director of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography, says a Science Service bulletin, made after a survey of the programs of ocean science now embarked upon or contemplated by the powers bordering upon the North Pacific.

Currents, tides, winds, air and water temperature—all the complex phenomena that interact to make climate in air above, and what might be termed "water climate" in the aquatic element beneath, form one part of the program. The geology and geography of the solid land that forms the shores and of the deep-drowned rocks that make up the ocean basin, jutting up here and there as islands or volcanoes, occupy another section. Then there are the multitudinous forms of life that swim as fishes and whales or float as seajellies and protozoa, or cling and creep on the bottom as well as the insect life passing from microscopic size to as much as 100 feet long, which the animal life ultimately depends. A fascinating and challenging group of problems can be found where biology becomes geology, that is, in the formation of coral islands and reefs.

All these phases and others besides are actively under way in the North Pacific area and it is here that the most rapid advance may be expected, according to Dr. Vaughan. Promising initial steps are being taken in the Southwestern Pacific also. As yet little has been done in the southeastern section of the ocean, although some of the South American countries, notably Chile and Peru, have evinced interest and may eventually bring the scientific knowledge of their oceanic "spheres of influence" to the level of that attained in regions where scientists have been able to make an earlier start.

Relics of French Revolution.

The cuff buttons of Robespierre, a handkerchief which once belonged to Gen. Lafayette, and the prayer book which consoled Marie Antoinette as she went to the guillotine are among the historical objects now being exhibited at the Musee de Rheims, in the Rue de Chanzy. Already hundreds of visitors, including many British and American tourists, have visited this Exhibition of Souvenirs of the French Revolution. Many strange relics are there, including the bell from the old Hotel de Ville of Rheims which called the revolutionary soldiers to battle. But interest centres in the prayer book of Marie Antoinette. Admirers and critics of this unfortunate queen come to gaze upon its pious relic, in which Marie Antoinette wrote on the day of her death: "This sixteenth of October at 4.30 o'clock in the morning, there are no more tears in my eyes. And so I cannot weep for you, my poor children. Farewell! farewell!—Marie Antoinette." A few hours later, with faith firm, spirit unbroken, and head erect, she went to her death.

SOAP AS HAIR DYE.

Ashes Were the Earliest Form of Soap.

Very early in Biblical history it was found that the ashes from fires, which were then always of wood, were useful in removing grease from the hands. Ashes were thus the earliest form of soap, and they remained so for a long time.

The first of the more civilized people to discover how to make real soap were the Romans. They learnt the secret from the Gauls, who used a preparation made from wood ashes and goat's tallow for washing their hair and beards, thus making them a fiery red—a color they considered becoming. The Romans developed the new discovery considerably, but it was many years before improved methods of soap-making were introduced.

In some parts of the world soap-making is even now carried out in much the same way as in Roman times.

An old cask with holes bored in one end is filled with alternate layers of straw, lime, and wood ashes. The cask is then placed on a raised, slanting grooved board, and from time to time water is poured on the contents, until there emerges a brownish liquid, which is collected in an iron pot and boiled over a fire with the fat or grease until the soap-maker deems it finished.

The fire is then allowed to go out, and the contents of the pot are left to chill in a solid mass, after which it is cut into bars.

MARRIAGE BROKERAGE SLUMPS.

But In Certain European Countries They Still Exist.

Marriage brokerage has long been a recognized business in New York's East Side, but modernism is causing it to dwindle. A decade ago many men on the lower East Side made large profits as marriage brokers, but nowadays few, if any, individuals can make a living by bringing couples together and arranging marriage contracts between them. In certain European countries, however, the marriage broker still thrives. Warsaw, Poland, having a union of brokers for the defence of their professional interests.

Reichman, a renowned matchmaker of Warsaw, is reputed to have helped to arrange 80,000 marital unions. He keeps a complete file of families, with comprehensive data on dower prospects, the financial state of the prospective bridegrooms and the circumstances of both men and women who are "in the market."

Reichman keeps an open house giving dinners and receptions for eligible young men and women. The bills for these parties are footed by the parent-client. Reichman says that the modern system of marriage based on love is not successful. He insists that the old-fashioned system based on careful study of conditions in both families is much more satisfactory.

Trade In Serpents.

A recent trade report noted the fact that 25,000 python skins were exported from the Dutch East Indies in the past twelve months. These skins were of the reticulated python, or rice snake, a big, but entirely harmless serpent with a most beautifully mottled skin. Some few or twelve years ago dealers in Europe discovered that python skin made a leather specially suitable for ladies' handbags, a little later came the craze for snake-skin slippers. Today Borneo, Sumatra, and the whole Malay Archipelago are being searched for pythons. The hunt for snake skins has now extended to Brazil, where the huge water boa, the anaconda, is found. This is the greatest serpent in existence, many specimens reaching a length of sixty feet. In Manila you will often see small pythons tied to poles hawked through the streets alive. People buy them to rid their houses of rats and similar vermin.

Floating Airdromes.

A number of floating islands between Europe and America, at intervals of three hundred miles, upon which airplanes could land for refuelling and repairs, is M. Bleriot's idea for a transatlantic airplane service. These floating islands would be provided with all the necessities of a modern airdrome, equipped with hotels, and might even be developed as health resorts. Detailed plans are already in existence.

In M. Bleriot's opinion, the ideal machine for this scheme is a large, land plane driven by four motors and capable of carrying a big load of passengers and mail. Should they come down in the water between the islands, the wings and motors would automatically detach themselves from the body, which would act like a lifeboat and be able to float in any weather.

British Guiana's National Park.

Preservation of the Kaieteur Fall in British Guiana is promised in a bill which has recently been drawn up for introduction at the next meeting of the Legislative Council, and which will be known as the Kaieteur National Park Ordinance, 1929.

The Kaieteur Fall, which is located on the Potaro river in the County of Essequibo, plunges with a sheer descent of 751 feet over a hard ledge of rock 370 feet wide, against which the white spray appears with wonderful effect. The escarpment has been worn into a huge amphitheatre whose rocky sides surround the whirlpool below, and the surrounding scenery is spectacular and picturesque.

Adopting English Words.

Words concerning sport and holidays are a stumbling-block to the Germans; so now they are simply borrowing them as they stand. "Weekend" is now a commonly accepted phrase in Berlin, while the newest addition to the German language is "dirt track," the course on which the races are run being known as a "dirt-track bahn."

The average woman would prefer that men looked round at her than up to her.

RADIUM KILLS CANCER

MUST BE ENCLOSED IN PLATINUM TO CURE.

Medical Specialist Sees Relief for Cancer Victims in the Use of Radium Bomb—Not Yet Generally Available.

Nearly twenty years ago a doctor, who died recently, told me that he believed that at last a real weapon against cancer had been discovered, writes Answers' own medical specialist.

"Radium," he said, "kills cancer."

He was compelled to add, however, that it was so difficult to use radium, even when it was possible to obtain any of this most precious substance, that the outlook, though hopeful, was not bright.

That note of caution was more than justified. Twenty years ago, radium, in spite of the fact that it did kill cancer, was nearly, if not quite, useless in the treatment of this terrible disease. Indeed, the ofttimes it was used the deeper grew the disappointment. This strange and fearfully potent element showed itself capable of inflicting grave injuries and, in some cases, even of making worse the disease it was designed to cure.

But human patience is as great as human courage. The workers with radium, in spite of their disappointment, could not forget that the substance did kill cancer. For long and diligent years they strove to perfect the only weapon, except the knife, which doctors have ever possessed against that disease.

And they succeeded.

The first step from darkness to light was taken when it was discovered that of the three separate and distinct rays which radium gives forth only one is of any use to medicine. Those rays bear the Greek names Alpha, Beta, and Gamma. The Alpha Ray is of no account; it is neither beneficial nor harmful. But the Beta Ray is a quite a different class. It can inflict grave injury, and it may help rather than hinder the cancer.

Was it possible to obtain pure Gamma Rays—that is to say, Gamma Rays entirely separated from the harmful Beta Rays? After long and anxious work the desired end was achieved. It was discovered that if radium is encased in a shell of platinum the Beta Rays are completely shut off. They cannot pass through the platinum.

This was the first great step in the direction of hope. At last doctors could work with a ray which killed cancer, unhampered by other rays which might cause it to grow more quickly.

The result of this really great discovery was soon apparent. Hopelessness gave place to a sense of achievement, and within a very few years it was possible to say that radium had taken its place as a real and powerful weapon against cancer.

To-day we can go further than that. The latest available figures show that, in certain parts of the body, radium is to be preferred to the knife as a treatment of cancer and that, when treatment by radium is begun early, the rate of recovery may be as high as forty per cent.

By "recovery" it must be explained, is meant that the patient has remained free of the disease for five years. Experience has shown that those who remain free for five years are likely to remain free indefinitely.

In the present year a new method has been introduced. It is known as "the bomb" and consists in using a large quantity of radium in a big platinum shell which is kept some distance away from the patient. The Gamma Rays pass through the skin into the patient's body and so reach every part of the tumor at the same time, after the fashion of the beam of a searchlight.

Treatment by the bomb entails no cutting operation, and since the Gamma Ray of radium is invisible the patient is unaware that he is being treated at all. It is possible by this means to reach such organs as the stomach, which could not be reached by the older means.

There is, unhappily, only one bomb, a small one at that, at work at the present time in England—for our national stock of radium is very small. Consequently radium treatment is not, as yet, generally available.

But a change will soon take place. A sum of money exceeding £250,000 is now at the disposal of the National Radium Trustees for the purchase of radium, and it has been calculated that this sum should be enough to meet all requirements.

The radium, when bought, will be kept in use day and night, so that not a moment of it precious activity will be lost.

Treatment lasts only a few hours, after which the cancer gradually disappears. Patients treated by the bomb frequently go to sleep while receiving their dose of rays.

The radium itself is almost everlasting. It gives forth its wonderful healing ray day and night without any loss of strength. Indeed, it has been calculated that more than a thousand years hence it will be almost as strong and potent as it is at the present moment.

So the new weapon will far outlast the generation which has forged it. Once it has been obtained progress will be swift, for every year since the war has seen great improvements in the ways of using it. The day of hope for the victim of cancer is just about to dawn.

SWEDISH MATCH TRUST DOMINATE THE WORLD

Announcement that Ivar Kreuger head of the Swedish match industry, and also incidentally head of the vast organization that produces three-quarters of the matches used in the world has secured a monopoly in Germany in exchange for a loan of $125,000,000 is accompanied by the announcement that the Soviet trade representative in Berlin has said that his government would consider the arrangement an unfriendly act. We can only say that the trade representative is rather late in the day in making his protest and that it is somewhat of an impertinence for Russia to protest to Germany about what is Germany's own business. The match trust has in the past ten years made many other international loans to secure a market for its goods. Two years ago it loaned $75,000,000 to France for permission to enter the market which France had up to that time preserved as a national monopoly. In recent years loans have been made to Poland, Roumania, Hungary, Greece, Jugo-Slavia, Latvia, Esthenia, Peru and Ecuador. The match trust dominates or shares the markets in every civilized country in the world except Russia, and whether Russia can be considered civilized is a question upon which opinions differ.

Another Conquering Bachelor

The Swedish match trust has hundreds of subsidary companies in various parts of the world. It operates a chain of banks with offices in most of Europe's capitals and these banks are the trust's financial agents and also do some banking on their own account. This trust represents capital and resources comparable with those of any of the world's great organizations of capital and in some respects surpasses them. It was won its world-wide sway in the first place because the modern match was a Swedish invention or rather the result of a series of Swedish inventions, and in the second place because Mr. Kreuger happens to be a financier genius of the first order. He is only 49 years old, unmarried, and in the past ten years or so has put the match trust among the great industries of the world. It is interesting to note that this man had some experience as a contractor in Canada and that there are no doubt Canadians who still remember him in this capacity in the years before he had struck the line which was to give him international significance.

The Rolling Stone

That would be about 25 years ago. For three generations the Kreugers have been interested in the manufacture of matches but Ivar had no notion of becoming either a match-maker of the match king. His idea was to be an engineer and to this end he was trained in Stockholm: At the age of 20 he went to the United States where he landed with little money and took the first job that he could find, which was that of real estate solicitor. Eventually he got a position with a railroad at work for which he was better fitted but left this to work on a contract in Mexico. He then returned home for a visit but went back to the United States and secured a job with the Fuller Construction company. By this time he was rising in his profession and was becoming recognized as a specialist in structural steel. He was sent to different parts of the world to direct important building enterprises, and it was in this period that he visited Canada for a while, contracting on his own account.

Made Fortune as Contractor

In 1907 he went back to Stockholm for he had concluded that at home there was scope for his talents even greater than abroad. Taking as partner Paul Toll, he organized the greatest construction company in Sweden. This Kreuger speedily ran the face of Stockholm. A revolution in building was accomplished. Kreuger introduced American ideas and made the Swedes like them. From building stores, offices and warehouses to buying real estate for speculative purposes was a short and natural step and as it proved a highly profitable one. Kreuger is credited with an extraordinary faculty for guessing where there is to be a development and anticipating it. As a result he had the resources at his command to great developments. In a short time Kreuger and Toll were the most in the directors of one of the great businesses of Sweden. In 1913 he definitely entered the match field, though retaining the original firm of Kreuger and Toll, which really has become the keystone of the structure which the international match trust rests.

United Swedish Manufacturers

In 1913, although Swedish matches were as widely known as Swiss watches the industry was imperfectly organized, which we suppose is another way of saying that too many people were making money out of it. There had been some consolidations but not enough. There was wasteful competition. This Kreuger proceeded to eliminate. Smaller factories were closed. Larger factories were equipped with the most modern machinery. Huge sums were invested in raw materials. Forests were bought. The war made it necessary for the Swedish match makers to find some other source of supply than Germany for their chemicals, and the Kreuger organization found it. His success paved the way for his great stroke in 1917 when all the match companies in Sweden came to him in one vast company, of which he was the head. Then began his great campaign for world markets. Here the usual procedure was to buy into existing companies and install a Swedish expert as the manager. The situation after the war made the position for Kreuger and his associates to strengthen their position through foreign loans. That is what they have been doing and it would seem that there remain no new worlds for them to conquer, except Russia.

THE LENNOX TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

The fifty sixth annual meeting of the Lennox Teachers' Institute was held in Convocation Hall, N.C.I., on October 17th and 18th, 1929. Over one hundred teachers were in attendance.

The President, Mr. E. Young, Bath, called upon Rev. Mr. Woodger, Napanee, to conduct the opening exercises, after which the minutes of the last meeting were read and accepted. A communication from "The School" was read. Moved by Mr. Trenouth, seconded by Mr. C. Hogeboom, Stella, that members of this Institute be given "The School" for seventy-five cents. Carried. Mr. Trenouth was asked to kindly take subscriptions to this magazine. After the Treasurer's Report was read, Misses Hall and Aylsworth were appointed auditors.

The following were chosen as members of the Committee on Resolutions: Misses Parks, Hawley; Dennee, Mair, and Messrs. Trenouth and Hogeboom.

The members of the nominating committee were: Mr. Corkhill, B.A., T. P. S., Mr. E. Young and Misses Slider, McNeely and Leatherland.

Mr. Corkhill called the attention of the teachers to the excellent display of books for their inspection, placed on tables by representatives of several book companies. The teachers found the assortment very interesting and helpful.

Moved by Mr. Trenouth that this Convention give the officers for 1930 the right to make arrangements for the evening entertainment next year and to place on the program a charge of seventy-five cents to defray expenses for a banquet if one can be arranged, otherwise the usual fee of fifty cents. Carried.

Miss Marguerite McGuire, as delegate to O.E.A. gave a most excellent report. She reviewed the program of the department she visited, making it very interesting and helpful. Moved by Mr. Trepouth, seconded by Miss Dennee, that a hearty vote of thanks be given Miss McGuire. Carried.

The Institute regretted that illness prevented Mr. Young's attendance at O.E.A., and report being given by him.

The President, in his address, spoke on plans for teaching arithmetic in the rural schools and aroused considerable discussion on some points in grammar. He closed by quoting a little poem very appropriate to the teacher's work, about moulding the child's mind and character while in a plastic state.

The morning session closed with an adjournment to the gymnasium to see a demonstration in Physical Culture, by Miss V. McLaughlin, N.C.I. This is always a very enjoyable part of the program.

The afternoon session began at 1.30. Mr. Gordon McGregor, accompanied on the piano by Mr. Kendal, gave a cornet solo and kindly responded to a hearty encore. A delightful piano-solo by Miss Lois Stalker completed the musical part of the program.

Mayor Howitt, on behalf of the Town Council, in his address of welcome, assured the teachers they needed no welcome, as most of them were natives of Napanee and had attended both the P. S. and N.C.I. But the Council greeted them as a group of educational leaders and recognized the value of the teacher's work in the country. The Councillors were supposed to be interested only in taxes and financial affairs. It was true they spent most of their time in business, but in heart they were just interested in the character and welfare of the citizens, and they knew that the future lies in the hands of those who mould the character of the boys and girls. These are under the teacher's care for five hours a day and five days in the week, nearly the year round. So the teacher's influence is greater than that of any other organization. The teachers hold a very enviable position. But their work does not end when school is over. They engage in church work and many other kinds of community work. So the Council did not welcome them as strangers, but wished to acknowledge the character of their work not only as individuals but as an institution also. Mr. Howitt added his own personal appreciation and wished for success in their work.

The President and Mr. Corkill thanked Mr. Howitt for his kind words of appreciation.

Mr. Corkill, B.A., I.P.S., was then called upon to give the Inspector's address. He referred to the change in the date of our Convention, necessitated by the change in speakers as a consequence of the death of Dr. Radcliffe. Mr. Corkill deplored the loss which the cause of education sustained in the death of that great educationist, and the loss which our own Institute felt in the death of Mr. J. F. Hamilton, an associate helper of only two years ago. Miss Hinch, a former worthy teacher of our county, is another loss. Mr. Corkill regretted the absence of some teachers, who wished to attend other Institute meetings or were absent for some other reasons, and he wished everyone could be present as their presence helped to give encouragement and enthusiasm to the officers and those who helped so willingly with the program. In his estimation more could be learned from conferences with each other and discussion of difficulties than even the program. Friendly talks on the work were the most profitable part of the Convention. His topic was "The Young Teacher's Difficulties." In closing, he expressed the hope that when our work is done teachers and Inspector may hear the verdict, "You Tried!"

Mr. C. E. Mark, B.A., B. Paed., Normal School, Toronto, gave a lecture on, "Teachers' Requirements not in the Curriculum." He enumerated these as follows:—

1. The ability to accept critism gracefully, with the regulations as set down in the curriculum as a background. "Whosoever shall compel thee to go with him a mile, go with him twain." We must always go farther than the law demands or be a failure.

2. Health, maintained to a high degree, as health is so knit up with mental and moral make up, that it is a fundamental thing. The matter of health is stressed because all good qualities are made possible by it and the teacher who possesses it can have a great influence on the young.

3. Moral—Our work is not gaged by results of examination but by influence of life upon life. Example is the potent, not doctrine, therefore a high moral standard must be demanded from the teacher whose aim should be high. Do nothing that you would not like to see incorporated into your community.

4. Manners—Here the teacher must remember that manners are the outward expression of the mind, and he should exercise consideration for others.

5. Public Spirit—The teacher must take a healthy interest in work outside of the school and, as a good citizen, be able to play his part in the work of the community. He cannot successfully be a hermit.

6. An Outside Interest—The teacher must have an avocation as well as a vocation. Recreation is essential to a state of mind that gives zest to work. It is a recipe for keeping young.

7. Scholarship—The successful teacher is not satisfied with the requirements laid down by the Department. They are meagre and leave him only on the threshold. He must avail himself of every opportunity and advantage if he is to make progress and to be successful in leading others. He must continue to go to school or get into a rut and become an old fogy. Attention to this requirement at the outset decides which.

8. Personality—Ninety per cent of a teacher's effectiveness consists of personality. It includes elements that make one persistent and perservering and gives one enjoyment of work.

9. A professional spirit. This will win respect from other professions, and as we gain general recognition we shall be valued as we should be, there will be fewer regulations and we shall have greater freedom to assert our own individuality, and a greater disposition to go the second mile, which is not laid down in the curriculum.

Miss Carr, the district representative of the W.F.F., addressed the teachers with the hope of securing members. The Federation is intended to arouse the professional spirit and to raise the status of the teacher. As the W.F.F. is trying to work through county groups, the secretary, Miss Parks, hoped to see this group re-organized.

The teachers will long remember this Convention as the one where they were privileged to hear an address by the Right Hon. H. G. Ferguson, Minister of Education who spoke in N.C.I. on educational matters. He spoke very highly of the teachers' work and compared their meagre salaries with those paid any other class of workers, especially stenographers where work ends when the office door closes behind them at five o'clock. He predicted better wages for the teacher in the near future.

Mr. Geo. Hambly also addressed the teachers briefly.

Mr. Jamieson, B.A., L.L.B., B.C.L., Principal, N.C.I., who addressed the teachers, Friday morning, made a plea for the bad boy, who so often becomes a good citizen. He said the pupil should learn by discipline that punishment was the natural and inevitable result of violating some rule of conduct. To learn the proper sequence is a big help to all work, and a fertile brain is the best equipment a teacher can have.

In his second lecture, Mr. Mark spoke on, "Some Moral Aspects of Education." People are divided into knowers and doers, theorists and practical men. Knowledge is of value only as it may pass over into doing. Schools are becoming technical and vocational.

The speaker suggested several methods to be used in training the child. As any idea that enters the mind has a tendency to pass over into action, train the child to pause and to weigh the course of action before acting impulsively, to look before he leaps. Insufficient knowledge of consequences often, if all consequences were taken into account, the act would lose its attractiveness. But if the impulse is worthy, the teacher should create an opportunity to put it into action. The very essence of moral behaviour is the desire to perform the act. If we are to make free moral agents of the slaves of the children, we must teach them to look for satisfaction in the completion of a task.

As every single act has a moral value, teachers should not overlook careless mistakes. They often result seriously. He should hold up a high standard, expect much of the child and by showing faith in him, lead him to have faith in himself. It is a serious thing to set up an inferiority complex. Our work should be directed with good citizenship, not in clever scholars or skilled workmen. Examinations are unimportant things compared with good citizenship.

Stress good-will. More attention to good-will would make far better conditions in the school, in the home, in business, in government, and in international affairs, might even prevent war.

The child should be trained, not to negative, but to positive goodness, that expands itself in services to others. As we always do what we want to do, the right should be made more attractive and the wrong distasteful. Lead the child to fear the wrong and to love the right. Teach him the certainty of the result. Make always prompt action as inevitable, that wrong is inseparably connected with punishment and right with reward.

Rev. Mr. A. J. Wilson, B.A., B.D., gave an address on "Mass Education in China." The disadvantages and observations made this year during his trip to Japan and China.

He first touched on child life in Japan. There he found the greatest contribution was the moral effect of education. The system is based on every child meeting their moral leaders and imbibing some of their spirit.

To add to their misery, China is just now passing through an industrial revolution and the government is not stable. The terrific problem before the leaders is how to create a democracy and a literate class, under such conditions. The Y.W.C.A. secretary gathered about her a group of returned students, who loved China and were willing to sacrifice themselves for her sake. This little group of workers have had remarkable success. They have now a Minister of Education and are trying mass education. As they have no hope of wiping out illiteracy, they are just concentrating on one small county. They are teaching people not only to read but to read the right things and thus create a spiritual background for education in China.

They are also trying to meet the practical needs of China by introducing reforms in agriculture and sanitation, and find interest the people in education. This is known as "mass education."

The most hopeful thing in the Chinese situation is the fact that they got the whole idea and enthusiasm from early missionaries. The whole movement is the result of the noble, patient, self-sacrificing work of these missionaries. As we have given them to China, we have a part in their struggle.

Four very interesting talks on Summer School work were given by Mrs. Alkenbrack, Miss Frisken, Miss Nugent and Miss McNeely.

Mr. E. Robinson, as representative of the Rotary Club, asked for their co-operation in help for crippled children. He asked that teachers throughout the county would write to him about children needing help. He asked that teachers help the Club financially as it will need about four thousand dollars this year. He reminded the teachers of the Hallowe'en Frolic and suggested that one way to help was to buy a ticket.

Miss Parks, convenor of the Committee on Resolutions, read the following report:—"We recommend, 1. That children be not allowed to attend school until six years of age and that when they do start their attendance be compulsory.

2. That Public schools open the same time as Collegiates.

3. That Entrance examinations be held at an earlier date.

4. That teachers with the necessary academic qualifications and with at least five years of successful experience be granted their First-Class Professional Certificates.

5. That the Primier be revised.

These resolutions were adopted.

Miss F. Hall, B.A., stated that the auditors had found the secretary's books correct and asked that their report be adopted. Carried.

The teachers were asked to express their opinion relative to changing the Easter O.E.A. Convention from Mon., Tues., Wed., and Thurs., to Tues., Wed., Thurs. and Fri. They were in favor of the change.

Mr. Young, the convenor of the nominating committee then read the list of officers for the new year. President, Miss Parks; First vice-pres., Mrs. Alkenbrack; Sec. vice-pres., Miss M. McGuire; Sec.-Treas., E. Harrison. An executive and a musical committee were also chosen.

The president, Mr. Young, after thanking the teachers for their help, called the new president, Miss Parks, to the chair. Miss Parks thanked the teachers for the honor and asked for their co-operation.

Mr. Corkill moved a vote of thanks to the School Board for use of the Convocation Hall, N.C.I., also to all who helped with the program, and expressed his appreciation of the kindness of the Publishers in arranging such a fine display of books for the use of the teachers.

Moved by Mr. Young, seconded by Mrs. Alkenbrack, that the expenses of this association, including the usual grant to O.E.A. be paid. Carried.

Dreaded anaemia can be banished!

IN middle life, when vitality is not as great as it once was, and the blood stream is naturally thinned and devitalized, anaemia easily lays hold on the system. At first, just a tired feeling, it quickly results in bodily weakness that ordinary tonics cannot avail.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills then become a wonderful aid. They supply the necessary oxygen to the blood, increase the blood count and renew waning vigor.

"I was seized with anaemia," writes Mrs. Charles Lambert of Port Hope, Ont., "and was in a very bad state. As a girl I had taken Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for a run-down condition and decided to take them once more. Again the result was marvellous. In a little while I was fully well again."

You cannot begin too early to check anaemia. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold at your druggist's or by mail, postpaid, 50 cents, from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

OATS AND SOW THISTLE

"Don't sow oats on fields infested with sow thistle. Rather sow clover, plow them when very dry and work thoroughly," advices one farmer who has had experience with this noxious weed. Sow thistle, as well as other thistles, thrive in oats better than in any other crop. It does not show up very much in wheat or clover. Sow weed infested fields to any of the clovers and cut twice a year. By following this course, sow thistles will be largely eliminated.

IT PAYS TO SPRAY

Ontario farmers will this year harvest the cleanest apple crop in the history of the province. It is almost solely due to better spraying, which in turn is the result of the activities of the department's spray service. One farmer reports that his crop benefited to the extent of $1,000 by reason of spraying. Another claims to have lost $500 by not following instructions completely. Spraying must be done properly and thoroughly to yield the best results.

There are rest and lounge rooms, shower baths, and warm sleeping quarters for attendants and exhibitors.

YOUR WATER SUPPLY

One weekly newspaper editor recently made the following timely comment:

"While drinking water in cities and towns is frequently analyzed as to purity, the wells in rural sections are too often taken for granted. In view of the long drought and the exceeding scarcity of water farmers would do well to know just what kind of water is being used in their homes. In the last batch of samples of waters from farm homesteads, the samples submitted showed only some 24.4 per cent. as pure and wholesome. Every farmer may have the water tested free of charge provided samples are collected and sent in properly. We suggest that farmers in this district consult the township medical health officer. It may save much sickness in the family."

CO-OPERATIVE SHIPS POTATOES

The Central Ontario Potato Growers' Association commenced active business last week by shipping their first carload from Alliston. This association is meeting the problems of Ontario farmers by offering straight carlots of Quality grown from well-selected seed and graded not only to "Canada 1," but to the standard set by their own association. They believe that by selling their high-class production under a brand name, which will be prepared to protect it, that they can compete in all markets where quality counts. Local branches are located at Craighurst grown from), Alliston, Whitfield, Orangeville and Caledon. The main office is at Alliston and Carl Whiteside is the secretary-treasurer.

HOW TO RELIEVE CHILDREN'S COLDS

When a child shows first symptoms of a cold, such as sneezing, redness of the eyes, clogged or running nose, prompt measures for relief may avert serious results. Mother should always have on hand some simple safe and effective remedy for immediate use.

Baby's Own Tablets act quickly, contain no opiates or narcotics, are tasteless and harmless. Concerning them Mrs. Jos. Cadieux, Holyoke, Mass., says—I have used Baby's Own Tablets for my children and find them a very satisfactory medicine. When my little boy had a cold I gave him the Tablets at night and he was well the next day. I gave them to the children for constipation and they are always benefited. I think Baby's Own Tablets are much easier to give a child than liquid medicine. I strongly recommended all mothers who have young children to keep a box of the Tablets in the house."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GRACE CHURCH ANNIVERSARY
Real autumn weather prevailed for the Anniversary services of Grace United Church which were held on Sunday morning and evening. The congregation was honored in having for the special preacher Rev. John Line, D.D., Professor at Victoria College, Toronto, who gave two thoughtful, instructive, and inspirational sermons. Music of a special character was rendered by the large choir, the anthems both morning and evening being exceptionally well sung, the solos in the anthems being effectively rendered by Mrs. Harold Denison and Mr. Reg. Wiseman. The choir was assisted by Mr. Lawrence DeFoe, tenor soloist of Toronto, who has recently returned from Europe, where he has been taking a special course in voice culture. Mr. DeFoe, who it the possesser of a magnificent voice, has appeared in Napanee on two previous occasions, first two years ago at the anniversary services in Grace Church and at the Fair in 1928 when he appeared with the Adanac Male Quartette. Mr. DeFoe sang four beautiful solos, two at each service and his singing delighted his hundreds of listeners. As is the usual custom the evening services in Trinity and St. Andrew's churches were withdrawn for the occasion, the ministers, Rev. Harry Pawson and Rev. A. J. Wilson, assisting in the services. In their studies days both Mr. Pawson and Mr. Woodger were associated with Rev. John Line in the Earlscourt district. Altogether the services were most successful spiritually and financially the attendance being large both morning and evening.

GIVEN SUSPENDED SENTENCE
After two days of evidence Mr. Wm. Drysdale, of Kingston, was on Thursday found guilty on the charge of being under the influence of liquor while in charge of a car on Friday, Sept. 27th, and was given one year's suspended sentence, he was to pay all the costs. On Friday afternoon, Sept. 27th, a bad motor accident occurred about two miles west of Odessa when Drysdale's car and a car driven by Mr. Maxwell, of Oshawa, collided, with injuries to Rev. Mr. Maxwell, his son, also two men whom Drysdale had picked up near Brighton. Drysdale was also slightly injured. Drysdale will also appear in the Criminal Court this week, there being four charges pending against him.

OBITUARY

John Bentley

St. Patrick's Church was well filled for the funeral service of the late Mr. John Bentley, who passed away in Montreal last week, the funeral being held on Friday morning. Requiem Mass was said by Rev. Dean McDonald. The officers and members of "B" Co., under the command of Major H. Leroy Babcock, as well as a number of veterans attended the service in a body. The deceased was a veteran of the Great War, having enlisted in Canada. At the graveside the firing party was in command of Major Babcock, the Reveille and Last Post being sounded by Bugler Gordon MacGregor.

Frederick C. Young

A very sad death occurred in the Kingston General Hospital on Thursday, when Mr. Fred Young, passed away, following an operation for appendicitis, which he underwent on Tuesday. The operation was successfully performed, but owing to the setting in of gangrene and septic poisoning he was unable to recover. Fred was a son of Mrs. Wm. Young and the late Mr. Young and was only 31 years of age at the time of his passing. The deceased was a former employee of the Farmer's Dairy, but had served this position with that company and had purchased a piece of land on the Hamburgh Road and resided with his mother. He was well-known, well liked and popular with all his friends. Besides his mother he leaves to mourn his loss a wife and young son, three brothers, Owen, Christie, and Robert, and three sisters, Mrs. John Benn, Sharp's Corners, Mrs. Frank Perry and Mrs. Nellie Somerville. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. W. P. Woodger on Sunday afternoon and was largely attended by sympathizing friends. Interment took place at Riverview Cemetery.

RUSSIAN COAL

We have just received a shipment of Russian coal. This is the first car of Russian coal to come into Napanee. This coal combines all the superior qualities of Welsh anthracite, such as low ash and high heat value, with the hard structure of American anthracite. It is very black and shiny looking, far better in appearance than any other anthracite.

The ash is under 5 per cent.; in some cases running as low as two per cent. In firing this coal it is well to have a good bed of kindling when the fire is first started, as the coal is slow burning, giving off an intense heat for a long time. Instead of cleaning fires and removing ashes once or twice a day as with Pennsylvania Anthracite the same thing should be done only once a week or once every ten days or two weeks, depending on the burning conditions, draft, etc., in each individual furnace.

There are samples of this coal in the windows of the store formerly occupied by Davy & Allison. The price is $16.00 a ton. If you are interested call and see us or 'phone 92.

NOVA SCOTIA MOVES INTO THE TEMPERANCE COLUMN

Nova Scotia has fallen in line with the rest of Canada, leaving only Quebec, P. E. I., and adopted liquor control. And there can be no doubt that this is another victory for temperance. Pin down by the sounding sea, under the so-called "dry" measure, liquor flowed with a freedom only equalled by the tides in the Bay of Fundy.

But the figures of previous plebiscites are interesting as showing how sentiment has swung as the alleged prohibition has proved its futility.

In 1916, 43,725 people voted "dry," and 13,355 voted "wet." In 1893, 24,678 voted "dry" and 15,370 "wet." In 1920 43,422 voted "dry" and 23,874 voted "wet."

In the recent vote, unrevised figures were For Government Control, 89,767; against, 41,780.

The tremendous increase in the vote is partially accounted for by the fact women voted for the first time on the liquor question. And as women are always looked up as the backbone of the temperance movement, it is reasonable to suppose that many, but not all, of them voted for liquor control.

In spite of the fact, however, that the prohibition vote was cut in two, numerous others who voted dry in 1920 must have turned to something more practical in 1929.

WILL U. S. BE NEXT TO KILL DRY LAW

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1.—(CP)—The result of the prohibition election in Nova Scotia yesterday brought from Henry H. Curran, president of the association against the prohibition enthusiasm aspired prohibition, the United States would not be the "next to activate prohibition."

"One by one of the few peoples of the world who in a moment of war enthusiasm adopted prohibition are throwing it overboard," his statement said. "On top of Ontario's recent refusal to reinstate prohibition, Nova Scotia now chronicles it after a 13-year trial.

"Only Finland, Prince Edward Island and the United States are left jumping in the dark of attempted prohibition at the use of God's gifts. All three are Christian nations trying to forbid the use of the Christian wine of the New Testament.

"Will the United States be the next to jettison this unfortunate fancy? Or will it be Prince Edward Island? Or will it be Finland?"

Ontario's electors on Wednesday by giving an overwhelming vote of continued and unabating confidence in Hon. G. Howard Ferguson and his government, drove the liquor issue out of politics at least for many years to come.

The government forces were increased by nearly 20 seats and the ranks of the combined oppositions decimated in what was at once the greatest government victory and the greatest opposition trouncing in the history of Ontario politics.

The result exceeded as a tremendous personal victory for the premier himself, not less than a party gain, in the direct opposite for the Liberal leader, W. E. N. Sinclair, whose party representation is reduced by more than half and reduced to insignificance. It is regarded as certain that the desertion to the Liberal forces will revive the party's smouldering agitation for new leadership.

Liquor Made Main Issue

The effect of the defeat upon the Liberal party at Ottawa in the admittedly forthcoming dominion elections will also cause provincial Liberals much concern.

Mr. Ferguson went to the country originally asking a mandate upon three new policies in particular—new expenditures for development of New Ontario, extension of Hydro service at low costs to the farms and new expenditure upon country roads.

Before the campaign got well under way these three issues were almost entirely swept aside as his opponents led in chief by Mr Sinclair, first, wavered a little and then threw down the gauntlet and staked all their hopes on the liquor issue. The government squarely met the challenge with zeal and fearlessness, and the election was fought mainly upon the issue of the opposition's making.

In the stock-taking, Mr. G. H. Ferguson received in his own riding as well as throughout the province, an increased majority; Mr. Sinclair, who advocated a plebiscite "when there was a demand for it" lost half his party and had his own previous majority cut down by more than 1,000 votes; J. A. Lethbridge, Progressive leader, out for prohibition, lost 10 of his 14 seats, including his own; F. W. Oke, U.F.O. leader, suffered defeat, and seven out-and-out Prohibitionist candidates were snuffed out and sneezed under in the constituencies they sought to win.

E. Blake Miller, noted "dry," who threatened to campaign on behalf of the latter's now-famous Fort William speech, but who later stood by Mr. Sinclair, got the former's liquor plebiscite, suffered defeat in East Elgin. The seat was carried by Dr. H. J. Davis for the Conservative party.

Walloped Out of Politics

The opposition preachment that the liquor question should be kept out of politics was answered effectively when the electors thus walloped it out of politics by endorsing the government's support and defence of the Liquor Control act and the ministry's promise to tighten up its weak spots.

The sweeping victory which exceeded the hopes of the most optimistic government supporters, was a ringing endorsation of the prime minister's declaration that he was willing to stake his political life on the government's policy of control and sale of liquor by the government—the issue on which he was returned to power in the 1926 general election.

Premier Ferguson's Statement

Confidence vindicated was mirrored in the statement given out to the press on Wednesday night by Premier Ferguson, as follows:

"It is a matter of great satisfaction that the policies and activities of the government have been so enthusiastically endorsed by the people of Ontario. It demonstrates beyond question the people of Ontario are not enamoured with hysteria or emotion or even by mere representation. There is a keen and intelligent interest taken in the business affairs of the province by the general public. No man can make any progress and succeed in politics unless he is absolutely straightforward and candid.

"I am particularly pleased because it is unmistakable evidence that the general public have confidence in the integrity and sincerity of purpose that has guided the government in all its work. We have given our best in the past and we will continue to carry on with the same high purpose.

Finds Great Satisfaction

"It is great satisfaction to me personally that I near the end of my 25th year in public life I should find the people of Ontario expressing their confidence and goodwill in such a generous manner as they did on Wednesday.

"I am sure every member of the government will regard this verdict as a mandate authorizing the immediate undertaking of the great program of expansion which we have mapped out to build a greater and more prosperous Ontario."

HAMBLY REDEEMS FRONTENAC-LENNOX

Chas. W. Hambly, the Conservative candidate, made an excellent run in Frontenac-Lennox, and brought the old riding back into the fold by the splendid majority of nearly 800. When it is taken into consideration that his opponent, Dr. Ming, won this riding in 1926 by over 500 majority, it will be seen that the electorate were solidly behind Mr. Hambly and the Conservative government in 1929.

The first return to come into the Conservative Committee Room on election night was Adolphustown No. 2, which gave the doctor a majority of 2, a gain of 18 for Mr. Hambly over the previous election. Returns came in fairly rapidly after that and it was a foregone conclusion that this riding was going Conservative, it was only a question of how large the majority would be.
